FENTON HIGH SCHOOLER John Labovsky holds one of the signs students made to promote summer school. The signs are on display near the front door of Fenton. Summer school will be held this year from June 16 through July 31.

Memorial Day Activities Time of Tribute...

North DuPage County communities will observe Memorial Day tomorrow with special services and parades in tribute to those who gave their lives for their country in times of crises.

Parades and services will be held in Itasca beginning at 10 a.m., Addison at 11 a.m., and Bensenville at noon.

There will be no parade in Roselle or Wood Dale.

ROSELLE AMERICAN Legion Post 1084 will conduct services at 11 a.m. at the Bloomingdale Cemetery on Lake Street, east of Bloomingdale Road.

Rev. Eugene Trieglaff of Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church will give the invocation and benediction.

Bensenville's parade, beginning at noon from Memorial Road and Addison Street, is scheduled to be the largest in the area with 40 units participating. Bensenville Tioga VFW Post 2149 is sponsoring the parade.

The parade will proceed north on Addison to Main Street and then east to York Road and north to the VFW post 25 N. York Road, and the reviewing stand.

The cadette and concert bands from Fenton High School are scheduled to participate.

Rev. Tyrus Miles of Zion Lutheran Church will give the invocation and benediction. Col. Kenneth Plummer of the Fifth Army Headquarters will speak.

THE ITASCA parade, sponsored by the village, will start at Line and Walnut streets. Marchers will meet at 9:30 a.m., stepping off a half hour later.

The parade will proceed south on Walnut Street to Bloomingdale Road, north on Maple Street to Irving Park Road, north on Walnut to Division Street, east to Lindon Street, west on Center Street to Walnut, and south to Orchard Street and its conclusion at the parkway.

The Lake Park High School band, Lancettes, Itasca elementary school band, Itasca Lions Club, and the Itasca Junior Woman's Club will participate. Village officials will ride in a 1929 pumper unit from the local fire department.

REV. ROBERT Leshar of St. Matthew Lutheran Church will speak and Father Jerome Kelly of St. Peter's Catholic Church will give the invocation and benediction.

A parade sponsored by Addison VFW Post 7446 will begin at 11 a.m. from Addison Trail High School, Lombard and Army Trail roads, and conclude at the municipal building where services will be held.

Carnival Tonight

The Bensenville Park District carnival opens tonight from 7 to 10 o'clock in Central Park, Church Road and Main Street, Bensenville.

Memorial Day hours are also 7 to 10 p.m. An extra hour will be added Saturday when it remains open to 11 p.m. The Sunday matinee will be from 1 to 5 p.m. and from 6 to 10 p.m.

Proceeds will go toward purchase of July 4 fireworks.

Carnival rides include three for intermediate teens and three for youngsters, along with game booths and other attractions. Refreshments will be available.

THE TRABANT, a tilt-a-whirl and the Flying Tiger are designed for the older fun-seekers. The younger set has a ferris wheel, merry-go-round and kiddie-cage.

The park district is looking for lifeguards so the swimming pool can be opened this weekend, according to William Floring, park director. It will be open only on weekends until early June when school is out, he said.

The district's miniature golf course is scheduled for opening tonight, he said, and will be open on weekends only probably until June 7.

"Weather permitting and provided lifeguards are found, the pool will be open Friday night," he said.

The park district also is sponsoring another carnival over the Fourth of July holidays along with the annual fireworks display.

Radio Duo In Parade

Chuck Benson and Kurt Russell of WIND radio will lead the Roselle Rose parade June 8 which honors Gary Steger.

The naming of a Rose queen will follow the parade. Among other prizes, a $100 cash award will be given to the queen.

Runners-up will receive $25 savings bonds. Charm bracelets are awarded to all contestants.

An American Legion carnival will run from June 5 through 8 after a three-year absence of the event.

Benson and Russell say they are Chicago's first two-man music team. They combine music with comic regulars, renowned guest voices and sounds of night life in Chicago.

WIND radio has contributed towards the Gary Steger Foundation for injured athletes in time, effort and funds. The parade starts at 1:30 p.m. from Trinity Lutheran Church, Roselle.

Summer Study Necessity Now

It used to be that only the "dummies" went to summer school because they had failed a course and needed to make it up.

At Fenton High School this summer, many students will be attending school to take the extra courses they won't otherwise be able to have because of curtailment next fall.

The curtailment limits the number of solid subjects a student can take to four. Seniors will only be allowed to take a fifth solid subject in the fall if they have attended summer school.

School will be held from June 16 through July 31. A student can earn one semester's credit in either one or two subjects, or two semester's credit in one subject.

THE SCHOOL DAY will begin at 7:45 a.m. The first period will run from 8:05 to 10:05 a.m. and the second will be from 10:15 a.m. to 12:15 p.m.

The maximum amount of time a student can spend in summer school at Fenton is four hours a day five days a week, for six weeks.

One interesting aspect of the high school summer program is that a student can repeat a course he has already taken and passed to raise his grade.

Summer school director William Jonkheer said sometimes a student feels that although he passed a course, he needs more time with the subject.

At the same time he is learning and reviewing, he can improve his original grade in the course.

Jonkheer said that one problem which administrators have run into in the past is late summer registrants. If a student is in danger of failing a course, Jonkheer said, he should enroll now. If the student passes the course after all he can withdraw his name from the roster, and receive his fees back in full.

TWO OFTEN, Jonkheer said, a student does not receive his grades for the regular school year until after summer school has started.

Since attendance policies in the summer program are necessarily strict, a student cannot come into the class after the first day.

The summer school program at Fenton will be self-supporting with the cost set at $22 per subject per semester. Participants do not have to be students at Fenton during the regular school year to qualify for the summer program.

Fenton hopes to offer 19 courses this summer. A class must have an enrollment of 20 before it can be offered.

Courses offered at this time range from driver's education and noncredited summer tennis to the more specialized geology and architectural drawing courses.

Multiple-Family Code OK'd

After running the gamut of opposition, an amendment to the DuPage County multiple-family building code was passed Tuesday by the DuPage County Board of Supervisors.

The code amendment was called a compromise between what builders wanted and the county's wishes. It is an upgraded standard for construction of multi-family dwellings in unincorporated areas of the county and in municipalities where the local code is less restrictive.

It is slated to go into effect next month, according to Elbert Drogemuller, assistant supervisor from Addison Township and chairman of the building committee.

"It drops the original requirement of having an architect on all buildings to just having one on small apartment buildings or larger structures," he said.

"THE SECOND compromise made at the urging of Chicago-area builders in the area was to lower the fire rating on walls from two hours resistance to one and a half hours. The builders claimed a two-hour rating would cut profits too much and make it harder to build apartment buildings."

Noncredit courses in recreation and summer conditioning also will be offered.

Last year more than 300 students attended summer school at Fenton. Director Jonkheer predicted that even more will attend this summer due to the cutback of a fifth solid subject this fall.

Registration for summer school can be made through the administrative office at Fenton.

Other code requirements concerning sound transmission within a building were completely removed until the county can consult a sound engineer, he said. There

Sidewalk Lawsuit Threatened

The president of the Roselle Homeowners Association has threatened to take legal action against the Roselle Village Board over a sidewalk program.

Mel Marvin of 218 Thorndale Road said, "Legal action would be the next step if the board persists in not listening to the people." He said the board was attempting to abuse the use of its police power in forcing homeowners to pay for sidewalks they do not want.

Marvin was one of more than 30 residents Monday who protested a sidewalk program the village plans to have homeowners pay for by special assessment. Homeowners, however, have the option of saving money by getting the sidewalks put in themselves.

THE PROGRAM is part of an overall plan for more sidewalks in the village. They are safer for children, the village maintains, and become necessary as the village increases in population.

Homeowners, on the other hand, like the country atmosphere, which they say sidewalks will destroy. Also, they say they have to rip out shrubs and lawns for the sidewalks. Sidewalks cost money which they can spend in other ways, they add.

4 To Be Honored

Four former Fenton High School students who were killed in the Viet Nam war will be honored today at 10 a.m. during a special assembly prior to Memorial Day.

The dead are Lance Cpl. Conrad Lange of Wood Dale, Sgt. Phillip Essig, Pfc. John Heaps, and Sgt. Alan Marschall, all of Bensenville.

Cpl. Lange died June 9, 1967; Sgt. Essig, Aug. 15, 1968; Pfc. Heaps, Sept. 14, 1968, and Sgt. Marschall, March 21, 1969.

Tunnel To O'Hare?

Will there be an underground entrance to O'Hare Airport from the west?

Two officials who should know what the highways of the future will be have different opinions.

Construction of a west underground entrance to O'Hare Airport is not likely, according to Henry Yamanaka of the Illinois Division of Highways.

Yamanaka said Wednesday cost of such a project would be very expensive and difficult to construct because of various utilities that are underground.

John Varbel, Bensenville village president, last week said there are plans to go underneath York Road for a west entrance which he said was "pretty well assured." Varbel is a member of the Illinois State Toll Highway advisory committee.

YAMANAKA WENT on to say construction of an underground entrance would disrupt traffic on the airport's main north-west-southeast runway.

Traffic at O'Hare is at the saturation point now, he said, adding that the relocated Illinois Rt. 19 (Elgin-O'Hare Expressway) will provide access around the south end of the field, but not under it.

Yamanaka said he based his opinion on the findings of a study, not yet complete, by Alfred Benesch & Co., Chicago consulting engineers.

"We need another air field," Yamanaka asserted.

Village Beat

Worth Meets Cost

by SYD JAMIESON

The Wood Dale Council has for some time been discussing the possibility of having a comprehensive plan made by a professional planning consultant.

Any action on this will have been the result of a suggestion by its own planning commission which has urged council members not to delay on this important program.

Last year the council listened intently to a representative from William S. Lawrence Associates, Chicago.

WHAT THE COUNCIL learned was that the price of developing a master plan for Wood Dale comes high, but the resulting benefits are worth it.

More and more, council members are recognizing that its adopted subdivision regulations and zoning ordinance and map are not considered a master plan for Wood Dale.

What they are finding out is that the village needs a thoroughly developed and adopted land use map, a traffic or thoroughfare study and studies and recommendations geared to Wood Dale's economic base, capital improvements and population projections.

Village officials may also find that their community with its new subdivisions and high rises and its older stable residential areas, will require what planners refer to as systematic code enforcement.

UNDER SYSTEMATIC code enforcement, the sound sectors of the community are programmed to maintain property values through compliance with an adequate housing code, including electrical, plumbing, building and fire protection.

To maintain this activity the village itself must program various improvements to arrest any decline in these neighborhoods, such as streets, curbs, gutters, sewer and water.

But in programming these improvements, a five or 10-year program should be developed with the help of a qualified planning consultant.

S. C. Jamieson

Wood Dale has made a start in its public facilities through the completion of its expanded sewage treatment plant, additional wells and water reservoirs and a major water extension project throughout the village.

INROADS HAVE also been made in recent pre-annexation agreements such as the Brookwood development where additional sewer and water facilities have been programmed.

Georgetown has provided the village with a thriving shopping center which has sparked increased sales tax revenue to the village.

There is talk of industrial development north of School Street and a reorganized industrial committee is mapping promotion campaigns to spark further interest in seeking developers.

Tied into this promotion is Wood Dale's continuing fight for annexations to the north to ward off further encroachment by Elk Grove Village.

VILLAGE OFFICIALS can readily see what is happening in Bensenville and Itasca with their industrial parks. Tax relief for its local school districts is becoming more and more critical to stem the rising costs of education.

To put it bluntly, Wood Dale needs professional planning and a master plan to see its way through the 1970's.

Catchall

ARF, ARF, SNIFF: In a recent DuPage County Board discussion about allowing dog kennels near homes, one supervisor argued it wasn't any worse than allowing horses. It was loudly retorted by several opponents that "horses don't bark." Well, neither will the dogs this time because the board decided not to permit them, even though most members were quick to assure everyone they were dog-lovers. The members figured some dog-lovers might become dog-haters after being kept awake all night.

RUMBLINGS FROM ROSELLE: Roselle Village Pres Bob Frantz and Trustee Tony Bonavolonta don't exactly see eye-to-eye. Example: Granville developers a while back submitted plans and specs for their 40-acre project. Monday Frantz was ready to act on them but Bonavolonta objected, saying he didn't see them. "They've been around for six months," Frantz said. Tony retorted: "Oh, they have. To whom?" Let's get together folks. It's going to be a long four years otherwise.

WHO SAYS THE YOUNG DO ALL THE PROTESTING?: More than 80 oldests angry homeowners Monday blasted away at the Roselle Village Board's plans for sidewalks north of Irving Park Road. They didn't demonstrate or picket the village hall but they sure were to the point in condemning the board. They say cut crete ribbons along the roadway make lousy scenery.

SNAPPY DRESSERS: Bensenville police have started wearing American flag patches similar to those worn by Astronauts on their right shoulders. Said Officer Lenny Mendoza: "Why not, that's what it's all about, isn't it?"

THAT'S THE SPIRIT: Itasca may be small in numbers but surely not short when it comes to community spirit. They'll have a parade on Memorial Day like other "big time" towns and won't be outdone by any smaller communities either. Itasca's like keeping in step.

AMUSING TOPIC: Most hearings about zoning and other earth-shaking matters usually put the audience (if there is any) fast asleep. One scheduled for June 12 in Addison will be different. A special use permit for construction of an amusement park on Lake Street in Addison will be prodded and coned. A group of fun-loving kids is reported mustering support. The hearing may prove to be a real merry-go-round, but what's new about that?

HERE COME THE NOISES: The federal government recently gave Chicago $500,000 in grants funds for construction of the proposed northeast-southwest runway. The hang-up is that the aircraft using the new landing strip will fly over Bensenville. Chicago gets the bucks and Bensenville gets the you-know-what.

Stueve Cleared of Battery

William Stueve, also known as Stevie, may be a lot of things to a lot of people, but he is not a batter. Magistrate Jack Parish of Wood Dale decided in DuPage County Circuit Court Tuesday.

Stueve — or Stevie — who lives at 108 S. Walnut, Bensenville, and operates Stevie's Tavern at 112 W. Irving Park Road, Wood Dale, has been under fire for the last two months for health violations reported by the DuPage County Health Department.

And, last year he was given a 10-day suspension of his liquor license by the Village of Wood Dale for serving liquor to a minor. He was fined $100 for the serving after a guilty verdict by DuPage County

Magistrate George Borovic, but the minor was acquitted of charges of purchasing the liquor.

THEN, JUST BEFORE the health department began leaning on Stueve this year, a battery charge was brought against him by Joseph Lagowski of Villa Park, who said he was struck and pushed to the tavern floor the evening of March 29.

The health department eased up on Stueve a couple of weeks ago with regard to health violations.

And Parish returned a not guilty verdict in the battery case Tuesday. Enough was enough.

Approve Multi-Family Building Code

are only two sound engineers in the county, he added.

Droegemueeller said he told a group of builders with whom he has met several times in the last few months that the code would be amended further at later dates. If parts of the new code prove unsatisfactory, he said, revision will be made.

The code will prevail over municipal ordinances unless the municipality has a more strict code of its own. Where the county code prevails, county building inspectors will be in charge of watching for most violations, but will work with local inspectors, too.

THE COUNTY BOARD adopted an interim code last October, which was in effect until March of this year. It was more strict, according to Droegemueeller, than the new code in several respects.

The DuPage County Mayor-Managers Conference passed a unanimous resolution in March opposing the code as proposed then because it reportedly eliminates low-cost housing.

According to the resolution, the elimination of such housing would limit the possibility of getting federal aid for open space and public works purchases.

Droegemueeller said the code is meant to upgrade the standards of housing in the county for the protection of people who will live in the apartments.

It isn't meant to discriminate against low-income families, who can still find a decent place to live in DuPage, he said.

House Ransacked

Kay Standard, of 111 N. Mason St., Bensenville, told police that her house was ransacked Tuesday.

She reported that some change, less than $3, was taken from the house. Entry was made by kicking open the back door, police report.

Federal Funding

A steering committee which may file an application for federal funds for the O'Hare storm water retention and recreation project in northeast Bensenville will meet today at 7:30 p.m. in the village hall.

The project includes 244 acres north of Irving Park Road and east of York Road. Sixty-eight acres in Bensenville are presently occupied by more than 90 homes.

The meeting is open, but is not a public forum, according to the Northeast Illinois Natural Resource Service Center.

Purpose of the meeting is to review the proposed project and determine whether federal funds will be applied for.

Board Is Considering Dwelling Code

A dwelling code, different from a building code, is under consideration by the DuPage County Board of Supervisors and its health committee. The Human Relations Advisory Committee to the county board has recommended the adoption of such a code to prescribe minimum requirements that all inhabited dwellings have basic equipment and facilities.

A dwelling code is aimed at governing the standards of existing structures, while a building code seeks to restrict and guide standards of original construction.

A dwelling code would prohibit the accumulation of junk, rubbish and garbage, and would require all parts of the home or apartment kept in good repair, according to Thomas Murphy, Wheaton planner who reported to the advisory committee recently.

HE SAID IT ISN'T sufficient to have a sink. The sink must also have a drain and the showers and heating must function adequately. Little things like having a window that opens for ventilation must be required by law, he said.

The code being considered by the county board was adopted from the Wheaton dwelling code, which is reportedly the only one of its kind in the county.

Court action is the ultimate means of enforcement, although a large percentage of the cases are corrected voluntarily in Wheaton, Murphy said.

He added that a code helps keep the cost of housing down because it helps prevent deterioration of older homes which would need to be replaced by more expensive, newly constructed dwellings.

Will Miss Pupils

by JUDY MORRIS

Almost everyone has at least one teacher in his past he will never forget because of the profound effect that teacher had on him.

Mrs. Eva Nimietz, who has taught in Bensenville Dist. 2 for 24 years, is one of these unforgettable teachers.

Mrs. Nimietz has lived in Franklin Park all her life. She began teaching in a rural district just outside Bensenville and then moved to the old Lincoln School that was on York Road.

After that, she taught in Tioga School for 14 years and came to Johnson School in 1959.

Mrs. Nimietz is retiring in June. THE DIST. 1 board of education accepted "with regret" Mrs. Nimietz's request for retirement.

Board member James DiOrto said, "She is an extremely professional person in her approach to education. She always put out that little something extra for the youngsters. It's teachers like her that you just don't get every day."

The mother of four children and a grandmother of 10, Mrs. Nimietz said she remembers many of the students who spent a year in her classroom. Some of them still write occasionally to let her know what they are doing now, she added.

What is one of the biggest changes that schools have experienced in recent years? "Discipline by the teachers," Mrs. Nimietz said. "There are some children, good children, that occasionally need a physical discipline."

She told the story of one student who was unusual because he never did anything wrong. One day the boy came up to her after school and asked, "Was I bad today? I tried so hard to be bad!"

"AFTER THAT I watched him," Mrs. Nimietz said. "He needed to understand what it felt like to be bad. One day he did something very minor, so I sent him to sit on the bench outside. Then he knew what it meant to have everyone pass by and know that he had been bad."

One of the most predominant questions in education today is how a teacher should handle the exceptionally gifted or the extremely slow child.

"You must gauge your work," Mrs. Nimietz said. "Give the brighter child additional work and occasionally don't grade the work of the slower child."

Mrs. Nimietz added, "A teacher should use any method that works with the slower child. Let him draw a picture to illustrate his story if the story isn't clear in itself."

It appears that retirement for Mrs. Nimietz will be a busy time. This summer she will tour Europe with the group that is accompanying the Fenton High School band.

WHEN SHE RETURNS from her trip, she plans to work in her garden, remodel her 15-room home, and possibly teach knitting at a recreation center.

Mrs. Nimietz is looking forward to her retirement, but says she will miss her students.

"There is so much you can learn from the children," she said.

If that is the case, Mrs. Nimietz is a veteran in education after many years of teaching.

Patrolmen Hired

Two patrolmen for the Wood Dale Police Department were hired recently by the Board of Police and Fire Commissioners.

They are Lawrence Parks, 22, of Wood Dale, and Lee Mayer, 26, of River Grove.

Parks recently was discharged from the Army after serving three years, two of which were with the Special Forces in Panama and Viet Nam.

MAYER WAS EMPLOYED for three years as an installer for Illinois Bell Telephone Co. He also was employed as a part-time officer for the River Grove Police Department.

Mayer served in the Navy for two years, leaving with the rank of 3rd Class quartermaster.

Both men will be paid $510 a month for the first 90 days, after which they will be eligible for a raise of up to 5 per cent.

Hospital Appoints Two

Dorothy M. Gioielli and Anthony D. Damiani have been named associate administrators of Memorial Hospital, Elmhurst, by the hospital board of trustees.

Both have served as assistant administrators since December, 1964.

Miss Gioielli joined Memorial Hospital in November 1969, as an administrative assistant for professional services. Damiani came to the hospital in May, 1960, as personnel director.

Miss Gioielli was formerly employed in nursing service administration in several hospitals in New York City, and obtained a master's degree in hospital administration from the School of Public Health and Administrative Medicine, Columbia University.

She also is a graduate of Mount Vernon Hospital School of Nursing, Mount Vernon, N.Y., and holds a master's degree in nursing administration from the School of Education, New York University. She lives in Elmhurst.

Damiani, a graduate of Drake University, was formerly with St. Francis Hospital in Peoria, and Iowa Methodist Hospital, Des Moines, in administrative and personnel capacities. He lives with his wife Norma and son Michael in Elmhurst.

'Incompetence' Charge Rocks County Board

TRAFFIC TIE-UPS occur even in rural sections of DuPage County during afternoon rush hour. The intersection of Wood Dale and Thorndale roads is no exception. Several high speed accidents have been reported at the intersection in the past years. The four-way stop signs will remain for the time being.

Mrs. Keeling Probably Not in Suit

by PAT HENSEL

Mrs. Harold Keeling probably will not be a co-defendant in a civil suit against her husband and three corporations from which Bensenville is seeking to recover embezzled funds.

There was no record in DuPage County Circuit Court Wednesday of an answer to a ruling made May 7 by Circuit Judge Phillip Locke that Mrs. Keeling be dismissed as a defendant.

The effort to include her in the civil suit was sparked by knowledge allegedly obtained by attorneys for Bensenville that Keeling's property and other financial assets were transferred to his wife's name during the time he served in prison on a conviction for theft.

KEELING'S PROPERTY included a home on McLean Street, Bensenville, and two stationery-gift stores — one in Bensenville and one in Elgin, which was said to have been failing.

Mrs. Keeling continued to operate the Bensenville store during her husband's prison term. He served two years of a one-to-five year sentence at Illinois State Penitentiary, Joliet, and was paroled last November.

When Locke ruled May 7 that Mrs. Keeling would not be a co-defendant in the case, he left the door partly open to Bensenville to seek a reversal of the decision.

HE GAVE Bensenville 20 days in which to file an amended complaint which then would have been subject to a hearing and a possible reversal.

Attorney Francis X. Riley, who is handling the case for Bensenville, had not filed such an amended complaint by Wednesday, a day after the 20-day deadline.

Several efforts by the Register to contact Riley have been unsuccessful, and he has failed to return phone calls made to his Chicago office.

The Register learned Tuesday that Riley is on Circuit Court record as being amenable to a settlement pro-rated between Keeling, Harris Trust and Savings Bank through which Keeling engineered his embezzlement, an auditing firm and the bonding company which held bond on Keeling when he served as village treasurer.

ACCORDING TO a Circuit Court source, the pro-rated shares of $11,600 from each defendant would bring Bensenville near its target in recovering $65,000 of the alleged $68,000 Keeling is claimed to have embezzled.

Keeling prior to his conviction pleaded guilty to only $31,000.

The bonding company and the auditing firm reportedly have agreed to settle for $11,600 each, but Harris Trust has remained adamant with an offer of only $4,000.

Associate Circuit Court Judge William Guild ruled in September 1967 that Mrs. Keeling be named an additional party defendant in the case.

Locke's decision May 7, in effect, reversed Guild's ruling.

According to Guild, who has been out of the case for more than a year, Keeling has liquidated some of his holdings since his conviction, and transferred others to his wife's name.

Guild studied the civil suit filed Tuesday in an effort to interpret the legal ramifications of what has transpired since the case was removed from his jurisdiction following his decision to include Mrs. Keeling as co-defendant.

HE TOLD THE Register Tuesday that the most recent action on file is a decision by Chief Judge Bert Rathje to put the case on the May jury trial call. That decision immediately followed Locke's dismissal of Mrs. Keeling.

Not yet in the file is a ruling by Rathje Monday that the case be removed from the May jury trial call and be placed on a special calendar for Sept. 10.

Also not in the files yet are a notice, motion and affidavit submitted by Riley Monday protesting Rathje's continuance.

But, Locke told the Register Tuesday that Riley last week sought and was granted a continuance for reasons which Locke declined to divulge.

by CHARLES HUFNAGEL

A bombshell was tossed into the county board proceedings Wednesday when Gerald Weeks, Milton Township, charged the county with "incompetence" in its failure to supervise an operation in charge of the Public Works Committee in Lisle Township near St. Procopius College.

Weeks said a sewer line construction was engaged in illegal trespass by extending 20 feet on private property and doing damage to trees and the terrain. How could this happen?

Property owners were complaining, he said, and he wanted to know who gave the contractor, the Advance Construction Co., the authority to do this. What he wanted to know was: Who's responsible?

Pat Riedy, chairman of public works, appeared surprised at the charge and assured Weeks that the county was "blameless." Ed Vertovec, legal adviser for public works, could shed little light on what Weeks said was happening.

OTHERS ON the Public Works Committee were just as much in the dark as everyone else. But it was pointed out that Advance Construction was a reliable firm and on the basis of previous work was a responsible firm.

A second bombshell hit the Public Works Committee when John Earl, Downers Grove Township, asked its chairman about the amount of fire damage to its equipment and facilities the past year. Riedy could account for a figure of $3,700.

But Earl stated that the figure was $40,000 and he got it from Gilbert Mochel who, with Ralph Tellefsen, represent some 50 insurance brokers in DuPage County who get the county business.

Riedy was taken aback by this, especially when Earl said the $40,000 was under public works jurisdiction. But he made no effort at clarification. Again the board got no help from others on the Public Works Committee. All were in the dark.

After the session, attempts to find out more about the Lisle sewer "incompetence" and the "$40,000" revelation met with no success whatsoever. Members contacted knew little or nothing about it and appeared not too much concerned.

BUT CARL DEMME, Addison Township, took a grave view toward both matters. He said he was concerned about the way several facets of the county operation were being conducted.

Pat Savalano, Bloomingdale Township, has called attention to the need for tighter controls. He said this is the reason why he was removed from the public works chairmanship picture.

The session Tuesday which was to pit member against member in all manner of controversy the "barking dog" issue brought the keenest rivalry and the most good humor. In the heat of discussion it was shown that the members could laugh with one another.

"Why," said Charles Kaelin, West Chicago, in defending the right of a dog fancier to have a kennel 500 feet from any residence, "should there be this zoning objection? Near where I live there is a horse buff who raises fine steeds and there's not the slightest murmur."

"But horses don't bark," at least a dozen voices shouted in unison.

IN THIS DISCUSSION it was brought out that Burr Oak residents, the area in which the kennel would be established, asked that a permit not be granted.

Chairman James of the zoning committee said it was not a commercial enterprise, and he maintained that the owners of the property had a constitutional right that ought to be respected.

But barking dogs bothered many board members who like quiet and to sleep late, so by a vote of 16-10 they rejected this dog colony by concurring with the zoning board of appeals.

Still another bizarre zoning matter confronted the county board. This had to do with Bloomingdale Township and Wayne Township landfill squabble which has been simmering for some time. The area is between Keeneyville and Hanover Park.

HANOVER PARK officials and residents were on hand as a symbol of protest and their spokesman, Jack Wall, Bloomingdale board member, said many residents were opposed to the "use permit" for the landfill recommended by the zoning board of appeals.

"Please don't this landfill," Wall pleaded, "the residents in this area overwhelmingly disapprove of it."

The board wasted no time and rejected the landfill by a 22-4 vote.

Wall, by the way, strongly protested the language of a resolution which referred to "part-time elected officials" on the county board. The resolution pertained to 6 1/2 hours per year service as a basic qualification to participate in a retirement fund with other elected officials.

The Bloomingdale Township representative insisted he was a "full-time" member. He challenged any other member to top his performance of dedication by appearing at committee meetings and board sessions. In a facetious turn, he cited his publicized record as "high man in per diems." This brought applause from the board members, many of whom envied him.

"I consider myself a full-time member of the county board," Wall concluded.

BUT AN UNBELIEVER in an aside from across the room murmured, "When you are spending full time here, how do you manage to hold another job?"

Was That a UFO?

by MARY B. GOOD

No one can tell Greg Lucht of Palatine what he and nine others saw was swamp gas, ball lightning, or a cloud.

The Palatine high school senior who reported "the" UFO sighting hopped in my car and retraced the adventure of a fortnight ago.

It was still light when he pointed out the spot on 53 near Dundee Road where he and his buddy, Al Prouty of Lake Zurich, were first attracted to a red flashing light at tree top level. "It was followed by a big flash of white light and we were driving along just like this," Greg related.

"WHEN WE GOT past those trees, the red light began moving over that field. It shot out a strong beam like an upsidown funnel. I never saw anything like it in my life," the 18-year-old remarked.

"Look at that," he remembered shouting to Al.

"What, what?" "Oh cool," came the response.

The boys were still recovering from the mild shock of seeing the unusual sight when they spotted it again in Lake Zurich, tracking it on foot. When they got to Al's house, his parents came out to see it.

The boys climbed up on the roof and laid down for a vantage point. "The saucer shaped vehicle nosed down and came close enough so that we could see our shadows," Greg told me. "We could just about hit it with a rock." All in all, the sightings lasted about an hour.

AT FIRST GREG and Al weren't about to tell anybody, because no one would believe them. "But when we saw it again we had to," Greg said.

No one would believe them. The Palatine lad said the Nike base phoo-phooed his report. Dr. J. Allen Hynek, director of the Northwestern University Astronomy Department discounted the UFO theory. Sherman Larsen of the National Investigation Committee on Aerial Phenomena said it was experimentation with night photographic equipment. Even the kids at school teased about it.

"They can't tell me it was conventional aircraft," Greg said vehemently.

Yesterday afternoon a spokesman for Chicago Aerial Industries confirmed that an A111 Twin Engine Beachcraft owned by John Ortseifen of Aerial Photo and Survey Company in Lake Forest was operating in the area, carrying one of their night illumination systems, which produces high intensity flashes.

"I WANT TO STRESS," said the spokesman, "that this flight complied with FAA regulations, we notified the Barrington Police Department beforehand to avoid problems, and the flight was necessary to check out equipment for government reconnaissance purposes."

Officials concur this is what Greg Lucht and the others saw. Greg is not buying.

Test To Continue

College of DuPage has announced it will administer the new Comparative Guidance and Placement Program (CGP) test at least once a week throughout the summer.

According to James W. Godshalk, director of guidance, the CGP uses a student's background, attitudes, values, interests, abilities and aptitude to forecast success in a broad range of programs, both occupational and baccalaureate-oriented.

Incoming freshmen, transfer students, and returning and current College of DuPage students are eligible to take the four-hour test, at a cost of $3.75.

Individual interpretation of the results will be provided by a college counselor.

Persons interested in the CGP should phone 469-7309, or visit the guidance center, Room 405, 800 Roosevelt Road, Glen Ellyn. The test will be given June 4 and 5 from 6:30 to 10:30 p.m. at the Roosevelt Road address.

Male in 'No Man's Land'

ONE AMONG MANY, Harper Junior College dental hygiene student James Kohs of Arlington Heights receives his first-year pin from Mrs. Mary Ann Wherry. The other 25 students in Harper's hygiene class are all girls. They didn't get pins; instead they were capped.

Striking an unintended blow for equal rights between the sexes, Harper Junior College student James Kohs of Arlington Heights has launched himself in a career that until now has been "for women only."

He is one of 26 Harper students training to become dental hygienists in a stiff two-year course that his fellow students rank as one of the most intellectually challenging career programs the community college offers.

That Kohs is the only man in his class is not surprising. Dr. Frank Vandever, director of Harper's dental hygiene programs, said that currently only two of the 8,000 members of the dental hygienists' national association are men. Another 9 or 10 are in training in schools across the country.

Kohs is not rattled by his pioneer role. "Vandever wants me to roust up some more fellows because he sees a great future for men in this field," he said.

The male-female ratio doesn't rattle him either. "After all," Kohs smiles, "I'm already married."

KOHS, ORIGINALLY from the Itasca area, is making his home at 509 W. Euclid, Arlington Heights, while going to school under the G.I. Bill. His Taiwanese wife, Ellen, works for an insurance company. An aunt, Mrs. Robert Scanlan of Arlington Heights, helped the couple get settled when they returned late last summer from overseas.

Sitting around a table in the Elk Grove High School lounge, Kohs and fellow students Pat Barnett, 1816 E. Hawthorne, Arlington Heights and Beverly Osmond, 814 S. Lancaster, Mount Prospect, gave some solid reasons why they think they chose wisely in training to be dental hygienists.

"It's the best pay for the shortest amount of school — especially for a woman," Miss Osmond said. Pay for dental hygienists runs between $150 and $200 weekly, she said, compared to $80 to $100 weekly for dental assistants.

"There's a great shortage of hygienists. There's just one for every 19 dentists — and there's a shortage of dentists," Kohs said.

"We see a trend to giving dental hygienists more responsibility — anything that can save the dentist's time," Miss Barnett added.

THE THREE said that dentistry today is showing many of the same trends obvious in other branches of health care: to employ to save the professional's time. Ward using unskilled and mid-level em-

The three do not rank a dental hygienist at the semi-skilled level. Unlike other members of the dentist's assisting team, they point out, a hygienist is licensed and permitted to "work in the mouth." He gives X-rays, cleans teeth and examines them. By comparison, they say, a dental assistant hands the dentist his tools.

The solid professional requirements of the dental hygienist's job explain the tough coursework Harper dental hygiene students must digest. Sixteen of 40 who started in Harper's dental hygiene program have already dropped by the wayside, tripped by hurdles like chemistry, anatomy and physiology.

KOHS, Miss Barnett and Miss Osmond all have had experience in the dental field — Kohs in the Navy and the two women at current dental assistants' jobs which are helping them pay their way through school. They agree that background helped give them the motivation to stick to it when courses are tough.

Kohs says the science courses "lay a foundation" for clinic work which will start next year.

Regner Bills OKd

Rep. Dave Regner, R-Mount Prospect, has been given Illinois House approval on bills affecting the Illinois Departments of Mental Health and General Services.

From the House floor, the bills will go to the Senate for consideration.

Regner also got favorable disposal on two bills changing the date of annual township meetings to the second Tuesday in April.

Regner said the series of bills on the Department of Mental Health were recommendations of the Mental Health Fund Advisory Committee. The Third District representative is a member of this committee.

"THESE BILLS will do away with several inefficient boards and commissions in the area of research now operating in the department," Regner said. "They will establish a single authority with responsibilities to coordinate all research operations."

He said each state mental health institution now operates its own research department with no regard to other hospital research work. Regner said there is duplication of effort, resulting in a waste of money.

"With a single authority over research, we will save money, and I'm sure also will have a modern viable mental health research operation."

House Bill 2117 provides that the director of the Department of General Services also be a member of the Civil Defense Advisory Council. Regner said the department director should be aware of Civil Defense requirements, since the department's field is telecommunications.

"THE TECHNICAL aspects of telecommunications through contribution by the department director will make the council more meaningful."

Regner's bills to change annual town meetings would move the meetings from the first to the second Tuesday in April. He explained the meeting on the first Tuesday is the same date as township elections.

"This move will eliminate the confusion which often occurs when the township meeting is on the same day as a general township meeting," he said.

Choral Concert Set at Glenbard

The music department at Glenbard North High School in Carol Stream will present a choral concert Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the school's cafeteria.

The program will feature performances by each of the choruses, an ensemble of hand students, and several folk groups, vocal ensembles, and soloists.

FEATURED will be songs from Broadway musicals and some semi-popular tunes.

Admission is $1 for adults and 50 cents for students.

Restrict Park Appointees

From now on, park districts will have no more privileges than school districts in filling unexpired board terms.

Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie signed into law Monday a bill making park board appointments effective only until the next regularly scheduled election. A companion bill signed by the governor applies the same rule to soil conservation districts.

The measures were both sponsored by Rep. David J. Regner, R-Mount Prospect.

Under old law, when a vacancy occurred on either of these boards, remaining board members filled the vacancy for the entire unexpired term of the retiring member. Park district commissioners are elected to six-year terms, so it was possible to have a six-year appointee.

SCHOOL LAW has long required board appointees to enter the next regular election if they desire to serve. Elections then were for the number of years remaining in that term.

Regner said, "It seems only right that the electors should have the opportunity to elect and have represent them the people of their choosing, rather than the choosing of the remaining board members."

Another bill sponsored by Regner and awaiting the governor's signature would give junior college districts the power to establish junior college police departments. The power would be similar to that four-year state colleges have.

"With our growing junior college system, it's apparent that they have the same powers our senior colleges have to enforce the law on the campus," Regner said.

1,100 at Recital

The fourth annual dance recital, "Circus Comes to Addison," held May 25 was attended by an estimated 1,100 persons.

The recital held in Addison Trail High School gym, Addison, presented tap and ballet numbers, acrobatics and variety dances.

The entire show cast was made up of about 260 children 4 to 18 years old. Costumes were provided by parents of children in the show.

The dance revue was the finale of one year of dancing classes conducted by the Addison Parks and Recreation Department.

AT Parents To Meet

Parents of students at Addison Trail High School will meet Monday and Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the school's Little Theatre.

The Dist. 88 board is sponsoring the meetings to inform parents of both present students and September's incoming freshmen about conditions in the 1969-70 school year.

AMONG THE items to be discussed are curriculum, class size, counseling, services, required restrictions on taking a fifth subject, library and other special services, the athletic program, and extra-curricular activities.

OK Solicitor Bills

After two years of dickering, State Rep. Eugene Schlickman's, R-Arlington Heights, solicitation bills 107 and 108 passed the House yesterday.

Schlickman called the bills a compromise appeasing opposing sides. "The solicitation bills are essentially a licensing act."

The village of Wheeling has been active involved in a battle for legal nonsolicitation ordinances. The first Wheeling ruling passed April 13, 1964 banning all door-to-door solicitations. It was challenged by Chicago's American in July, 1964. Wheeling lost the case.

SCHLICKMAN'S bill will apply some state controls to solicitors by using voluntary licensing. Although Schlickman's bills are not as stringent as the Wheeling nonsolicitation ordinances, he feels they are the best that can be obtained under Illinois law.

Wheeling Village Board Pres. Ted Scanlon has complained the bills remove home rule from municipalities and don't provide strict enough restraints.

Handling the bills in the senate will be co-majority leader Bob Coulson, R-Waukegan.

Near and Far... A Time To Remember

by DAVID HOYT

At least one group in New Haven Con-shot-gunning the American flag and then necticut will celebrate Memorial Day by burying it, according to reports in a national magazine.

But most of the country will celebrate the 101-year-old event with the usual parades, picnics and pilgrimages to the graves of soldiers killed in combat.

Most of the country will mark the day, but a good portion that fought to break away from the union will ignore Friday.

The Southern states originally had no use for a day that was set aside to mark the heroism of the Grand Army of the Republic.

In Dixie, even today, the states have memorial days of their own, most of them coinciding with Jefferson Davis' birthday, June 3.

THE MAY 30 date was an arbitrary one picked by Gen. John Logan, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic.

He announced on May 5, 1868 that the 30th would be set aside "for the purpose of strewing with flowers or otherwise decorating the graves of comrades who died in the defense of their country during the late rebellion."

Since Logan's order the nation has engaged in five major conflicts, each one serving to renew the need for celebration of combat death.

In the northwest suburbs lie the bodies of an increasing number of young men slain in Viet Nam and tomorrow their sacrifice will be remembered. Nearly every community is planning some sort of commemoration.

Parades will be held in Wheeling, Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights, Bensenville, Itasca, Addison, Palatine and Rolling Meadows.

THE PARADE schedules are as follows:

—Wheeling. The parade starts at 10:30 a.m. at the AmVets Hall on Milwaukee Avenue and ends at the veterans memorial monument in Heritage Park. Two high school bands will take part along with veterans organizations and the Chicago Mounties Marching Troop.

—Mount Prospect. About 500 persons, most of them children will participate in the parade which will begin at the corner of Busse and School streets and end in Lions Park.

—Arlington Heights. The largest parade in the northwest suburbs will begin its march at 9:30 with the main route winding from Arlington Heights Road up Dundon Avenue and ending at Memorial Park.

—Bensenville. The parade begins at noon at Memorial and Cedar Streets, ending at the Bensenville VFW Post on York Road.

ITASCA. The village-sponsored parade

starts at 10 a.m. from Line and Orchard streets and ends on Orchard near the railroad station where memorial services will be held.

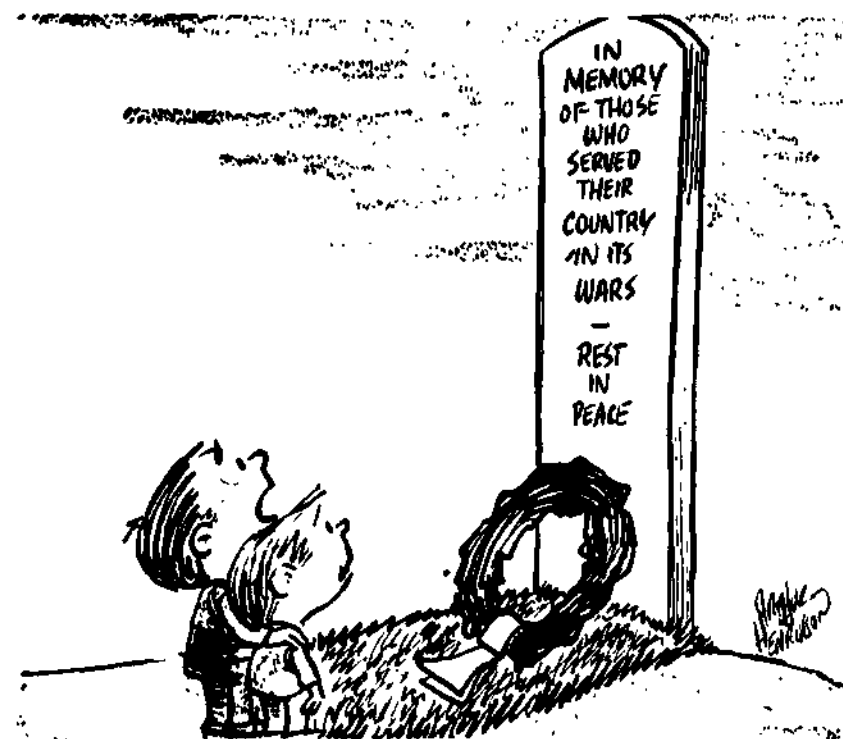

—Addison. The VFW post will lead a parade beginning at 11 a.m. from Addison Trail High and ending at the municipal building and memorial services.

—Palatine. From Wood Street and Plum Grove Road the parade will proceed to Northside Cemetery where memorial services will be held. The Rev. Charles Diemer of St. Marcelline Church, Schaumburg will say a Memorial Day mass at St. Michael the Archangel Cemetery, Algonquin and Roselle roads. The 10:30 a.m. mass will include rifle salute and taps.

—Rolling Meadows. Dedication of Rolling Meadows' new city hall will mark the end of the parade there. Marchers will leave from St. Collette Church, Meadow Drive and Grouse Lane, head west on Kirkchoff Road and halt at the new city hall building where ceremonies will be held.

Unique But Not Quite Antique

Those 'Kookie' Collectibles

by MARY B. GOOD

"Kiss me, Nelson," you can almost hear Jeannette McDonald flirt to the Mountie. The wind-up Victrola grinds out honky-

Jim and Lee Hookje of Arlington Heights live in the cellophane wrapper of tinkletown, the jazz baby and Cracker Jack toys . . . where everything is expendable but nothing is worthless.

Their forte is collectibles of the 30's and 40's. To call these two "members of the antique community" is stretching a point, maybe even 70 years. Most of their staff isn't that old, but today venerability is accelerated. Here, uniques outclass antiques because they are part of a precious commodity — they deal in childhood memories.

"People who get the urge to buy something like this," said Mrs. Hookje, pointing to a storybook doll in its original white and pink polka dot box, "are trying to recapture something that was — and prove it was as nice as they remember it to be!"

WHAT VALUE, THEN, a kewpie doll whose composite body is a mosaic of cracks? Recollections of the past, perhaps bittersweet, with Freudian implications, maybe — who knows?

The epidemic boom in kookie collectibles manifests itself in the manic delight of gleaning just about anything and everything.

The Hookjes are big with Shirley Temple buffs. Very big. One lady who happened by their booth at the recent Arlington Towers antique show found her mini-treasure of yesteryear. Captured in a 10-cent Shirley Temple charm for a bracelet, the nostalgia was calculated to keep her going for days. One oldster at the show came all the way from Rock Island to loof for marbles.

Lee finds Daddy Warbucks noddies for some collectors, cereal premiums or coin-operated toys for others. "We have a man who collects baby rattles, and a little boy with a whistle collection. A fella over in Mount Prospect has boarded 1,300 wooden golf clubs in his basement, from niblets to wedges."

ONE MIGHT QUESTION if the Hookjes got hooked on this habit by missing the semi-annual junk pick-up. Actually, they launched their pack rat days when they inherited part of a moustache cup collection.

Orphan Annie items, toy soldiers and loads of things like that would come and go in their fascination. When they realized how much cash they'd lose by selling to dealers, they became dealers themselves, working by mail. Such enthusiasm can be a problem. Like right now, they'd be happy to part with two jukeboxes that have taken over the kitchen.

In the course of their treasure hunts, Jim and Lee have stumbled over real treasures like a Gloria Swanson silver spoon, Judy Garland dolls, a Jack Armstrong flashlight and Ernestine Schumann-Heink records. (If they could only find Herbie Mintz, think of the package deal they'd have!)

LEE SPECULATES that dolls patterned after the personalities of today will be the collectibles of the future. She suggests forward-thinkers hide away a Tiny Tim, a Beatie or the bosomy Barbie doll. And anything "Peanuts."

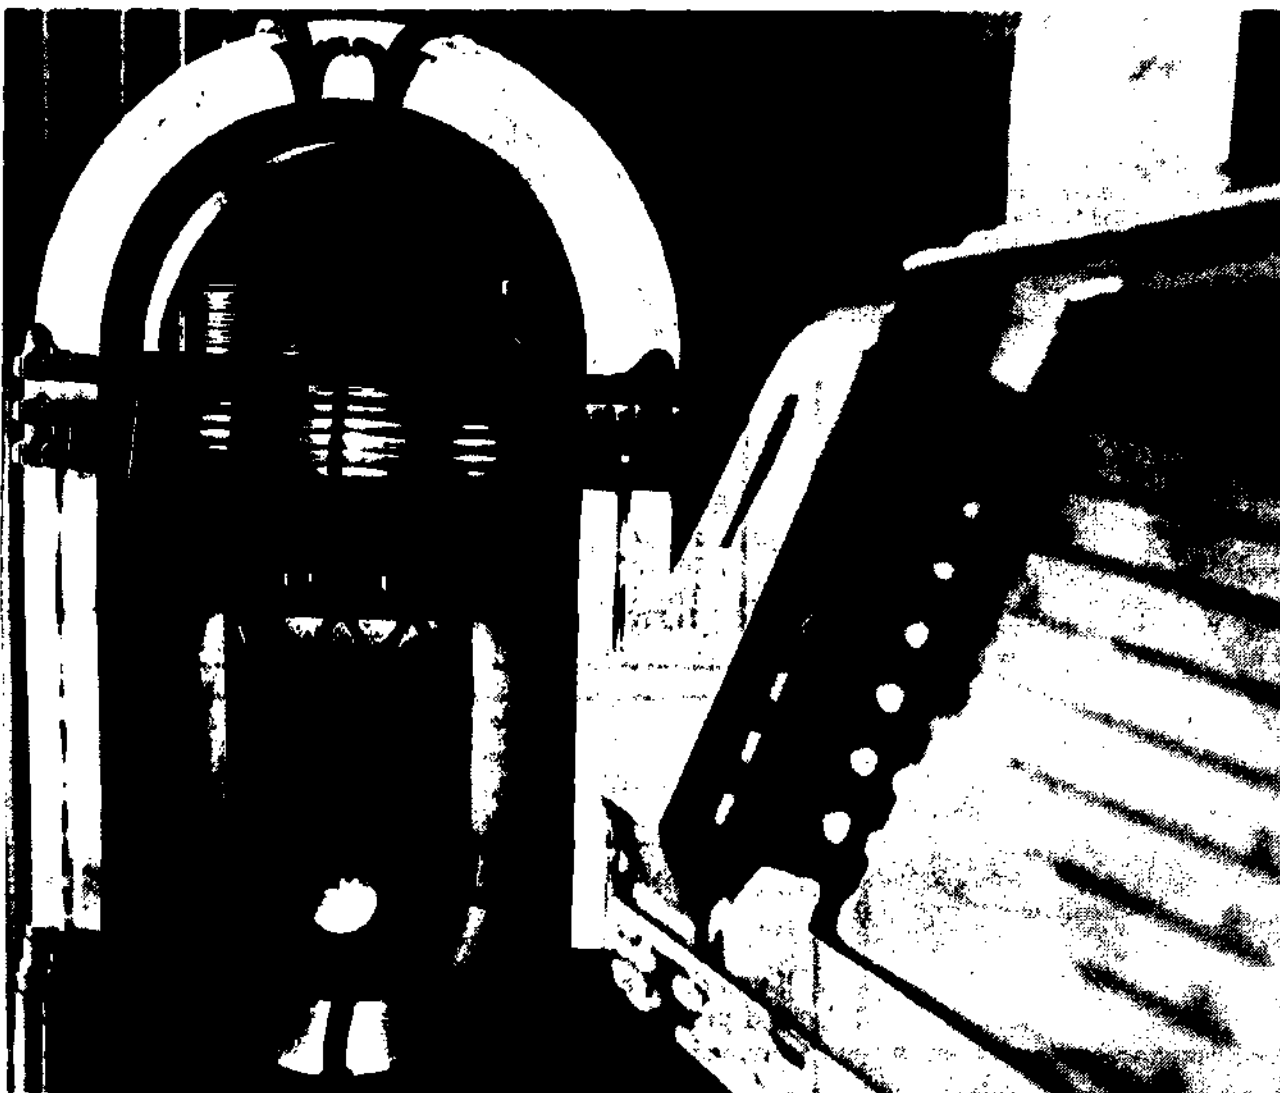

"Once you get the collecting disease, you die with it," Lee said, as her husband announced some record "finds" he'd just made. And so we listened as Caruso did his thing. And then Al Jolson. "Play it again, Sam," I thought I heard Bogie rasp. Maybe that comes from looking at the silver screen premiums too long.

Anyway, tinny-voiced Alma Gluck came on at 78 revolutions per scratch as the RCA Victor dog bayed. Then Lee and Jim played their swan song. They're moving to Wauconda shortly.

JIM AND LEE Hookje talk toys in their Arlington Heights living room. The personable couple started their collecting days with a moustache cup collection. Like Topsy, "it just grewed."

DREDGING UP the past can release bittersweet emotions. Belle Donna here is a case in point.

A 'Seeing Europe' Travel Extra

Vienna: City of Wine, Women, Song

by MARY ELLEN POURCHOT

(Mrs. Pourchot wrote the "Seeing Europe, Family Style" travel series which ended last week. In this article she describes that city of romance and music, Vienna.)

Everyone expects Vienna to be a romantic wine women-and-song city. And it is. But it is also a remarkable place to bring the children, because it offers such a variety of sights and sounds.

This city isn't even called Vienna here, but "Wien." And oddly enough, hot dogs are called "frankfurters" in Wien, but "wienerwurst" in Frankfurt. As soon as we tasted mouth-watering wienerschnitzel, we knew where it had originated. Can any country equal Austria for its cooking? There are thick flavorful barley soups, Hungarian goulash, tender apple strudels and cream-layered tortes. We sampled them all and often inexpensively at a cafeteria called "billateria" near the American Express Office.

Rich tasty foods have damaged many female figures here. Our son says that Vienna has acres of women — about 20 to an acre. But they have my sympathy, as they are tempted at every turn by hon-hon shops, patisseries and coffee houses. At a pastry shop the weary shopper can select a fresh tender "go-with" for her cup of coffee or tea.

THE COFFEEHOUSE is an unusual institution. Throughout the day, men and women sit at small tables, talking or reading one of the daily newspapers from the rack, or even working at crossword puzzles in them. They sip at a demitasse of coffee which understandably may cost as much as 40 cents a cup (no refills). They seem to have limitless leisure.

At night, many young people are found in the outskirts of Vienna at Grinzing. As you hop off the skinny tram, the streets seem deserted. But as you open the door of any rustic inn, there's a burst of laughter, warmth and accordion music. The long wooden tables hold huge glass steins of wine (watery and cheap), and benches hold friendly youth who are great fun and just what you expect of Austria: strolling musicians playing schmalzy music, waitresses in dirndl skirts and men in Tryolean hats with curved feathers.

MORE ELEGANT music is offered at the famous Opera House or at the "Volkstheater," where we had tickets for Strauss' "Gypsy Baron." It was a good choice for the boys. The familiar tunes sounded fresh in their true setting, and a concert-size orchestra with plenty of violins evoked visions of a 19th Century Vienna listening for the first time to this "new music" of their waitz king. In our straight-as-a-pew balcony seats at $2.20 each, we were surrounded by music lovers of every age — children, youth, couples and a great proportion of men.

My husband thinks that the Viennese women have the most musical voices in the world. Their "danke schon" and "vielleicht" sing out in every shop, reminding one of the musical heritage of this city.

OF COURSE, no one can miss seeing the famous Lippizaner horses performing in the heart of the city at the Hofburg

Riding School. For 40 cents each (children eight cents) anyone can watch one of the daily training sessions. We sat in one of two balconies at red velvet railings in what was once a great ballroom. Huge crystal chandeliers and wall mirrors add elegance to the room. It is quiet, except for the squeak of the saddles as brass-buttoned, Napoleon-hatted riders put their horses through their graceful gaits.

The city boasts other pleasures: the 120-room Schonbrunn Palace, one of the shiniest best museums of natural history the boys have seen, the green Danube, the nearby Alps for spring skiing and many more to lure the traveler to linger longer in Vienna.

House Okays Voluntary Overtime, Equal Pay

The Illinois House Tuesday stood up for women's rights and voted to pass measures to give women equal pay for equal work and voluntary overtime.

House Bills 2806 and 2807 now go to Senate committee where they were previously soundly defeated on April 23.

Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, reported happily Tuesday afternoon the House had given her a 147-0 vote on the voluntary overtime bill. Rep. Frances Dawson, R-Evanston, got a similar vote on her bill for equal pay, Mrs. Chapman said.

"So Esther has her bills back," she said, referring to Sen. Esther Saperstein, D-Chicago. Sen. Saperstein's plight with the two bills the first Senate go-round attracted attention to her "suffragette" struggles.

ON MAY 23, the Senate Industrial Affairs Committee chaired by Sen. John Graham, R-Barrington, voted 8-4 to kill the measures.

"I hope the senators give them a second chance," Mrs. Chapman said Tuesday. There was no discussion or questions raised on the floor of the House, she said.

It is likely the bills will go back to the Senate Industrial Affairs Committee. Following publicity of the bills' first defeat, Sen. Graham has pointed to his own legislative efforts in behalf of women's rights.

Graham said Senate Bill 18, which he pre-filed Dec. 18, places the Illinois female employment act in conformity with Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

"SENATE BILL 18 simply says that women in industries affecting commerce and subject to Title VII of the Federal Civil Rights Act of 1964 are covered by the bill," Sen. Graham said.

Made for a Bride

By JEANNE LESEM

NEW YORK (UPI)—A small kitchen and a budget to match are not necessarily handicaps for a bride. She's more likely to choose utensils and appliances for their practicality as well as their prettiness.

Take multiple-use articles: A covered shallow metal casserole shaped like a skillet but with two short metal handles can double as a skillet and an oven utensil. Some come in decorator colors, intended for cook-and-serve use. Remove the lid and add a rack, sold separately and you have a small roasting pan or broiler.

A dutch oven also can serve many purposes, particularly if it is flame and oven proof. The enameled iron ones make handsome serving dishes and, because they hold heat so well, are especially good for buffet service. Oval shapes are ideal for braising whole chickens or ducks or making pot roasts. The foods cook better and need less liquid when the solids fit the shape of the container.

IF YOU WANT to use the dutch oven as a deep fat fryer, buy a round model and a frying basket, sold separately. The same pan can be used for boiling small amounts of spaghetti or macaroni and for heating boil-in-bag frozen prepared foods. The boiling point returns more quickly in a large quantity of liquid than it does to a small amount.

Add a rack to the dutch oven to convert it to a steamer for puddings and custards or to a sterilizer for small canning jars and jelly glasses.

Another versatile utensil is a deep saucepan with tightfitting lid — for cooking vegetables, especially rice and other foods that have a tendency to foam and boil over. This, too, can be used as a steamer when you add a rack—either the shallow variety or an adjustable one with metal petals that fold out to make the rack skillet-size.

MOST STARTER sets of pots and pans include a double boiler but a makeshift one works as well or better for some foods. Since egg yolk mixtures may discolor when cooked in aluminum, I prefer to use a heatproof mixing bowl that fits the top of a saucepan for making sauces and puddings that require indirect heat.

Gratin dishes or pans in graduated sizes have many uses. The classic French shape is a shallow oval but rectangular ones also are available, usually in oven-proof china or ceramic. These and the metal variety are useful as small roasting pans for cooking cut-up chicken, small fish or fish fillets in a single layer. Metal ones can go into the broiler for top-browning. China and ceramic ones also are handy serving dishes for celery and carrot sticks, relishes and snacks.

Cookie sheets, the sideless kind, are good for more than cookies. Used under shallow disposable aluminum trays of frozen prepared food, the food heats faster because of reflected heat. The rigid tray also makes for easier and safer removal of the flexible lightweight containers from the oven. Unless you plan to bake muffins regularly, forget about a conventional muffin pan. Instead, buy disposable aluminum baking cups and place them on a cookie sheet before filling and baking them.

IF YOUR KITCHEN has metal cabinets, use magnetized hooks on the outside of them to keep frequently used small utensils within easy reach of the work areas where you use them. Things like tongs, strainers, a vegetable peeler, graduated measuring cups and spoons can go here.

Another space-saver: Stacking canisters, particularly plastic-topped glass ones. To avoid mixups of look-alike ingredients — such as cornstarch and confectioner's sugar — use adhesive-backed labels, usually available at variety and stationery stores.

The labels are easy to change, if you remember to peel them off before you wash the container. Hot water tends to make the adhesive more so. Once set, it can be removed from glass with cotton swabs soaked in nail polish remover, but this solvent will damage plastic and painted surfaces.

Mrs. Chapman had argued in the house committee that the voluntary overtime provision is a protection of the family. Working women usually also have family responsibilities that could make required overtime a hardship, she told the House Industry and Labor Relations Committee.

Bride, Groom Met on a Blind Date

Although they once lived in neighboring New Jersey towns it was on a blind date in Wheeling that Mary Ruth Datko first met William Joseph Haws III. The date was arranged by the groom's Army buddy, Dennis Hodel of Chicago, who served as best man at the couple's wedding April 26 in St. Joseph the Worker Roman Catholic Church.

The bride's parents, the senior Steve L. Datkos, 68 Birch Trail, Wheeling, resided for three years in Englishtown, N.J. before moving to Wheeling. Englishtown is just 40 miles from Willingboro, the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Haws.

Rev. Fr. Thomas Schwab officiated at the 11 o'clock mass during which the Pope's blessing was included in the double ring service. The hand-painted parchment was a gift from Bishop Ahr, Trenton Archdiocese.

Mr. and Mrs. William Joseph Haws III

THE BRIDE, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of traditional white satin with long, pointed sleeves, fitted bodice, A-line skirt, scooped neckline and a 9-foot white satin cathedral train. Her mantilla and a 9-foot panel of hand-made silk Spanish lace used on the train, were made in Seville, Spain, a gift from an aunt and uncle, the Henry Carlsons, who reside in Cadiz, Spain. A cascade of white orchids and ivy completed her bridal ensemble.

Miss Marlene K. Kinnee of Wheeling served as the bride's maid of honor, and Mrs. Lorenzo Semeria, also of Wheeling, was bridesmaid. Both wore identical floor-length gowns of light blue brocaded silk and matching blusher veils. They carried bouquets of white daisies.

Also in blue brocade was 6-year-old Beatrice Semeria of Wheeling, the flower girl, who also carried white daisies.

Ushers were the groom's brother, David Haws of Willingboro and Jeff Worthington and Noel Sinchak of Trenton, N.J.

THE CLAYTON house of Lord's Restaurant, Wheeling, was the scene of the reception for 100 guests where Mrs. Datko received in a light blue silk A-line, street-length dress with matching coat. Mrs. Haws was also in light blue silk with matching coat, and both mothers had corsages of white orchids.

The Datkos also entertained that evening at an open house in their home. Relatives and friends from 10 states were among the guests.

The new Mrs. Haws is a graduate of Arlington High School and her bridegroom is a graduate of Notre Dame High School in Trenton, N.J. He served four years in the Air Force and is now with the U. S. Post Office in Willingboro. The newlyweds are residing in nearby Burlington, N.J., after a week's honeymoon in the Shenandoah Valley, Virginia.

Juniors' Float Theme Centers on Projects

The Arlington Heights Junior Women's Club has selected to have as this year's entry in the Memorial Day Parade, "A Helping Hand."

Parade Chairman Mrs. Richard Gustafson said the float will depict the five major committees of activity for the club. These committees are: community living, senior citizens, veterans, youth and education, and social service. The Junior Women of the Arlington Heights Club has received several local and state awards for their work in these areas this spring.

Accent your make-up light when planning bathroom decor. A translucent window shade will filter glare but give you actual daylight so you have a true picture of what you will look like out of doors.

The English Way

Because English connoisseurs liked their first sips of coffee to be bitter, followed by a gradual sweetening, a special sugar with large, slow-dissolving granules was developed. Called "coffee crystals" it still is a favored form of sugar in England.

SOME "ROCK" FOR DAD

by MARLYN HALLMAN

Dad might enjoy some "rock" for Father's Day — not for his stereo but as a paperweight for his desk!

Find a large, smooth stone. With a brush, soap, and water, scrub it clean and dry it. Decorate it with paint or felt tipped markers. Be sure one color is dry before putting another color next to it. You may want to turn your rock into a turtle, lady bug, flower or piece of pop art. When it's dry, paint it all over with clear nail polish or shellac. To keep it from scratching Dad's desk, cut a piece of felt to fit the bottom of the rock and glue it in place.

Hair Cut Basis of Style, TOPS Told

Seventeen ladies let their hair down so that a man could tell them how to look slimmer, younger, more attractive for summer.

Remember the song, "Wives and Lovers?" "If your husband is in the business world, and your dress, hair style, and make-up went out in the 50's, you're in trouble," Armand Gentile, Arlington Heights hairdresser, told the ladies in the Rolling Meadows Take Off Pounds Sensibly, (TOPS) Club, Fabulous Figures.

"Would you wear the same dress you wore 15-20 years ago?"

"We would if we could get into them," THE HAIR FASHION scene features short, curly looks for summer. And the cut is the foundation of a girl's whole hair style. "Whether you wear it long or short, if you can't handle your hair," the women were told, "chances are the haircut is wrong."

Sometimes a girl will have her hair cut and the husband will say, "That isn't my baby, that's not the girl I married!" Most husbands like long hair, and they can be a problem when their opinions are not considered. Ask any hairdresser. He's felt the marital barrage.

As for coloring, the safest way is to go lighter, never darker. The Chicago and Illinois Cosmetologist's Association historian believes lighter hair coloring creates a younger, fresher look. Darkening makes a woman appear older, and the skin look harsher.

'Open Sesame' Works for Preschoolers

by RACHEL HEUMAN

"I wish I were an Oscar Meyer Weiner," caroles little Johnny and everyone laughs at the clever parroting of the TV commercial by the 3-year-old genius.

About a year ago, though, members of the Children's Television Workshop stopped laughing and started thinking — hard. If kids are able to pick up these relatively useless — to them — commercials, why couldn't the best of these techniques be converted to learning material?

The idea was researched and tested for almost a year by teachers, psychology executive director, points out that fewer it was handed over to production researchers to investigate that end of the presentation. The result is a nationwide TV nursery school for preschoolers which uses the commercial principle of repetition for conveying learning experiences.

THOUGH THE TARGET group of the Workshop is disadvantaged preschoolers, Mrs. Joan Ganz Cooney, its chief and curriculum experts. Then than half of the children in the country have preschool experiences. Thus, the program will compete for the attention of the nation's 12 million 3 to 5-year-olds in the country, amusing and fascinating them into learning about such things as letters, numbers and geometric forms; basic reasoning skills; and elemental information about both the physical and social world around them.

For example, the children will be presented with a situation in which two boys want to play with the same toy and are told to make an agreement so that both may be satisfied.

Real live kids participate in the scenes which begin and end on the steps of a typical older apartment house on a typical street which Children's Workshop has named Sesame Street. To the left of the house is a candy store and to the right is an excavation project surrounded by a colorfully painted fence. Through the knot-hole in the fence children can look outside their own world onto the world at large.

MUSIC, ANIMATED SHAPES and figures, black kids and white kids, creative photography — all combine to capture a youngster's attention for the brief — 15 seconds to 5 minutes — segments. Children are encouraged to participate and respond to what they view.

Does it work? Mrs. Ganz describes the show as "the most thoroughly researched, analyzed, studied and generally picked-apart program in television history." After the more than 80 authorities helped the Workshop staff to prepare its instructional goals, and the production was completed, the program was "tested" on day care center children in New York City. One test segment, "J," commercial featuring Joe and his Jammed Junebug Jiving the Judge, was inserted as few as four to six times in an hour of TV programming. It provided total recognition of the letter "J."

Arts of Suburban Living

THE PADDOCK BILLBOARD

WILL IT WORK when the show hits the mass medium in November? Aware that Mother is the one to turn the set on, the Workshop will offer her incentive by featuring guest hosts such as James Earl Jones, Harry Belafonte and Carol Burnett. At no time during the program, however, will parents be addressed or children talked down to, assured Mrs. Cooney.

Interesting as these personalities may be, mothers may find their motivation interesting as these personalities may be, mothers may find their motivation for turning on the tube is this unique program itself. It's funny and entertaining — whether one knows one's A.B.C.'s or not.

Sorority Activities

AOPi Closes Out the Season

A hair dryer, an electric toothbrush, an electric razor and two corn poppers are helping to make life a little better for the children of Illinois Children's Hospital-School in Chicago. These were donated by Alpha Omicron Pi's Northwest Suburban Alumnae chapter, with help from K-Mart, donor of two items.

During the presentation, Mrs. Leon Henson also handed Director Paul Cavanaugh another gift — an AOPi donation for the Needy Children's Fund.

THE MAY meeting rounded out the season for the AOPi's. Though there will be social functions and behind-the-scenes work this summer, the next general meeting will not be until September.

Hostess at the May 14 pot luck buffet was Mrs. Daniel Pelletiere of Mount Prospect. Co-hostesses were Mrs. Albert Sittaro of Palatine, Mrs. Douglas Lawrence of Mount Prospect and Mrs. John Nicholas of Park Ridge.

The Illinois Children's Hospital-School has long been on the AOPi's contribution list. The institution provides education and rehabilitation for orthopedically handicapped children. Many are victims of polio or cerebral palsy or are paraplegics.

Through the hospital-school, these youngsters receive the book-learning, medical aid and encouragement they need to grow to maturity. A team of doctors, nurses, teachers and volunteers makes the program possible.

Banquet for Secretaries

A scholarship to a high school senior girl studying for a secretarial career will be presented at the Wednesday, June 4, banquet for Park-Plaines Chapter of the National Secretaries Association. There will also be an installation of officers at the 6 p.m. dinner meeting at Ehlen's Green Tree Inn, Bensenville.

One of the area girls who have applied for the annual scholarship offered by the chapter will be awarded the grant.

Miss Fern Jacobs, NSA Illinois Division recording secretary, will install the new officers. Olive Schumacher, secretary to C. H. Keene, manager of CIBA Pharmaceutical Co., Niles, will become president. Dorothy Mydlach, secretary to W. F. Drawbaugh, president of Peerless Lithographing Co., Chicago, is the new vice president. Ruth Troutmann, secretary to James Sheldon, vice president of the First National Bank, Des Plaines, has been DOLORES PARR, SECRETARY to named recording secretary of the chapter. Frank Broniarczyk, printing manager, at General Telephone Co., Des Plaines, will become corresponding secretary. Joanne Larson, CPS is the new treasurer.

Guest speaker at Wednesday's banquet will be Gary Alcorn of CIBA Pharmaceuticals, Summit, N. J., whose topic is "Anatomy of Drug Safety."

Park-Plaines chapter invites all northwest Chicago and suburban secretaries to the event. Membership information is available from Jean Burke, 827-6111 days, or Janet Lee Stough, 827-5397 evenings.

Around the Corner from Us

The Arcadia Farm Annual Memorial Day Horse Show will be held tomorrow (Friday) beginning at 9 a.m. Entertainment featuring the Sundowners and Bertie Miller will be part of the days events to take place at the Arcadia Farms Rodeo Arena on Arlington Heights Road, one half mile south of Route 83, Long Grove. Further information can be obtained by calling LE 7-4348.

The annual Park West Antique Fair and Old Town Art Fair both will be held on dusk. These two well-known affairs are the weekend of June 14-15, from noon until the product of neighborhood cooperation throughout the Lincoln Park Area, an area that is reversing the process of city decay.

Old Town's Art Fair is held in the triangle between Menomonee Street, Lincoln Park West and Orleans Street. The Antique Fair inhabits the brick alley behind Fullerton Avenue from Clark Street to Orchard Street. Both fairs serve meals. The Art Fair features the famous chicken teriyaki at the Midwest Buddhist Church and the Antique Fair serves tacos and other snacks, as well as home cooked meals. A bus will shuttle fairgoers between the two events.

Robert and Lillian Masters' fantasy "Tyl Eulenspiegel and the Talking Donkey" opens Saturday for five weeks at Pleasant Run Playhouse Children's Theatre. Performances will be presented on May 31, June 7, June 14, June 21 and June 28. Due to the Independence Day holiday there will be no performance on Saturday, July 5. Children's Theatre productions are presented each Saturday afternoon at 2 p.m. Carl Stohn, Jr. is the producer and David Morrison is the director.

Reservations are necessary only for groups of 20 or more. Information can be obtained by calling 584-1454 or the Chicago number, 261-7943.

Light Touch Lifted Suzanne

WHEN NOTED TV and film producer David L. Wolper decided to make the comedy of American tourists "doing" Europe, "If It's Tuesday, This Must Be Belgium," now playing at the Mount Prospect Cinema, he named "light touch" Margulies to produce it and Margulies remembered Miss Pleshette whose light touch he had admired in "40 Pounds."

Miss Pleshette, a native New Yorker, attended that city's High School of the Performing Arts where she was early singled out as an exceptional talent. She continued at Finch College to master the thespian craft, at Syracuse University for a grounding in classic education and on to Broadway and Hollywood where she is now enjoying such success.

When you're in the movies you never can tell who's watching you! Take the case of lovely Suzanne Pleshette.

Drama was her forte. Her roles on the New York stage in "Compulsion" and "The Miracle Worker," among others, were hailed by the critics as masterpieces of the tragedienne's art. When she got into pictures she drew similar praise for such as Alfred Hitchcock's "The Birds." But then came "40 Pounds of Trouble" and somebody was watching.

Not Big Brother, but film producer Stan Margulies, famed among other things for his "Magnificent Men in their Flying Machines," generally considered a masterpiece of the light touch.

"That girl," Margulies said to himself, "has the light touch."

'Barefoot' in Summertime

The Guild Players' closing play of its 11th season, Neil Simon's "Barefoot in the Park," is at the halfway mark in its rehearsal schedule and the actors are being caught in the Simon web.

Cathy Chappell, Richard Harris, Sarah Levin and Russell Tanner, leading player in the June 13, 14, and 21 comedy, are feeling themselves slowly becoming "Simon characters," according to stage manager Irene Kaufman.

Sarah Levin has played so many dialects, she finds her role as an American mother a refreshing change. Mrs. Levin is well-known to Guild audiences. This summer she joins a new repertory company in Sleepy Hollow, Mich., where she will play leads in "The Subject Is Roses" and "Marriage Go-Round" and be featured in "The Encounter" and "Brick and the Rose."

EIGHTEEN-YEAR-OLD Cathy Chappell, who will graduate from Conant High school two days before she goes onstage in her second Guild appearance, has had comedy, dramatic and singing roles in school and in the community theater. Among these roles was that of the heroine in the melodrama, "Pure as the Driven Snow." As Corie Bratter, Miss Chappell plays the kooky young bride who chooses for her first apartment a fifth floor high-rent walk-up.

The namesake of the famous British actor Richard Harris is razed about his name, but no one teases about his talent. Harris has played leading roles in productions for a Decatur theater group. In "Barefoot" he is the young lawyer and new husband, Paul Bratter.

Director Vic Simone never admits type casting anyone in his plays, but there seems to be a question about Russell Tanner, who plays Victor Velasco, the upstairs neighbor Tanner, formerly a singer with the St. Louis Municipal Opera, plays a suave middle-aged bachelor, a gourmet with continental charm. The man behind the character is a bachelor, suave, possessing a continental charm which spreads like wildfire from actors to stage managers.

"IT'S HARD TO TELL," say the players, "who came first, Victor Velasco or Russell Tanner."

Completing the cast of "Barefoot" are Richard Grote as the telephone repair man and Marvin Kaufman as the delivery man. The play will be staged Friday, June 13, and Saturdays, June 14 and 21 in Tefft Junior High, Irving Park Road, Streamwood. Curtain time for all performances is 8:30 p.m.

Reservations are being taken by ticket chairmen at 894-2976, 529-9262 and 894-7406. Students are admitted at special rates.

The Way We See It

How's That Again?

The people of Illinois may be excused if they're a little confused over the spending proposed with their tax dollars.

Their governor, recognizing the harsh realities of the day, tells them that under current tax programs they're running behind by about $1.1 billion a year. The only solution, he warns, is the adoption of a bold and massive new program, centered around that dreaded bugaboo a state income tax.

Then, he opines, the ship of state will at least be upright and safe in harbor, though not equipped for any luxuries.

Their treasurer, speaking from many weeks of arduous research and consultation, says it won't add up that way at all. If the governor's plan is approved as proposed, he warns, the state will reap much more money than it needs.

Specifically, he says, the governor hasn't figured enough from the taxes. Has figured too much for the spending, and hasn't thought about money in the pot that's not really being used for anything. It would total, he calculates, something like $388 million extra for the first year, which is no pittance when you're jostling the citizens to dig a little deeper.

The governor is a Republican and the treasurer is a Democrat, and both are ambitious men, so the easy conclusion might be that someone is building a political framework.

But both are also honorable men, and you must give them the benefit of the doubt.

Yet the issue gets confused even more by disquieting and regular reports from Springfield that the men of the governor's party and the men of the treasurer's party are bartering one piece of legislation against another for ultimate support of the governor's plan.

Just what do the citizens believe? If they can be excused for being confused, they can also be excused for being a little cynical.

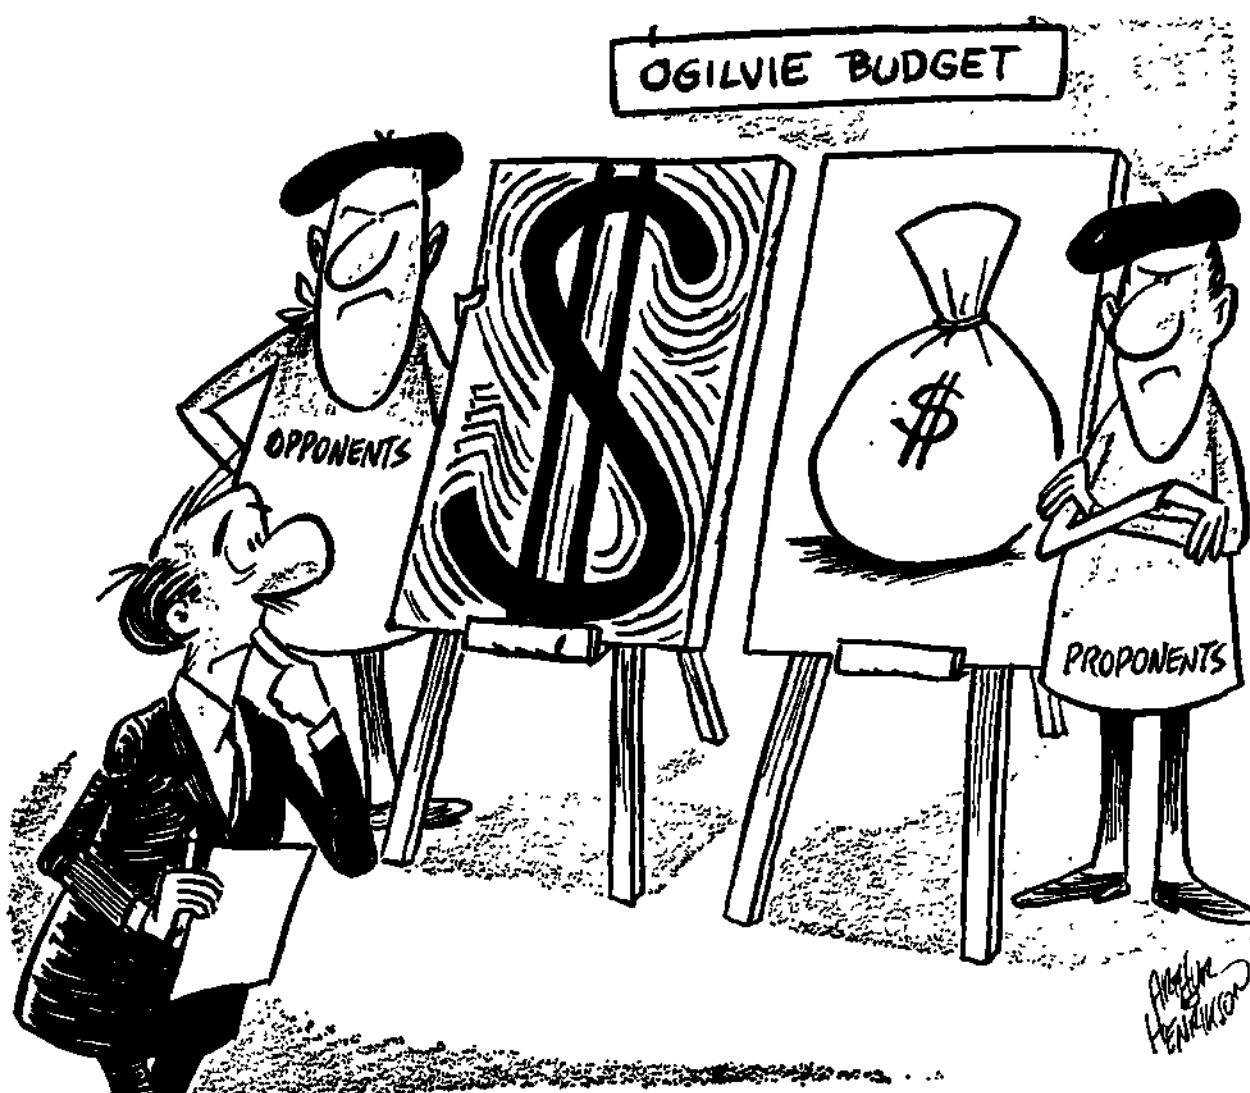

They are bombarded enough with taxes and fees, and the threat of even more. At the very least, they deserve an honest and clear explanation of the state's revenue picture and what can be expected if the governor's tax plan goes into effect.

They, after all, are the ones who will pay the bills, and have a right to more than bickering, infighting and continual delay in the General Assembly.

We suggest that the two principals in this drama — Gov. Richard Ogilvie and Treasurer Adlai Stevenson III — take the lead, and at least clear up the contradictions they have raised.

At the moment, they are $388 million and two parties apart.

Impressionistic, Pop Art or Realistic?

The City Beat

Word's Clear; Who Hears?

by ED MURNANE

Two very similar movements in Rolling Meadows are making brave and valiant attempts to light a few candles in areas that have been better known for their darkness.

The Rolling Meadows Ministerial Fellowship and the Rolling Meadows Human Relations Council both have been making big news recently, particularly this week.

SUNDAY, THE Human Relations Council reached one of its high points of the year when it attracted several hundred residents of the city to a production of "In White America."

And this Sunday, the Ministerial Fellowship will conduct the second in its series of "Operation Understanding" open houses at Trinity Lutheran Church.

Both programs and organizations have a similar goal: understanding of one's fellow man, either through his religion or his race.

WHEN REV. EUGENE Faucher of St. Colette Catholic Church was asked the purpose of "Operation Understanding" was, he answered it was "to increase an awareness of what people of various faiths believe and practice and to foster friendship and understanding among people of diverse religious backgrounds."

David Sundling, new president of the Rolling Meadows Human Relations Council, used almost the exact words when he said the council's objective is to create "an awareness of the problems concerning human relations — not just race relations but all human and social problems and relations."

The first "Operation Understanding" attracted about 125 people to St. Colette where they were taken on a tour of the church and school, learned about the Catholic faith and its practices, and enjoyed a social hour with members of the church and other clergymen.

PERHAPS THE attendance would have been higher had it been a different day. May 4, the day of the open house, also was the opening day of the Rolling Meadows Boys Baseball season and it was one of the first warm Sundays of the year.

This Sunday, the second of the series will be held at Trinity Lutheran. Basically the same format will be followed and visitors will have the added advantage of seeing for the first time the much-talked-about new interior of Trinity Lutheran.

Unfortunately again, this is Memorial Day weekend and attendance may again be kept down.

The final three sessions will be held in the fall at Bethel Lutheran, Meadows Baptist and the Community Church.

The weather might not be a distraction, and boys baseball will be over, but Sunday afternoons in the fall mean pro football.

NEVERTHELESS, the two organizations feel their efforts are being at least moderately successful. Attracting more than 100 people, as Operation Understanding did, or about 200, as the Human Relations Council did, are accomplishments that should not be minimized.

But it could, and should, be so much more when such vital understanding is at stake.

The problem is that the people who need the understanding just don't understand that they need it.

Looking Around

During the floods in Hastings, Minnesota, Peter Mitzuk saved his house by putting it in a plastic bag. He bought 400 feet of heavy-duty polyethylene 16 feet wide, wrapped it around the house and pummed it down with sand bags. Five borrowed pumps kept his basement reasonably dry as waters rose around the home.

Celebrating his release from jail, Avio Spaggiari of Genoa, Italy, went to an exclusive restaurant and dined on lobster, caviar and champagne, ran up a bill for $138. He didn't have enough money to pay for his feast and landed back in jail.

The Fence Post

Bridge War: Think of Kids

We in the neighborhood of Emerson and Sunset didn't want the Emerson Street bridge in the first place, but we have it. Now the residents of George Street would have the selfishness to burden us with additional traffic to our street. We, too, would like our area to remain "quaint." Above all, the safety of our children is of prime importance.

Do they think this is a neighborhood without small children? I have four young children. There are many families with five and six children. One family on Sunset has 11 children.

Residents of George Street, be fair. Don't give us your traffic. We now have more than we should have.

Mrs. Pat Gubbe

Annex Bill 'Bad'

The Illinois Senate is now considering a bill (House Bill 1241) to allow cities and towns to annex unincorporated areas without the consent of the people living in the area.

As a homeowners association in an unincorporated area, we feel this bill is taking away our basic right of choice. We definitely feel it is unconstitutional. Municipalities, under this bill, could choose to divide up, to their advantage, unincorporated areas any way they saw fit.

WE WOULD LIKE to know for what reason and for whose benefit this bill is being brought up for a vote. Is it for the benefit of the homeowners or for the benefit of the municipalities? It appears to be for the hungry, land grabbing municipalities.

We strongly feel this bill should be voted down by our state senators.

'Think It Through'

I am a concerned parent. Our children must learn self control and learn to be morally responsible.

Most important, let's not forget that the most beautiful way for a child to grow up learning about life is to observe the kind loving parents and family he has at home.

Let's all just calm down and really think this all through. After all, our children come first. They're the ones on whom our future depends.

Correspondence from readers is welcomed. Only letters of 500 words or less will be published, however, and no anonymous letters will be considered for publication. Letters must be signed with name and address. Direct your mail to The Fence Post, Paddock Publications, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60005.

Eye on Arlington

Big Issue Fades, Shifts

by TOM WELLMAN

The Arlington Heights Village Board is mulling over an amendment to its open housing ordinance.

Chances are you probably haven't noticed this time around the board is wrestling with an amendment to bring the village's ordinance in line with the federal open housing law. If the amendment is approved, it will provide local, rather than federal, control.

It is refreshing to have minimal public interest in a question that, three years ago, could have provoked fury among many citizens in this community.

GRANTED, THE question of exempting persons who don't sell through a real estate agent or don't advertise their property — sign thrusters, our columnist called them last week — will be debated again next week at the village board session.

One would hope that the lack of uproar would turn our attention to issues that have not been openly discussed, at least by our public officials.

Perhaps, if 10 years ago open housing could have been rationally argued, an open housing law would have been enacted five years ago.

Tom Wellman

ANYWAY, 10 YEARS from today we will be talking about low-cost housing and high-speed transportation to and from Chicago to supply labor for our blooming industries.

Fly over Arlington Heights — as I did Tuesday with members of the plan commission and the village board — and look at that industry.

With the Rand-Golf Expressway only a distant dream, perhaps in 10 years someone will have had the foresight to ease the crush of labor into this village.

Perhaps, 10 years from today, we won't be referring to racial discrimination in terms of housing. The jobs should be plentiful; today, there are already too many blacks who can't find an easy way to commute to employers who are pleading for labor — black, white, red or green.

KEEP TRANSPORTATION in mind. Ten years from now, if you live in Arlington Heights, the question of accessible transportation and low-cost housing will be a relevant question.

If the village board and other governmental agencies work as smoothly as they did last year on open housing, the strain of new economic and population pressures will be eased.

The issue is not immediate. But in a couple years, it ought to be a point of serious discussion.

Not Bad Down in Dumps

by MARY REIFSCHNEIDER

One thing this area can boast about is its dumps. Landfills, dumps, call them what you will, the ones I've visited are pretty nice places.

I and a friend who likes to walk in the rain had a chance to visit several after a rainy night. And I was really impressed. There were no large or smelly heaps visible. In fact with all the trees and landscaping, they looked more like parks than dumps.

Our experience with dumps started the night of the big rain last summer, Aug. 16. While everybody else in the apartment complex was busy mopping the rains from their kitchen floors, we left our water-tight unit and decided to take a walk.

WE HADN'T even gone a block when we came upon a backyard with a spectacular pile of discarded household pieces — rockers, rugs, refrigerator, chairs and a table. Boy did that pile of previously owned junk look good.

We investigated and found that the people had moved away but neighbors said the pile was there for the taking. We were like two children at a 30-flavors ice cream store — we just couldn't decide what to choose.

We lamented that the rain had ruined an overstuffed rocker as well as the rugs. But there were two hardwood chairs, a kitchen stepstool and a kitchen table that caught our eye.

We hauled the items back to our apartment under the cover of night. We were soaked, but thought this had really been a fruitful walk.

The next morning the sun was shining but our second hand gems weren't. It was obvious to see why they had been left behind. Slats were missing from the wooden chairs, the legs were rusted on the stool and table and the tops of both were warped. Even an all day session with rust remover didn't improve them.

UGH. NOW WHAT would we do. The garbage collector ignored them, and none of our friends saw any value in them. It was obvious no one would steal them.

Our backyard looked like a blighted second-hand store. It was an embarrassment.

Then one Saturday we chanced upon the use of a pick-up truck. Someone directed us to a genuine dump. The first dump wouldn't take our junk, but a groundskeeper directed us to another.

The second dump was closing in five minutes, and we raced through traffic to arrive just as the gates were closing. The keeper let us in, and we drove along a landscaped winding path to the debarkation point.

VOILA! Up drove a huge refuse truck. The driver jumped out eagerly. "Hey, I've been looking all over for a table like that. Can I have it?" We gave it to him. I hope it gave him less trouble than it did us.

The 'Stuff' Box of Life

by GEOFFREY MEHL

Bachelors enjoy a variety of advantages over married guys, one of them being housekeeping. Scrubbing, sweeping and scouring are tasks relegated to moments of boredom or, when you stub your toe on the dust.

Last Sunday night was one of those occasions when having seen the place in stark sunlight a four room urban renewal project was privately demanded. But how is it that when you've just worked up the right frame of mind for doing such things, you discover nostalgic items tucked away that had been long forgotten?

TAKE, FOR EXAMPLE, a small cardboard box on the back of a closet shelf. The initial mistake while cleaning is discovery of the box, the second mistake is opening it and the fatal error is discovering what's inside.

One ancient Timex watch, with broken stem and inoperable Two & 10 glossy prints of an Ozyo party in Strasbourg that I'd rather forget. Dog tags and a U.S. Army press card. The identification bracelet we had to wear at the 1967 Monte Carlo Grand Prix to take pictures there. One nondescript cork, rumored to be from a French wine bottle. Newspaper clippings describing the assassination of John F. Kennedy. One nickel. Two ticket stubs from the Tivoli Theater in Downers Grove. A copy of the column in which I said goodbye to journalism forever in 1963.

THREE PAPER clips and a rubber band. A memo from the news director at WDWS AM-FM in Champaign about a long forgotten story. A photograph which shouldn't be described. Assorted letters from assorted people that should have been answered and weren't. The copy from a column I wanted to print in an Army newspaper, which they wouldn't permit.

A broken pair of sunglasses. A corroded pocketknife, a comb missing half its teeth and negatives of my sister's wedding.

Memories: consolidated and neatly packaged in a box labeled "stuff." Oh, well, maybe I'll clean the other 90 per cent of the apartment next Sunday.

Experiment, Permissiveness Promoted by Zealous Left

It is sad to see in the paper and hear at school meetings the angry voices of those who belittle, condemn and ridicule other people who happen to disagree with their point of view on the controversial "Family Living Curriculum." I am primarily referring to those who would prefer to have school administrators or nearly anyone else do their investigating and their thinking for them when it concerns their children. Thoughtful letters and comments of either or different views are always welcome.

It is encouraging to note that such eminent people as Carl Rowan and Joan Beck have clearly recognized legitimate questions by parents. Joan Beck stated in addition on WGN radio that if her daughter were currently exposed in a school to this program she as a parent would be most concerned. Some of these quite respectable questions are: at what age should classes start? Should boys and girls be taught sex education together? What kind of training should the teacher have? What kind of experience should a teacher have? What, how, and who should decide what kind of moral or religious framework to operate in? What is the parent's role in this?

THE ZEALOTS of the left do not or cannot answer these questions, so their only defense is a good offense.

It is well known in current psychology studies that Freudian views are out of date and have been largely discredited. A panel of psychiatrists from the University of Chicago on television recently discussed this very point. Yet we are required to accept robot-like a program based in large part on Freudian concepts.

To those who think facts are enough and information is the panacea why, then, does Sweden have far worse social problems than we do? The Swedish state has also taken over long ago this institution and yet they are noted for having one of the highest suicide rates in the world.

Remember Dr. Spock and Dr. Kehm? I do my first baby came along in the 1950's. They were some of the leaders of "permissive psychology." We be to the generation of parents that too late discovered the morass these self-styled experts led them into. Most of the results of this experiment are currently making headlines on our college campuses, Old Town, and Hippiesville. When the disaster was clear they claimed they were misunderstood and that parents had the final decision.

PLEASE, let's urge the school boards who are currently involved in family living curriculums to have open discussions and a comprehensive review of the result and reception of this program. Let us insist that persons who have legitimate questions or reservations even if they disagree with the establishment be given credit as conscientious parents. Too often, school leaders are insinuating that one who disagrees with the program must be directly involved with the John Birch Society which, of course, is unfair, prejudicial, immaterial and usually not true.

Lastly, when your own views are thoroughly grounded and jelled, write your representatives in Springfield to tell them.

Miss Sally Petersen

Today I have read the Paddock Paper with avid interest in regard to the article on the building code violations in Buffalo Grove.

It is good, only as far as the article has been written. But, are all the facts in? I should say no. I would say, that the way today's article has been written, the Paddock Papers are apologizing to the Buffalo Grove village board's letter to your paper. Miss Mary Dressler's article was revealing to a point.

But, did she really go to the source of all this trouble, besides going to the people who lived in that part of the subdivision? Has she really dug up the facts from a man who was formally a building inspector of this village? I wrote an article, of which I still have a rough draft, about a month and a half ago and still have a copy if anyone is interested in it. I went to the source. I have talked to this former building inspector and with his knowledge gave me permission to use his name.

The former building inspector who could give you the real story, his name is Norm Schwinn who lives in this village. He was fired for doing his job, and our "progressive" village president fired him because he complained of these same violations.

I am certainly glad to be a subscriber of your paper and have enjoyed it for the last eight years. I have lived in Buffalo Grove. The Buffalo Grove Village Board is trying to white-wash this situation by telling your newspaper that you are picking on them.

Finally the smell is more than they can stand and are just now trying to alibi their way out of this situation. You have a writer on your newspaper that really got the facts and was not afraid to say what he thought. His name was "Dutch" Leonard. He dug deep and reported true. If we want to have a village board that will be straight with the citizens of this village let's have a reporter who can dig the facts all the way.

Knowledge Lavished On Kids Generates Experimentation

In response to the cover story of May 21 citing the attempt of the John Birch Society to subvert the efforts of educators and parents with regard to public sex education, I should like to place the controversial issue into proper social perspective.

Within the institutions of family and religion the values that make necessary or restrict, the metering out of information regarding the reproductive process and sexual urge have not changed. They have, however, become inadequate for, among others the following reasons:

1. THE MOST of knowledge lavished upon children, about all things, has increased appreciably the past generation. Knowledge and the means by which it is gained (acceptably or unacceptably) generate innovative and experimental behavior in all modes of human expression child and adult. The efficiency and forthrightness with which family and church impart sexual knowledge and the base of knowledge from which they draw their instruction has not expanded commensurate with the amount of knowledge that can be obtained from other less desirable sources.

2. Parents while working toward continued refinement universal availability and guaranteed openness of public education have introduced into the family values a means by which all information given in a discreet private highly subjective manner (such as sexual information) becomes suspect by the very nature of its expression.

3. The church in its attempt to purvey the truth and meaning of sexual expression and reproduction is ineffectual because of its insistence on public acceptance of its basic truths which viewed from within the highly scientific existence today, are untenable. The ineffectuality is reinforced because the church's assumptions are within the realm of sexual and reproductive inquisitiveness (the virgin birth, rebirth by baptism, life after death, the resurrection, etc.).

4. Because adults not children have exploited or allowed themselves to be exploited by the technological revolution the propensity to war, the preoccupation with violence, the edification of an acquisitive ethic and a continued regeneration of a double standard of morality, and b) the church has not been an effective means of slowing the degeneration, but rather has served as a catharsis to support the rationalization of continued exploitation of and for those ignoble values, we are the products of an aged society currently embroiled in a confrontation between the generations. Public sex education is one way that responsible people can submit their life styles to the young for their acceptance or rejection on the basis of their knowledge, their perception of family and church (and every other institution) and their own common morality.

Transient Town: Can We Afford Apathetic Attitude?

Attending a Palatine village board meeting May 12 was quite an experience for almost everyone there.

Being "involved" in community work for the last 10 years has made me very much aware of how "unaware" people can become of what goes on around them every day until it touches their own back door.

MANY ISSUES WERE discussed, many of them valid. Primarily that of the Ridgeway Farm for boys. But due to the emotionalism of the crowd the biggest issue of all was not even touched. Why weren't these people aware of this zoning? Was it because the zoning hearing was not published or was it because they do not read their local paper? Do they only read the paper when it concerns their particular area or organization?

These people spoke of being transients — is this their excuse for not caring, not being involved, not reading, not listening to their next door neighbor's problems?

Is this any reason not to support projects that may benefit people for years to come — because they may not be here a year or two from now? Will they feel the same way in the next town and the next? If it is, we are certain to be faced with many more problems, not only here in Palatine but all over the country.

THIS IS OUR "home town" as long as we live here, whether it is one year or 20. We must become involved or local government will die and service organizations and clubs will die one after another for the lack of personnel that care and will give of themselves for something other than personal social entertainment.

It is becoming more difficult to get people to be scout leaders, volunteers park, village and library trustees and to serve on school boards, and with the prevailing apathetic attitude it should become even worse.

Recently the Palatine Community Council proposed a project to the community for a memorial for the servicemen who gave their lives for us from World War I up to the Vietnam war. Twenty-five people attended the meeting — most of these are the same people you see at Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Kiwanis, Jaycees, Junior Woman's Club meetings and the parents of the boys. The same people will end up doing the work and their thanks will be in the same manner "Why wasn't it done this way, in this place, this time?" But who will take the time to do all the work, not the talkers — they're there to tell you how, when and why, but don't try to involve them. They won't have time and they won't make time.

I'VE HEARD THE same reasons for the last 10 years "I don't have time to even read about it." "I don't care." "I don't know." "Leave well enough alone, I am not interested."

Communication is two ways. You give the communication (information) but if there is no one to receive it, you have no communication. That time, that effort, that money was wasted. People tune in and tune out the minute it does not concern their little world — whether it is the world of diapers and formulas, big business, politics, education. Whatever it is, leave it be. That's their responsibility, not mine.

But is it? We must know in a community the needs and the concerns of the people in all these areas and yet no one even knows where to go to find out or even when.

A Palatine Community Council was formed a year and a half ago for this purpose but no one uses it. Why? You get the same answer "I didn't know about it." Yet every meeting has been announced through the Herald on the front page.

Driveway Hassle: There Ought to Be a Law

We are one of the people who are involved in the hassle over keeping our trucks in the driveway of our own property in Arlington Heights.

Is the law in force or being put into force now? How can the town do this, as we have no other place to put our truck and other folks have the same problem.

OUR TRUCK IS A necessary vehicle for our livelihood as part of our business. We own a service station.

I'm sure this is the case of other people who had been ticketed like we were a couple weeks ago as our truck was parked in our driveway.

with stories and pictures.

Letters have been sent to every organization. You just didn't take the time because you were not interested. It didn't concern you.

TEN YEARS FROM now, we'll hear, "where did the time go? Why don't we have a place for our kids to go?" Or "I don't have anyone who was killed in a war. What we have in Palatine now is alright, I guess. Maybe we should have something else, maybe someday, someone will do something."

'Pat' From PACEM

In behalf of Palatine Area Citizens for Enlightened Majorities, I wish to commend you and your organization — and especially Miss Martha Koper — for publication, in the May 14 issue of the Palatine Herald, of the article which so rightfully criticized the conduct of many local residents with respect to the "Ridgeway Farm" matter.

IN A MEETING last night, the members of PACEM voted unanimously to express their deep appreciation and their wholehearted support of what they hope is a continuing policy of bold reporting and forthright editorial comment.

I might add that, while we have become accustomed to Miss Koper's journalistic excellence, the equally vital ingredients of courageous criticism and thoughtful commentary have not always been so clearly demonstrated by your newspaper.

We all hope it is a sign of growing maturity and increasing acceptance of the responsibility of a free press. If so, you may be assured of our growing support and increasing respect.

Quinn McLoughlin,
President
PACEM

We have no other area to park the truck and had no complaints. It is a small, good looking pickup truck.

We don't feel obligated to sell our truck as we need it or would the town prefer the residents of Arlington Heights sell their homes? The law should have been studied (if there is one) to classify the types of trucks or give people their just rights. It isn't the fine as much as the principle.

Mrs. O. Hellstrom
Arlington Heights
(Editor's Note: The ordinance, banning overnight parking of trucks in residential driveways, is being enforced.)

Veteran Critic Looks At Today's Writing

By JACK V. FOX
BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (UPI)
—The mild-voiced, gracious man leaned back at his desk in a book-lined study overlooking a swimming pool in a rambling home in Bel Air and talked about today's American literature.

If you are over 40 you will remember Clifton Fadiman as the witty and urbane moderator of a radio program called "Information Please" that ran from 1938 to 1948. Before that, he was for 10 years book critic for the New Yorker magazine and an editor for publishers Simon and Schuster.

Now, in his 60s, Fadiman is one of the three selection judges for the Book of the Month Club. He is a consultant to the famous Writers School in Westport, Conn., an editor of Encyclopedia Britannica and working on Britannica's education films. He is writing a book of children's literature through the ages. He travelled 150,000 miles last year on lectures and work.

How does he compare the novels of today with those of 20 or 30 years ago?

"If you are in my business of dealing with books constantly you don't think about them generally. The question bores us because it can't be answered precisely and because after answering it where are you? Do you know any more than you did before?"

"You know there have been some changes of course in the last 20 or 30 years that are very marked—great permissiveness in language, for one. But that has been pointed out so often it is hardly worth pointing out again.

"It is perfectly clear that the excited boys who have won their noble battle for permissiveness in language have also lost it. Because everybody is used to what they have to offer. There comes a point in which there are no more shock points.

"On the whole, I'm in favor of larger latitude in the depiction of, description of, analysis of, the relations between man and woman. Unfortunately for the great novelists of the 19th Century like Balzac, Dostoevsky or Dickens, a kind of Victorian compromise forced them to shut their mouths about many things that they knew all about."

How would he rate some of the better writers today?

"Well, look at the question this way—we have no one at the present time who dominates our literary scene the way Faulkner and Hemingway did perhaps a quarter of a century ago, but that doesn't mean that in another two years there may not be someone who will dominate it. Writers aren't produced by machines nor do they come along in generations the way college students seem to do.

"I think I would say that the American novel is not more exciting than it was but the authors are certainly more excited. So if you get a bang out of watching people in a state of great excitement, the contemporary novel, such as the kind of thing done by Mr. (Norman) Mailer and Mr. (Philip) Roth, will please you. And, indeed, such novels are in many cases quite brilliant.

"I think I would say one thing about that kind of work—that it is addressed to a new audience of awfully young people, many of whom are college youngsters but most of whom reject conventional humanistic values that an older generation was brought up on.

"Mr. Mailer himself, a very brilliant man, has put it very well. I can't remember his exact words but he said his work generally is directed at a cultureless audience—an audience without traditional culture, a traditional kind of literature. An audience interested in the now, the immediate, the punch, the bang, the charge, who want to be sent, who want to be turned on—all those somewhat childish phrases which will sound very foolish, like '23 skidoo,' in another few years.

"That is the sort of thing they want out of their novel. They don't want it to be connected with the past of the human race. They don't have any feeling that there is any past to the human race but only that everything is happening now and the novel should attempt to give them an immediate feeling.

"I sometimes think they are trying to use art as a substitute for genuine experience. Which it is not. The two things are quite different as was pointed out some years ago by Goethe in one of those sublime German platitudes. He said art and life are two different things. That is why they have different names."

What about the "new" novels that are thinly disguised narratives of the lives of real people?

"Oh, that is an old tradition. The notion it is new is, of course, mistaken. The novels with a key go back to the 18th Century. The 19th Century was full of them. Most of Disraeli's novels were full of them and they had their own cocktail parties and sat around saying 'Do you think that's that guy and this is the guy?'

"There is nothing new. I find it is an evidence of vulgar taste but then I'm a very old-fashioned man. It's vulgar but amusing like a good many vulgar things are amusing."

Fadiman said he wasn't doing anything on radio or television any more because "I think the kind of thing I can do is no longer wanted. The very modest gifts I could bring to radio and television had mild acceptance 20 years ago but would not be accepted today—the kind of discursive quality.

"Nowadays, radio and TV consists of shout largely and one who shouts the loudest or is the most 'impressive' or is the best showman is the one who is wanted, which is perfectly all right. These are perfectly good qualities anyway.

"There's no sense fighting it. A man who objects to the fact the world changes as he grows older is a fool. Of course the world is going to change. It isn't necessarily going to change in his direction. It shouldn't change in his direction but in the direction of people coming after him.

"It isn't that I'm mellow in any sense, but I don't see any point in saying the world is all wrong. I have grave doubts as to its future but I don't think it does any good for me to add my voice to the other Jeremiahs."

Asked what effect he thought watching television has on reading in general, Fadiman said he wasn't sure but "I'm inclined to think in the long run it will be hurtful to reading and for a fundamental reason.

"It has been pointed out by Mr. (Marshall) McLuhan who, for all his eccentricities, has probably got hold of one or two pretty good ideas. It is simply that youngsters are growing up with their ears and eyes open and their minds relatively closed because TV not only makes no attempt to fill your mind but is very careful not to because if it did it couldn't make a living.

"That is not an attack on television. That's just the way it works. The reading habit is a private habit. TV and radio are public. They appeal to a vast audience. In a sense, they deny the values of privacy, rumination, contemplation. They are out to give you the quick charge, the bang, this minute's news, this minute's victory, this minute's defeat, bleeding bodies, Vietnam torture. These are not the elements of which thought can be made any more than you can think when being hit by a car.

"Youngsters being brought up in that kind of environment find it hard to switch to an environment which requires reflection. Youngsters seem to work tribally, the way primate savages do. They cannot feel themselves unless they are with other youngsters. But reading is not like that. Reading is something you do all by yourself."

What does he think are the main problems facing writers today?

"The world is in a grip of terror now," Fadiman said. "In a sense, we are living in a nightmare and much of our writing is like a nightmare. I don't say it is bad writing—it is honest reporting of a nightmare world such as is being done by Jacques Genet in France.

"Tolstoy lived in a world of sort of animal serenity. Not that he didn't recognize the tragic dilemma of the human being but he was not overrun by a sense of terror, loss and desperation. The same was true of Balzac, Dostoevsky, Joyce, Thomas Mann.

"They were more in control of their material—it was not flying apart. It's not that writers are less creative. It's the climate in which they must work. They cannot have the serene deep glimpse of humanity."

'White Man's Religion' In Africa?

by RAY MOSELEY

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Pope Paul VI, whose trip to Africa in July will make him the first Pontiff ever to visit the continent, will confront many problems on the journey.

Not the least of them will be to help erase an image of the Roman Catholic Church as a "white man's religion" and to show that the church is learning to adapt itself to the ways of the people and even taking on a distinctly African character.

Africa today is a continent beset by war, poverty, tribalism, nationalism, racism, a massive refugee problem, ignorance and disease. All these faces of Africa are of deep concern to the Pope on his mission.

Pope Paul, a self-styled missionary Pontiff and "apostle on the move," is going to Kampala, Uganda, one of the strongholds of Catholicism on the continent, to consecrate a shrine to 22 African martyrs.

He already has indicated a major concern of his trip will be an appeal to Nigerians and Biafrans to end their long civil war.

But the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Sergio Pignedoli, secretary of the Vatican Congregation for the Evangelization of Peoples and an African expert, says it is unlikely the Pope will present any concrete plan for Nigerian peace. He offered his services as a mediator between Nigeria and Biafra last year but was turned down.

The Pope is expected to repeat in Africa the message of his 1967 encyclical Populorum Progressio in which he said:

"The superfluous wealth of rich nations should be placed at the service of the poor nations. Otherwise their continued greed will certainly call down upon them the judgment of God and the wrath of the poor."

The trip may expose the Pope to fresh criticism from opponents of his 1968 encyclical against artificial birth control. Some Catholic and non-Catholic critics maintain his stand tends to discredit his appeals for a better deal for the poor countries, since they see the population explosion as a principal barrier to development.

The first anniversary of the encyclical falls on July 23—possibly coinciding with the Pope's trip, for which no firm date has been set.

The Pope also faces a delicate problem on what to say about racism in Africa. In a special message to Africa in 1967, he referred to it only in a general way, and observers believe this may not be enough to satisfy some black Africans, who feel the church has been too reticent about condemning policies in white-ruled South Africa and Rhodesia and the Portuguese territories of Angola and Mozambique.

In a purely religious sense, Vatican officials say, the Pope hopes his presence in Africa may inspire an awakening of religious interest in and toward Africa—and thus help overcome the shortage of priests, nuns and money needed by the church in carrying out its mission.

At present there is only one priest for every 10,000 persons in Africa (compared to one for 1,181 in Europe). The ratio of priests to bishops is 5 to 1 in Mali, 11 to 1 in Senegal, 55 to 1 in Uganda. These figures compare with ratios of several thousand to one in parts of Europe and the United States.

But Vatican officials are not overly discouraged by such problems. The progress of the church in Africa, measured against its brief history, has been remarkable in many ways.

In less than a century, since missionaries began pushing into the jungle behind Burton, Stanley and the other great African explorers, the continent's Catholic population has risen from almost nothing to more than 30 million.

Pope Paul himself called Africa "the new homeland of Christ" in 1964.

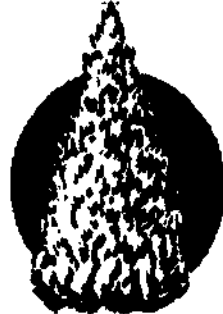

The emergence of independent African nations in the postwar years was accompanied by a wave of anti-religious acts, reflecting the feeling of African nationalists that Christianity was foreign to their way of life. There were rapes and killings of nuns in the Congo, the slaughter of black Christians by Arabs in the Sudan, the expulsion of missionaries from Guinea, Uganda, the Sudan and elsewhere.

But as Africa has evolved, so has the church, especially since the Vatican Ecumenical Council.

The Mass, once a foreign rite with no intrinsic meaning for Africans, now is celebrated in jungle churches to the accompaniment of tom-toms, cymbals and native dances. Latin has given way to Hausa, Swahili and other African tongues.

More and more, black African hear the gospels from black priests instead of alien

Two weeks ago, on Friday, May 16, to be exact, Dick Biondi, well-known disc jockey on Radio Station WCFL, came out to Roselle with a check for $500 to be presented to the Steger Foundation.

The money had been contributed by Universal Pictures and the Oriental Theater to publicize the movie, "Death of a Gun Fighter." In a publicity stunt staged by WCFL, three disc jockeys fought it out on State Street. The winner, Biondi, was given the $500.

He, in turn, announced to his listeners that he would donate the money to the charity that received the most votes from them.

The Steger Foundation finished a far piece ahead of the American Cancer Society, and Biondi came out to the school to present the check to Stanley Wheeler, principal of the school, who accepted it in behalf of the Steger Foundation.

So WCFL and the movie and the theater and studio got the publicity out of it, the Foundation got the money, and the people who were primarily responsible were sort of lost in the shuffle as so often happens.

Sandy Thorne and Susan Wisniewski put that money in the Foundation's coffers, they and a lot of other kids at Lake Park.

Andy Fowler, a teacher at the school, tells how it all came about.

"The whole thing started on Friday the 9th. That morning Sandy asked me if I would work up a petition head so they could pass it around the school. She and Susan told me what it was all about, and I worked one up.

"Sandy is a real big fan of Dick Biondi and she and some of her friends would go there and see him pretty often. She's the one that heard his announcement on the radio about the $500 going to the charity that got the most votes.

"She and Susan and some others decided that the Steger Foundation would be that charity.

"Anyway, they passed around the petition during the school day Friday to all the students. The whole thing just spread like wildfire. Everybody was cooperative, wanted to help, do what they could. Out of 1600 students in the school, we had 1400 names by the end of the day Friday. It was just a fantastic response.

"They finally made the announcement on WCFL Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock that we had won the contest and that the money would go to the Foundation. They had over 2,000 names before they stopped counting."

The Steger Foundation has won a lot of friends, and some very influential ones, since its inception last year, but the most valuable ones are still those who do the work without asking or even wanting the publicity and thanks.

Those are the best kind of friends to have.

AS THE FOUNDATION GROWS, so does the recognition of the cause it represents.

Early this week House Bill 2187 was passed by an overwhelming 145-5 vote and now goes to committee in the Illinois Senate.

The bill, introduced by Rep. William Redmond with the help of the Foundation and WIND Radio (particularly Charles Cleveland and Jack Williams who prepared an editorial emphasizing the need for this kind of insurance) provides for catastrophe insurance for high school athletes.

A tragedy of the magnitude of a Gary Steger is rare, of course, but when it happens it's unfair to put this kind of a staggering financial burden on the family, on friends, on the community.

The Stegers and everyone who has worked for the Foundation and for Gary know just how vital and valuable this kind of insurance could be.

House Bill 2187 needs only "affiliation by the Senate and the Governor to become law and it seems unlikely it will meet any real obstacles on the way."

THE VILLAGE OF ROSELLE will honor Gary on Sunday, June 8, with a Gary Steger Day featuring the annual Rose Parade floats, marching bands, coronation of the Rose Queen.

Parade marshalls will be Chuck Benson and Kurt Russell, WIND's famous morning tandem.

AND SPEAKING OF GARY, he's still over at the Rehabilitation Institute (401 E. Ohio St., Chicago), during the week anyway. On weekends, he usually goes home.

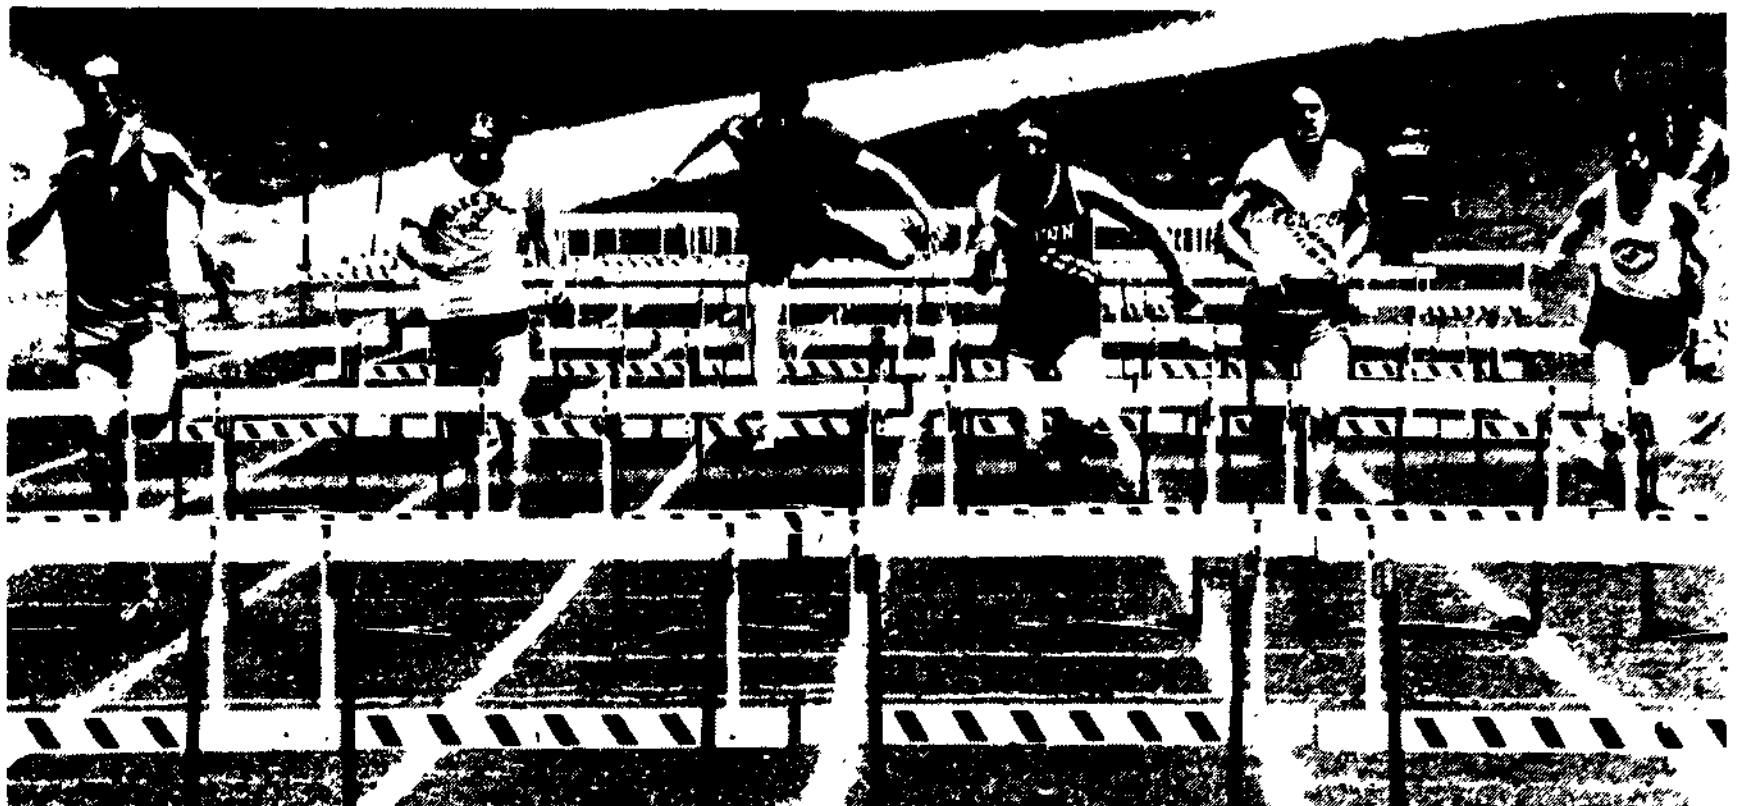

His mother says he's feeling pretty good and getting stronger.

"He went to the prom a couple of weeks ago, and to the Magnum Chateaux. He had a real good time. Believe it or not, he went with the Dean of Students (Gus Pasquini), and had a ball. He says the dean is the funniest man in the school.

"He's getting along. He's glad to see the weather change, so he can get out more and so he can see his brothers play ball.

"And he's getting stronger, learning how to do a lot of things. Not as much as he'd like to, of course, but you can't have everything.

"He's applied for admission to the University of Illinois, so if everything goes as expected that's where he'll be this fall."

WHEATON NORTH'S Chris Major sprints to the Lake Park Saturday. To his left are: Lake Park's Bill Baldwin, Ridgewood's John Glaub, Crown's Ted Davis, Fenton's Tom Ricker, and Mundelein's Paul Darveal. Davis went on to win conference low hurdle honors, Major finished second.

Fenton Honors Athletes

BY PHIL KURTH

Brian Piccolo made sure the night rang with laughter, but in the end it was as it was intended to be — a serious and appreciative recognition of the athletes who represented Fenton High School on the field of competition in '68-'69.

Thus was the 29th annual Athletic Award Dinner sponsored by the Bensenville Lions Club Tuesday night.

After Piccolo's sometimes serious and sometimes rollicking discussion of his own career and the problems and prognosis of the Bears, the award ceremonies began with 40 seniors, 32 juniors, three sophomores, and one freshman being honored.

THE FRESHMAN, Rick Garcia, was only the second freshman in the 14-year history of Fenton, to earn a varsity letter. Rick was one of the conference's finest golfers, earning a fifth place in the district meet.

His teammate, Chuck Dokmo, was the recipient of Fenton's first most valuable golfer award. Golf coach John Pavlovich explained: "I wanted to beat Lake Park so badly that before the Lake Park meet I instituted this special award. I told the kids this was going to be a coach's award. I determined it by averaging their scores since the Lake Park meet, plus individual wins and losses.

"Since that time, Chuck beat five opponents, lost to one, and tied one. He is a very conscientious boy and was consistently my number one golfer, shooting in the 30's and 40's."

OTHER SPECIAL AWARDS went to Bob Lemaire in track, Joe Rodriguez and Ken Hartmann in football, Fred Anderson and Dick Perry in wrestling.

Praising Lemaire, track coach John Kurtz said earnestly: "He is one of Fenton High School's most dedicated athletes. He trains all year round, is a very good student — there's just not enough I can say about him and how much he helped me in my first year here.

"He was thought so much of by his teammates that he was elected captain for the second year in a row."

Speaking of the most valuable lineman and most valuable back awards which went to Rodriguez and Hartmann, football coach Bob Appleby said: "These boys are selected by their teammates for this award and that's one of the highest honors you can be paid.

"RODRIGUEZ MIGHT not have great size or great speed, but he has the heart and desire of a great athlete. He gives 110 per cent all the time he's in there, and people are looking for that kind of kid.

"Hartmann was our workhorse all year, and he certainly deserved the award."

Weiss, who originated a special award of his own for the wrestler with the most pins, had to present the award jointly to Anderson and Perry who each had nine pins.

"Both boys did an outstanding job all year, not only in getting pins, but in winning matches and in helping to win meets. Perry, of course, did a tremendous job and was Fenton's representative in the state tournament. He had an outstanding record, something like 27-6, and I'm looking for him to achieve a lot of success in college wrestling."

THE "F" CLUB awards (most valuable player) went to Joe Rodriguez in football, Bruce Kassel in basketball, Dick Perry in wrestling, Marty Romme in baseball, and Bob Lemaire in track.

The outstanding cheerleader award, which takes into consideration leadership, dependability, teamwork, and loyalty, went to Heidi Schumann. Anne Gilomen, the cheerleading sponsor, was ill and could not be on hand to present the award but told athletic director Frank Novatny that Heidi was a "fantastic organizer and about the best leader she had ever seen in cheerleading."

Pavlovich made the final presentation of the night, the coveted Sportsman Award. "This is probably one of the best awards of the night. It has a special significance in that the person who receives it has been chosen by the entire student body.

"The list started out with 187 students and the teachers culled that to approximately 93 by striking those who were scholastically ineligible. Then the student body voted. The four qualifications to be considered were character, scholarship, service, and most of all sportsmanship.

"IN OTHER WORDS, he had to carry himself on the field properly and off the field properly.

"The winner is John Geils."

Geils, who played football, baseball, and basketball with the fire and spirit of a champion, accepted the award, bringing the official ceremonies to a close.

John Varble, mayor of Bensenville and toastmaster for the evening, added some comments on the pleasure it was for the Lions Club to recognize annually the athletes at Fenton High School. Frank Novatny talked about the upcoming referendum vote and its importance to the school's athletic program, but probably better remembered by the athletes will be the closing words of Piccolo:

"I REMEMBER something someone told me a long time ago. He said all the knowledge I'd need to get along in the world could be found in one short sentence: There ain't no free lunch.

"And if you think about it, there's a heck of a lot in those few words.

"I'm not going to preach and say you've got to work hard and everything. It's obvious you do. The easiest thing to do when you think things are a little tough is to say, I can't do it.

"A kid that can hang in there and try to lick the problem will be a better man for it."

Wes, Lancers Win on Wish

"An interesting thing happened this afternoon," said Lake Park baseball coach Norb Wesolowski. "About seven or eight seniors came into my classroom and asked if they could have a wish.

"I asked what it was. They said this was their last game for me, that they'd played under me for four years, and they wanted to know if I would let all the seniors play and let Les Arndt pitch.

"Well, Arndt hadn't pitched in two years and I knew that if we could get third place we might still catch Mundelein for the all-sports trophy but I decided to give him a chance.

"Les went out there determined to prove I was wrong in not letting him pitch, and he certainly succeeded."

Arndt scattered seven hits in hurling the Lancers to a 7-2 victory in the season's finale at Lake Park.

"You never saw such sheer animalistic talent," says Wesolowski. "He was throwing curve after curve for strikes and firing fast balls, you just wouldn't believe it.

"The team really came out there fired up. They wanted to prove they were behind Les 100 per cent."

The Lancers took the lead in the first inning when Tom Milostan was hit by a pitch, stole second, went to third on a wild pitch and continued home when the catcher's throw went into left field.

Crown tied it in the third Henry Boehm tripled and Dave Milligan singled him in.

Lake Park went ahead again in the bottom of the inning. Vic Tomczak singled and on a hit and run Tim Little rapped one into right-center field. The center fielder juggled the ball, and Tomczak scored all the way from first.

The Vikings tied it again in the fourth. With two outs, Edwards struck out but reached when the catcher couldn't handle the pitch. Singles by Glesman and Lupella sent Edwards home.

This time the deadlock lasted until the fifth when the Lancers went ahead for good.

Arndt started it himself with a one-out single. He stole second and scored on Milostan's solid single to left. Milostan promptly stole second and scored when Little rifled a hit to right.

The Lancers added three more runs for good measure in the sixth.

Petersen singled to center. Kramarczyk drove a tremendous triple over (but to the left of) the field house in left. Faust DeLazzer singled sharply to center. DeLazzer went to second on a wild pitch and scored the game's final run on a line single down the left field line by Milostan.

been considered a prerequisite for selection although state champions automatically earn berths regardless of past performances.

The number of boys honored in an event is dictated by the situation. The team is based on the consistency of performances throughout the season, and handsome certificates and tear sheets are sent to each All-Stater.

Sign-Up Open For Plan

Time is short for signing up for the summer recreation program to be conducted by Bill Peleoudas, Fenton's new basketball coach.

Boys between the ages of 10 and 18 in Wood Dale and Bensenville may join the program which will include a variety of activities — volleyball, softball, basketball, and more. It will start June 23 and continue for six weeks.

The fee is $15.00, and it must be paid at Fenton High School before next Wednesday (June 4).

Age categories will be broken into two time groups — 10-14 between 6 and 7:30 p.m.; and 14-18 between 7:30 and 9:00 p.m.

Lancers Favored in Conference Golf

Defending champion Lake Park is rated the favorite to repeat in today's Tri-County Conference golf meet at Indian Lakes, but as Fenton coach John Pavlovich says hopefully: "Mathematically five teams have a chance."

That includes Elmwood Park, Wheaton North, Mundelein, and Fenton.

Lancer coach Jerry Wiseman, though, sees only two real challengers — Fenton and Elmwood Park. The Tigers knocked off the Lancers last week in the final dual meet of the season to snap Lake Park's unbeaten conference record.

"We'll go into the meet with only that one conference loss. Since everyone else has lost at least twice, they'll have to catch us."

Leading the Lancer link contingent on the quest of another Tri-County title is Jay Bechtold who fired a 154 in the state finals at Champaign, good enough for ninth place and only seven strokes away from the state's best. Bechtold has averaged 38 in dual competition.

Bill Konecny, Randy Waters, Jim Vranek, and Carter Nottke gave the Lancers great depth and occasional great rounds. In the Fenton meet, Nottke fired a two-under-par 34.

Against Crown, the Lancers shattered the Randall Oaks course (Carpentersville) record — Bechtold carding a one-under-par 35, Vranek 39, Waters 41, Nottke 42.

"Bechtold and (Rick) Garcia should battle it out for medalist honors," says Wiseman. "They're really head and shoulders above everybody else. If anybody else wins it, I'll be surprised."

Garcia, Fenton's fantastic freshman, finished fifth in the district meet and fired 36's twice during conference competition. He leads the Bisons with a nine-round average of 40, Chuck Dokmo is second with a 41. Dokmo also fired a 36, against St. Patrick.

Wayne Riesen and Jerry Mychalczuk have averaged 43 for the Bisons, and Bill Hennig slightly more. Riesen and Hennig have boasted rounds of 38, Mychalczuk's best was a 39.

"I think the team that has the hot day could win," says Pavlovich. "And we're capable of doing it. We have had some fantastic rounds of golf this year, including a 150 against Elmwood Park and a 151 against Ridgewood."

Varsity action starts at 10:30 today at Indian Lakes (a neutral course).

In the frosh-soph meet, it figures to be a toss-up between defending champion Lake Park, Mundelein, and Elmwood Park.

Both the Mustangs and the Tigers beat the Lancers by four strokes on their home courses.

Gymnastics and Soccer for C of D

The initiation of varsity soccer and gymnastics is being planned at College of DuPage beginning in September 1969.

Returning DuPage students and interested high school seniors in the district who expect to enroll at the College and wish to participate in this intercollegiate competition are requested to contact the athletic director, Dr. Joseph Palmieri, at 458-2898.

Limited schedules for these two sports are planned in order to get them off the ground and at the same time meet the anticipated student interest in these activities.

David Webster, newly-appointed gymnastics coach this fall, is currently involved in the sport at Milton High School, Milton Mass. where his gymnasts have consistently placed in the state championships. Appointment of a soccer coach is anticipated in the near future.

Suicide Squeeze Gives Fremd Win

Pete Clark's two-run homer in the bottom of the seventh inning tied the score at 4-4 and Larry Anderson drove in the winning run in the 10th inning on a suicide squeeze play as Fremd nudged past Conant 5-4 in a Mid-Suburban League baseball game Friday.

Conant took a 4-2 lead into the bottom of the seventh when Clark belted a 340-foot home run, scoring Bob Loughlin, to tie the count at 4-4.

In the 10th frame, Ed Wlodarczyk walked, stole second and went to third after tagging up on a fly ball. Anderson laid down a bunt and Wlodarczyk scored with the winning run.

Conant took a 1-0 lead in the fourth inning as Bill Donovan doubled and scored on a single by Mike Arkus. Fremd went ahead 2-1 in the bottom of the fourth on a walk to Wlodarczyk, a single by Anderson and a single by Don Dixon.

Conant tied the score in the sixth on an error and Dave Kellermeyer's double. The Cougars made it 4-2 on singles by Kirk Wyatt and John MacDonald and a double by Larry Celeste.

MacDonald pitched the first seven innings for Conant and John Furio hurled the last three and was tagged with the loss.

Tommy Bruns was the winning pitcher as he pitched all 10 innings and fanned seven while giving up eight hits.

Tourney Title to Konicki-Messick

Dennis Konicki, pro at the West Side Racket Club, and Guy Messick, number one ranked player in the Chicago area, from LaGrange, were victors in the annual Chicago Pro-Am Round Robin Doubles Tennis Tournament hosted by the Barrington Bath and Tennis Club last weekend.

With twelve teams playing 44 games, Konicki and Messick won 27 games each, tying Allan Carvell, Lincoln Park Tennis Club pro, and his brother, Cale Carvell, a student at Kendall College in Evanston. But in a playoff match, the Carvells fell, 6-4.

Third place in the tourney went to Barrington pro, Steve Morgan, and Schaumburg's Bob McDole and — in another tie — to Glenview CC pro Pat McKenna and his partner, Seymour Greenberg, former National Public Parks champion from Highland Park. Both teams tying for third won 25 of their 44 matches.

Trophies were presented to the first and second place teams.

On Friday, Memorial Day, the Barrington Bath and Tennis Club will put on an exhibition starting at 1 p.m., featuring some of the top tennis players in the Chicago area, including Joy Liken of Arlington Heights, a former player in the East Coast tennis circuit before becoming a teacher. This exhibition will be played outdoors unless there is bad weather, in which case the match will be played on Barrington's grasstex indoor courts.

FV Golfers Fire 152; 'Cats Fall

Both Forest View and Wheeling burned up the fairways at Mount Prospect Country Club recently, shooting their best four-some scores of the year.

However, the hosting Falcons came in with the lower total taking the Mid-Suburban League dual meet 152-161.

Leading the very fine team total was Steve Hausman who turned in a one-over-par 36. Then came Wayne Meier (37), Mike Morgan (39) and Ben Kopriva (40).

The Wildcats were paced by sophomore Terry Nied who tallied a 38. He was followed by Jay Lesniak (39), Bob Winters (41) and Mike Guy (43).

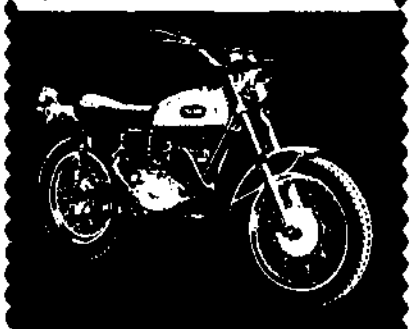

The victory boosted the Falcons' MSL mark to 7-1 and their overall total to 8-1 in dual competition. The 'Cats are 2-6 and 4-6, respectively.

Taking the frosh-soph match also was Forest View by 193-203 total.

Two Homers Pave Way to 6-2 Victory

Knights Use Long Ball to Topple Falcons

It was "Extra Base Hit Day" last Tuesday at the Forest View diamond.

Both the Falcons and the Knights of Prospect had four each but the guests out-homered their hosts, 2-1. And those two blasts — one a solo shot and the other a three-run job — broke the 2-2 tie and easily propelled Coach Larry Pohlman's crew to a big 6-2 Mid-Suburban League victory.

It was the second time in two days that the long ball had defeated Forest View on its home diamond. Conant used a three-run shot to beat Coach Hal Sprehe's charges 3-1.

FOREST VIEW jumped out to a 1-0 lead in the opening frame on three hits including two doubles. Roger Cardinelli led off with a two-bagger but was picked off the bag. Then Gabino Galindo socked a double. Rich Olson walked and Frank May got a clutch run-scoring single.

Then it was Prospect's turn in the second as Jeff Suss rapped a Bernie Bonnem offering for a double and went to third on a passed ball. Jim Carroll brought him home on a sacrifice.

Randy Cordova got tough with the Falcons in the second and the third and struck out four while retiring the side in order. During that time Steve Kellett took over the Falcon mound duties.

In the fourth the Falcons took the lead again on just one hit — a crunching drive over the left field fence by Rich Olson. However, there wasn't anyone on base and that proved to be costly later in the game.

PROSPECT REBOUNDED in the very next frame to deadlock things at 2-2. Cordova singled and moved around on a single by Mike Needleman and an infield out.

Then it was the Knights' turn to take the lead in the sixth and they did it in a big way. This time the bat of Dave Somers' spoke a loud crack as it sent the ball over the left-centerfield fence to make the score read 3-2.

Galindo pounded a one out double — his second of the game — in the bottom of the inning but Cordova left him there as he fanned the next Falcon and got the third out on a grounder.

Prospect then added insult to injury in the top of the seventh. Dave Lundstedt opened with a single and Cordova joined him on the base paths with a walk. Following a pop up to the infield, Mike Wulbecker slammed Kellett's last pitch of the day over the leftfield fence and the score was 6-2.

KEITH BAUER CAME on in relief but they roughed him up just a little before he submitted. Steve Grant ripped a triple and then Suss walked and stole second before Bauer could retire the side.

Cordova then made it two straight wins over the Falcons by putting them down in order in the seventh.

Wheeling Baseball Showed Progress Through Years

Little by little

Up until 1969 this is about the way Wheeling crept along toward a championship finish. In assuming the Mid-Suburban league crown this spring they outdid themselves however — with the first perfect state ever posted in the circuit's seven-year diamond history.

In 1968 the Wildcats finished one game off the title pace set by Elk Grove. Two years earlier they had finished in a four-way tie for second while mauling a 5-5 record.

Up until two years ago however, when Maine West transferred to the Central Suburban conference, the Warriors had snatched MSL crowns every campaign. In 1967 Maine fashioned the 13-1 loop record which Wheeling overcame Tuesday by stopping Palatine 10-5.

The championship marks in the MSL and Wheeling's marks since they went into action in 1965 were:

	W	L
1964, Maine West	8	2
1965, Maine West	12	2
1966, Wheeling (7th)	4	10
1966, Maine West	7	3
1967, Wheeling (tie for 2nd)	5	5
1967, Maine West	13	1
1968, Wheeling (5th)	7	7
1968, Elk Grove	9	5
1969, Wheeling (3rd)	8	6
1969, Wheeling	14	0

Indian Relocation Is Complex Problem

by HARRY SIGALE

The adjustment of Victor Runnels, and other American Indian to new and different situations is a complex problem.

There is a conflict within the individual. Says Tony Machukay, program director of the American Indian Center in Chicago, "In relation to what human values the Indian holds and what the white society holds. This leads to confusion within the Indian, creating problems that affect his attitudes."

There is a high rate of suicide among Indians, he says. "There is absenteeism in church, they have poor employment records, an inability to communicate with the white man, an unconcern for the future, a language barrier, poor economic conditions, and a great lack of education."

BUT THESE ARE ONLY surface problems, says Machukay, "a result of this conflict within the individual in relation to white society. This new way of living also affects the Indian in total, both culturally and spiritually."

The American Indian Center is a social and welfare agency, a gathering place serving as a base of identification for the non-Indian and the Indian who is already in the city.

"We try to give the Indian a feeling of security and pride within himself," explains Machukay, a full-blooded Apache. "We try to develop the individual in the ways of urban life. He has to become more stabilized. The Indian is able to identify with others of his own kind. There is so much that is new and foreign to him in the city."

There are more than 50 tribal groups represented at the center, a unique, non-profit organization operated by Indians. They have come from reservations, Indian settlements on allotted lands, from other towns and cities from the woodlands, and from the plains. They have all brought a specific way of living with them. But when they get to the city it's as if visiting a foreign land — it's fascinating but frightening.

THE CENTER was the first of its kind to be operated by Indians. Similar organizations have sprung up across the country and representatives have even traveled to Chicago to use the center as a model for their own.

The American Indian Center is a citywide agency located close to the approximate geographic center of the city's Indian population — the Uptown area. Its crises too severe to be handled alone and are helped toward a better understanding of the urban conditions in which they live.

"Case work tries to involve people into the activities of the center," says Faith Smith, assistant director. "This gives them a chance to meet other people who have solved their problems. They get a chance to plan activities and this planning reflects back to their home life."

The center also sponsors studies which aid the Indian in his new environment and protects him from exploitation. For example, a list of drug prices in the Uptown area is provided telling which drug stores are overpricing certain items and recommending stores from which to buy.

How do the problems of the American Indian compare with those of lower class groups such as Negroes and Appalachian whites?

"The problems between the Indian and the Negro are parallel only on the surface," says Machukay. "There is really nothing in common. The Negro's situation is racial, the Indian's situation is cultural."

To the Indian," Machukay says, "all groups are white except the Indian, who is a red man. This includes the Orientals and others. The Indian regards the Negro as a 'black white man' because he has lived in the same society as the white man and has developed the same culture."

HAROLD CHILDERS, deputy director of the Bureau of Indian Affairs, explains that the Appalachian white "is in a better physical and mental state than the Indian because he is white." The Indian, he adds, "has been isolated and is ignorant of what is going on in white society. The Indian is in a worse condition than poverty-wise. And, of course, their languages are different."

In what direction will the plight of the American Indian take in the future?

The objective of the government, through the Bureau of Indian Affairs, once was the total assimilation of the American Indian into the whole of white society. Today, that objective has changed.

"The Indian doesn't know where he fits in society," says Childers. "He once owned all the land but now is relegated to the reservation."

"The Indian is tied down economically," says Machukay. "Mining oil and agricultural lobbyists control all the capital in this country. And there are hundreds of bills concerning Indian affairs that have been pending in Congress for a long time."

"The Indian is too diversified," continues Machukay. "He is very flexible and can adapt to both ways of life. The ideal Indian would be bi-cultural — able to take the best human values from white and Indian society. And the Indian is adapting to both ways of life. He is becoming more materialistic," Machukay says. "He is losing some of his spiritual ideals to material things and to technology."

"Over-all, we're not trying to change the Indian's traditions or habits," says Childers. "We're trying to strengthen their own culture and yet help them live in an urban society. It's very rewarding, though to see these people buying homes and doing well."

"The Indian has to become more materialistic today," says Runnels. "He might live like a white man with a house, a job and a car, but he is not losing his traditional values. I'm raising my children with the Indian values and history of the people. I don't want them to get swallowed up."

RHYTHMIC POUNDING of the drum adds inspiration to Friday night pow wows at the American Indian Center in Chicago. The traditional ceremony involves Indians in their most colorful garb, dancing to the drum beat and chants of the singers. This is one of many events at the center aimed at involving the Indian with the traditions and values of his past.

Trails to Suburbia

services include emergency assistance, guidance, counseling services and a program of sustaining social activities that include all ages.

The center has a 15-member board of directors, elected by the Indian membership. No single tribal group may be represented in such numbers as to dominate the group.

The board is made up of people who come to the city and participated in programs offered by the center. As one person says, "The board is not a bunch of rich, educated people but ones who have benefited from our program."

WHEN I CAME TO the city, says Runnels, "I didn't pay much attention to my language or identify too much with it. But then it became an important factor in my life, and I became interested in the American Indian Center. I became an Indian again."

I was interested in the traditions, values, and dances, and was wrapped up in activities at the center."

The purposes of the center are contained in Article One of its bylaws: "To provide fellowship among the American Indian people of all tribes living in the Chicago metropolitan area and to create a sense of understanding and fellowship between Indians and non-Indians to stimulate the natural integration of the American Indian into the community life of Chicago; to foster the educational and economic advancement of the American Indian people; to encourage artistic and cultural pursuits by American Indian people; and to preserve and foster American Indian arts, crafts and cultural values."

The center is a place Indians can go for a good time. There are pow wows — sessions where Indians in the most colorful traditional garb dance to the beat of a drum and the chanting of singers. There are parties for teenagers, private parties, box lunches and birthday parties.

But the center is more than just a place to have a good time. It provides a service emphasizing to the Indian children of the community a sense of personal responsibility and pride in themselves. They attend a daily study program, exploring the life and some of its problems in relation to the Indian. Tutors help the children with their homework. The kids are provided educational aids and participate in recreational activities. The children take part in sessions which include trips to various surrounding areas in the Chicago area.

A FAMILY SERVICES program includes counseling, emergency assistance and the therapy function which is represented in explanations of tribal-urban differences. Individuals and families receive initial and other assistance in meeting combination adds to the driving, emotional movements of the dancers.

ENTHUSIASM RUNS HIGH at pow wows. Watching can be just as exciting as participating. Spectators gather on the fringe of the dancing area and clap and sing to the beat of the drum and the rhythmic chants of the singers.

Copter Mission

Capt. Richard Lowthorp zeroed in on St. Alexius Hospital in Elk Grove Village Monday.

Lowthorp, of the Cook County Sheriff's Police Department, piloted a helicopter to a landing on the hospital's grounds and then he instructed hospital personnel about use of the chopper.

The helicopter will be used to transport patients requiring special care from one hospital to another.

Patients with severe burns can be sped via the chopper to the special burns center at Cook County Hospital in Chicago.

It will provide quick and convenient transportation for patients needing special attention.

ST. ALEXIUS HOSPITAL employees were told by the captain about preparing patients for a flight. Each patient must be strapped onto a cot to be placed in the copter. He also instructed them in other procedures concerning patient transportation.

Lowthorp is the director of the emergency helicopter service provided by the Cook County Sheriff's Police Department.

The helicopter will be parked on the hospital's grounds over the Memorial Day weekend to publicize the new emergency service and to provide quick help for any emergency victims in the area.

EVEN GARAGE DOORS offer convenience at the new Elk Grove Village estates townhouse development in Elk Grove Village. The automatic door opener system by Alliance permits driving in or out of garage without leaving the car. Standard in each unit are oven-range, dishwasher and sliding doors to backyard patio.

Blueprints Beckon

Maintenance-free housing in a suburban setting surrounding a man-made lake are among the major attractions of 366 townhouse units in Elk Grove Village estates, just northwest of the intersection at Biesterfeld and Arlington Heights roads in Elk Grove Village.

Featuring two, three or four-bedrooms, one and one-half to three baths, patios, individual front and back yards, as well as single and double garages, the townhouses will be in the $30,000 to $42,000 price range with full occupancy scheduled, announces Robert C. Winkle, director of sales for Centex Corp. builders. Five models will be open for inspection in June.

Features that are standard with the townhouses include: "Perma-Kleen" oven-range, dishwasher, snack bar, disposer, double sink and cabinets in the kitchen; sliding doors opening from living room to rear-yard patio; and carpeting in the living-dining room, stairway, upstairs hall and bedroom.

"As a convenience and safety bonus," Winkle said, "each garage will be standard-equipped with the new model Genie GS-200 garage door opening system operable by solid state radio controls or push buttons."

The unit, made by Alliance Manufacturing Co., features a built-in light that comes on inside the garage when the door starts open, stays on while the door remains open and then goes out when the door is down and closed.

Winkle, whose building firm has constructed over 4,000 homes for 20,000 residents in the northwest suburb, said that the units are part of a 285-acre planned development in three separate sections that will be interwoven with about 700 apartments, 202 single-family homes and 128 custom home sites around a 35-acre, spring-fed lake when the complex is completed in 1973.

A monthly charge for exterior upkeep, snow removal and grass cutting makes the townhouse units virtually maintenance free.

Built in clusters with from six to eight units in each building, the townhouses seem to hold a particular appeal for young married couples as well as older persons with grown children who crave suburban living within minutes of downtown Chicago, according to Winkle.

"Earlier this year, with nothing but blueprints to show, we sold more than 25 of the units," Winkle declares.

Ranking spaciousness as major sales attraction, Winkle said that the Lorraine, one of the three-bedroom units, has about 1,700 square feet of living area, priced at $37,000. Each Lorraine unit has a 24 by 13 foot living room combination to the left of a 5 by 12-foot tiled entry foyer. A powder room is off the foyer. Dominating living room decor is a fireplace, standard in every unit. An unattached two-car garage is connected to the entry by a canopy.

The kitchen-breakfast room combination measures 18 by 13 feet, the master bedroom suite 15 by 12 feet and the other bedrooms, 10 by 13 and 11 by 13 feet. The master bedroom has a private shower bath and dressingroom, while the other bedrooms share a full ceramic-tiled bath. Each townhouse unit has a 30 by 25-foot basement.

Within walking distance of the St. Alexius Hospital as well as a shopping center, the living complex boasts proximity to schools, churches, cultural and social recreational centers. "And we're only 29 minutes from the Loop," Winkle adds.

The Centex sales director said that choice sites are still available for full occupancy at a minimum of 20 per cent down. "Our sales office, just off Arlington Heights Rd., south of Higgins Rd. (Rte. 72), is open six days a week from 10 to 8 and Saturdays from 10 to 6," he added.

More Federal Timber For Housing?

Honor Salesman

BBB Aids Consumer

America's current housing shortage, which has been culled the worst since the end of World War II, could be greatly alleviated with more timber from the U. S. national forests, a parade of witnesses has told a Congressional subcommittee in Washington.

Mayor Walter Washington of Washington, D.C., expressed the general sentiment of most witnesses when he said, "If we are to meet the housing needs of our expanding population, the supply of wood must be sufficient to meet the construction requirements. I urge you to do all that you can to assure that wood will be available to play its role in the building and rebuilding which is so vital to us all not only in the nation's capital but in all great American cities."

Washington was one of some 40 witnesses — including members of congress — who testified May 21 through 23 before a House agriculture subcommittee on the proposed National Timber Supply Act of 1969.

The hearing was conducted by the House agriculture subcommittee because the legislation concerns the U.S. Forest Service, a division of the Department of Agriculture. It has the bipartisan support of more than 57 members of the House and 14 members of the Senate and would establish a special fund, financed from national forest timber sale receipts, to provide reliable and adequate financial support for the Forest Service.

The need for housing constituted the major appeal for the legislation. It was noted that Congress has established a national goal of 26 million new homes by 1978 — an average of about 2.6 million a year — far above the recent annual new housing starts of 1.3 million to 1.5 million.

The attention was focused on the national forests when it was learned that while they contain 54 per cent of the entire nation's inventory of softwood sawtimber, the commercial growing areas of the forests produce only 28 per cent of the logs necessary for processing into lumber and plywood.

Privately owned lands, it was stated, contain only 17 per cent of the softwood sawtimber inventory, but exceed the harvest rate of the national forests by providing 38 per cent of the logs for lumber and plywood.

Chairman John L. McMillan of the subcommittee concluded: "Foresters, both public and private, attributed this discrepancy in productivity and regeneration to the simple fact that the Forest Service, denied access to its timber sale receipts for modern forest management, simply cannot practice the kind of intensive management which economics dictate must be practiced on industrial lands."

Edward P. Cliff, chief of the U.S. Forest Service, gave his approval to plans for improved management and reforestation of public lands while recommending certain safeguards on the use of timber sales receipts.

Cliff reported that 11.4 billion board feet of timber are harvested annually from commercial areas of the national forests and added that with "proper reforestation and improved management," this yield could be increased by another 5.6 billion board feet.

Members of the Sierra Club and other conservation groups who testified at the hearings were assured by subcommittee member Rep. Thomas Foley (D-Wash.) that "this legislation will allow the Forest Service to maintain good cutting practices and to continue the many other activities now conducted in the forests."

Studies Use Of Computer

Robert W. Starck, President of M.A.P. Multiple Listing Service, has announced the appointment of a committee to study the feasibility and practicality of a computer to assist the organization in marketing real estate listed by member Realtors.

Members of the committee are Edward Busse, Annen & Busse, Inc.; Norman Folkmanger, Homes N. x N.W.; Robert Walters, Baird & Warner, Inc.; George R. Nelson, Robert L. Nelson, Realtors. The committee plans a trip to Cleveland, Ohio, to inspect a large real estate computer installation in that city.

Starck stated that Realtor members of MAP have taken a "go slow" approach to the use of a computer system that is finally selected by M.A.P. will be the one that will give M.A.P. members and their customers the very best performance and benefits," he said.

M.A.P. Multiple Listing Service presently has 65 member offices in Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights, Palatine, Prospect Heights, Wheeling, Buffalo Grove, Elk Grove, Schaumburg and Hoffman Estates. It has been operating since 1964 and is currently selling over 300 homes per month with a market valuation of over $10,000,000.00.

Dan Cunningham

Dan Cunningham has been honored with the "Salesman of the Month" award for April by his firm, Arlington Realty, Inc. Cunningham participated in residential real estate sales totaling $292,000 for the month, including one residential sale amount to $105,000.

Dan and Mrs. Cunningham will be honored as special dinner guests of Arlington Realty at a champagne dinner at the Arlington Carousal.

Mr. Cunningham is affiliated with Arlington Realty's Palatine office. The firm also has 3 additional offices in Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect.

Lillian Marshall and Glenn Packard were previous winners of the award for February and March.

Village Offices

In line with action taken by the village board last week, all Hoffman Estates village offices, with the exception of the police department, will be closed Saturday.

"This is being done to permit employees a four-day Memorial Day weekend holiday," Mrs. Virginia Netter explained in a news release Friday.

Members of the police departments presently receive six paid holidays during the year. They are taken on a rotation basis.

Failure to read a contract, to understand its provisions, and neglecting to shop before actually signing a contract, are major contributors to customer problems in the home improvement industry — according to a recent nationwide survey of Better Business Bureaus.

Of the 79 Bureau cities included in the survey, 85 per cent indicated that people do not usually read and understand a contract and its obligations before signing it. Seventy-one per cent reported that people either do not shop around at all or do very little shopping for estimates on home improvement work before signing a contract. In some instances, the survey showed some people will sign a contract and then shop around for estimates.

Responses from Bureau executives participating in the survey indicate that the use of bait advertising, particularly in the sale of aluminum siding and swimming pools, as an area of concern, particularly as it relates to a few, but very active firms. Bait advertising is an attractively low-priced but insincere offer to sell. When the customer responds to the advertising, he finds that the merchandise is unavailable or undesirable and the salesman proceeds to switch the customer to much higher priced merchandise.

As to actual complaints handled by BBBs after contracts had been signed and the home improvement work done, poor workmanship represented the most significant area of customer complaint. Another major source of customer dissatisfaction, the survey indicated, was unfinished work. Seventy-five per cent of reporting Bureaus indicated that itinerant workers (particularly those operating from a truck offering to repave, resurface driveways, etc.) were a source of serious consumer complaint and very often could not be reached later to satisfy the customer's legitimate gripe.

Better Business Bureau executives made these six points which consumers should follow in their home improvement purchasing: 1) understand a contract and its obligations before signing it; 2) shop around — not only for price — but also for the quality of the work involved; 3) know the reputation of the contractor before signing any contract — check with neighbors, the BBB, or ask the contractor for the names of persons for whom he has done home improvement work.

4) All work to be done should be written into the contract with specifications; 5) understand the financial arrangements which you are making and distinguish between interest charges and financing charges; 6) if the work is guaranteed, make sure that the guarantee is in writing. If a salesman promises you "extras," have these provisions included in writing in the contract.

Bank Accepts Golden Eagle

The Chicago Financial Advertisers held their first annual Golden Eagle award dinner recently in the Gold Coast Room of the Drake Hotel. Palatine National Bank was honored with the Golden Eagle Award for newspaper advertising, one of only eight chosen from 169 entries by financial institutions and their advertising agencies.

Receiving the award were Scott D. Skoglund, director of market development for the bank, and Buzz Gross, executive vice president and creative director, T. A. Shaw & Co., advertising agency for Palatine National.

The bank won the award for a four-color newspaper ad titled, "The Drive-In Banking Game and How to Beat it."

Unexpected Design Features

In touring the model homes at Benwick located on Plum Grove Road about two miles south of Route 72 in Schaumburg, visitors are discovering in each model one or two rooms offering special home-making advantages.

The Lancer Corp. developers of Benwick and the neighboring community of Carlisle point out two or more of these plus value rooms in each of the basic models which include both ranch and split level homes ranging upwards in price from $17,000.

In the Barrett, a ranch with three bedrooms and one and a half baths are found a number of features not usually seen in a home of this size. First of these is the beamed ceiling in the living room. This lends informality to the room and also accentuates its length over 20 feet. A second plus value room is the master bedroom which boasts its own private full bath with ceramic tiling and soft lighting.

Next door to the Barrett in the Benwick model home group, is the "Masfield" priced at $40,700. This is the top price model of the Benwick group with four bedrooms and three baths.

An unusual feature of lower level layout in this model is the large family-rec room measuring over 27 feet long and 12 feet wide and the third bathroom at one corner. This is a full bath, with shower, mirrored vanity basin and color-tinted fixtures and ceramic tiling.

A second unexpected design feature found in the Masfield is the large utility room. This is just off the lower level family room. It is more than 27 feet in length and measures over 13 feet at its widest point. Two double windows provide plenty of natural light for laundering and other activities.

In the Dorset, with three bedrooms, many viewers find the squarish shape of the recreation room a welcome change

The fireplace is optional here. The powder room opens off one corner, another feature is the outside rear entrance at a corner of the laundry room.

Furnished models in Benwick are open for inspection daily until dusk.

Company High

A 43 per cent increase in dollar volume was reported by Koenig & Strey, Inc. Realtors, with offices in Glenview, Northbrook, Deerfield and Wilmette, setting a new company high for the period ending March 31.

A total of 165 property transactions were completed with a total gross volume close to 7 1/2 million dollars, according to the principals, Edward N. Koenig and Thomas Strey. Ten new people were added to the sales staff during this period, including two investment property specialists who joined Koenig & Strey's investment property division.

Coultas Joins Board

Computer Help Meet Client Needs

John O. McCabe, president of the Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors, announced that a computerized multiple listing service is now being offered to the home-buying and selling public.

A total of 84 real estate offices in the northwest suburbs are equipped with the necessary instruments and prepared to communicate with the computer. Almost 50 brokers, salespeople and real estate office secretaries attended training sessions last week.

"In inaugurating this 'space age' service for the benefit of the clients of our members, we are joining in an activity that will become nationwide in the months ahead," McCabe advised.

This service has been made available by Realtron Corp., a subsidiary of Reeves Teletron Corp. and Realtors Computer Service, Inc., a subsidiary of the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

Realtron, the new, nation-wide computer real estate listing service, uses a computer to store information on available residential and commercial properties. This information lets the Realtor electronically select those properties which, within a specified area, meet his client's requirements of price, style and features. In addition to providing almost-instantaneous computer-generated listings of properties currently available for sale, the Realtron service also provides a list of comparable properties recently sold so that the Realtor can assure either buyer or seller that fair value is being obtained.

The Realtor communicates with the computer through a Touch-Tone telephone or, using Realtron's special portable terminal, from the home of the client or even a pay phone. All calls go over the telephone company's long distance lines just like any other call.

The computer takes the Realtor's instructions, searches its records, and when it has found the properties that best meet the client's needs, it answers, in a manufactured voice, giving the Realtor the information he has requested. The computer response is almost instantaneous — usually less than three seconds.

This service is valuable to the growing number of employees of large corporations transferred to unfamiliar parts of the country who suddenly find themselves transferred to unfamiliar parts of the country. Not only will they be able to find a new home quickly in their new location, but the Realtor in their previous area will have their old home on the market in seconds, according to McCabe.

Hermitage Trace Now Open

Model apartments are now open at Hermitage Trace, a new 416-unit apartment community in Hoffman Estates. The complex, valued at $8½ million, is the newest of twelve Chicago-area locations for Kassaba Development Corp.

Located at 237 Heritage Drive in Hoffman Estates, Hermitage Trace is situated in a residential community.

By the end of the year, Kassaba Development Corp. plans to have 10,000 apartment units around Chicago alone. It already has holdings involving 42 projects in operation in 51 cities across the nation.

Hermitage Trace (Kassaba calls all his developments 'traces' as a symbol of hospitality and friendship) is surrounded by schools, comprehensive shopping, civic facilities and houses of worship. It is close to the Golden Acres Country Club for golf and the Hoffman Estates Park District with its organized activities for adults and children. There are four parks in the vicinity, the largest being the 36-acre High Point Park with its fishing lake.

Two swimming pools are planned for Hermitage Trace — one larger-than-Olympic-size pool, plus a children's wading pool. A separate recreation building is under construction containing bathhouse, showers and party room with kitchen facilities. Gaslit strollways and private parking are planned.

There are 14 apartment buildings, all designed with modified mansard roofs. Special attention was given to provide sound conditioning. There are master color TV antennae, storage lockers in basements, fully-carpeted hallways and laundry rooms in each building.

There will be a choice of six different floor plans for the apartments, ranging from 675 to 1107 square feet. Rentals will run from $165 for the one-bedroom/one-bath units up to $240 for the three-bedroom/two-bath units.

Each apartment has a private balcony or terrace. All are unfurnished but have wall-to-wall carpeting and drapery rods for all windows. There is hot-water baseboard heating, individually thermo-statically controlled. The bathrooms are color-coordinated with built-in vanities and mirrored cabinets. The kitchens are spacious, equipped with avocado-colored appliances and 30 inch gas range; sink disposal and large 12-cubic foot refrigerator. Models may be seen daily from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m., including Sundays.

Walter Judd Kassaba, the president of Kassaba Development Corp. said, "One of our prime national targets is Chicagoland. We are literally surrounding the city with our apartment rental projects and providing the modern, mobile American family with all the luxuries and convenience of suburban living."

FINAL PLANS of interior decorations for model homes in Sheffield Park are being reviewed by Miss Bernice J.

Banks, A.I.D., Levitt's chief decorator. "We cater to a large audience," she explains, "and we must be aware of trends."

Appealing to Midwest Taste

"Our field construction people can't understand why it takes 12 weeks for the furniture to arrive at our model homes," says Miss Bernice J. Banks, A.I.D., "when it only takes them eight weeks to build the houses."

As chief decorator for Levitt and Sons, the nation's largest home builder, Miss Banks is responsible for furnishing more than 50 model homes this year. Communities under construction at 28 locations in the U. S. spread from Virginia to Illinois cover a wide range of tastes.

"We cater to a large audience," explains Bernice, "and we must be aware of trends." Miss Banks, a graduate of the Parsons School of Design, came to the Levitt organization after a 10-year career in New York City designing for B. Altman, and Wien, Lane and Klein.

A staff of two decorators assist Miss Banks in the awesome task of selecting furniture, color schemes and setting up model areas. "We set standards for tiles, appliances and flooring schemes for all our houses once a year," says Bernice, "And then file the information in a computer for later use."

In the colorfully cluttered offices where Levitt's decorators work on drafting boards, floor plans are reviewed for space planning and furniture arrangements. Swatches used for draperies and furniture coverings hang on walls and nearby shelves hold reference books of wallpaper and fabric samples from houses done in previous years.

"Yellow is still best for kitchens and baths," according to Levitt's design team, "And blues predominate in the Virginia area. But avocado and gold are still big everywhere."

Sheffield Park, a 1,200 community of homes at Schaumburg, contains models decorated to appeal "to Midwest taste which tends to be conservative," says Bernice. However, because Spanish and Mediterranean style furniture is in demand, "we have selected warm colors in bright oranges, reds and yellows to complement exposed beam ceilings in some of the houses."

In the South, where the team has just completed decorating 15 model homes at three Levitt communities in Maryland and Virginia, the dining room is important. Extra attention to size and a more formal approach to decorating are key factors in the design plan.

When Sheffield Park houses were being designed, the decorating staff was asked to review plans so that any room sizes or door locations which would interfere with ideal furniture arrangements could be eliminated. "We sometimes have to move a closet or a door because we want a larger wall space for bed or dresser arrangements," says Bernice.

ments," says Bernice.

Just as soon as house plans are approved, copies are forwarded to the decorating department so that color schemes and furniture can be selected and ordered at the same time construction materials for the house are ordered. Because model houses are given special attention and have a concentrated labor supply available, they are completed in a much shorter time than regular production houses. This accounts for the rush to order furniture before the house is even built.

In addition to decorating Levitt communities throughout the U. S., Miss Banks travels abroad to review Levitt community openings in Puerto Rico and France.

"The toughest part of the job is final installation," admits Miss Banks. "We're usually on short deadlines and the pressure is really on as opening day approaches."

Transfers Account For Sales

Being transferred to another job in a different city accounts for more home sales and purchases in the Chicago area than any other reason, according to Baird & Warner, Inc., real estate firm.

John L. Hall, senior vice president and general manager of the firm's sales division, based this conclusion on an analysis of the 2,630 transactions involving city and suburban residential properties participated in by Baird & Warner during 1968.

"Among buyers, 26 per cent were in the market because their companies had transferred them into the Chicago area, while 25 per cent of sellers were in the market because they were being transferred out," Hall said.

In other respects, buyers and sellers differ in the reasons for being in the market, according to Hall. For example, upgrading to a more expensive or larger home accounted for 22 per cent of buyers, but only 12 per cent of sellers.

Buying for investment accounted for 9 per cent of buyers, while liquidating an investment accounted for 5 per cent of sellers; moving from an apartment to a house accounted for 10 per cent of buyers, while moving from a house to an apartment accounted for 7 per cent of sellers; buying a first home accounted for 11 per cent of buyers, while liquidating an estate accounted for 2 per cent of sellers; miscellaneous reasons made up the balance.

Referring to the predominance of the corporate transfers as the number one reason for home sales, Hall noted that many transferred families are aided through Baird & Warner's RESET program (Real Estate Service for Employee Transfers).

The program is implemented through Baird & Warner's 28 offices serving Chicago and more than 50 suburbs and involves the cooperation of over 200 brokers in cities throughout the United States.

During 1968, RESET accounted for almost one-third of the firm's home sales.

Memorial Day Activities Time of Tribute...

North DuPage County communities will observe Memorial Day tomorrow with special services and parades in tribute to those who gave their lives for their country in times of crises.

Parades and services will be held in Itasca beginning at 10 a.m., Addison at 11 a.m., and Bensenville at noon.

There will be no parade in Roselle or Wood Dale.

ROSELLE AMERICAN Legion Post 1084 will conduct services at 11 a.m. at the Bloomingdale Cemetery on Lake Street, east of Bloomingdale Road.

Rev. Eugene Treglia of Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church will give the invocation and benediction.

Bensenville's parade, beginning at noon from Memorial Road and Addison Street, is scheduled to be the largest in the area with 40 units participating. Bensenville Tioga VFW Post 2149 is sponsoring the parade.

The parade will proceed north on Addison to Main Street and then east to York Road and north to the VFW post 25 N York Road, and the reviewing stand.

The cadette and concert bands from Fenton High School are scheduled to participate.

Rev. Tyrus Miles of Zion Lutheran Church will give the invocation and benediction. Col. Kenneth Plummer of the Fifth Army Headquarters will speak.

THE ITASCA parade, sponsored by the village, will start at Line and Walnut streets. Marchers will meet at 9:30 a.m., stepping off a half hour later.

The parade will proceed south on Walnut Street to Bloomingdale Road, north on Maple Street to Irving Park Road, north on Walnut to Division Street, east to Linden Street, west on Center Street to Walnut, and south to Orchard Street and its conclusion at the parkway.

The Lake Park High School band, Lances, Itasca elementary school band, Itasca Lions Club, and the Itasca Junior Woman's Club will participate. Village officials will ride in a 1929 pumper unit from the local fire department.

REV. ROBERT Lesh of St. Matthew Lutheran Church will speak and Father Jerome Kelly of St. Peter's Catholic Church will give the invocation and benediction.

A parade sponsored by Addison VFW Post 7446 will begin at 11 a.m. from Addison Trail High School, Lombard and Army Trail roads, and conclude at the municipal building where services will be held.

Carnival Tonight

The Bensenville Park District carnival opens tonight from 7 to 10 o'clock in Central Park, Church Road and Main Street, Bensenville.

Memorial Day hours are also 7 to 10 p.m. An extra hour will be added Saturday when it remains open to 11 p.m. The Sunday matinee will be from 1 to 5 p.m. and from 6 to 10 p.m.

Proceeds will go toward purchase of July 4 fireworks.

Carnival rides include three for intermediate teens and three for youngsters, along with game booths and other attractions. Refreshments will be available.

THE TRABANT, a tilt-a-whirl and the Flying Tiger are designed for the older fun-seekers. The younger set has a ferris wheel, merry-go-round and kiddie-cage.

The park district is looking for lifeguards so the swimming pool can be opened this weekend, according to William Floring, park director. It will be open only on weekends until early June when school is out, he said.

The district's miniature golf course is scheduled for opening tonight, he said, and will be open on weekends only probably until June 7.

"Whether permitting and provided lifeguards are found, the pool will be open Friday night," he said.

The park district also is sponsoring another carnival over the Fourth of July holidays along with the annual fireworks display.

Radio Duo In Parade

Chuck Benson and Kurt Russell of WIND radio will lead the Roselle Rose parade June 8 which honors Gary Steger.

The naming of a Rose queen will follow the parade. Among other prizes, a $100 cash award will be given to the queen.

Runners-up will receive $25 savings bonds. Charm bracelets are awarded to all contestants.

An American Legion carnival will run from June 5 through 8 after a three-year absence of the event.

Benson and Russell say they are Chicago's first two-man music team. They combine music with comic regulars, renowned guest voices and sounds of night life in Chicago.

WIND radio has contributed towards the Gary Steger Foundation for injured athletes in time, effort and funds. The parade starts at 1:30 p.m. from Trinity Lutheran Church, Roselle.

Summer Study Necessity Now

It used to be that only the "dummies" went to summer school because they had failed a course and needed to make it up.

At Fenton High School this summer, many students will be attending school to take the extra courses they won't otherwise be able to have because of curtailment next fall.

The curtailment limits the number of solid subjects a student can take to four. Seniors will only be allowed to take a fifth solid subject in the fall if they have attended summer school.

School will be held from June 16 through July 31. A student can earn one semester's credit in either one or two subjects, or two semester's credit in one subject.

THE SCHOOL DAY will begin at 7:45 a.m. The first period will run from 8:05 to 10:05 a.m. and the second will be from 10:15 a.m. to 12:15 p.m.

The maximum amount of time a student can spend in summer school at Fenton is four hours a day, five days a week, for six weeks.

One interesting aspect of the high school summer program is that a student can repeat a course he has already taken and passed to raise his grade.

Summer school director William Jonkheer said sometimes a student feels that although he passed a course, he needs more time with the subject.

At the same time he is learning and reviewing, he can improve his original grade in the course.

Jonkheer said that one problem which administrators have run into in the past is late summer registrants. If a student is in danger of failing a course, Jonkheer said, he should enroll now. If the student passes the course after all, he can withdraw his name from the roster, and receive his fees back in full.

THE OPTEN, Jonkheer said, a student does not receive his grades for the regular school year until after summer school has started.

Since attendance policies in the summer program are necessarily strict, a student cannot come into the class after the first day.

The summer school program at Fenton will be self-supporting with the cost set at $22 per subject per semester. Participants do not have to be students at Fenton during the regular school year to qualify for the summer program.

Fenton hopes to offer 19 courses this summer. A class must have an enrollment of 20 before it can be offered.

Courses offered at this time range from driver's education and noncredit summer tennis to the more specialized geology and architectural drawing courses.

Multiple-Family Code OK'd

After running the gamut of opposition, an amendment to the DuPage County multiple-family building code was passed Tuesday by the DuPage County Board of Supervisors.

The code amendment was called a compromise between what builders wanted and the county's wishes. It is an upgraded standard for construction of multi-family dwellings in unincorporated areas of the county and in municipalities where the local code is less restrictive.

Sidewalk Lawsuit Threatened

The president of the Roselle Homeowners Association has threatened to take legal action against the Roselle Village Board over a sidewalk program.

Mel Marvin of 218 Thorndale Road said, "Legal action would be the next step if the board persists in not listening to the people." He said the board was attempting to abuse the use of its police power in forcing homeowners to pay for sidewalks they do not want.

cal code is less restrictive.

It is slated to go into effect next month, according to Elbert Drogemueeller, assistant supervisor from Addison Township and chairman of the building committee.

"It drops the original requirement of having an architect on all buildings to just having one on small apartment buildings or larger structures," he said.

"THE SECOND compromise made at the urging of Chicagoland builders in the

Other code requirements concerning sound transmission within a building were completely removed until the county can consult a sound engineer, he said. There

Tunnel To O'Hare?

Will there be an underground entrance to O'Hare Airport from the west?

Two officials who should know what the highways of the future will have different opinions.

Construction of a west underground entrance to O'Hare Airport is not likely, according to Henry Yamanaka of the Illinois Division of Highways.

Yamanaka said Wednesday cost of such a project would be very expensive and difficult to construct because of various utilities that are underground.

John Varble, Bensenville village president, last week said there are plans to go underneath York Road for a west entrance which he said was "pretty well assured." Varble is a member of the Illinois State Toll Highway advisory committee.

YAMANAKA WENT on to say construction of an underground entrance would disrupt traffic on the airport's main north-west-southeast runway.

Traffic at O'Hare is at the saturation point now, he said, adding that the relocated Illinois Rt. 19 (Elgin-O'Hare Expressway) will provide access around the south end of the field, but not under it.

Yamanaka said he based his opinion on the findings of a study, not yet complete, by Alfred Benesch & Co., Chicago consulting engineers.

"We need another air field," Yamanaka asserted.

Homeowners, on the other hand, like the country atmosphere, which they say sidewalks will destroy. Also, they say they have to rip out shrubs and lawns for the sidewalks. Sidewalks cost money which they can spend in other ways, they add.

Paddock Offices Closed for Holiday

Paddock Publications offices will be closed Friday and Saturday in observance of Memorial Day.

Classified advertising deadlines for the Sunday Suburbanite will be 11 a.m. today; for Monday's Register it will be 4:30 p.m. today. The Register is being published today instead of Friday.

4 To Be Honored

Four former Fenton High School students who were killed in the Viet Nam war will be honored today at 10 a.m. during a special assembly prior to Memorial Day.

The dead are Lance Cpl. Conrad Lange of Wood Dale, Sgt. Phillip Essig, Pfc. John Heaps, and Sgt. Alan Marshall, all of Bensenville.

Cpl. Lange died June 9, 1967; Sgt. Essig, Aug. 15, 1968; Pfc. Heaps, Sept. 14, 1968, and Sgt. Marshall, March 21, 1969.

Their parents are scheduled to attend for a presentation of a plaque with their names to the school.

Village Beat

Worth Meets Cost

by SYD JAMIESON

The Wood Dale Council has for some time been discussing the possibility of having a comprehensive plan made by a professional planning consultant.

Any action on this will have been the result of a suggestion by its own planning commission which has urged council members not to delay on this important program.

Last year the council listened intently to a representative from William S. Lawrence Associates, Chicago.

WHAT THE COUNCIL learned was that the price of developing a master plan for Wood Dale comes high, but the resulting benefits are worth it.

More and more, council members are recognizing that its adopted subdivision regulations and zoning ordinance and map are not considered a master plan for Wood Dale.

What they are finding out is that the village needs a thoroughly developed and adopted land use map, a traffic or thoroughfare study and studies and recommendations geared to Wood Dale's economic base, capital improvements and population projections.

Village officials may also find that their community with its new subdivisions and high rises and its older stable residential areas, will require what planners refer to as systematic code enforcement.

UNDER SYSTEMATIC code enforcement, the sound sectors of the community are programmed to maintain property values through compliance with an adequate housing code, including electrical, plumbing, building and fire protection.

To maintain this activity the village itself must program various improvements to arrest any decline in these neighborhoods, such as streets, curbs, gutters, sewer and water.

But in programming these improvements, a five or 10-year program should be developed with the help of a qualified planning consultant.

Wood Dale has made a start in its public facilities through the completion of its expanded sewage treatment plant, additional wells and water reservoirs and a major water extension project throughout the village.

ROADS HAVE also been made in recent pre-annexation agreements such as the Brookwood development where additional sewer and water facilities have been programmed.

Georgetown has provided the village with a thriving shopping center which has sparked increased sales tax revenue to the village.

There is talk of industrial development north of School Street and a reorganized industrial committee is mapping promotion campaigns to spark further interest in seeking developers.

Tied into this promotion is Wood Dale's continuing fight for annexations to the north to ward off further encroachment by Elk Grove Village.

VILLAGE OFFICIALS can readily see what is happening in Bensenville and Itasca with their industrial parks. Tax relief for its local school districts is becoming more and more critical to stem the rising costs of education.

To put it bluntly, Wood Dale needs professional planning and a master plan to see its way through the 1970's.

Approve Multi-Family Building Code

are only two sound engineers in the county, he added.

Droegemuller said he told a group of builders with whom he has met several times in the last few months that the code would be amended further at later dates. If parts of the new code prove unsatisfactory, he said, revision will be made.

The code will prevail over municipalities unless the municipality has a more strict code of its own. Where the county code prevails, county building inspectors will be in charge of watching for most violations, but will work with local inspectors, too.

THE COUNTY BOARD adopted an interim code last October, which was in effect until March of this year. It was more strict, according to Droegemuller, than the new code in several respects.

The DuPage County Mayor-Managers Conference passed a unanimous resolution in March opposing the code as proposed then because it reportedly eliminates low-cost housing.

According to the resolution, the elimination of such housing would limit the possibility of getting federal aid for open space and public works purchases.

Droegemuller said the code is meant to upgrade the standards of housing in the county for the protection of people who will live in the apartments.

It isn't meant to discriminate against low-income families, who can still find a decent place to live in DuPage, he said.

House Ransacked

Kay Standard, of 111 N. Mason St., Bensenville, told police that her house was ransacked Tuesday.

She reported that some change, less than $1, was taken from the house. Entry was made by kicking open the back door, police report.

Federal Funding

A steering committee which may file an application for federal funds for the O'Hare storm water retention and recreation project in northeast Bensenville will meet today at 7:30 p.m. in the village hall.

The project includes 244 acres north of Irving Park Road and east of York Road. Sixty-eight acres in Bensenville are presently occupied by more than 90 homes.

The meeting is open, but is not a public forum, according to the Northeast Illinois Natural Resource Service Center.

Purpose of the meeting is to review the proposed project and determine whether federal funds will be applied for.

Board Is Considering Dwelling Code

A dwelling code, different from a building code, is under consideration by the DuPage County Board of Supervisors and its health committee.

The Human Relations Advisory Committee to the county board has recommended the adoption of such a code to prescribe minimum requirements that all inhabited dwellings have basic equipment and facilities.

A dwelling code is aimed at governing the standards of existing structures, while a building code seeks to restrict and guide standards of original construction.

A dwelling code would prohibit the accumulation of junk, rubbish and garbage, and would require all parts of the home or apartment kept in good repair, according to Thomas Murphy, Wheaton planner who reported to the advisory committee recently.

HE SAID IT ISN'T sufficient to have a sink. The sink must also have a drain and the showers and heating must function adequately. Little things like having a window that opens for ventilation must be required by law, he said.

The code being considered by the county board was adopted from the Wheaton dwelling code, which is reportedly the only one of its kind in the county.

Court action is the ultimate means of enforcement, although a large percentage of the cases are corrected voluntarily in Wheaton, Murphy said.

He added that a code helps keep the cost of housing down because it helps prevent deterioration of older homes which would need to be replaced by more expensive, newly constructed dwellings.

Will Miss Pupils

by JUDY MORRIS

Almost everyone has at least one teacher in his past he will never forget because of the profound effect that teacher had on him.

Mrs. Eva Nimietz, who has taught in Bensenville Dist. 2 for 24 years, is one of these unforgettable teachers.

Mrs. Nimietz has lived in Franklin Park all her life. She began teaching in a rural district just outside Bensenville and then moved to the old Lincoln School that was on York Road.

After that, she taught in Tioga School for 14 years and came to Johnson School in 1959.

Mrs. Nimietz is retiring in June. THE DIST. 1 board of education accepted "with regret" Mrs. Nimietz's request for retirement.

Board member James DiOrio said, "She is an extremely professional person in her approach to education. She always put out that little something extra for the youngsters. It's teachers like her that you just don't get every day."

The mother of four children and a grandmother of 10, Mrs. Nimietz said she remembers many of the students who spent a year in her classroom. Some of them still write occasionally to let her know what they are doing now, she added.

What is one of the biggest changes that schools have experienced in recent years? "Discipline by the teachers," Mrs. Nimietz said. "There are some children, good children, that occasionally need a physical discipline."

She told the story of one student who was unusual because he never did anything wrong. One day the boy came up to her after school and asked, "Was I bad today? I tried so hard to be bad!"

"AFTER THAT I watched him," Mrs. Nimietz said. "He needed to understand what it felt like to be bad. One day he did something very minor, so I sent him to sit on the bench outside. Then he knew what it meant to have everyone pass by and know that he had been bad."

One of the most predominant questions in education today is how a teacher should handle the exceptionally gifted or the extremely slow child.

"You must gauge your work," Mrs. Nimietz said. "Give the brighter child additional work and occasionally don't grade the work of the slower child."

Mrs. Nimietz added, "A teacher should use any method that works with the slower child. Let him draw a picture to illustrate his story if the story isn't clear in itself."

It appears that retirement for Mrs. Nimietz will be a busy time. This summer she will tour Europe with the group that is accompanying the Fenton High School band.

WHEN SHE RETURNS from her trip, she plans to work in her garden, remodel her 15-room home, and possibly teach knitting at a recreation center.

Mrs. Nimietz is looking forward to her retirement, but says she will miss her students.

"There is so much you can learn from the children," she said.

If that is the case, Mrs. Nimietz is a veteran in education after many years of teaching.

Patrolmen Hired

Two patrolmen for the Wood Dale Police Department were hired recently by the Board of Police and Fire Commissioners.

They are Lawrence Parks, 22, of Wood Dale, and Lee Mayer, 26, of River Grove. Parks recently was discharged from the Army after serving three years, two of which were with the Special Forces in Panama and Viet Nam.

MAYER WAS EMPLOYED for three years as an installer for Illinois Bell Telephone Co. He also was employed as a part-time officer for the River Grove Police Department.

Mayer served in the Navy for two years, leaving with the rank of 3rd Class quartermaster.

Both men will be paid $510 a month for the first 90 days, after which they will be eligible for a raise of up to 5 per cent.

Catchall

WRF. ARF. SHHHHH: In a recent DuPage County Board discussion about allowing dog kennels near homes, one supervisor argued it wasn't any worse than allowing horses. It was loudly retorted by several opponents that "horses don't bark." Well, neither will the dogs this time because the board decided not to permit them, even though most members were quick to assure everyone they were dog-lovers. The members figured some dog lovers might become dog-haters after being kept awake all night.

RUMBLINGS FROM ROSELLE: Roselle Village Pres. Bob Frantz and Trustee Tony Bonavolonta don't exactly see eye-to-eye. Example: Granville developers a while back submitted plans and specs for their Bonavolonta project. Monday Frantz was ready to act on them but Bonavolonta objected, saying he didn't see them. They've been around for six months," Frantz said. Tony retorted: "Oh, they have. To whom?" Let's get together fellows. It's going to be a long four years otherwise.

WHO SAYS THE YOUNG DO ALL THE PROTESTING: More than 80 oldsters angry, homeowners Monday blasted away at the Roselle Village Board's plans for a sidewalk north of Irving Park Road. They didn't demonstrate or picket the village hall but they sure were to the point in condemning the board. They say concrete ribbons along the roadway make lousy scenery.

SNAPPY DRESSERS: Bensenville police have started wearing American flag patches similar to those worn by Astronauts on their right shoulders. Said Officer Lenny Mendoza: "Why not, that's what it's all about, isn't it?"

THAT'S THE SPIRIT: Itasca may be small in numbers but surely not short when it comes to community spirit. They'll have a parade on Memorial Day like other "big time" towns and won't be outdone by any smaller communities either. Itascans like keeping in step.

AMUSING TOPIC: Most hearings about zoning and other earth-shaking matters usually put the audience (if there is any) fast asleep. One scheduled for June 12 in Addison will be different. A special use permit for construction of an amusement park on Lake Street in Addison will be pro-ed and con-ed. A group of fun-loving kids is reported mustering support. The hearing may prove to be a real merry-go-round, but what's new about that?

HERE COME THE NOISES: The federal government recently gave Chicago $500,000 in grants funds for construction of the proposed northeast-southwest runway. The hang-up is that the aircraft using the new landing strip will fly over Bensenville. Chicago gets the bucks and Bensenville gets the you-know-what.

Stueve Cleared of Battery

William Stueve, also known as Stevie, may be a lot of things to a lot of people, but he is not a batter. Magistrate Jack Parish of Wood Dale decided in DuPage County Circuit Court Tuesday.

Stueve — or Stevie — who lives at 108 S. W. 1st Ave. and operates Stevie's Tavern at 112 W. Irving Park Road, Wood Dale, has been under fire for the last two months for health violations reported by the DuPage County Health Department.

And, last year he was given a 10-day suspension of his liquor license by the Village of Wood Dale for serving liquor to a minor. He was fined $100 for the serving after a guilty verdict by DuPage County

Magistrate George Borovic, but the minor was acquitted of charges of purchasing the liquor.)

THEN, JUST BEFORE the health department began leaning on Stueve this year, a battery charge was brought against him by Joseph Lagowski of Villa Park, who said he was struck and pushed to the tavern floor the evening of March 29.

The Health department eased up on Stueve a couple of weeks ago with regard to health violations.

And Parish returned a not guilty verdict in the battery case Tuesday. Enough was enough.

Hospital Appoints Two

Dorothy M. Gioielli and Anthony D. Damiani have been named associate administrators of Memorial Hospital, Elmhurst, by the hospital board of trustees.

Both have served as assistant administrators since December, 1964.

Miss Gioielli joined Memorial Hospital in November 1969, as an administrative assistant for professional services. Damiani came to the hospital in May, 1960, as personnel director.

Miss Gioielli was formerly employed in nursing service administration in several hospitals in New York City, and obtained a master's degree in hospital administration from the School of Public Health and Administrative Medicine, Columbia University.

She also is a graduate of Mount Vernon Hospital School of Nursing, Mount Vernon, N.Y., and holds a master's degree in nursing administration from the School of Education, New York University. She lives in Elmhurst.

Damiani, a graduate of Drake University, was formerly with St. Francis Hospital, Des Moines, in administrative and personnel capacities. He lives with his wife Norma and son Michael in Elmhurst.

Memorial Day Activities Time of Tribute...

North DuPage County communities will observe Memorial Day tomorrow with special services and parades in tribute to those who gave their lives for their country in times of crisis.

Parades and services will be held in Itasca beginning at 10 a.m., Addison at 11 a.m., and Bensenville at noon.

There will be no parade in Roselle or Wood Dale.

ROSELLE AMERICAN Legion Post 1084 will conduct services at 11 a.m. at the Bloomingdale Cemetery on Lake Street, east of Bloomingdale Road.

Rev. Eugene Triggall of Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church will give the invocation and benediction.

Bensenville's parade, beginning at noon from Memorial Road and Addison Street, is scheduled to be the largest in the area with 40 units participating. Bensenville Tioga VFW Post 2149 is sponsoring the parade.

The parade will proceed north on Addison to Main Street and then east to York Road and north to the VFW post 25 N. York Road, and the reviewing stand.

The cadette and concert bands from Fenton High School are scheduled to participate.

Rev. Tyrus Miles of Zion Lutheran Church will give the invocation and benediction. Col. Kenneth Plummer of the Fifth Army Headquarters will speak.

THE ITASCA parade, sponsored by the village, will start at Line and Walnut streets. Marchers will meet at 9:30 a.m., stepping off a half hour later.

The parade will proceed south on Walnut Street to Bloomingdale Road, north on Maple Street to Irving Park Road, north on Walnut to Division Street, east to Linden Street, west on Center Street to Walnut, and south to Orchard Street and its conclusion at the parkway.

The Lake Park High School band, Lancers, Itasca elementary school band, Itasca Lions Club, and the Itasca Junior Woman's Club will participate. Village officials will ride in a 1929 pumper unit from the local fire department.

REV. ROBERT Leshar of St. Matthew Lutheran Church will speak and Father Jerome Kelly of St. Peter's Catholic Church will give the invocation and benediction.

A parade sponsored by Addison VFW Post 744C will begin at 11 a.m. from Addison Trail High School, Lombard and Army Trail roads, and conclude at the municipal building where services will be held.

Carnival Tonight

The Bensenville Park District carnival opens tonight from 7 to 10 o'clock in Central Park, Church Road and Main Street, Bensenville.

Memorial Day hours are also 7 to 10 p.m. An extra hour will be added Saturday when it remains open to 11 p.m. The Sunday matinee will be from 1 to 5 p.m. and from 6 to 10 p.m.

Proceeds will go toward purchase of July 4 fireworks.

Carnival rides include three for intermediate teens and three for youngsters, along with game booths and other attractions. Refreshments will be available.

THE TRABANT, a tilt-a-whirl and the Flying Tiger are designed for the older fun-seekers. The younger set has a ferris wheel, merry-go-round and kiddie-cage.

The park district is looking for lifeguards so the swimming pool can be opened this weekend, according to William Floring, park director. It will be open only on weekends until early June when school is out, he said.

The district's miniature golf course is scheduled for opening tonight, he said, and will be open on weekends only probably until June 7.

"We are permitting and provided lifeguards are found, the pool will be open Friday night," he said.

The park district also is sponsoring another carnival over the Fourth of July holidays along with the annual fireworks display.

Radio Duo In Parade

Chuck Benson and Kurt Russell of WIND radio will lead the Roselle Rose parade June 8 which honors Gary Steger.

The naming of a Rose queen will follow the parade. Among other prizes, a $100 cash award will be given to the queen.

Runners-up will receive $25 savings bonds. Charm bracelets are awarded to all contestants.

An American Legion carnival will run from June 5 through 8 after a three-year absence of the event.

Benson and Russell say they are Chicago's first two-man music team. They combine music with comic regulars, renowned guest voices and sounds of night life in Chicago.

WIND radio has contributed towards the Gary Steger Foundation for injured athletes in time, effort and funds. The parade starts at 1:30 p.m. from Trinity Lutheran Church, Roselle.

Summer Study Necessity Now

It used to be that only the "dummies" went to summer school because they had failed a course and needed to make it up.

At Fenton High School this summer, many students will be attending school to take the extra courses they won't otherwise be able to have because of curtailment next fall.

The curtailment limits the number of solid subjects a student can take to four. Seniors will only be allowed to take a fifth solid subject in the fall if they have attended summer school.

School will be held from June 16 through July 31. A student can earn one semester's credit in either one or two subjects, or two semester's credit in one subject.

THE SCHOOL DAY will begin at 7:45 a.m. The first period will run from 8:05 to 10:05 a.m. and the second will be from 10:15 a.m. to 12:15 p.m.

The maximum amount of time a student can spend in summer school at Fenton is four hours a day, five days a week, for six weeks.

One interesting aspect of the high school summer program is that a student can repeat a course he has already taken and passed to raise his grade.

Summer school director William Jonkheer said sometimes a student feels that although he passed a course, he needs more time with the subject.

At the same time he is learning and reviewing, he can improve his original grade in the course.

Jonkheer said that one problem which administrators have run into in the past is late summer registrants. If a student is in danger of failing a course, Jonkheer said, he should enroll now. If the student passes the course after all, he can withdraw his name from the roster, and receive his fees back in full.

TODAY, Jonkheer said, a student does not receive his grades for the regular school year until after summer school has started.

Since attendance policies in the summer program are necessarily strict, a student cannot come into the class after the first day.

The summer school program at Fenton will be self-supporting with the cost set at $22 per subject per semester. Participants do not have to be students at Fenton during the regular school year to qualify for the summer program.

Fenton hopes to offer 19 courses this summer. A class must have an enrollment of 20 before it can be offered.

Courses offered at this time range from driver's education and noncredited summer tennis to the more specialized geology and architectural drawing courses.

Noncredit courses in recreation and summer conditioning also will be offered.

Last year more than 300 students attended summer school at Fenton. Director Jonkheer predicted that even more will attend this summer due to the cutback of a fifth solid subject this fall.

Registration for summer school can be made through the administrative office at Fenton.

Multiple-Family Code OKd

After running the gamut of opposition, an amendment to the DuPage County multiple-family building code was passed Tuesday by the DuPage County Board of Supervisors.

The code amendment was called a compromise between what builders wanted and the county's wishes. It is an upgraded standard for construction of multi-family dwellings in unincorporated areas of the county and in municipalities where the local code is less restrictive.

It is slated to go into effect next month, according to Elbert Drogenmueller, assistant supervisor from Addison Township and chairman of the building committee.

"It drops the original requirement of having an architect on all buildings to just having one on small apartment buildings or larger structures," he said.

"THE SECOND compromise made at the urging of Chicagoland builders in the

Other code requirements concerning sound transmission within a building were completely removed until the county can consult a sound engineer, he said. There

Sidewalk Lawsuit Threatened

The president of the Roselle Homeowners Association has threatened to take legal action against the Roselle Village Board over a sidewalk program.

Mei Marvin of 218 Thorndale Road said, "Legal action would be the next step if the board persists in not listening to the people." He said the board was attempting to abuse the use of its police power in forcing homeowners to pay for sidewalks they do not want.

Marvin was one of more than 90 residents Monday who protested a sidewalk program the village plans to have homeowners pay for by special assessment. Homeowners, however, have the option of saving money by getting the sidewalks put in themselves.

THE PROGRAM is part of an overall plan for more sidewalks in the village. They are safer for children, the village maintains, and become necessary as the village increases in population.

Homeowners, on the other hand, like the country atmosphere, which they say sidewalks will destroy. Also, they say they have to rip out shrubs and lawns for the sidewalks. Sidewalks cost money which they can spend in other ways, they add.

Four former Fenton High School students who were killed in the Viet Nam war will be honored today at 10 a.m. during a special assembly prior to Memorial Day.

The dead are Lance Cpl. Conrad Lange of Wood Dale, Sgt. Phillip Essig, Pfc. John Heaps, and Sgt. Alan Marschall, all of Bensenville.

Cpl. Lange died June 9, 1967; Sgt. Essig, Aug. 15, 1968; Pfc. Heaps, Sept. 14, 1968; and Sgt. Marschall, March 21, 1969.

Their parents are scheduled to attend for a presentation of a plaque with their names to the school.

Tunnel To O'Hare?

Will there be an underground entrance to O'Hare Airport from the west?

Two officials who should know what the highways of the future will be have different opinions.

Construction of a west underground entrance to O'Hare Airport is not likely, according to Henry Yamanaka of the Illinois Division of Highways.

Yamanaka said Wednesday cost of such a project would be very expensive and difficult to construct because of various utilities that are underground.

John Varbel, Bensenville village president, last week said there are plans to go underneath York Road for a west entrance which he said was "pretty well assured" Varbel is a member of the Illinois State Toll Highway advisory committee.

YAMANAKA WENT on to say construction of an underground entrance would disrupt traffic on the airport's main north-west-southeast runway.

Traffic at O'Hare is at the saturation point now, he said, adding that the relocated Illinois Rt. 19 (Elgin-O'Hare Expressway) will provide access around the south end of the field, but not under it.

Yamanaka said he based his opinion on the findings of a study, not yet complete, by Alfred Benesch & Co., Chicago consulting engineers.

"We need another air field," Yamanaka asserted.

Village Beat

Worth Meets Cost

by SYD JAMIESON

The Wood Dale Council has for some time been discussing the possibility of having a comprehensive plan made by a professional planning consultant.

Any action on this will have been the result of a suggestion by its own planning commission which has urged council members not to delay on this important program.

Last year the council listened intently to a representative from William S. Lawrence Associates, Chicago.

WHAT THE COUNCIL learned was that the price of developing a master plan for Wood Dale comes high, but the resulting benefits are worth it.

More and more, council members are recognizing that its adopted subdivision regulations and zoning ordinance and map are not considered a master plan for Wood Dale.

What they are finding out is that the village needs a thoroughly developed and adopted land use map, a traffic or thoroughfare study and studies and recommendations geared to Wood Dale's economic base, capital improvements and population projections.

Village officials may also find that their community with its new subdivisions and high rises and its older stable residential areas, will require what planners refer to as systematic code enforcement.

UNDER SYSTEMATIC code enforcement, the sound sectors of the community are programmed to maintain property values through compliance with an adequate housing code, including electrical, plumbing, building and fire protection.

To maintain this activity the village itself must program various improvements to arrest any decline in these neighborhoods, such as streets, curbs, gutters, sewer and water.

But in programming these improvements, a five or 10-year program should be developed with the help of a qualified planning consultant.

S.C. Jamieson

Wood Dale has made a start in its public facilities through the completion of its expanded sewage treatment plant, additional wells and water reservoirs and a major water extension project throughout the village.

INROADS HAVE also been made in recent pre-annexation agreements such as the Brookwood development where additional sewer and water facilities have been programmed.

Georgetown has provided the village with a thriving shopping center which has sparked increased sales tax revenue to the village.

There is talk of industrial development north of School Street and a reorganized industrial committee is mapping promotion campaigns to spark further interest in seeking developers.

Tied into this promotion is Wood Dale's continuing fight for annexations to the north to ward off further encroachment by Elk Grove Village.

VILLAGE OFFICIALS can readily see what is happening in Bensenville and Itasca with their industrial parks. Tax relief for its local school districts is becoming more and more critical to stem the rising costs of education.

To put it bluntly, Wood Dale needs professional planning and a master plan to see its way through the 1970's.

Approve Multi-Family Building Code

are only two sound engineers in the county, he added.

Droegemueller said he told a group of builders with whom he has met several times in the last few months that the code would be amended further at later dates. If parts of the new code prove unsatisfactory, he said, revision will be made.

The code will prevail over municipalities unless the municipality has a more strict code of its own. Where the county code prevails, county building inspectors will be in charge of watching for most violations, but will work with local inspectors, too.

THE COUNTY BOARD adopted an interim code last October, which was in effect until March of this year. It was more strict, according to Droegemueller, than the new code in several respects.

The DuPage County Mayor-Managers Conference passed a unanimous resolution in March opposing the code as proposed then because it reportedly eliminates low-cost housing.

According to the resolution, the elimination of such housing would limit the possibility of getting federal aid for open space and public works purchases.

Droegemueller said the code is meant to upgrade the standards of housing in the county for the protection of people who will live in the apartments.

It isn't meant to discriminate against low-income families, who can still find a decent place to live in DuPage, he said.

House Ransacked

Kay Standard, of 111 N. Mason St., Bensenville, told police that her house was ransacked Tuesday.

She reported that some change, less than $3, was taken from the house. Entry was made by kicking open the back door, police report.

Federal Funding

A steering committee which may file an application for federal funds for the O'Hare storm water retention and recreation project in northeast Bensenville will meet today at 7:30 p.m. in the village hall.

The project includes 244 acres north of Irving Park Road and east of York Road. Sixty-eight acres in Bensenville are presently occupied by more than 90 homes.

The meeting is open, but is not a public forum, according to the Northeast Illinois Natural Resource Service Center.

Purpose of the meeting is to review the proposed project and determine whether federal funds will be applied for.

Board Is Considering Dwelling Code

A dwelling code, different from a building code, is under consideration by the DuPage County Board of Supervisors and its health committee.

The Human Relations Advisory Committee to the county board has recommended the adoption of such a code to prescribe minimum requirements that all inhabited dwellings have basic equipment and facilities.

A dwelling code is aimed at governing the standards of existing structures, while a building code seeks to restrict and guide standards of original construction.

A dwelling code would prohibit the accumulation of junk, rubbish and garbage, and would require all parts of the home or apartment kept in good repair, according to Thomas Murphy, Wheaton planner who reported to the advisory committee recently.

HE SAID IT ISN'T sufficient to have a sink. The sink must also have a drain and the showers and heating must function adequately. Little things like having a window that opens for ventilation must be required by law, he said.

The code being considered by the county board was adopted from the Wheaton dwelling code, which is reportedly the only one of its kind in the county.

Court action is the ultimate means of enforcement, although a large percentage of the cases are corrected voluntarily in Wheaton, Murphy said.

He added that a code helps keep the cost of housing down because it helps prevent deterioration of older homes which would need to be replaced by more expensive, newly constructed dwellings.

Will Miss Pupils

by JUDY MORRIS

Almost everyone has at least one teacher in his past he will never forget because of the profound effect that teacher had on him.

Mrs. Eva Nimietz, who has taught in Bensenville Dist. 2 for 24 years, is one of these unforgettable teachers.

Mrs. Nimietz has lived in Franklin Park all her life. She began teaching in a rural district just outside Bensenville and then moved to the old Lincoln School that was on York Road.

After that, she taught in Tioga School for 14 years and came to Johnson School in 1959.

Mrs. Nimietz is retiring in June.

THE DIST. 1 board of education accepted "with regret" Mrs. Nimietz's request for retirement.

Board member James DiOrio said, "She is an extremely professional person in her approach to education. She always put out that little something extra for the youngsters. It's teachers like her that you just don't get every day."

The mother of four children and a grandmother of 10, Mrs. Nimietz said she remembers many of the students who spent a year in her classroom. Some of them still write occasionally to let her know what they are doing now, she added.

What is one of the biggest changes that schools have experienced in recent years? "Discipline by the teachers," Mrs. Nimietz said. "There are some children, good children, that occasionally need a physical discipline."

She told the story of one student who was unusual because he never did anything wrong. One day the boy came up to her after school and asked, "Was I bad today? I tried so hard to be bad!"

"AFTER THAT I watched him," Mrs. Nimietz said. "He needed to understand what it felt like to be bad. One day he did something very minor, so I sent him to sit on the bench outside. Then he knew what it meant to have everyone pass by and know that he had been bad."

One of the most predominant questions in education today is how a teacher should handle the exceptionally gifted or the extremely slow child.

"You must gauge your work," Mrs. Nimietz said. "Give the brighter child additional work and occasionally don't grade the work of the slower child."

Mrs. Nimietz added, "A teacher should use any method that works with the slower child. Let him draw a picture to illustrate his story if the story isn't clear in itself."

It appears that retirement for Mrs. Nimietz will be a busy time. This summer she will tour Europe with the group that is accompanying the Fenton High School band.

WHEN SHE RETURNS from her trip, she plans to work in her garden, remodel her 15-room home, and possibly teach knitting at a recreation center.

Mrs. Nimietz is looking forward to her retirement, but says she will miss her students.

"There is so much you can learn from the children," she said.

If that is the case, Mrs. Nimietz is a veteran in education after many years of teaching.

Patrolmen Hired

Two patrolmen for the Wood Dale Police Department were hired recently by the Board of Police and Fire Commissioners.

They are Lawrence Parks, 22, of Wood Dale, and Lee Mayer, 26, of River Grove.

Parks recently was discharged from the Army after serving three years, two of which were with the Special Forces in Panama and Viet Nam.

MAYER WAS EMPLOYED for three years as an installer for Illinois Bell Telephone Co. He also was employed as a part-time officer for the River Grove Police Department.

Mayer served in the Navy for two years, leaving with the rank of 3rd Class Quartermaster.

Both men will be paid $510 a month for the first 90 days, after which they will be eligible for a raise of up to 5 per cent.

Catchall

ARF. ARF. SHHHH: In a recent DuPage County Board discussion about allowing dog kennels near homes, one supervisor argued it wasn't any worse than allowing horses. It was loudly retorted by several opponents that "horses don't bark." Well, neither will the dogs this time because the board decided not to permit them, even though most members were quick to assure everyone they were dog-lovers. The members figured some dog-lovers might become dog-haters after being kept awake all night.

RUMBLINGS FROM ROSELLE: Roselle Village Pres. Bob Frantz and Trustee Tony Bonavolonta don't exactly see eye-to-eye. Example: Granville developers a while back submitted plans and specs for their 40-acre project. Monday Frantz was ready to act on them but Bonavolonta objected, saying he didn't see them. They've been around for six months," Frantz said. Tony retorted: "Oh, they have. To whom?" Let's get together fellows. It's going to be a long four years otherwise.

WHO SAYS THE YOUNG DO ALL THE PROTESTING?: More than 80 oldsters (angry homeowners) Monday blasted away at the Roselle Village Board's plans for sidewalks north of Irving Park Road. They didn't demonstrate or picket the village hall but they sure were to the point in condemning the board. They say concrete ribbons along the roadway make lousy scenery.

SNAPPY DRESSERS: Bensenville police have started wearing American flag patches similar to those worn by Astronauts on their right shoulders. Said Officer Lenny Mendoza: "Why not, that's what it's all about, isn't it?"

THAT'S THE SPIRIT: Itasca may be small in numbers but surely not short when it comes to community spirit. They'll have a parade on Memorial Day like other "big time" towns and won't be outdone by any smaller communities either. Itascans like keeping in step.

AMUSING TOPIC: Most hearings about zoning and other earth-shaking matters usually put the audience (if there is any) fast asleep. One scheduled for June 12 in Addison will be different. A special use permit for construction of an amusement park on Lake Street in Addison will be prodded and coned. A group of fun-loving kids is reported mustering support. The hearing may prove to be a real merry-go-round, but what's new about that?

HERE COME THE NOISES: The federal government recently gave Chicago $500,000 in grants for construction of the proposed northeast-southwest runway. The hang-up is that the aircraft using the new landing strip will fly over Bensenville. Chicago gets the bucks and Bensenville gets the you-know-what.

Stueve Cleared of Battery

William Stueve, also known as Stevie, may be a lot of things to a lot of people, but he is not a hater. Magistrate Jack Parish of Wood Dale denied in DuPage County Circuit Court Tuesday.

Stueve — or Stevie — who lives at 108 S. Walnut Itasca and operates Stevie's Tavern at 112 W. Irving Park Road, Wood Dale, has been under fire for the last two months for health violations reported by the DuPage County Health Department.

And, last year he was given a 10-day suspension of his liquor license by the Village of Wood Dale for serving liquor to a minor. (He was fined $100 for the serving after a guilty verdict by DuPage County Magistrate George Borovic, but the minor was acquitted of charges of purchasing the liquor.)

THEN, JUST BEFORE the health department began leaning on Stueve this year, a battery charge was brought against him by Joseph Lagowski of Villa Park, who said he was struck and pushed to the tavern floor the evening of March 29.

The Health department eased up on Stueve a couple of weeks ago with regard to health violations.

And Parish returned a not guilty verdict in the battery case Tuesday. Enough was enough.

Hospital Appoints Two

Dorothy M. Gioielli and Anthony D. Damiani have been named associate administrators of Memorial Hospital, Elmhurst, by the hospital board of trustees.

Both have served as assistant administrators since December, 1964.

Miss Gioielli joined Memorial Hospital in November 1969, as an administrative assistant for professional services. Damiani came to the hospital in May, 1960, as personnel director.

Miss Gioielli was formerly employed in nursing service administration in several hospitals in New York City, and obtained a master's degree in hospital administration from the School of Public Health and Administrative Medicine, Columbia University.

She also is a graduate of Mount Vernon Hospital School of Nursing, Mount Vernon, N.Y., and holds a master's degree in nursing administration from the School of Education, New York University. She lives in Elmhurst.

Damiani, a graduate of Drake University, was formerly with St. Francis Hospital in Peoria, and Iowa Methodist Hospital, Des Moines, in administrative and personnel capacities. He lives with his wife Norma and son Michael in Elmhurst.

FENTON HIGH SCHOOLER John Labovsky holds one of the signs students made to promote summer school. The signs are on display near the front door of Fenton. Summer school will be held this year from June 16 through July 31.

Memorial Day Activities Time of Tribute...

North DuPage County communities will observe Memorial Day tomorrow with special services and parades in tribute to those who gave their lives for their country in times of crises.

Parades and services will be held in Itasca beginning at 10 a.m., Addison at 11 a.m., and Bensenville at noon.

There will be no parade in Roselle or Wood Dale.

ROSELLE AMERICAN Legion Post 1094 will conduct services at 11 a.m. at the Bloomingdale Cemetery on Lake Street, east of Bloomingdale Road.

Rev. Eugene Trieglaff of Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church will give the invocation and benediction.

Bensenville's parade, beginning at noon from Memorial Road and Addison Street, is scheduled to be the largest in the area with 40 units participating. Bensenville Tioga VFW Post 2149 is sponsoring the parade.

The parade will proceed north on Addison to Main Street and then east to York Road and north to the VFW post 25 N. York Road, and the reviewing stand.

The cadette and concert bands from Fenton High School are scheduled to participate.

Rev. Tyrus Miles of Zion Lutheran Church will give the invocation and benediction. Col. Kenneth Plummer of the Fifth Army Headquarters will speak.

THE ITASCA parade, sponsored by the village, will start at Line and Walnut streets. Marchers will meet at 9:30 a.m., stepping off a half hour later.

The parade will proceed south on Walnut Street to Bloomingdale Road, north on Maple Street to Irving Park Road, north on Walnut to Division Street, east to Linden Street, west on Center Street to Walnut, and south to Orchard Street and its conclusion at the parkway.

The Lake Park High School band, Lanettes, Itasca elementary school band, Itasca Lions Club, and the Itasca Junior Woman's Club will participate. Village officials will ride in a 1929 pumper unit from the local fire department.

REV. ROBERT Lesh of St. Matthew Lutheran Church will speak and Father Jerome Kelly of St. Peter's Catholic Church will give the invocation and benediction.

A parade sponsored by Addison VFW Post 744F will begin at 11 a.m. from Addison Trail High School, Lombard and Army Trail roads, and conclude at the municipal building where services will be held.

Carnival Tonight

The Bensenville Park District carnival opens tonight from 7 to 10 o'clock in Central Park, Church Road and Main Street, Bensenville.

Memorial Day hours are also 7 to 10 p.m. An extra hour will be added Saturday when it remains open to 11 p.m. The Sunday matinee will be from 1 to 5 p.m. and from 6 to 10 p.m.

Proceeds will go toward purchase of July 4 fireworks.

Carnival rides include three for intermediate teens and three for youngsters, along with game booths and other attractions. Refreshments will be available.

THE TRABANT, a tilt-a-whirl and the Flying Tiger are designed for the older fun-seekers. The younger set has a ferris wheel, merry-go-round and kiddie-cage.

The park district is looking for lifeguards so the swimming pool can be opened this weekend, according to William Floring, park director. It will be open only on weekends until early June when school is out, he said.

The district's miniature golf course is scheduled for opening tonight, he said, and will be open on weekends only probably until June 7.

"We are permitting and providing lifeguards are found, the pool will be open Friday night," he said.

The park district also is sponsoring another carnival over the Fourth of July holidays along with the annual fireworks display.

Radio Duo In Parade

Chuck Benson and Kurt Russell of WIND radio will lead the Roselle Rose parade June 8 which honors Gary Steger.

The naming of a Rose queen will follow the parade. Among other prizes, a $100 cash award will be given to the queen.

Runners-up will receive $25 savings bonds. Charm bracelets are awarded to all contestants.

An American Legion carnival will run from June 5 through 8 after a three-year absence of the event.

Benson and Russell say they are Chicago's first two-man music team. They combine music with comic regulars, renowned guest voices and sounds of night life in Chicago.

WIND radio has contributed towards the Gary Steger Foundation for injured athletes in time, effort and funds. The parade starts at 1:30 p.m. from Trinity Lutheran Church, Roselle.

Summer Study Necessity Now

It used to be that only the "dummies" went to summer school because they had failed a course and needed to make it up.

At Fenton High School this summer, many students will be attending school to take the extra courses they won't otherwise be able to have because of curtailment next fall.

The curtailment limits the number of solid subjects a student can take to four. Seniors will only be allowed to take a fifth solid subject in the fall if they have attended summer school.

School will be held from June 16 through July 31. A student can earn one semester's credit in either one or two subjects, or two semester's credit in one subject.

THE SCHOOL DAY will begin at 7:45 a.m. The first period will run from 8:05 to 10:05 a.m. and the second will be from 10:15 a.m. to 12:15 p.m.

The maximum amount of time a student can spend in summer school at Fenton is four hours a day, five days a week, for six weeks.

One interesting aspect of the high school summer program is that a student can repeat a course he has already taken and passed to raise his grade.

Summer school director William Jonkheer said sometimes a student feels that although he passed a course, he needs more time with the subject.

At the same time he is learning and reviewing, he can improve his original grade in the course.

Jonkheer said that one problem which administrators have run into in the past is late summer registrants. If a student is in danger of failing a course, Jonkheer said, he should enroll now. If the student passes the course after all, he can withdraw his name from the roster, and receive his fees back in full.

TIM OYEN, Jonkheer said, a student does not receive his grades for the regular school year until after summer school has started.

Since attendance policies in the summer program are necessarily strict, a student cannot come into the class after the first day.

The summer school program at Fenton will be self-supporting with the cost set at $22 per subject per semester. Participants do not have to be students at Fenton during the regular school year to qualify for the summer program.

Fenton hopes to offer 19 courses this summer. A class must have an enrollment of 20 before it can be offered.

Courses offered at this time range from driver's education and noncredited summer tennis to the more specialized geology and architectural drawing courses.

Noncredit courses in recreation and summer conditioning also will be offered.

Last year more than 300 students attended summer school at Fenton. Director Jonkheer predicted that even more will attend this summer due to the cutback of a fifth solid subject this fall.

Registration for summer school can be made through the administrative office at Fenton.

Multiple-Family Code OK'd

After running the gamut of opposition, an amendment to the DuPage County multiple-family building code was passed Tuesday by the DuPage County Board of Supervisors.

The code amendment was called a compromise between what builders wanted and the county's wishes. It is an upgraded standard for construction of multi-family dwellings in unincorporated areas of the county and in municipalities where the local code is less restrictive.

It is slated to go into effect next month, according to Eibert Drogemueeller, assistant supervisor from Addison Township and chairman of the building committee.

"It drops the original requirement of having an architect on all buildings to just having one on small apartment buildings or larger structures," he said.

"THE SECOND compromise made at the urging of Chicagoland builders in the area was to lower the fire rating on walls from two hours resistance to one and a half hours. The builders claimed a two-hour rating would cut profits too much and make it harder to build apartment buildings."

Other code requirements concerning sound transmission within a building were completely removed until the county can consult a sound engineer, he said. There (Continued on Page 2)

Sidewalk Lawsuit Threatened

The president of the Roselle Homeowners Association has threatened to take legal action against the Roselle Village Board over a sidewalk program.

Mel Marvin of 218 Thorndale Road said, "Legal action would be the next step if the board persists in not listening to the people." He said the board was attempting to abuse the use of its police power in forcing homeowners to pay for sidewalks they do not want.

Marvin said one of more than 90 residents Monday who protested a sidewalk program the village plans to have homeowners pay for by special assessment. Homeowners, however, have the option of saving money by getting the sidewalks put in themselves.

THE PROGRAM is part of an overall plan for more sidewalks in the village. They are safer for children, the village maintains, and become necessary as the village increases in population.

Homeowners, on the other hand, like the country atmosphere, which they say sidewalks will destroy. Also, they say they have to rip out shrubs and lawns for the sidewalks. Sidewalks cost money which they can spend in other ways, they add.

Marvin said a committee is being formed to take united action against the village board. He added that he is not at liberty to say who is organizing the committee.

Marvin admits he has been instrumental in opposing the village board in the past. He says he got national political parties out of local elections and that a referendum spearheaded by him several years ago let board members know they did not want apartments in town.

Marvin has lived in Roselle for 10 years. He is a certified public accountant.

Tunnel To O'Hare?

Will there be an underground entrance to O'Hare Airport from the west?

Two officials, who should know what the highways of the future will be have different opinions.

Construction of a west underground entrance to O'Hare Airport is not likely, according to Henry Yamanaka of the Illinois Division of Highways.

Yamanaka said Wednesday cost of such a project would be very expensive and difficult to construct because of various utilities that are underground.

John Varbel, Bensenville village president, last week said there are plans to go underneath York Road for a west entrance which he said was "pretty well assured." Varbel is a member of the Illinois State Toll Highway advisory committee.

YAMANAKA WENT on to say construction of an underground entrance would disrupt traffic on the airport's main north-west-southeast runway.

Traffic at O'Hare is at the saturation point now, he said, adding that the relocated Illinois Rt. 19 (Elgin-O'Hare Expressway) will provide access around the south end of the field, but not under it.

Yamanaka said he based his opinion on the findings of a study, not yet complete, by Alfred Benesch & Co., Chicago consulting engineers.

"We need another air field," Yamanaka asserted.

Droegemueller said he told a group of builders with whom he has met several times in the last few months that the code would be amended further at later dates. If parts of the new code prove unsatisfactory, he said, revision will be made.

The code will prevail over municipalities unless the municipality has a more strict code of its own. Where the county code prevails, county building inspectors will be in charge of watching for most violations, but will work with local inspectors, too.

THE COUNTY BOARD adopted an interim code last October, which was in effect until March of this year. It was more strict, according to Droegemueller, than the new code in several respects.

The DuPage County Mayor-Managers Conference passed a unanimous resolution in March opposing the code as proposed then because it reportedly eliminates low-cost housing.

According to the resolution, the elimination of such housing would limit the possibility of getting federal aid for open space and public works purchases.

Droegemueller said the code is meant to upgrade the standards of housing in the county for the protection of people who will live in the apartments.

It isn't meant to discriminate against low-income families, who can still find a decent place to live in DuPage, he said.

House Ransacked

Kay Standard, of 111 N. Mason St., Bensenville, told police that her house was ransacked Tuesday.

She reported that some change, less than $4, was taken from the house. Entry was made by kicking open the back door, police report.

Federal Funding

A steering committee which may file an application for federal funds for the O'Hare storm water retention and recreation project in northeast Bensenville will meet today at 7:30 p.m. in the village hall.

The project includes 244 acres north of Irving Park Road and east of York Road. Sixty-eight acres in Bensenville are presently occupied by more than 60 homes.

The meeting is open, but is not a public forum, according to the Northeast Illinois Natural Resource Service Center.

Purpose of the meeting is to review the proposed project and determine whether federal funds will be applied for.

Board Is Considering Dwelling Code

A dwelling code, different from a building code, is under consideration by the DuPage County Board of Supervisors and its health committee.

The Human Relations Advisory Committee to the county board has recommended the adoption of such a code to prescribe minimum requirements that all inhabited dwellings have basic equipment and facilities.

A dwelling code is aimed at governing the standards of existing structures, while a building code seeks to restrict and guide standards of original construction.

A dwelling code would prohibit the accumulation of junk, rubbish and garbage, and would require all parts of the home or apartment kept in good repair, according to Thomas Murphy, Wheaton planner who reported to the advisory committee recently.

HE SAID IT ISN'T sufficient to have a sink. The sink must also have a drain and the showers and heating must function adequately. Little things like having a window that opens for ventilation must be required by law, he said.

The code being considered by the county board was adopted from the Wheaton dwelling code, which is reportedly the only one of its kind in the county.

Court action is the ultimate means of enforcement, although a large percentage of the cases are corrected voluntarily in Wheaton, Murphy said.

He added that a code helps keep the cost of housing down because it helps prevent deterioration of older homes which would need to be replaced by more expensive, newly constructed dwellings.

Will Miss Pupils

by JUDY MORRIS

Almost everyone has at least one teacher in his past he will never forget because of the profound effect that teacher had on him.

Mrs. Eva Nimietz, who has taught in Bensenville Dist. 2 for 24 years, is one of these unforgettable teachers.

Mrs. Nimietz has lived in Franklin Park all her life. She began teaching in a rural district just outside Bensenville and then moved to the old Lincoln School that was on York Road.

After that, she taught in Tioga School for 14 years and came to Johnson School in 1959.

Mrs. Nimietz is retiring in June.

THE DIST. 1 board of education accepted "with regret" Mrs. Nimietz's request for retirement.

Board member James DiOrto said, "She is an extremely professional person in her approach to education. She always put out that little something extra for the youngsters. It's teachers like her that you just don't get every day."

The mother of four children and a grandmother of 10, Mrs. Nimietz said she remembers many of the students who spent a year in her classroom. Some of them still write occasionally to let her know what they are doing now, she added.

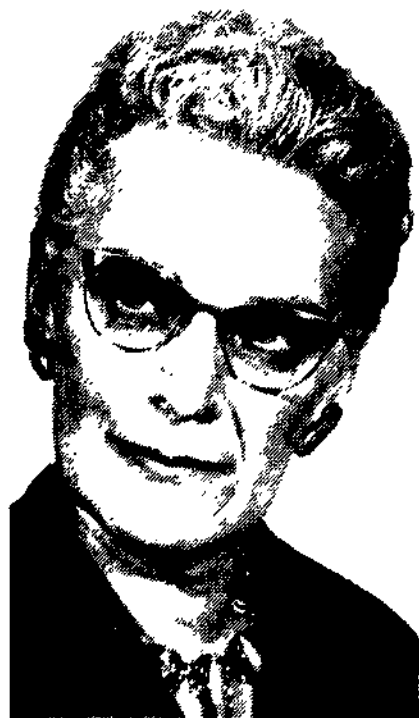

What is one of the biggest changes that schools have experienced in recent years? "Discipline by the teachers," Mrs. Nimietz said. "There are some children, good children, that occasionally need a physical discipline."

She told the story of one student who was unusual because he never did anything wrong. One day the boy came up to her after school and asked, "Was I bad today? I tried so hard to be bad!"

"AFTER THAT I watched him," Mrs. Nimietz said. "He needed to understand what it felt like to be bad. One day he did something very minor, so I sent him to sit on the bench outside. Then he knew what it meant to have everyone pass by and know that he had been bad."

One of the most predominant questions in education today is how a teacher should handle the exceptionally gifted or the extremely slow child.

"You must gauge your work," Mrs. Nimietz said. "Give the brighter child additional work and occasionally don't grade the work of the slower child."

Mrs. Nimietz added, "A teacher should use any method that works with the slower child. Let him draw a picture to illustrate his story if the story isn't clear in itself."

It appears that retirement for Mrs. Nimietz will be a busy time. This summer she will tour Europe with the group that is accompanying the Fenton High School band.

WHEN SHE RETURNS from her trip, she plans to work in her garden, remodel her 15-room home, and possibly teach knitting at a recreation center.

Mrs. Nimietz is looking forward to her retirement, but says she will miss her students.

"There is so much you can learn from the children," she said.

If that is the case, Mrs. Nimietz is a veteran in education after many years of teaching.

Hospital Appoints Two

Dorothy M. Gioielli and Anthony D. Damiani have been named associate administrators of Memorial Hospital, Elmhurst, by the hospital board of trustees.

Both have served as assistant administrators since December, 1964.

Miss Gioielli joined Memorial Hospital in November 1965, as an administrative assistant for professional services. Damiani came to the hospital in May, 1966, as personnel director.

Miss Gioielli was formerly employed in nursing service administration in several hospitals in New York City, and obtained a master's degree in hospital administration from the School of Public Health and Administrative Medicine, Columbia University.

She also is a graduate of Mount Vernon Hospital School of Nursing, Mount Vernon, N.Y., and holds a master's degree in nursing administration from the School of Education, New York University. She lives in Elmhurst.

Damiani, a graduate of Drake University, was formerly with St. Francis Hospital in Peoria, and Iowa Methodist Hospital, Des Moines, in administrative and personnel capacities. He lives with his wife Norma and son Michael in Elmhurst.

Catchall

ARF. ARF. SHHHHH: In a recent DuPage County Board discussion about allowing dog kennels near homes, one supervisor argued it wasn't any worse than allowing horses. It was loudly retorted by several opponents that "horses don't bark." Well, neither will the dogs this time because the board decided not to permit them, even though most members were quick to assure everyone they were dog-lovers. The members figured some dog-lovers might become dog-haters after being kept awake all night.

RUMBLINGS FROM ROSELLE: Roselle Village Pres. Bob Frantz and Trustee Tony Bonavolonta don't exactly see eye-to-eye. Example: Granville developers a while back submitted plans and specs for their 10-acre project. Monday Frantz was ready to act on them but Bonavolonta objected, saying he didn't see them. They've been around for six months," Frantz said. Tony retorted: "Oh, they have. To whom?" Let's get together fellows. It's going to be a long four years otherwise.

WHO SAYS THE YOUNG DO ALL THE PROTESTING?: More than 80 oldests angry homeowners Monday blasted plans of the Roselle Village Board's plans for sidewalks north of Irving Park Road. They didn't demonstrate or picket the village hall but they sure were to the point in condemning the board. They say concrete ribbons along the roadway make lousy scenery.

SNAPPY DRESSERS: Bensenville police have started wearing American flag patches similar to those worn by Astronauts on their right shoulders. Said Officer Lenny Mendoza: "Why not, that's what it's all about, isn't it?"

THAT'S THE SPIRIT: Itasca may be small in numbers but surely not short when it comes to community spirit. They'll have a parade on Memorial Day like other "big time" towns and won't be outdone by any smaller communities either. Itascans like keeping in step.

AMUSING TOPIC: Most hearings about zoning and other earth-shaking matters usually put the audience (if there is any) fast asleep. One scheduled for June 12 in Addison will be different. A special use permit for construction of an amusement park on Lake Street in Addison will be prodded and con-ed. A group of fun-loving kids is reported mustering support. The hearing may prove to be a real merry-go-round, but what's new about that?

HERE COME THE NOISE: The federal government recently gave Chicago $300,000 in grants funds for construction of the proposed northeast-southwest runway. The hang-up is that the aircraft using the new landing strip will fly over Bensenville. Chicago gets the bucks and Bensenville gets the you-know-what.

Stueve Cleared of Battery

William Stueve, also known as Stueve, may be a lot of things to a lot of people, but he is not a batter. Magistrate Jack Parish of Wood Dale decided in DuPage County Circuit Court Tuesday.

Stueve, or Stueve — who lives at 108 S. Walnut, Palos, and operates Stueve's Tavern at 112 W. Irving Park Road, Wood Dale, has been under fire for the last two months for health violations reported by the DuPage County Health Department.

And, last year he was given a 10-day suspension of his liquor license by the Village of Wood Dale for serving liquor to a minor. He was fined $100 for the serving after a guilty verdict by DuPage County

Magistrate George Borovic, but the minor was acquitted of charges of purchasing the liquor.

THEN, JUST BEFORE the health department began leaning on Stueve this year, a battery charge was brought against him by Joseph Lagowski of Villa Park, who said he was struck and pushed to the tavern floor the evening of March 29.

The Health department eased up on Stueve a couple of weeks ago with regard to health violations.

And Parish returned a not guilty verdict in the battery case Tuesday. Enough was enough.

FENTON HIGH SCHOOLER John Labovsky holds one of the signs students made to promote summer school. The signs are on display near the front door of Fenton. Summer school will be held this year from June 16 through July 31.

Memorial Day Activities Time of Tribute...

North DuPage County communities will observe Memorial Day tomorrow with special services and parades in tribute to those who gave their lives for their country in times of crises.

Parades and services will be held in Itasca beginning at 10 a.m., Addison at 11 a.m., and Bensenville at noon.

There will be no parade in Roselle or Wood Dale.

ROSELLE AMERICAN Legion Post 1084 will conduct services at 11 a.m. at the Bloomingdale Cemetery on Lake Street, east of Bloomingdale Road.

Rev. Eugene Trieglaff of Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church will give the invocation and benediction.

Bensenville's parade, beginning at noon from Memorial Road and Addison Street, is scheduled to be the largest in the area with 40 units participating. Bensenville Tigra VFW Post 2149 is sponsoring the parade.

The parade will proceed north on Addison to Main Street and then east to York Road and north to the VFW post 25 N. York Road, and the reviewing stand.

The cadette and concert bands from Fenton High School are scheduled to participate.

Rev. Tyrus Miles of Zion Lutheran Church will give the invocation and benediction. Col. Kenneth Plummer of the Fifth Army Headquarters will speak.

THE ITASCA parade, sponsored by the village, will start at Line and Walnut streets. Marchers will meet at 9:30 a.m., stepping off a half hour later.

The parade will proceed south on Walnut Street to Bloomingdale Road, north on Maple Street to Irving Park Road, north on Walnut to Division Street, east to Linden Street, west on Center Street to Walnut, and south to Orchard Street and its conclusion at the parkway.

The Lake Park High School band, Lancers, Itasca elementary school band, Itasca Lions Club, and the Itasca Junior Woman's Club will participate. Village officials will ride in a 1929 pumper unit from the local fire department.

REV. ROBERT Leshner of St. Matthew Lutheran Church will speak and Father Jerome Kelly of St. Peter's Catholic Church will give the invocation and benediction.

A parade sponsored by Addison VFW Post 744C will begin at 11 a.m. from Addison Trail High School, Lombard and Army Trail roads, and conclude at the municipal building where services will be held.

Carnival Tonight

The Bensenville Park District carnival opens tonight from 7 to 10 o'clock in Central Park, Church Road and Main Street, Bensenville.

Memorial Day hours are also 7 to 10 p.m. An extra hour will be added Saturday when it remains open to 11 p.m. The Sunday matinee will be from 1 to 5 p.m. and from 6 to 10 p.m.

Proceeds will go toward purchase of July 4 fireworks.

Carnival rides include three for intermediate teens and three for youngsters, along with game booths and other attractions. Refreshments will be available.

THE TRABANT, a tilt-a-whirl and the Flying Tiger are designed for the older fun-seekers. The younger set has a ferris wheel, merry-go-round and kiddie-cage.

The park district is looking for lifeguards so the swimming pool can be opened this weekend, according to William Floring, park director. It will be open only on weekends until early June when school is out, he said.

The district's miniature golf course is scheduled for opening tonight, he said, and will be open on weekends only probably until June 7.

Weather permitting and provided lifeguards are found, the pool will be open Friday night, he said.

The park district also is sponsoring another carnival over the Fourth of July holidays along with the annual fireworks display.

Radio Duo In Parade

Chuck Benson and Kurt Russell of WIND radio will lead the Roselle Rose parade June 8 which honors Gary Steger.

The naming of a Rose queen will follow the parade. Among other prizes, a $100 cash award will be given to the queen.

Runners-up will receive $25 savings bonds. Charm bracelets are awarded to all contestants.

An American Legion carnival will run from June 5 through 8 after a three-year absence of the event.

Benson and Russell say they are Chicago's first two-man music team. They combine music with comic regulars, renowned guest voices and sounds of night life in Chicago.

WIND radio has contributed towards the Gary Steger Foundation for injured athletes in time, effort and funds. The parade starts at 1:30 p.m. from Trinity Lutheran Church, Roselle.

Summer Study Necessity Now

It used to be that only the "dummies" went to summer school because they had failed a course and needed to make it up.

At Fenton High School this summer, many students will be attending school to take the extra courses they won't otherwise be able to have because of curtailment next fall.

The curtailment limits the number of solid subjects a student can take to four. Seniors will only be allowed to take a fifth solid subject in the fall if they have attended summer school.

School will be held from June 16 through July 31. A student can earn one semester's credit in either one or two subjects, or two semester's credit in one subject.

THE SCHOOL DAY will begin at 7.45 a.m. The first period will run from 8:05 to 10:05 a.m. and the second will be from 10:15 a.m. to 12:15 p.m.

The maximum amount of time a student can spend in summer school at Fenton is four hours a day, five days a week, for six weeks.

One interesting aspect of the high school summer program is that a student can repeat a course he has already taken and passed to raise his grade.

Summer school director William Jonkheer said sometimes a student feels that although he passed a course, he needs more time with the subject.

At the same time he is learning and reviewing, he can improve his original grade in the course.

Jonkheer said that one problem which administrators have run into in the past is late summer registrants. If a student is in danger of failing a course, Jonkheer said, he should enroll now. If the student passes the course after all, he can withdraw his name from the roster, and receive his fees back in full.

TWO OFTEN, Jonkheer said, a student does not receive his grades for the regular school year until after summer school has started.

Since attendance policies in the summer program are necessarily strict, a student cannot come into the class after the first day.

The summer school program at Fenton will be self-supporting with the cost set at $22 per subject per semester. Participants do not have to be students at Fenton during the regular school year to qualify for the summer program.

Fenton hopes to offer 19 courses this summer. A class must have an enrollment of 20 before it can be offered.

Courses offered at this time range from driver's education and noncredited summer tennis to the more specialized geology and architectural drawing courses.

Multiple-Family Code OK'd

After running the gamut of opposition, an amendment to the DuPage County multiple-family building code was passed Tuesday by the DuPage County Board of Supervisors.

The code amendment was called a compromise between what builders wanted and the county's wishes. It is an upgraded standard for construction of multi-family dwellings in unincorporated areas of the county and in municipalities where the local code is less restrictive.

It is slated to go into effect next month, according to Elbert Drogemueeller, assistant supervisor from Addison Township and chairman of the building committee.

"It drops the original requirement of having an architect on all buildings to just having one on small apartment buildings or larger structures," he said.

"THE SECOND compromise made at the urging of Chicagoland builders in the area was to lower the fire rating on walls from two hours resistance to one and a half hours. The builders claimed a two-hour rating would cut profits too much and make it harder to build apartment buildings."

Other code requirements concerning sound transmission within a building were completely removed until the county can consult a sound engineer, he said. There cal code is less restrictive.

Marvin was one of more than 90 residents Monday who protested a sidewalk program the village plans to have homeowners pay for by special assessment. Homeowners, however, have the option of saving money by getting the sidewalks put in themselves.

THE PROGRAM is part of an overall plan for more sidewalks in the village. They are safer for children, the village maintains, and become necessary as the village increases in population.

Homeowners, on the other hand, like the country atmosphere, which they say sidewalks will destroy. Also, they say they have to rip out shrubs and lawns for the sidewalks. Sidewalks cost money which they can spend in other ways, they add.

Marvin said a committee is being formed to take united action against the village board. He added that he is not at liberty to say who is organizing the committee.

Marvin admits he has been instrumental in opposing the village board in the past. He says he got national political parties out of local elections and that a referendum spearheaded by him several years ago let board members know they did not want apartments in town.

Marvin has lived in Roselle for 10 years. He is a certified public accountant.

Sidewalk Lawsuit Threatened

The president of the Roselle Homeowners Association has threatened to take legal action against the Roselle Village Board over a sidewalk program.

Mel Marvin of 218 Thorndale Road said, "Legal action would be the next step if the board persists in not listening to the people." He said the board was attempting to abuse the use of its police power in forcing homeowners to pay for sidewalks they do not want.

Varbel is a member of the Illinois State Toll Highway advisory committee. YAMANAKA WENT on to say construction of an underground entrance would disrupt traffic on the airport's main north-west-southeast runway.

Traffic at O'Hare is at the saturation point now, he said, adding that the relocated Illinois Rt. 19 (Elgin-O'Hare Expressway) will provide access around the south end of the field, but not under it.

Yamanaka said he based his opinion on the findings of a study, not yet complete, by Alfred Benesch & Co., Chicago consulting engineers.

"We need another air field," Yamanaka asserted.

Tunnel To O'Hare?

Will there be an underground entrance to O'Hare Airport from the west?

Two officials who should know what the highways of the future will be have different opinions.

Construction of a west underground entrance to O'Hare Airport is not likely, according to Henry Yamanaka of the Illinois Division of Highways.

Yamanaka said Wednesday cost of such a project would be very expensive and difficult to construct because of various utilities that are underground.

John Varbel, Bensenville village president, last week said there are plans to go underneath York Road for a west entrance which he said was "pretty well as-

Worth Meets Cost

by SYD JAMIESON

The Wood Dale Council has for some time been discussing the possibility of having a comprehensive plan made by a professional planning consultant.

Any action on this will have been the result of a suggestion by its own planning commission which has urged council members not to delay on this important program.

Last year the council listened intently to a representative from William S. Lawrence Associates, Chicago.

WHAT THE COUNCIL learned was that the price of developing a master plan for Wood Dale comes high, but the resulting benefits are worth it.

More and more, council members are recognizing that its adopted subdivision regulations and zoning ordinance and map are not considered a master plan for Wood Dale.

What they are finding out is that the village needs a thoroughly developed and adopted land use map, a traffic or thoroughfare study and studies and recommendations geared to Wood Dale's economic base, capital improvements and population projections.

Village officials may also find that their community with its new subdivisions and high rises and its older stable residential areas, will require what planners refer to as systematic code enforcement.

UNDER SYSTEMATIC code enforcement, the sound sectors of the community are programmed to maintain property values through compliance with an adequate housing code, including electrical, plumbing, building and fire protection.

To maintain this activity the village itself must program various improvements to arrest any decline in these neighborhoods, such as streets, curbs, gutters, sewer and water.

But in programming these improvements, a five or 10-year program should be developed with the help of a qualified planning consultant.

Wood Dale has made a start in its public facilities through the completion of its expanded sewage treatment plant, additional wells and water reservoirs and a major water extension project throughout the village.

INROADS HAVE also been made in recent pre-annexation agreements such as the Brookwood development where additional sewer and water facilities have been programmed.

Georgetown has provided the village with a thriving shopping center which has sparked increased sales tax revenue to the village.

There is talk of industrial development north of School Street and a reorganized industrial committee is mapping promotion campaigns to spark further interest in seeking developers.

Tied into this promotion is Wood Dale's continuing fight for annexations to the north to ward off further encroachment by Elk Grove Village.

VILLAGE OFFICIALS can readily see what is happening in Bensenville and Itasca with their industrial parks. Tax relief for its local school districts is becoming more and more critical to stem the rising costs of education.

To put it bluntly, Wood Dale needs professional planning and a master plan to see its way through the 1970's.

ARF, ARF, SHHHH! In a recent DuPage County Board discussion about allowing dog kennels near homes, one supervisor argued it wasn't any worse than allowing horses. It was loudly retorted by several opponents that "horses don't bark." Well neither will the dogs this time because the board decided not to permit them, even though most members were quick to assure everyone they were dog-lovers. The members figured some dog-lovers might become dog-haters after being kept awake all night.

REMBLINGS FROM ROSELLE: Roselle Village Pres. Bob Frantz and Trustee Tony Bonavolonta don't exactly see eye-to-eye. Example: Frantzville developers a while back submitted plans and specs for a new house project. Monday Frantz was ready to act on them but Bonavolonta objected saying he didn't see them. They've been around for six months. Frantz and Tony retorted: "Oh, they came. To whom?" Let's get together folks. It's going to be a long four years otherwise.

WHO SAYS THE YOUNG DO ALL THE PROTESTING? More than 80 oldsters and homeowners Monday blasted a vote at the Roselle Village Board's plans to subdivide north of Irving Park Road. They didn't demonstrate or picket the village hall but they sure were to the point in condemning the board. They say early elections about the roadway make lousy scenery.

SNAPPY DRESSERS: Bensenville police have started wearing American flag patches similar to those worn by Astronauts on their right shoulders. Said Officer Lenny Mendoza: "Why not, that's what it's all about, isn't it?"

THAT'S THE SPIRIT: Itasca may be small in numbers but surely not short when it comes to community spirit. They'll have a parade on Memorial Day like other "big time" towns and won't be outdone by any smaller communities either. Itascans like keeping in step.

AMUSING TOPIC: Most hearings about zoning and other earth-shaking matters usually put the audience (if there is any) fast asleep. One scheduled for June 12 in Addison will be different. A special use permit for construction of an amusement park on Lake Street in Addison will be probed and con-ed. A group of fun-loving kids is reported mustering support. The hearing may prove to be a real merry-go-round, but what's new about that?

HERE COME THE NOISE: The federal government recently gave Chicago $300,000 in grants funds for construction of the proposed northeast-southwest runway. The hang-up is that the aircraft using the new landing strip will fly over Bensenville. Chicago gets the bucks and Bensenville gets the you-know-what.

Stueve Cleared of Battery

William Stueve, also known as Steve, may be a lot of things to a lot of people, but he is not a batter. Magistrate Jack Parish of Wood Dale decided in DuPage County Circuit Court Tuesday.

Stueve — or Steve — who lives at 168 S. Walnut Street and operates Steve's Tavern at 112 W. Irving Park Road, Wood Dale, has been under fire for the last two months for health violations reported by the DuPage County Health Department.

And, last year he was given a 10-day suspension of his liquor license by the Village of Wood Dale for serving liquor to a minor. He was fined $100 for the serving after a guilty verdict by DuPage County

Magistrate George Borovic, but the minor was acquitted of charges of purchasing the liquor.

THEN, JUST BEFORE the health department began leaning on Stueve this year, a battery charge was brought against him by Joseph Lagowski of Villa Park, who said he was struck and pushed to the tavern floor the evening of March 29.

The Health department eased up on Stueve a couple of weeks ago with regard to health violations.

And Parish returned a not guilty verdict in the battery case Tuesday. Enough was enough.

Hospital Appoints Two

Dorothy M. Gioielli and Anthony D. Damiani have been named associate administrators of Memorial Hospital, Elmhurst, by the hospital board of trustees.

Both have served as assistant administrators since December, 1964.

Miss Gioielli joined Memorial Hospital in November 1959, as an administrative assistant for professional services. Damiani came to the hospital in May, 1960, as personnel director.

Miss Gioielli was formerly employed in nursing service administration in several hospitals in New York City, and obtained a master's degree in hospital administration from the School of Public Health and Administrative Medicine, Columbia University.

She also is a graduate of Mount Vernon Hospital School of Nursing, Mount Vernon, N.Y., and holds a master's degree in nursing administration from the School of Education, New York University. She lives in Elmhurst.

Damiani, a graduate of Drake University, was formerly with St. Francis Hospital in Peoria, and Iowa Methodist Hospital, Des Moines, in administrative and personnel capacities. He lives with his wife Norma and son Michael in Elmhurst.

Teachers Offered Pact

Pupil Aid Hike OK'd

SPRINGFIELD — A bill to raise the state public school foundation level from $400 to $550 per pupil per year was passed, 149-16, yesterday by the House and sent to the Senate.

The House also passed, 99-63, a bill for $32 million in state aid to parochial schools. The new public school aid formula means the state guarantees, if the district qualifies, the difference between what local property taxes raise in a school district and the $550 level.

Foreign Aid Request

WASHINGTON — President Nixon yesterday proposed spending $2.58 million on foreign aid in the next fiscal year, the smallest presidential request in the program's history, but more than Congress appropriated last year.

Among major innovations Nixon proposes are creation of an "auditor-general" in the Agency for International Development to root out waste and corruption, and creation of a corporation to get private industry to do business in developing nations.

Hill Still Strong

SAIGON — U.S. Headquarters said yesterday a "substantial" force of American troops remaining on Hamburger Hill could defeat any attempt by North Vietnamese regulars to reoccupy the peak.

Withdrawal of about 600 men came on the eve of a Viet Cong-proclaimed 48-hour ceasefire, effective 5 p.m. CDT, Wednesday, in observance of the birthday of Buddha, to be followed by a 24-hour "stand-down" to be observed by allied troops.

Nickerson Is Sought

BELLEVILLE — William Raymond Nickerson, 30, charged with murder yesterday in the slayings of a teenage Muscatine couple on the night of their high school prom, is being sought.

The St. Clair County sheriff's office said Nickerson was apparently in the area from April 14 until he left May 7, two days after the bodies of Michael Morrison, 18, and Deborah Means, 15, were found. Nickerson is also being sought in connection with armed robberies and rapes in Clinton County and New London, Mo.

Spy Plans to States

WASHINGTON — Within two years, the Justice Department's new anti-crime agency plans to make the nation's top spy techniques available to the states to help them keep track of organized racketeers.

Charles Rogovin, chief of the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, said yesterday that two Defense Department intelligence-gathering agencies are cooperating with six states to develop a computerized crime intelligence system.

Lawmakers to Paris

WASHINGTON — The first of 50 House members and 20 of their aides began leaving for Paris Wednesday to attend the Paris International Air show, financed with tax dollars.

Each day they are gone, each member of the party will be authorized $50 in government funds for living expenses. The main group is scheduled to leave Saturday and return seven days later.

650 Highway Deaths?

CHICAGO — The National Safety Council has estimated that 550 to 650 persons will die on the nation's highways over the Memorial Day weekend from 6 p.m. today to midnight Sunday.

Last year, the holiday weekend was one day longer and the council estimated 625 to 725 deaths. The toll was 628.

Graduating At 4

by MARILYN RUBEN

Seventy-five pre-school Elk Grove youngsters marched down the aisle, hand-made mortarboards wobbling on their heads and diplomas clutched in their chubby little hands.

A mini-graduation? Precisely. At the tender age of 4, these children qualified for their commencement ceremony with completion of the 15-session "Project 444," the four-dimensional program for 4-year-olds.

Sponsored by the Student Services Team of Ruple and Clearmont schools, Project 444 has served in the last year as the suburban answer to "Project Headstart." Fifteen trained "teacher-moms" have supervised groups of 15 children with activities to provide a stimulating and exciting first contact with the public school system.

ACCORDING TO Tom Smith, Ruple School psychologist and an innovator of the program, each one-hour session of Project 444 included work in four areas — socialization, language development, gross motor skills and auditory-visual-motor skills.

The curriculum, developed by Smith along with the "teacher-moms," provided

Retain 4-Meeting Schedule

A proposal to cut the Elk Grove Village Board meeting schedule from four to three meetings per month was killed this week.

At the board's meeting Tuesday night, Trustees George Coney, Richard McGrenera, Eugene Keith and Ronald Chernick were opposed, while Trustees Charles Zettek and Tom Ullmann said they had mixed feelings.

Passing the idea around the board room, Coney said "We're not ready for it."

"I agree," McGrenera said.

"I don't object to it if the administration feels there would be advantages," Zettek said, questioning the nature of the proposed workshop meeting for the second meeting of the month.

KEITH'S objections are temporary. "I have no objection to the idea, but without a finance director and village engineer, we'll have a lot more work to do for a while."

He was referring to Donald Eppley, former finance director now working for Teachers in School Dist. 59 are expected to vote a week from tomorrow on new contract offer agreeable to the Teachers' Council leadership. It calls for base salary on standard services contracts of $7,000 and extended services of $7,300.

In an interview yesterday afternoon, Harlan Michels, chairman of the council salary committee, announced the basic terms of the contract and said it was satisfactory to the committee.

Shortly afterward, the district administration released a statement which said a settlement "was tentatively agreed to at a meeting on Tuesday. The proposal will be finished Thursday afternoon."

Administration officials said the proposal will go to the board of education Monday night, and to the teachers Tuesday morning. It will be distributed to the press Monday, the statement said.

THE ANNOUNCEMENT indicated that teachers will vote on the proposal June 6, but Michels didn't set a definite date.

"We're very satisfied with the package," he said, "and we should have it to our entire membership in a week to 10 days."

While details of the new contract were not immediately available, Michels specified that the teachers won a collective bargaining contract, significantly higher salary, a promise from the district to cut class sizes, and a variety of fringe benefits.

He said the increase in base pay from $6,300 to $7,000 is the foundation of similar increases throughout the pay scale of the district.

Extended services contracts, which include extra pay for assisting with extra-curricular activities, begin at $7,300 for a bachelor's degree and no experience.

CONTRACTS WILL be for 10 months.

Additionally, Michels said, the board agreed to making extended services contracts available to 50 per cent of the 450 teachers, an increase of 25 per cent over what was offered. The district will also underwrite complete costs of a $10,000 life insurance and complete major medical insurance policies.

"Most significantly," Michels said, "the board will include a statement to the effect that all extra funds will be used for increasing the number of staff at the classroom level."

Teachers wanted a limit on class sizes, and the board refused to negotiate the point. The compromise was struck Tuesday night.

Michels said the Teachers' Council leadership planned a meeting last night to set a date for vote on the proposal.

"We will ask that they ratify this contract offer," Michels said, giving his endorsement. Earlier, the teachers unanimously agreed to give the salary committee complete confidence in bargaining with the board.

RATIFICATION seems likely.

Both sides had been at odds since early this year, when teachers demanded $7,500 and the board offered $6,900. At one point, when teachers rejected the last board offer, negotiations were broken off, and teachers began to talk about "waiting as

Pahl's Expenses Irk Board

About two-thirds of the way down page two of "accounts payable warrant," a listing of bills that Elk Grove Village trustees peruse and grant or deny payment, was a singular item designated by account number 10-431.

It was for $128.87, payable to Pres. Jack Pahl for "expense for travel for testimony given at General Assembly on House Bills and meeting expense."

And, for a short time Tuesday night, that item was under detailed scrutiny by two trustees, and the following question and answer period resulted in two negative votes.

Trustee Richard McGrenera opened the questioning, wondering why Pahl should be paid. The president explained that those were costs he incurred, that sometimes the Council of Governments pays the tab, and on one occasion he paid for himself.

"You were representing the village?"

"Yes," Pahl replied.

McGRENERA THEN probed for specifics, and Pahl responded by pointing to pending legislation regarding annexation, local government affairs and zoning.

At this point Trustee George Coney noted an increase in the president's salary, and asked, "Shouldn't these items come out of that?"

Pahl said he felt it shouldn't be a personal expense.

"Then the increase wasn't sufficient?" came Coney's next question.

Instead of answering, Pahl asked the board if there were any further questions on the motion — to approve payment of bills — and, after a pause, called for a vote.

McGrenera and Trustee Tom Ullmann voted no, and when asked later if it pertained to the specific item, both trustees said yes.

McGrenera and Trustee Eugene Keith complained that the board never authorized Pahl to testify in Springfield, never directed him on what position the village should take and never received detailed reports of Pahl's testimony.

"HOW DO WE KNOW he even went?" asked Ullmann. "His answers were vague, and could have been picked up just by listening to the radio."

Ullmann expressed disappointment that Coney and Keith voted yes on the motion, and said his no vote was founded on the promise he made during the recent campaign to vote against anything about which he was not completely informed.

Want Lifeguards

Elk Grove Park District put out an appeal yesterday for about 10 men, 16 or older, to serve as lifeguards during the swimming season.

Park Director Jack Claes said applicants must pass the Chicago lakefront lifeguard tests and be a "senior lifesaver" or be able to qualify to be a senior lifesaver.

Additional information may be obtained from Claes at 437-8780.

Helicopter Ambulance Pioneer in Suburbs

by DON BRANNAN
A helicopter ambulance service will be on duty in the Northwest suburbs throughout the Memorial Day weekend as a pioneer project in medical rescue work. The helicopter evacuation service is being provided by the Cook County Sheriff's Police.

Two helicopters will be used to respond to any emergency call in northwest Cook County.

A helicopter will be stationed at area hospitals this weekend during daylight hours, prepared to answer any request for emergency evacuation service.

The schedule for the helicopter service is as follows: Today, Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge; Friday, Holy Family Hospital, Des Plaines; Saturday, St. Alexius Hospital in Elk Grove Village; Sunday, Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights.

OPERATION ALERT (Aerial Law Enforcement Rescue Team) will go into effect noon today and will be in operation from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. through Sunday.

Project director is Capt. Richard D. Lowthorp of the Cook County Sheriff's Police, a resident of Schaumburg.

"We are applying the same concepts of medical aid as the airborne medics on the battlefield in Viet Nam," Capt. Lowthorp told suburban policemen at an orientation session for Project ALERT Tuesday afternoon. The session was held in Schaumburg's Great Hall.

Two helicopters were also in Schaumburg to give practical demonstrations of landing and speed capabilities. Each cop-ter has a top speed of 150 m.p.h. and a each carries two ambulance litters, plus the pilot and a medical technician.

The Cook County Sheriff's Police Department envisions a fleet of 10 helicop-ters in suburban Cook County in the future, dispersed at strategic points for quick emergency response.

NERVE CENTER of the helicopter service is the communications center of the Sheriff's Police on the sixth floor of the County Building.

"The average time lapse between am-bulance notification and the time when the victim arrives at the hospital is 31 min-utes," Lowthorp said. He indicated that the average response time of a ground ambulance is 14 minutes.

According to Lowthorp, the helicopter will provide a maximum response time of five minutes and will be able to transport an accident victim to the hospital in three minutes.

An estimated 25 to 30,000 persons could be saved from permanent disability as the result of car accidents if they receive in-tensive treatment earlier, Lowthorp told police officers.

Statistics of the Cook County Sheriff's Police indicate there has been a 57 per cent increase in accidents in suburban Cook County over the past five years, and a 35 per cent increase in injuries.

DAMAGE IN property and personal in-juries as the result of these accidents has totaled more than $95 million.

At present the Cook County Sheriff's Police Department is thinking of forming a division of aeronautical services within the department that would provide around-the-clock helicopter rescue service. This group would be composed of 40 to 50 persons, including pilots and trained med-ical technicians.

"We are not proposing to do away with the ground ambulance," Lowthorp stressed. "The helicopter service is only intended to supplement ground ambulance service."

Two helicopters have been loaned to the Cook County Sheriff's Police for use in connection with Operation ALERT. The helicopters are manufactured by Bell Helicopter and Fairchild-Hiller Co. The cost of the helicopter model being used is $135,000.

THE HELICOPTERS will be in radio contact with police officers at an accident scene as well as medical personnel when they are en route to the hospital with a victim.

Policemen from Schaumburg, Hoffman Estates, Hanover Park, Rolling Meadows and Barrington Hills attended Tuesday's orientation session in Schaumburg.

Mini-Graduation

games which involved cooperation, atten-tion and group sharing, exercises in vo-cabulary expansion, and training in muscle coordination. "If the participating children can simply have fun, so that they begin kindergarten with a positive ori-entation," he said, "then our major goal will have been attained."

One of the primary purposes of Project 44 has been to demonstrate "that moth-ers have the talents and capabilities nec-essary to organize and operate a pre-school program which will provide chil-dren with a significant developmental ex-perience," Smith said. "Tapping the re-sources of the community at large is something too many schools have not done."

There is a wealth of available talent — in mothers, fathers, high school and college youth and senior citizens."

While Project 44 is the largest venture to date, it is not the only program which provides "helping relationships" for chil-dren. Smith is well on his way to lassoing more local talent for use in his other plans.

HE DRAFTS STUDENTS from his psy-chology class at Harper Junior College, welcomes volunteers through the Elk Grove Community Service, and uses such paraprofessionals as social work interns from the Circle Campus who provide in-dividual and family counseling plus cer-tified-but-unemployed teachers, who serve as part-time tutors.

Two high school volunteers from Future Teachers of America and several mothers training exercises: a high school girl with reading problems serves as the "listening ear" for primary reading students in need of a one-to-one relationship.

Two seniors in group work program-ming at George Williams College have or-ganized after-school and weekend programs for boys, supplying recreational and psychosocial support. And a lonely, unhappy boy spends a couple hours each week in discussion and games with an out-going, happy-go-lucky boy of the same age.

For those students labeled as the EMH (Educable Mentally Handicapped), Smith has provided a boys' hobby shop and girls' homcraft class, in which the stu-dents create projects while learning to use tools, follow directions, measure and count. Under the direction of Mrs. Karen Metzler, the girls have molded and glazed ceramic cups, and learned to knit, cook and sew. The boys, guided by Bill Doolan, a 20-year-old Harper College student, have made boats and Christmas trees and are setting up a workshop for next year.

WHILE AT FIRST glance these pro-grams appear to be solely recreational, they are learning-centered, especially for the child who needs emotional help or lacks necessary skills. Periodic confer-ences between student service counselors and teachers provide insight into student problems, many of which have diminished in intensity.

But often it is those who have offered their valuable time to the project who find they are learning most of all, Smith said. "Satisfaction and personal growth come to a person who reaches out and helps another person."

This is seen in the way housewives Pat Peacock and Denise Sadlenback "rose to the challenge of the assignment and have done yeoman's jobs."

It is seen in the plans of Social Worker Sandy Spencer to include work with chil-dren in her future.

But most of all, it is seen in the words of Mrs. Karen Metzler, as she observed a child in her class: "See how she lights up! When I first met her, she wouldn't crack a smile!"

Expansion Completed At Plaza Valueland

Plaza Valueland in the Golf-Rose Shop-ping Center, Hoffman Estates, has doubled in size and has added two new departments, a wiggy and a jewelry store.

Grand opening activities, continuing through Sunday, include sales on costume jewelry, radios, razors and other mer-chandise.

Owner Lyle Levy noted that "there is a definite need for a large jewelry store in this area, and we offer name-brand jew-elry at discount prices."

The new addition to Plaza Valueland, recently carpeted and paneled, is adjacent to the original store location. The store has been in Hoffman Estates for more than two years.

Driver Injured

Mary J. Shoop, 22, of 3N646 Oakleaf, near Bensenville, was treated for bruises and cuts Monday following a two-car ac-cident at Illinois 83 and Oak, near Ben-senville.

DuPage deputies report she was taken to Elmhurst Memorial Hospital.

Driver of the other car, Kenneth L. Den-nis, 20, of 430 Parkside, Itasca, was charged with driving with an expired li-cense.

long as necessary" for the board to agree to faculty requests.

Last week, however, Supt. Donald Thomas suggested alterations in the fringe benefit proposals and managed to get both sides back to the bargaining table.

Teachers' Council leadership dodged comment on prospects for settlement prior to the meeting, as did sources within the district administration.

Thomas yesterday declined immediate comment on how much the contracts will cost the district, and if additional funds will be needed. Presumably the effect of the contract on the district's barely bal-anced budget will not be known until ad-ditional details are announced Monday.

At the instigation of Village Atty Edward Hofert, potential office and research or high-density zoning for a 140-acre tract adjacent to south central Elk Grove Village was scrapped by the Judiciary, Planning and Zoning Committee of the village board.

Moments later, land east of the old Section 1-E in the northeastern portion of the community was stripped of planned industrial zoning, and replaced with residential.

Additionally, a considered small commercial area at Tome and Landmeier reverted to residential, and thinking toward small multi-family and commercial areas west of Illinois Rt. 53 were also scrapped, and replaced with R-3 — a designation of single family residential on 7,500-square-foot lots.

ALL OF THIS OCCURRED at a committee meeting early Tuesday evening centered around a proposed zoning district map from municipal planner Rolf Campbell.

It had shown the 140 acres of unincorporated land, bounded by Route 53, Bismarck Road, Bieserfeld Road and Devon Avenue to be mostly office and research zoning.

That was contrary to the village's master plan, which pegged the area as single-family. However, the limited access expressway, I-90, will nearly bisect the property, and "O/R" was suggested.

But Tuesday night, Hofert recommended that it be shown as R-3, on the grounds that any other designation would affect the value of the land, might lead to progressive and undesirable zoning elsewhere and puts the burden of a rezoning request on any developer.

Trustees Richard McGrenera, Tom Ullmann and Eugene Keith hashed the idea around, but eventually agreed to return to the "holding action" style of low density zoning until a developer proves otherwise.

WITH THAT, "R3" WAS penciled in to replace "future O/R," to include the area owned by Joseph Zizzo. The 27 acres on the extreme southeast corner of the area in question is petitioned to be multiple family by Zizzo, but thus far the Cook County Zoning Board of Appeals has recommended otherwise.

Sweeping across Campbell's map with "R1" designations, the three trustees turned to the oldest section of town and the potentially neighboring industrial park.

That section most village officials concede, represents the worst zoning mistake made by Elk Grove in its 13 year history. Residents are furious with the lack of neighborhood parks and the plan to put industrial development immediately east of them.

For some time a variety of ideas to correct as best possible these problems have been discussed, and without much prompting the Judiciary, Planning and Zoning committee blue-penciled "I1" — the new designation for light industrial — and replaced it with a strip of "A1" (low density multiple family 12 units per acre), a strip of "O/R" (office and research) and finally "I1."

AFTER ULLMANN and McGrenera had suggested a buffer of "O/R," Kothe added the idea of multi family. He argued that whenever the village sticks a basic residential tag on property the rule of 10 per cent land donation comes into play. That 10 per cent he suggested, could be used for park land.

Agreement came from all others pieced.

Northwest corner of Bieserfeld and Arlington Heights roads, opposite the Grove Shopping Center, had been marked for commercial but after arguing the need for more retail stores in that area and the zoning to the immediate north — multi family — the three trustees decided to make the property R3 the same as a zoned for the adjacent Centex Corp. planned unit development.

THE MAP IN QUESTION is to accompany the village's new comprehensive zoning ordinance currently at the plan commission level for public hearings.

It largely reflects the master plan approved late last year in sitting up high industrial on the eastern third of town and single family residential everywhere else. Exceptions are made here and there for low density multi family and small commercial areas.

EDWARD HOFERT, village attorney for Elk Grove Village and counsel to the Judiciary, Planning and Zoning Committee's efforts for a new comprehensive zoning ordinance, argued against considered office and research zoning near Illinois Rt. 53. The committee concurred.

Tunnel To O'Hare?

sured "Varble is a member of the Illinois State Toll Highway advisory committee.

YAMANAKA WENT on to say construction of an underground entrance would disrupt traffic on the airport's main north west southeast runway.

Traffic at O'Hare is at the saturation point now, he said, adding that the relocated Illinois Rt. 19 (Elgin O'Hare Expressway) will provide access around the south end of the field, but not under it.

Yamanaka said he based his opinion on the findings of a study, not yet complete, by Alfred Benesch & Co., Chicago consulting engineers.

"We need another air field," Yamanaka asserted.

Will there be an underground entrance to O'Hare Airport from the west?

Two officials who should know what the highways of the future will be have different opinions.

Construction of a west underground entrance to O'Hare Airport is not likely, according to Henry Yamanaka of the Illinois Division of Highways.

Yamanaka said the cost of such a project would be very expensive and difficult to construct because of various utilities that are underground.

John Varble, Bensenville village president, last week said there are plans to go underneath York Road for a west entrance which he said was "pretty well as-

NEC Is Established

The Northwest Educational Cooperative, a venture that 10 area school districts think may become a model for cooperation in the state of Illinois was formally established last night in a meeting at the Scandia House, Mount Prospect.

Three Arlington Heights men, each from a different school board were named as NEC officers. Ted Seiler of the Arlington Heights Dist. 25 School Board was named president of the cooperative, Jerry Crist of the Wheeling Dist. 21 board was tapped for vice president and Arthur Aronson, president of the Dist. 214 board, co-op secretary.

Walter Sundling of Palatine Dist. 15 was nominated for vice chairman but asked to have his name withdrawn because of heavy business commitments.

THE COOPERATIVE governing board is made up of one delegate from each of the 10 participating high schools, Dist. 211 and 24 and their feeder elementary district with superintendents of the districts as ex-officio members.

Seiler said the first priority of the new co-op will be to hire an executive director. An interviewing committee headed by Dist. 21 Supt. Kenneth Gill, is already contacting universities and management consultant firms for candidates.

The co-op board is considering businessmen as well as educators for its chief director's post since organizers expect the NEC group to offer jointly supported school business services such as transportation and purchasing as well as getting into such education related areas as teacher recruitment and teacher-service training.

NEC may also become a lobbying group, conversation at last night's meeting indicated. Aronson and Arlington Heights Dist. 25 Supt. Donald Strong urged NEC members to consider establishing a "common front" to work for improved safety for school children in dealing with such agencies as the Cook County Board of Commissioners or the State Division of Highways.

The cooperative's first year budget will be $30,000 apportioned among the districts. Each school district will pay $1,000 and share a portion of the other $20,000 on the basis of its pupil population. High School Dist. 214 will serve as administrative district of the cooperative during its first three years. As official NEC bookkeeper, one of Dist. 214's first duties will be to bill members for their quarterly membership payment due July 1.

"Will you take script?" quipped Dist. 59 representative Charles Stansky. Remembering Dist. 59's position as the richest Northwest suburban district — but one almost to the wall because of spending problems — everyone hooted Stansky barely smiled.

Define Library Service Area

The Schaumburg Township Library has received the report of a recently completed study by the Institute of Urban Life which defines its natural service zone.

The natural service zone of libraries evaluated involves areas based on convenient access to libraries by residents rather than legally defined boundaries.

The library study of the Institute of Urban Life was conducted for North Suburban Library System, of which the Schaumburg Library is a member. Twenty-eight libraries belong to the system.

For the Schaumburg Township Library, its natural service zone includes an area north of the township up to Algonquin Road. However, this area is primarily industrial rather than residential.

UNDER ILLINOIS LAW, the North Suburban Library System, a joint agency of the State of Illinois and libraries in north-eastern Illinois, is responsible for developing locally supported library service for every resident of the system's area.

Currently an estimated 15 per cent of northern Cook, eastern Lake, and north-eastern Kane counties do not have local public library service. The system's policy is to encourage local service to this underserved population by the extension of service from the existing libraries. Financial support of such service would come from the residents of areas receiving the library service.

A committee of the board of directors for the North Suburban Library System, including Harold Bond of the Schaumburg Library Board, is now using the results of the study report in the planning of pilot projects involving the extension of service to areas previously without public library service.

Burger Chef Asked for Assurances

Representatives of Burger Chef division of General Foods, who plan construction of a restaurant in part of the village of Schaumburg without sewer and water facilities, were asked this week to present documented evidence of assurance they were given some time ago that a tap on to Hoffman Estates facilities would be insured.

Burger Chef people maintain that when they purchased the property on Golf Road on which they plan to build, the original owner, Southland Corp., assured them that sewer and water service would be available.

SOUTHLAND CORP. had earlier paid for sewer extensions totaling more than $10,000.

Representatives of the restaurant operation promised to return to next Monday's village board meeting with tangible evidence of the information given them.

Odor Leads To Plant

The north lagoon at the Metropolitan Sanitary District's Hanover Park plant is blamed for the odor problem that brought complaints from local residents.

Mrs. James Reeves and three other residents met Tuesday with MSD engineer, including Ben Sosowicz. MSD officials at first doubted that any odors from the plant could reach into most areas of the village, Mrs. Reeves said.

Sosowicz did concede that the smell could go over the high banks around the MSD property. He said the smell was probably coming from the north lagoon, which contains sludge from cleaning out the digester. The sludge is being dried out, but it may have to be trucked out, Mrs. Reeves said.

MSD OFFICIALS said they received only seven odor complaints, but the plant's telephone number is unlisted, Mrs. Reeves said.

About 700 Hanover Park residents signed petitions protesting the odor.

MSD officials asked to be notified when residents are bothered by the odor.

Tuesday afternoon the Hanover Park residents walked the creek (west branch of the DuPage River) and concluded that the odor was not from the creek, but from the sanitary district, Mrs. Reeves said.

Regner Bills OKd

Rep. Dave Regner, R-Mount Prospect, has been given Illinois House approval on bills affecting the Illinois Departments of Mental Health and General Services.

From the House floor, the bills will go to the Senate for consideration.

Regner also got favorable disposal on two bills changing the date of annual township meetings to the second Tuesday in April.

Regner said the series of bills on the Department of Mental Health were recommendations of the Mental Health Fund Advisory Committee. The Third District representative is a member of this committee.

"THESE BILLS will do away with several inefficient boards and commissions in the area of research now operating in the department," Regner said. "They will establish a single authority with responsibilities to coordinate all research operations."

He said each state mental health institution now operates its own research department with no regard to other hospital research work, Regner said there is duplication of effort, resulting in a waste of money.

"With a single authority over research, we will save money, and I'm sure also will have a more viable mental health research operation."

House Bill 2117 provides that the director of the Department of General Services also be a member of the Civil Defense Advisory Council. Regner said the department director should be aware of Civil Defense requirements, since the department's field is telecommunications.

"THE TECHNICAL aspects of telecommunications through contribution by the department director will make the council more meaningful."

Regner's bills to change annual town meetings will move the meetings from the first to the second Tuesday in April. He explained the meeting on the first Tuesday is the same date as township elections.

"This move will eliminate the confusion which often occurs when the township meeting is on the same day as a general township meeting," he said.

Near and Far...A Time To Remember

by DAVID HOYT

At least one group in New Haven Conn. shot-gunning the American flag and then kneeling will celebrate Memorial Day by burying it, according to reports in a national magazine.

But most of the country will celebrate the 101-year-old event with the usual parades, picnics and pilgrimages to the graves of soldiers killed in combat.

Most of the country will mark the day, but a good portion that fought to break away from the union will ignore Friday.

The Southern states originally had no use for a day that was set aside to mark the heroism of the Grand Army of the Republic.

In Dixie, even today, the states have memorial days of their own, most of them coinciding with Jefferson Davis' birthday, June 3.

THE MAY 30 date was an arbitrary one picked by Gen. John Logan, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic.

He announced on May 5, 1888 that the 30th would be set aside "for the purpose of strewing with flowers or otherwise decorating the graves of comrades who died in the defense of their country during the late rebellion."

Since Logan's order the nation has engaged in five major conflicts, each one serving to renew the need for celebration of combat death.

In the northwest suburbs lie the bodies of an increasing number of young men slain in Viet Nam and tomorrow their sacrifice will be remembered. Nearly every community is planning some sort of commemoration.

Parades will be held in Wheeling, Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights, Bensenville, Itasca, Addison, Palatine and Rolling Meadows.

THE PARADE schedules are as follows:

—Wheeling. The parade starts at 10:30 a.m. at the AmVets Hall on Milwaukee Avenue and ends at the veterans memorial monument in Heritage Park. Two high school bands will take part along with veterans organizations and the Chicago Mounties Marching Troop.

—Mount Prospect. About 500 persons, most of them children will participate in the parade which will begin at the corner of Busse and School streets and end in Lions Park.

—Arlington Heights. The largest parade in the northwest suburbs will begin its march at 9:30 with the main route winding from Arlington Heights Road up Dunton Avenue and ending at Memorial Park.

—Bensenville. The parade begins at noon at Memorial and Cedar Streets, ending at the Bensenville VFW Post on York Road.

ITASCA. The village-sponsored parade

starts at 10 a.m. from Lane and Orchard streets and ends on Orchard near the railroad station where memorial services will be held.

—Addison. The VFW post will lead a parade beginning at 11 a.m. from Addison Trail High and ending at the municipal building and memorial services.

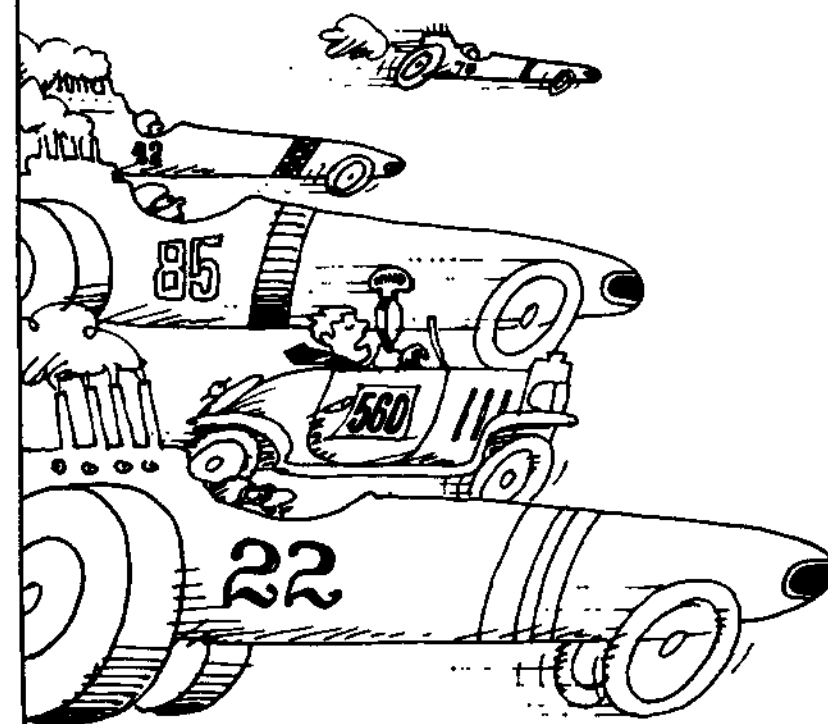

—Palatine. From Wood Street and Plum Grove Road the parade will proceed to Northside Cemetery where memorial services will be held. The Rev. Charles Diemer of St. Marcelline Church, Schaumburg will say a Memorial Day mass at St. Michael the Archangel Cemetery, Algonquin and Roselle roads. The 10:30 a.m. mass will include rifle salute and taps.

—Rolling Meadows. Dedication of Rolling Meadows' new city hall will mark the end of the parade there. Marchers will leave from St. Colette Church, Meadow Drive and Grouse Lane, head west on Knichoff Road and halt at the new city hall building where ceremonies will be held.

Restrict Park Appointees

From now on, park districts will have no more privileges than school districts in filling unexpired board terms.

Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie signed into law Monday a bill making park board appointments effective only until the next regularly scheduled election. A companion bill signed by the governor applies the same rule to soil conservation districts.

The measures were both sponsored by Rep. David J. Regner, R-Mount Prospect.

Under old law, when a vacancy occurred on either of these boards, remaining board members filled the vacancy for the entire unexpired term of the retiring member. Park district commissioners are elected to six-year terms, so it was possible to have a six-year appointee.

SCHOOL LAW has long required board appointees to enter the next regular election if they desire to serve. Elections then were for the number of years remaining in that term.

Regner said, "It seems only right that the electors should have the opportunity to elect and have represent them the people of their choosing, rather than the choosing of the remaining board members."

Another bill sponsored by Regner and awaiting the governor's signature would give junior college districts the power to establish junior college police departments. The power would be similar to that four-year state colleges have.

"With our growing junior college system, it's apparent that they have the same powers our senior colleges have to enforce the law on the campus," Regner said.

Predicts Iceless Lake

Different kinds of fish may inhabit waters of Lake Michigan after the completion of the proposed Commonwealth Edison Co. atomic-powered plant at Zion, and the seven additional nuclear plants scheduled for the shores of Lake Michigan.

"In time, lake water should be up to 30 degrees warmer," R. J. Magnuson, University of Wisconsin zoologist, asserted in an address at the annual meeting of the Lake Michigan Inter-League Group of the League of Women Voters.

Magnuson is studying effects of the temperature change on lake ecology.

Mrs. Arthur Brady, Mount Prospect, chairman of the local league's water committee, and Mrs. John H. Shubeck, Arlington Heights, heard Magnuson speak at the two-day conference held recently in Milwaukee.

THE LWV OF THE Arlington Heights-Mount Prospect area is one of 70 Illinois, Wisconsin, Indiana and Michigan leagues along the shores of Lake Michigan which comprise the inter-league group. The purpose of the group is to build public understanding of Lake Michigan's water problems and possible solutions.

Magnuson's speech reviewed the work of his special study as reported in Scientific American magazine: that there is a direct effect of water temperature on fish and that heat can change the kinds of fish able to live in Lake Michigan.

With the completion of the 30 projected nuclear power plants in the Great Lakes region, he predicted, there may be a time when the St. Lawrence Seaway will be open winter and summer, with no ice ever forming.

Women of the area interested in the study of water conservation may contact Mrs. Brady at 392-9931.

Membership in the league is open to any women interested in the league purpose of encouraging better informed citizen participation in government. Mrs. Theo Strahs, 255-4343, is membership chairman.

Almost Perfect! Wildcats Finish 18-1

Walkin' the Sidelines

by PAUL LOGAN

"THE STORY OF how LaGrange almost took all the marbles and was thwarted only by a freshman pitcher who had previously pitched only two innings of varsity ball, will be told and retold."

This quotation from "The Illinois Inter-scholastic" (Sept. 1962) appeared in the wrap-up story on the I.H.S.A. baseball tourney finals in June of that year.

The name of the freshman hurler — Bob Redpath — wouldn't mean much to Paddock area baseball fans for the youngster was from Eisenhower High School in Decatur — the state champs that year.

But his coach's name would be familiar — Clete Hinton, Harper Community College's baseball mentor, who just completed his first year guiding a first year team, took Eisenhower all the way just seven years ago.

Since the Paddock area's only downstate possibilities — Prospect and Palatine — didn't get out of regional play, and since no area team has ever taken the crown, Hinton is the only area coach that can possibly describe just what it takes to go all the way.

This week, seven Mays before, Hinton and his Panthers were at the Danville Sectionals. They got by Mattoon, 3-1, and then had to go up against powerful Donovan, 23-0 on the year. After that sectional finale Donovan was 22-1 as Eisenhower won, 4-0.

"In the first game of the state we were trailing 1-0 and pulled it out (2-1) and Galesburg had won 17 in a row," Hinton remembered. "The second game we were behind Rockford East, 3-2, and ended up winning 6-3 and they had had a 15-game winning streak."

"Then we played LaGrange, who had won 12 in a row, but we never were behind them. That was a barometer. It had to be the greatest sports thrill of my life," said Hinton of the 3-2 cliff-hanging clincher.

With one run across in the bottom of the seventh, the score reading 3-2 in favor of Decatur, runners on first and third and the best hitter for LaGrange up with two outs, freshman Redpath was really in a jam.

"He had pitched one inning in the opening game of the district and one in the semifinals," said Hinton, who had brought him in because he had a "good drop ball."

The strategy worked as the batter hit a high hopper to the third baseman who flipped it to second for the force out and the title.

"It was a strange feeling to know at the end of the championship game that the tournament was all over and nobody had beaten you," exclaimed the veteran coach.

But what makes a state champion?

Hinton explains it this way: "In 1961 we were beaten 6-1 in the opening game (at Peoria) by Canton. Several of our kids were back and this was certainly a great help."

Memorial Tourney Set

Herb Jackisch and James F. Strong of Mount Prospect will be participants in the ninth annual Children's Memorial Hospital Pro-Amateur golf tournament June 9 at Onwentsia Country Club in Lake Forest.

Like the other amateurs, Mr. Jackisch and Mr. Strong each paid in $500 to the hospital's Free Care fund for the privilege of competing. The fund requires $1.7 million annually to function.

Pairings for the best ball foursomes, each consisting of three amateurs and a pro from the national tour, will be made June 6, 4:30 p.m., at the Harquet Club in Chicago. At the same time one of the amateurs will have his name drawn to receive a favorite putter of Arnold Palmer's contributed by the star towards the success of the tournament.

The pros will have $15,000 in prize money at stake with winners counting in the tour earnings standings. Last year Dick Mayer tied the Onwentsia course record with a blistering eight-under-par 64 for top prize money. The leading foursomes were paced by pros Tom Shaw, later to win the rich Doral Open in Florida, and Harold Kreece.

Entries are still being accepted. Inquiries, and requests for information on tax-deductible spectator tickets may be directed to Pro-Amateur Golf, Box 288, Lake Forest, Ill., 60043.

"We certainly didn't think they were that good a ballclub. We thought they were average with a good defense. They were just average ability but they had so much confidence and they were a team."

"Ability is only part of it. Putting boys in the right spot, getting them to believe in themselves and to have confidence in each other and wanting to win as opposed to worrying about their batting averages."

"Confidence is a lot of it. I remember talking to them at a banquet afterwards. I said that they thought they were better than they really were and they proved it."

His first season downstate his team finished with a 12-5 mark. The state title season that followed found his final record being 17-3-1.

"We had training rules and hours," Hinton said. "In fact I'll always remember my best pitcher wasn't home one night. He'd been out fishing and we didn't take him along so we lost that game — one of the three we lost all year."

Clete Hinton

The five years he was leading the fortunes of the Panthers, he compiled a fine record of 53-26-1. They also were the Capital Conference champs and the regional champs three times each.

Before his 10 year stint with the Decatur school, Hinton was a standout as a high school and college hurler. He prepped at Shelbyville and was a starting pitcher all four years "only because when I was a freshman they reassigned baseball," Hinton said humbly.

He pitched his team to the district championship his senior year defeating Taylorville, 2-0.

"That got me the scholarship to Millikin University," Hinton said with a chuckle. "Seriously, Taylorville had a real good ballclub and was expected to go downstate. Nobody had ever heard of Shelbyville."

He lettered all four years at the Decatur college and had a 12-0 record in his last two years.

In 1965 he took a leave of absence from Eisenhower and went to the University of Illinois on a college guidance grant. While there he helped out as a freshman coach and as assistant to the varsity. After that he became a full-time guidance counselor at Glenbrook South for two years. During that time he was in charge of the pitchers and catchers of Coach Ed Baker's team.

Then the only coach to ever lead a Decatur team to a diamond title came to Harper College in 1967 as a guidance counselor and coach.

The Hawks are a part of the Northern Illinois Junior College League which is made up of two nine-team divisions. They are in the more difficult Eastern Division which includes all the Chicago schools. Out of this division could come the national champions as Wright College goes after the title this week at Grand Junction, Colo.

Into competition like this the first year Hawks and their first year mentor plunged and played .500 ball up until the last week of the season. Then — with the pressure of an inexperienced pitching staff catching up to them — they lost four tough ones including two by a single run.

This heartbreaking finish dropped the team's season record to 9-13 — the first time that Hinton had ever coached a losing effort.

But that will probably be the first and last time he or his Hawks will have to swallow such a bitter pill. He will have an excellent nucleus on which to build in 1970 and several high school seniors have indicated that they'll be attending the New Harper Campus this fall.

This young but experienced coach has tasted the sweet, sweet fruit of championships too many times to be kept down for long. In the not too far distant future the Hawks will be challenging the Chicago schools for the division, league and regional titles.

And, who knows, in some future year during this week in May the Hawks — guided by Hinton — might find themselves flying to the nationals.

Record 14-0 Loop Mark; Rip Pirates

by KEITH REINHARD

Nobody's perfect. But Wheeling's baseball team came about as close to achieving that pinnacle as possible Tuesday when they belted Palatine 10-5 at Maple Park to close out their 1969 campaign.

It was the 18th winning verdict in 19 outings this season for the Wildcats but more significantly, it allowed them to become the first diamond entry in Mid-Suburban league history to finish out with a flawless 14-0 slate.

SURPRISING THE host Pirates with a six-run opening stanza outburst, the 'Cats coasted to victory behind Marty Crain's sixth loop decision. Pat Doyle, victim of the early uprising, extracted some amount of retribution by slamming a third-inning home run that turned out to be the only earned run charged against Crain.

Doyle's shot had little effect on the overall outcome however. Ron DeBolt's gang sprayed out 11 hits as they soared into double figures on the scoreboard for the sixth time this year. Juniors Dino Sheridan, Gary Schweitzer, Dan Hull and Scott Day accounted for all but three of the safeties and drove in seven of the runs between them.

In the top of the first veterans Cary Salm and Jack Bastable, both winding up three-year varsity careers, teamed up to initiate 'Cat scoring. Salm beat out an infield hit, stole second and came home on Jack Bastable's two-base blast down the left field line.

FOUR MEN WALKED in a row after that, tallying two more runs and chasing Doyle off the mound and into the outfield. Fireballer Dave Hasbach came on in relief and was immediately greeted with a single to right by Hull chasing two more runners home.

A wild pitch brought one more Wildcat scampering home. After that Hasbach settled down and blanked the guests for four innings.

In the meantime Doyle came up with his shot, a one-out, bases-empty slam that came down beyond two Wheeling outfielders deep in left center.

Hersey in 10-2 Romp

Youthful Line Up Erupts

Hersey bats exploded for 12 hits to turn back hosting Glenbard North 10-2 in conference baseball action Tuesday.

Steve Chernicky's youthful Huskie line-up, featuring four sophomores and five juniors, coasted along on a 4-0 advantage until the sixth inning and burst forth with five tallies in the seventh to win in a romp.

It was the fifth loop victory in 11 tries for Hersey this spring.

Steve Fisher headed up the winning attack with a single, a triple, a run scored and three more driven home while taking on third base chores for the first time this season.

Fisher slugged in the first Huskie run in frame one, singling home Ken Moralis after he had walked and moved along on Bruce Frase's one-base blow.

In the second Steve Koch singled, Rich Kreutzfeld reached on an error and Dick Powell singled in Koch. Later Moralis also pounded out a base hit to drive home both Kreutzfeld and Powell.

In the sixth the visitors went up 5-0 when Fisher reached on a fielder's choice and scampered home on George Solomon's pinch double to center.

RUNNING EASILY in heat of the mile run at recent state track and field finals in Champaign is Arlington's Scott Butler, who is expected to be the ranking Paddock area miler next spring. Butler has a season best of 4:28.2, achieved in the state meet, and he finished second behind Palatine's Phil Donahue last Saturday in the Mid-Suburban League finals.

THE VISITORS got this one back plus one in the fifth. With two away Sheridan sliced a double down the third base line, Schweitzer singled him home and took second on the throw in, and Hull knocked in Schweitzer with the fourth straight hit off Hasbach.

In the bottom of the fifth the hosts took back both runs on a two-base blow by Rich Lehner. It brought across Doyle, who had singled sharply to left, and Chris Andriano who had reached on a fielder's choice.

Both sides struck for two more runs in the sixth. The Wildcats tallied on Sheridan's single, bringing in Bob Fitzgerald, and a throwing error at second which allowed Crain to dash home.

The Pirates scores came after Ernie Purcell had reached on a miscue and Al Bambrick had singled. A sacrifice fly by Scott Smith pushed across Purcell and Bambrick eventually moved around and in on an error.

To Announce All-State Track Team on Monday

Paddock Publications' 14th Annual All-State Track and Field team will be announced next Monday.

Selected by Sports Editor Bob Frisk, a close follower of the state track and field scene for the past 17 years, the All-State squad represents the finest Illinois has to offer in 13 individual events.

Placing in the state meet has never been considered a prerequisite for selection although state champions automatically earn berths regardless of past performances.

The number of boys honored in an event is dictated by the situation. The team is based on the consistency of performances throughout the season, and handsome certificates and tear sheets are sent to each All-Stater.

Watch for the 14th Annual All-State team in next Monday's editions.

Legion Ball Tryouts To Be Held Friday

Lloyd Meyer, coach of the Arlington Heights Legion Post 208 baseball team, has announced that this Friday he will hold tryouts at the Recreation Park diamond starting at 4 p.m.

Interested boys must have attended Arlington or Hersey High Schools or live in Arlington Heights and have attended either Prospect or Wheeling.

Any boy who fits the above requirements and is 18 years of age or younger is eligible.

The Racing Scene

by JOHN F. KLUSMANN

EVENTS ARE CHANGING rapidly with respect to future plans for Majestic Prince, winner of the Kentucky Derby and Preakness. The Prince of the West will probably go in the Belmont Stakes on June 7. Owner Frank McManis, bowing to pressures from many quarters, has decided to give his colt a chance at the Triple Crown.

Johnny Longden, Majestic Prince's trainer, is understandably wary of the 1 1/2 mile Belmont Stakes. After he rode Count Fleet to victory in the Belmont and Triple Crown of 1935, the horse never raced again. Longden would prefer to skip the Belmont, rest the colt for several months and race him later in the summer and fall.

Majestic Prince definitely carries the mark of greatness. He is big, rugged and seems to have excellent recuperative powers after a grueling race. The top three-year-olds in the country have now had several shots at the powerful son of Raise a Native and he remains undefeated. It is my feeling the colt will win the Triple Crown.

Fast Hilarious won the $27,150 Marshall Field Handicap last Saturday at Arlington Park in brilliant fashion. Carrying the top impost of 124 pounds he sped the six furlongs in 1:08 3/5, tying the track record established by Bullys Mate back in 1961.

The pace was fast in the sprint for three-year-olds. Get Araction, a 21-1 longshot, went to the lead soon after the start with Fast Hilarious right there in second playing the waiting game. They sped through the first quarter in '22 and the half in '42 5. Entering the stretch jockey Early Fires reached back and lashed Fast Hilarious several times. The colt then took command and commenced to draw off steadily from the rest of the field. Fires had him well in hand the final sixteenth as he went under the wire with a 4 1/2 length advantage. Get Araction was second. Fleet Allied was up for third.

This Friday Arlington Park's Memorial Day feature is the $40,000 added Better Bee Handicap at 1 1/16 miles on the grass course. Tartan Stables' Ruffled Feathers, may ship in from New York for the stakes event to take on the fine Irish-bred mare, Ludham, and the good grass horse Out the Window.

Saturday's highlight is the seven-furlong Matt Winn Handicap on the main course. Some strong speed horses are ready for this $25,000 added event. American Native's connections have been looking for a spot to run their brilliant speedster, this could be the occasion for another one of his patented flag drop to wire victories.

The Matt Winn takes on added interest with the possibility that girl jockey Diane Gump may come in to ride Easy Lane in the stakes feature.

Racing fans will certainly miss the exciting call of Phil Georgeff during the Arlington and Washington Meetings at Arlington Park. Georgeff, one of the best race callers in the country, resigned to work full time for William S. Miller, president of the Baltimore Jockey Club. He will also free lance and call the races at Hawthorne during the fall meeting.

A bill has passed the House of the Illinois General Assembly to extend the thoroughbred racing season. The bill provides for a March 15 opening and December 15 closing, a 60-day increase over the present allotment of racing days.

Horses to Watch
Eladio—Closed strongly to finish third in last race. Middle distance races with a claiming price of $6,500 are the right conditions.

Neverest—$5,000 claimer has finished third in his last two races. Could be right there the next time. Likes a distance of ground over the turf course.

Prom Ross—Sprinter is very speedy out of the gate. Has been racing for a $5,000 tag. A class drop to $4,000 would be beneficial.

Bold Native—Speedster is training brilliantly in the morning. Definitely coming up to a good race.

Sometime Wight—Flashed favorable signs the last time. Was pressing for the lead throughout.

Relentless Pursuit—One of the gamest turf performers ever to race at Arlington. Middle distance allowance races are perfect.

Rit-N-Rough—Filly by Rough n' Tumble can ramble. She can run on the dirt or turf.

Improve Your Racing Knowledge

Analysis of a thoroughbred's pedigree frequently establishes the principle that great runners of the past sire the outstanding horses of today. The pedigree of Majestic Prince, this year's outstanding three-year-old, definitely reinforces this principle.

The Prince's sire is Raise a Native, who was undefeated in four trips to the post. Unfortunately, the colt was injured severely and had to be retired.

Raise a Native's sire was Native Dancer, who lost only one race in his entire career. That was the 1953 Kentucky Derby when he lost to the gallant Dark Star.

Native Dancer answered the call 22 times and brought back the winner's share of the purse 21 times. The Gray Ghost of Sagamore was one of the most potent runners in the history of the American turf.

Majestic Prince has now been to the post nine times and his colors have never been lowered. He rolls on and on, usually not winning by much but always winning.

This succession of Native Dancer, Raise a Native and Majestic Prince, with 34 victories in 35 starts, is truly a powerful racing family whose influence in thoroughbred breeding will continue for many years. Raise a Native is a relatively young sire and Majestic Prince has several years of racing before he begins a career at stud.

Daugherty's 37 Prize List Set Paces Viking Win In Classic Loop

A pair of sub-40 rounds helped Fremd charge past hosting Hersey 157-178 in conference golf action at Buffalo Grove country club.

Chuck Daugherty fired a 37 and Bob Miezo turned in a 38 as the Vikings came up with the lowest total on the Huskie's home links this spring. Tim Carter and Jeff Oakley backed up their teammates with a pair of 41s.

Rick Fosselman also carded a 41 to head up the Huskies. Ed Carter added a 43 and Mike Zakula contributed a 45 to the Hersey cause with a 49, shot by both Dean Taggart and Lance Boyett, rounding out scoring.

Fremd also captured the frosh-soph dual, nudging the Huskies 186-192.

Establishment of an $8,200 prize list for the Paddock Classic Traveling League for next season has been affirmed at a meeting of rules committee members with Bob Paddock, chairman of the board of directors of the PCTL.

The high-flying league recently completed its 12th year of competition. Changes in the prize structure for next season will mean $8.00 per point, plus a most $1,000 individual and season team prizes.

Team captains are currently assembling new squads for next fall, with rosters scheduled to be complete by July 1st.

Three-Setter Duel to Fremd

In an unusual meet of three-setters, Fremd's tennis squad polished off Fenton Thursday 4-1.

Every match went three sets and twice the Bisons won the first only to drop the next two.

Randy Seiler stopped Ed Deffley 6-2, 4-6, 6-2 in number one singles and Mark Dreyfus came from behind to make it two in a row for the Vikings by whipping Mike DeFronzo 4-6, 6-4, 6-2. Tom Large completed the singles sweep by beating Preston Lord 3-6, 6-2, 6-0.

Fenton chalked up their only win in number one doubles, with Andy Krauss and Jack Peakuski topping George Manthey and Bob Stanfield 6-1, 3-6, 6-1.

Chuck Weber and Bob Langer won the final match for Fremd, defeating Joe Brierton and Bob Nichols 6-3, 4-6, 7-5.

In the frosh-soph meet, the Bisons blanked the Vikings 5-0.

Pupil Aid Hike OK'd

SPRINGFIELD — A bill to raise the state public school foundation level from $400 to $550 per pupil per year was passed, 149-16, yesterday by the House and sent to the Senate.

The House also passed, 99-63, a bill for $32 million in state aid to parochial schools. The new public school aid formula means the state guarantees, if the district qualifies, the difference between what local property taxes raise in a school district and the $550 level.

Foreign Aid Request

WASHINGTON — President Nixon yesterday proposed spending $2.56 billion on foreign aid in the next fiscal year, the smallest presidential request in the program's history, but more than Congress appropriated last year.

Among major innovations Nixon proposes are creation of an "auditor-general" in the Agency for International Development to root out waste and corruption, and creation of a corporation to get private industry to do business in developing nations.

Hill Still Strong

SAIGON — U.S. Headquarters said yesterday a "substantial" force of American troops remaining on Hamburger Hill could defeat any attempt by North Vietnamese regulars to recapture the peak.

Withdrawal of about 600 men came on the eve of a Viet Cong-proclaimed 48-hour ceasefire, effective 8 p.m. CDT, Wednesday, in observance of the birthday of Buddha, to be followed by a 24-hour "stand-down" to be observed by allied troops.

Nickerson Is Sought

BELLEVILLE — William Raymond Nickerson, 30, charged with murder yesterday in the slayings of a teenage Muscatine couple on the night of their high school prom, is being sought.

The St. Clair County sheriff's office said Nickerson was apparently in the area from April 14 until he left May 7, two days after the bodies of Michael Morrison, 18, and Deborah Means, 15, were found. Nickerson is also being sought in connection with armed robberies and rapes in Clinton County and New London, Mo.

Spy Plans to States

WASHINGTON — Within two years, the Justice Department's new anti-crime agency plans to make the nation's top spy techniques available to the states to help them keep track of organized racketeers.

Charles Rogovin, chief of the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, said yesterday that two Defense Department intelligence-gathering agencies are cooperating with six states to develop a computerized crime intelligence system.

Lawmakers to Paris

WASHINGTON — The first of 39 House members and 20 of their aides began leaving for Paris Wednesday to attend the Paris International Air show, financed with tax dollars.

Each day they are gone, each member of the party will be authorized $50 in government funds for living expenses. The main group is scheduled to leave Saturday and return seven days later.

650 Highway Deaths?

CHICAGO — The National Safety Council has estimated that 550 to 650 persons will die on the nation's highways over the Memorial Day weekend from 6 p.m. today to midnight Sunday.

Last year, the holiday weekend was one day longer and the council estimated 625 to 725 deaths. The toll was 628.

SHERIFF'S POLICE demonstrate for suburban policemen how litters are unloaded from helicopter ambulance that will be in operation over the Memorial Day weekend. The helicopter emergency rescue service is being provided by the Cook County Sheriff's Police Department as a tactical exercise. Northwest suburban police attended an orientation session in Schaumburg this week. Helicopters will be based at St. Alexius Hospital Saturday and Northwest Community Hospital Sunday.

A helicopter ambulance service will be on duty in the Northwest suburbs throughout the Memorial Day weekend as a pioneer project in medical rescue work. The helicopter evacuation service is being provided by the Cook County Sheriff's Police.

Two helicopters will be used to respond to any emergency call in northwest Cook County.

A helicopter will be stationed at area hospitals this weekend during daylight hours, prepared to answer any request for emergency evacuation service.

The schedule for the helicopter service is as follows: today, Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge; Friday, Holy Family Hospital, Des Plaines; Saturday, St. Alexius Hospital in Elk Grove Village; Sunday, Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights.

OPERATION ALERT (Aerial Law Enforcement Rescue Team) will go into effect noon today and will be in operation from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. through Sunday.

Project director is Capt. Richard D. Lowthorp of the Cook County Sheriff's Police, a resident of Schaumburg.

"We are applying the same concepts of medical aid as the airborne medic does on the battlefield in Viet Nam," Capt. Lowthorp told suburban policemen at an orientation session for Project ALERT Tuesday afternoon. The session was held in Schaumburg's Great Hall.

Two helicopters were also in Schaumburg to give practical demonstrations of landing and speed capabilities. Each cop-ter has a top speed of 150 m.p.h. and a each carries two ambulance litters, plus the pilot and a medical technician.

Cultural Center: Big Plans

A Schaumburg cultural center that included facilities for the Harding Museum "would really put Schaumburg on the map," according to Mrs. Marty Langsdorf, co-chairman of the community's cultural arts committee.

Mrs. Langsdorf spoke about the planned cultural center at a meeting of the Schaumburg Civic League in the Great Hall Tuesday.

Museum officials are definitely interested in locating the Harding collection in Schaumburg, Mrs. Langsdorf said, although it is still somewhat of an "iffy" proposition.

Regardless of whether the Harding collection comes to Schaumburg, she said, the community will be starting at the top as far as having a cultural center.

FORTY ACRES IN Heritage Center, a planned apartment development in Schaumburg, have been set aside for a civic and cultural center. The cultural center would be financed by builder donations of $100 per apartment unit.

The 40-acre site adjoins 140 acres that Cornell-Fornell plans to develop as a 3,150-unit apartment complex, located on Schaumburg Road, east of Roselle Road.

The village of Schaumburg issued permits for 1,700 apartment units in 1968, Mrs. Langsdorf said. She indicated that the cultural center would probably include an auditorium, a theater, a children's art workshop, and art exhibition space.

Schaumburg Mayor Robert O. Atcher has placed a price tag of about $3 million for a building that included space for the Harding Museum. The museum would need about 100,000 square feet.

ACCORDING TO Mrs. Langsdorf, not all of the Harding collection would be placed on display at the same time. She estimated the collection's worth at "several million dollars."

The Harding Museum is known for an outstanding collection of European armor and a large collection of paintings and sculptures by Frederic Remington.

Many universities are reportedly interested in obtaining the Harding collection.

"One sort of smacks his lips at the thought of getting the Harding collection here," said Mrs. Langsdorf, a distinguished artist.

She indicated that she opposed the idea of charging admission to the Harding museum if it does locate here, however.

"Apartment buildings and commercial establishments do not alone make a community," Mrs. Langsdorf stated, expressing her support for the planned cultural center.

THE CULTURAL arts committee co-chairman estimated that it would take three years to design and construct a cultural center once it is known whether the Harding Museum will be coming here or not.

"Schaumburg is a planned community and the village board has seen fit to plan for a cultural and civic center for the community," Mrs. Langsdorf said.

To Police Parks

On recommendation of Pres. Frederick E. Downey, Hoffman Estates will begin policing all Hoffman Estates Park District land.

Downey's suggestion, which was offered at Monday night's village board meeting, stemmed from talks with park district officials last week.

According to Police Chief John O'Connell, his department assumed responsibility for park land before the park board was created.

Parade, Ceremony Set Tomorrow

St. Peter's Cemetery on Schaumburg Road will be the scene of the annual Memorial Day ceremonies for Schaumburg Township residents Friday afternoon.

Ceremonies will be preceded by a parade that starts at 2 p.m. on Thacker Street between Illinois Boulevard and Lincoln Street in Hoffman Estates. The parade route will be Thacker to Roselle Road, Roselle to Schaumburg Road and east on Schaumburg to the cemetery.

Explorer Scout Jeff Scott will give a Memorial Day address, and guest speaker is Hoffman Estates Mayor Fred Downey. Schaumburg Mayor Robert O. Atcher will be master of ceremonies.

THE GUARDSMEN Drum and Bugle Corps will march in the parade and perform at the service. St. Peter's School Band will also take part in the ceremonies.

The day's activities are sponsored by Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 8080 of Hoffman Estates. Parade marshal is Armand Beghin.

THE ADJUSTMENT of the American Indian to new and different surroundings in Chicago and suburbia is a complex problem in human behavior. Tony Machukay, director of the American Indian Center in Chicago, offers guidance to Indian children in tutoring session. Center gives the Indian a place to share his heritage with other Indians. Barry Sigale, Paddock staff writer, concludes story of such an adjustment by Victor Runnels, a Streamwood homeowner, in today's third of a three-part series.

Pupil Guidance Plan Featured

The Dist. 54 guidance program for junior high pupils is featured in the May issue of the monthly newsletter published by the Illinois Junior High School Association (IJHSA).

The article describes the group guidance program conducted at Helen Keller Junior High by James Frank, guidance counselor. Frank was recently honored for his guidance program at an area guidance convention in Des Plaines.

In Dist. 54 the guidance counselor at Helen Keller conducts a group guidance session for each class once a week for one period. This class is designed with broad objectives, including personal and social development goals.

A survey of pupil interests and attitudes is taken to provide direction for the guidance counselor's role in the school program.

WORKING THROUGH the seventh grade English department, Frank visits each junior high class to provide guidance information.

The first few weeks each year are spent discussing general orientation for pupils. Information is given to pupils on such things as physical facilities, rules and procedure, the difference between a junior high and an elementary school, and personal goals for the year. Each student receives a map of the school and the student handbook.

The next few weeks are spent familiarizing the pupils with study skills. This guidance unit covers outlining, taking notes and preparing for tests. Hopefully, this will help the pupil succeed in junior high and prepare for high school.

A third unit covered in the guidance program is entitled "About You and Others" and assists the social growth of students. Utilizing the Mooney Problem check list, Frank compiles a class survey of what pupils feel are common problems. Discussion by interest groups helps the class summarize the survey results.

THE GUIDANCE PROGRAM at Helen Keller is designed to help the pupil explore personal characteristics, discover individual interests, learn to study well and learn to use time economically.

Additional guidance objectives planned, according to Frank, are better social skills, getting along with parents and living with adults in general.

The eighth grade guidance program includes a unit on vocations in cooperation with the social studies department. This unit covers types of jobs, preparation for vocations and job trends.

Before the high school placement tests in the spring, Frank discusses the prospect of facing high school with the eighth graders.

In summarizing the Dist. 54 guidance program, Frank stated, "It is our belief that guidance, to be effective, must be an integrated part of any educational program and must be available to all individuals at all grade levels. Assistance through the guidance process should be provided to all individuals."

Will Schools Disannex?

Resulting from recent talks between Hoffman Estates trustees and fire protection district officials, a request for disannexation of two Dist. 54 schools from neighboring Schaumburg could be imminent.

Pres. Frederick E. Downey suggested the move Monday and explained that he would like to undertake an effort to secure the disannexation of Winston Churchill elementary and Helen Keller Junior high schools from Schaumburg and annex both to Hoffman Estates.

"I attempted this several years ago when I was on the Dist. 54 board with no success, but I would like to try again," he said. FIRE PROTECTION district personnel have expressed concern since the two schools are actually adjacent to Hoffman Estates and much closer to that village fire stations than Schaumburg's.

When they receive calls from either school, they have no legal authority to service them, they say.

Hoffman Estates officials plan to meet with both Schaumburg village officials and representatives of the school district in the near future to work out problems of mutual concern.

They also plan to meet with officials from other neighboring communities to discuss problems and mutual aid.

Complex, Part 2, Could Have Problem

Unless Intercontinental Development Corp., builders of Hermitage Trace apartments, displays a bit more consideration for their neighboring single-family homeowners as well as the village board, they could experience some difficulty in obtaining building permits for phase two of their complex.

To the obvious dissatisfaction of homeowners living on Alcoa Lane, the builder agreed this week to install a fence at the southern edge of his property — but not until the entire project has been completed.

Several weeks ago, residents advised the village board of dangerous conditions behind their homes due to the presence of heavy earthmoving equipment, debris and construction of a road.

THE RESIDENTS WERE asked to circulate a petition and Village Engineer George Holt was instructed to contact the builder, which all resulted in the appearance of Bud Geers, a representative of the firm, at this week's village board meeting.

Geers told trustees that Intercontinental Development Corp. was not opposed to the fence installation but emphasized that they want to hold the matter in abeyance until the second phase of apartment complex has been completed.

"Then we'll put in the fence," Geers asserted.

Residents pointed out that construction has already begun behind many of their homes and that the street is being dug at present. They expressed concern about a thoroughfare suddenly appearing at the edge of their backyards.

Geers said he had no argument with their thinking, but stressed that the street will be only two-lanes and by no means a thoroughfare. He said it will only lead to parking areas within the development.

HE ALSO NOTED that when zoning for the apartments was granted no mention of a fence was made.

Village Pres. Frederick E. Downey reminded Geers that recently the village board voted to direct the building department not to issue additional building permits for multiple-family dwellings without complete board approval.

"If you expect us to issue your permits it might be easier not to go against these residents. You might also note that this new village board is not interested in fostering additional apartment development," Downey told Geers.

"It would be good public relations with the residents, the village board and everyone to put the fence in now," he added, suggesting that the building firm work out details with the village engineer.

Helicopter on Trial Run

partment envisions a fleet of 10 helicopters in suburban Cook County in the future, dispersed at strategic points for quick emergency response.

NERVE CENTER of the helicopter service is the communications center of the Sheriff's Police on the sixth floor of the County Building.

"The average time lapse between ambulance notification and the time when the victim arrives at the hospital is 31 minutes," Lowthorp said. He indicated that the average response time of a ground ambulance is 14 minutes.

According to Lowthorp, the helicopter will provide a maximum response time of five minutes and will be able to transport an accident victim to the hospital in three minutes.

An estimated 25 to 30,000 persons could be saved from permanent disability as the result of car accidents if they receive intensive treatment earlier, Lowthorp told police officers.

Statistics of the Cook County Sheriff's Police indicate there has been a 57 per cent increase in accidents in suburban Cook County over the past five years, and a 35 per cent increase in injuries.

DAMAGE IN property and personal injuries as the result of these accidents has totaled more than $85 million.

At present the Cook County Sheriff's Police Department is thinking of forming a division of aeronautical services within the department that would provide around-the-clock helicopter rescue service. This group would be composed of 40 to 50 persons, including pilots and trained medical technicians.

"We are not proposing to do away with the ground ambulance," Lowthorp stressed. "The helicopter service is only intended to supplement ground ambulance service."

Two helicopters have been loaned to the Cook County Sheriff's Police for use in connection with Operation ALERT. The helicopters are manufactured by Bell Helicopter and Fairchild-Hiller Co. The cost of the helicopter model being used is $135,000.

THE HELICOPTERS will be in radio contact with police officers at an accident scene as well as medical personnel when they are en route to the hospital with a victim.

Policemen from Schaumburg, Hoffman Estates, Hanover Park, Rolling Meadows, and Barrington Hills attended Tuesday's orientation session in Schaumburg.

Expansion Completed At Plaza Valueland

Plaza Valueland in the Golf-Rose Shopping Center, Hoffman Estates, has doubled in size and has added two new departments, a wiggy and a jewelry store.

Grand opening activities, continuing through Sunday, include sales on costume jewelry, radios, razors and other merchandise.

Owner Lyle Levy noted that "there is a definite need for a large jewelry store in this area, and we offer name-brand jewelry at discount prices."

The new addition to Plaza Valueland, recently carpeted and paneled, is adjacent to the original store location. The store has been in Hoffman Estates for more than two years.

Man Faces Charges

A Schaumburg man was charged with disorderly conduct Tuesday night after he tore up the results of a breathalyzer test. Schaumburg police said.

Frank J. Pecoraro, 32, 525 S. Plymouth Lane, was also charged with driving while intoxicated, speeding, improper lane usage and following too closely behind another car.

Police said Pecoraro was westbound on Schaumburg Road at about 50 miles per hour in a 45 mile per hour speed zone while attempting to pass another vehicle.

When police stopped the auto Pecoraro told them he was in a hurry to get home and that he didn't know he was illegally passing another vehicle, police said.

He was brought into the station to take the breathalyzer test and, when he found out the results, he tore up the test papers, police said.

Project 444 Holds Mini-Graduation

by MARILYN RUBEN

Seventy-five pre-school Elk Grove youngsters marched down the aisle, hand-made mortarboards wobbling on their heads and diplomas clutched in their chubby little hands.

A mini-graduation? Precisely. At the tender age of 4, these children qualified for their commencement ceremony with completion of the 15-session "Project 444," the four dimensional program for 4-year-olds.

Sponsored by the Student Services Team of Ruple and Clearmont schools, Project 444 has served in the last year as the suburban answer to "Project Headstart." Fifteen trained "teacher-moms" have supervised groups of 15 children with activities to provide a stimulating and exciting first contact with the public school system.

ACCORDING TO Tom Smith, Ruple School psychologist and an innovator of the program, each one hour session of Project 444 included work in four areas: socialization, language development, gross motor skills and auditory-visual-motor skills.

The curriculum, developed by Smith along with the "teacher-moms," provided games which involved cooperation, attention and group sharing, exercises in vocabulary expansion, and training in muscle coordination. "If the participating children can simply have fun, so that they begin kindergarten with a positive orientation," he said, "then our major goal will have been attained."

One of the primary purposes of Project 444 has been to demonstrate "that mothers have the talents and capabilities necessary to organize and operate a pre-school program which will provide children with a significant developmental experience," Smith said. "Tapping the resources of the community at large is something too many schools have not done."

There is a wealth of available talent — in mothers, fathers, high school and college youth and senior citizens."

While Project 444 is the largest venture to date, it is not the only program which provides "helping relationships" for children. Smith is well on his way to lassoing more local talent for use in his other plans.

HE DRAFTS STUDENTS from his psychology class at Harper Junior College, welcomes volunteers through the Elk Grove Community Service, and uses such paraprofessionals as social work interns from the Circle Campus (who provide individual and family counseling) plus certified-but-unemployed teachers, who serve as part-time tutors.

Two high school volunteers from Future Teachers of America and several mothers training exercises, a high school girl with reading problems serves as the "listening ear" for primary reading students in need of a one-to-one relationship.

Two seniors in group work programming at George Williams College have organized after-school and weekend programs for boys, supplying recreational and psychosocial support. And a lonely, unhappy boy spends a couple hours each week in discussion and games with an outgoing, happy-go-lucky boy of the same age.

For those students labeled as the EMH (Educable Mentally Handicapped), Smith has provided a boys' hobby shop and girls' homecraft class, in which the students create projects while learning to use tools, follow directions, measure and count. Under the direction of Mrs. Karen Metzler, the girls have molded and glazed ceramic cups, and learned to knit, cook and sew. The boys, guided by Bill Doolan, a 20-year-old Harper College student, have made boats and Christmas trees and are setting up a workshop for next year.

WHILE AT FIRST glance these programs appear to be solely recreational, they are learning-centered, especially for the child who needs emotional help or lacks necessary skills. Periodic conferences between student service counselors and teachers provide insight into student problems, many of which have diminished in intensity.

But often it is those who have offered their valuable time to the project who find they are learning most of all, Smith said. "Satisfaction and personal growth come to a person who reaches out and helps another person."

This is seen in the way housewife Pat Peacock and Denise Sudenbuck "toe to the challenge of the assignment and have done yeoman's jobs."

It is seen in the plans of Social Worker Sandy Spencer to include work with children in her future.

But most of all, it is seen in the words of Mrs. Karen Metzler, as she observed a child in her class: "See how she lights up! When I first met her, she wouldn't crack a smile!"

BOYS LIKE BOATS, and Harper Junior College student Bill Doolan volunteers his skill in woodworking to School Dist. 59. Because of the volunteer resource pool, Denny Thomas and others will pick up skills well beyond academics during their elementary years.

Disannex Parcels

Hoffman Estates agreed this week to disannex two 40-acre parcels in the far western end of the village and permit annexation to Streamwood.

The property, originally in the land owned by Rossmore Corp., although never planned for inclusion in their Leisure World planned adult community, is presently owned by Carl Klehm.

Appearing at this week's village board meeting along with Streamwood Pres. Nick Kosan, Klehm told trustees that he did not own the land at the time it was annexed to Hoffman Estates, but purchased it when the Rossmore land was taken over by the Cook County Forest Preserve District.

The land, which fronts on Bode Road, is attached to Streamwood on three sides and to the forest preserve land on one side, and, reportedly, is not economically practical to serve with sewer and water facilities.

THE PROPERTY, now under option to a potential buyer, will probably be developed half multiple-family and half single-family.

Klehm also pointed out that he still owns one 10-acre parcel just west of the area in question which he plans to leave in the corporate limits of the village and reserve for a commercial area when the Kaufman and Broad, Inc., townhouse complex has been completed.

Patrol To Stay; More Pay?

Hoffman Estates officials are willing to continue police patrol service in the Village of Inverness at an increased rate of pay during the coming year.

This week trustees directed Police Chief John O'Connell to prepare a letter detailing their decision to renew the one-year contract, effective Aug. 1, at a non-negotiable figure of $36,000.

When the patrol service was initiated last year, the contract called for payment of $22,500 per year and required six month termination notice.

Therefore, in the event Inverness does not wish to accept the new pay figure, Hoffman Estates Police Department will discontinue patrol service Dec. 1.

USING FIGURES compiled by O'Connell, which indicated that Hoffman Estates had lost between $4,000 and $4,500 in providing the service for the past year, the village board agreed to increase the cost accordingly.

O'Connell had originally suggested a minimum figure of $31,000 based on two and one-tenth men needed for the job and allowing for fringe benefits, overhead and squad car amortization.

Since police now go north of the tollway to patrol the new Winston-Muss development, O'Connell feels it is definitely worthwhile to continue the service.

Village, Firemen Are Closer

A closer relationship between Hoffman Estates Fire Protection District and the village appears to be shaping up this week, following a recent joint meeting of the two taxing bodies.

Among recommendations presented by Chief Carl Selke at Monday's village board meeting are proposals calling for takeover of fire reporting and communications by the police department, enforcement of fire lane parking ordinances and notification of street closure.

At the recommendation of Pres. Frederick E. Downey, Hoffman Estates Atty. Edward C. Hofert will make the necessary legal preparations for adoption of the National Fire Code.

IN RELATED ACTION, Downey appointed Jerome Danowski, Donald Selke, Robert Scholl and Richard Williamson as assistant fire inspectors at an annual salary of $1. All will have power to act as officers of the village and have strict enforcement powers as well.

Selke and Ed Kalasa, assistant chief, also expressed concern about what could be substandard requirements in several examples of apartment building within the village and hope to make specific recommendations for remedy after adoption of the National Code.

Early Parade Step Off

Pupil Aid Hike OK'd

SPRINGFIELD — A bill to raise the state public school foundation level from $100 to $550 per pupil per year was passed, 149-18, yesterday by the House and sent to the Senate.

The House also passed, 99-63, a bill for $12 million in state aid to parochial schools. The new public school aid formula means the state guarantees, if the district qualifies, the difference between what local property taxes raise in a school district and the $550 level.

Foreign Aid Request

WASHINGTON — President Nixon yesterday proposed spending $2.54 million on foreign aid in the next fiscal year, the smallest presidential request in the program's history, but more than Congress appropriated last year.

Among major innovations Nixon proposes is creation of an "auditor-general" in the Agency for International Development to root out waste and corruption, and creation of a corporation to get private industry to do business in developing nations.

Hill Still Strong

SAIGON — U.S. Headquarters said yesterday a "substantial" force of American troops remaining on Hamburger Hill could defeat any attempt by North Vietnamese regulars to reoccupy the peak.

Withdrawal of about 600 men came on the eve of a Viet Cong-proclaimed 48-hour ceasefire, effective 6 p.m. CDT, Wednesday, in observance of the birthday of Buddha, to be followed by a 24-hour "stand-down" to be observed by allied troops.

Nickerson Is Sought

BELLEVILLE — William Raymond Nickerson, 30, charged with murder yesterday in the slayings of a teenage Mascoutah couple on the night of their high school prom, is being sought.

The St. Clair County sheriff's office said Nickerson was apparently in the area from April 14 until he left May 7, two days after the bodies of Michael Morrison, 18, and Deborah Means, 15, were found. Nickerson is also being sought in connection with armed robberies and rapes in Clinton County and New London, Mo.

Spy Plans to States

WASHINGTON — Within two years, the Justice Department's new anti-crime agency plans to make the nation's top spy techniques available to the states to help them keep track of organized racketeers.

Charles Rogovin, chief of the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, said yesterday that two Defense Department intelligence-gathering agencies are cooperating with six states to develop a computerized crime intelligence system.

Lawmakers to Paris

WASHINGTON — The first of 50 House members and 20 of their aides began leaving for Paris Wednesday to attend the Paris International Air show, financed with tax dollars.

Each day they are gone, each member of the party will be authorized $50 in government funds for living expenses. The main group is scheduled to leave Saturday and return seven days later.

650 Highway Deaths?

CHICAGO — The National Safety Council has estimated that 550 to 650 persons will die on the nation's highways over the Memorial Day weekend from 6 p.m. today to midnight Sunday.

Last year, the holiday weekend was one day longer and the council estimated 625 to 725 deaths. The toll was 628.

A parade sponsored by Wheeling's veteran's organizations will highlight memorial day festivities in the village tomorrow.

Beginning at 10:30 a.m. at the Phillip Carpenter AmVets Post on Milwaukee Avenue south of Dundee Road, the parade will move north to Dundee Road, west on Dundee Road to Wolf Road, and south on Wolf Road to the memorial monument in Heritage Park.

Following the parade there will be a ceremony observance in honor of area veterans who have died in our nation's wars. Refreshments will be served by American Legion Post 1968.

Streets on which the parade will travel will be blocked by Wheeling policemen. The parade and ceremonies are expected to last until noon.

ORGANIZED BY Frank Rennie and Dan Crowley of the AmVets, the parade is sponsored jointly by that organization, the American Legion, and the veterans of Foreign Wars (VFW).

Participants in the parade will include color guards from all three organizations, the Wheeling High School award winning band, antique cars, and Wheeling and Buffalo Grove baton twirling corps sponsored by the district.

Other marching units will include the Adlai E. Stevenson High School Band, auxiliaries of the AmVets and VFW, Junior AmVets, the Chicago Mounties marching troop, the Highland Helpers Blue Birds, Boy Scouts, Cub Scouts, Girl Scouts and Brownies from the area, and the AmVets Auxiliary King and Queen.

Wheeling Firemen will drive the new aerial tower truck in the parade.

Also, children from the area are expected to decorate bikes and ride them on an individual basis.

Query Basin Cost Addition

Wheeling trustees are questioning a $29,000 addition to the cost of the Heritage Park West Retention Basin for topsoil required by the Metropolitan Sanitary District.

At a meeting last week between representatives of the MSD, the Wheeling Park District, and Harza Engineering, village engineers on the project, it was agreed that the $29,000 addition, bringing the total contract up to $301,000 would be included in the contract between the various parties.

The village board Monday questioned the decision because two village representatives scheduled to be at last week's meeting had been unable to attend.

Trustees commented the increase for topsoil to plant grass would be "quite high" and that the village had been under the impression from John Crane of Harza that soil conserved and stockpiled from the existing ground would be sufficient to plant grass without the additional expenditure.

THE BOARD MONDAY directed Pres. Ted C. Scanlon to contact the MSD to see if the decision that $29,000 should be added to the $272,000 construction cost couldn't be changed.

Roger Bjorvik, park district attorney, told the Herald Wednesday that the MSD had sought the additional high grade topsoil because they feared that the basin would become an eyesore in the village.

"The MSD didn't want to be involved in a project that would bring a blight to the village," he said.

Scanlon said Wednesday that he had contacted the MSD, but the details of the conversation would not be made public before next Monday's board meeting.

The board learned of the MSD's decision in a letter from D. E. Kleiner, project manager of the basin. In a letter, Kleiner said that the MSD would require the use of topsoil on the retention reservoir and the side slopes as an addition to the contract.

"WE WILL PROCEED with completion of the contract documents assuming that the above increase is approved," he concluded.

A large portion of the $29,000 increase will have to be paid by the village if the contract cannot be changed again, because MSD funds can only be used on flood retention portions of the basin and not on recreational aspects.

Annex Bill Rapped

by MARY DRESSER

The Illinois Manufacturing Association, while not as vocal as homeowners opposing HB 1241, has nevertheless thrown its weight against the bill that would permit municipalities to annex unincorporated areas by ordinance.

Orville Bergren, a representative of the IMA based in Chicago, says his group is definitely "opposed to it."

The IMA has been quietly making its position clear to representatives and senators in Springfield.

The bill has passed the House and is up for Senate committee hearing.

Lobbyists for manufacturing interests have been seen in the Springfield area, according to Herald sources.

ONE LOBBYIST, is the legislative representative of Ford Motor Co. Ford is concerned about the bill because it has a plant in an unincorporated area near Chicago Heights. If HB 1241 passes, it is possible Chicago Heights will annex the Ford Plant and obtain a tax windfall.

Sen. John A. Graham (R-3rd District) has been closely associated with the IMA.

Graham has come out in opposition to the bill, saying it deprives homeowners of their rights to dispose of property.

The IMA's Bergren says his group objects to the bill because owners and electors have no vote in determining which municipality annexes them.

"Three is a failure to provide means whereby people can object," says Bergren. "Unless the judge over-rides the annexation, power of the people is limited. Annexation is a flat accompli."

The bill is designed to serve "a couple of communities" charges Bergren. "They want to bring in industrial plants."

BERGREN CALLED attention to the A. O. Smith offices outside Arlington Heights.

"It is significant that Rep. Eugene Schlickman of Arlington Heights is sponsoring this bill."

Bergren bemoaned the fact that the other sponsors of the bill were all Republicans and "staunch friends of industry."

Since Gov. Richard Ogilvie has included the bill in his legislative package, Bergren predicts "it has a better chance of passage this year."

If cities can annex, they have the power

In War's Wake

Memorial Day — Friday, May 30, 1969
Two servicemen from this area have died in action in Vietnam.

Marine Pfc. John Bieneman, 19, died Aug. 18, 1968. He was the son of Mrs. Dorothy F. Rapacz and the stepson of Edmund Rapacz, 328 N. Third St., Wheeling.

Private Bieneman was a member of the First Battalion of the 13th Marine Regiment, stationed in Thu Thien province.

Pfc. James M. Kaller, 211 Wolf Road, Prospect Heights, died March 3, 1969, at a hospital at Long Binh, Vietnam. Kaller, 21, is survived by his mother, Mrs. Florence Kaller, two brothers and a sister.

Private Kaller died from shrapnel wounds sustained in a battle with the Viet Cong at Cu Chi, 18 miles northwest of Saigon.

Asks Suburban Bus Cutback

The United Motor Coach Co. of Des Plaines has asked the Illinois Commerce Commission for permission to suspend eight bus routes in Arlington Heights and surrounding areas.

When asked when he expected the request to be granted, John Hanck, vice president of United Motor Coach, said, "We hope to have it in a month or two."

The eight threatened routes are Barrington to Elgin, Arlington Heights to Elk Grove, Mount Prospect to Prospect Heights, Carpentersville to Dundee and Elgin, Barrington to Big Foot Prairie, Wheeling to the Illinois-Wisconsin line (a summer route), an Arlington Heights local route to the train station there, and a route to the Pure Oil Co. plant in Palatine.

Hanck emphasized that the company's "Number 3" route, running from Barrington, Palatine, Mount Prospect and Arlington Heights to Evanston and the Chicago Loop will not be affected. He did say, however, that this route "is a borderline operation."

Though it is not a money maker for the company, Hanck said, "We don't want to give it up." The company is hoping the route will be more profitable after June 15, when a summer schedule goes into effect.

ABANDONMENT OF the eight routes has been discussed with area village officials, Hanck said. At the ICC hearing, the single objector to the abandonment request was a Prospect Heights resident.

"But by the time he heard my testimony," said Hanck, "he agreed to the abandonment."

Hanck estimated the demise of the eight routes would save the company about $1,000 a week. Last year the company lost $135,000. For the present year, "the company is in the black," Hanck said.

Some of the eight routes, Hanck pointed out, have been losing money since World War II. Partly because the ICC forced the company to operate the routes, and partly because the company anticipated growing passenger numbers in the area, the company has maintained the routes.

But, the population has never grown to the density necessary to support bus routes, Hanck said.

"The people who have moved into the area are not bus riders. Everyone wants to drive."

AS FOR THE Pure Oil Co. route, "We started it with a subsidy from the oil company," Hanck said. But when the subsidy ended, the company found the route could not support itself.

Hanck outlined some of the expenses involved in maintaining a bus route. With the rush hour routes, the buses had to be sent into the area empty. Moreover, drivers received a full day's pay, even though their route operated only a few hours each day.

To meet costs, a bus must earn $1 an hour. Some of the lines weren't doing half that much business, Hanck said.

Hanck did not rule out the possibility that bus service will return to the area some day. He said his company presented an experimental bus plan to John Costes, assistant Arlington Heights village manager, March 17. The plan, a long-range one, would involve a heavy federal subsidy.

Clear Businesses

Cases against approximately 25 Wheeling businesses for failure to buy business licenses were dropped by Village Prosecutor Donald Norman Tuesday because all owners of the businesses had since purchased the licenses.

Norman dropped the charges against the first group to come to trial of over 60 businesses charged with violation of the ordinance after policemen told him that all of the businesses in that group had since bought licenses.

"I'm a prosecutor, not a persecutor," Norman said, explaining that all the businesses had complied with the ordinance.

WHEELING POLICE CHIEF M. O. Horcher said earlier Wednesday that it seemed futile to have issued the citations if the charges were just going to be dropped.

The chief pointed out that the man hours of policemen issuing the summons and appearing in court had cost the village money. Also, he repeated his feelings that such citations were not the job of the police department.

The chief says that he believes the police could handle traffic, crime, and emergency services.

Norman explained that the police had done a good job in issuing the citations, but added, "My job is to show some common sense in the court room. As a prosecutor I shouldn't harass business people in town . . . who are the backbone of Wheeling."

Norman emphasized that cancelling the charges through nonsuit procedure was his "discretion as a prosecutor" and explained that many businesses that have not complied will be prosecuted.

He also explained that owners who had purchased licenses since they were ticketed would have to appear in court anyway.

to license Bergren points out.

"THEY CAN SHAKE people down," he says. "That's the complaint about Chicago. They say cross my palm, then we won't harass."

Industries in unincorporated areas have been installed without services such as water, heat, light and police, says Bergren.

"They don't require them," he says. "If industries are brought into a city's severe zoning it will restrict their right to use land around the plant, he points out."

"We are obviously self-serving," he admits.

Pre-School Program Planned

A Christian pre-school for children aged 3 to 5 will be started at The Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd, 1111 N. Elmhurst Road, Prospect Heights. The school will begin next October and run through May. Classes for three-year-olds will meet once a week on Thursdays and for four to five-year-olds on Tuesday and Thursdays. Classes for both groups will be held from 9:15 to 11:30 a.m.

Rev. Dennis A. Anderson, pastor of the congregation said the church plans to offer a high quality program. "To meet this objective, we have secured two certified elementary school teachers, Mrs. Robert Haber and Mrs. Robert Kingsbury to head up the program," Rev. Anderson stated.

THE OBJECTIVE of the program is to provide a non-sectarian Christ-centered experience in learning about the world in which we live and to prepare for the experience of school through strengthening of emotional, social, physical and mental skills.

"Class size will be limited to 15 three-year-olds and 25 four to five-year-olds," he continued.

Fee for the school is $8 a month for three-year-olds and $12 per month for four and five-year-olds. Registration is for the entire year. Further information may be obtained by calling the church office, 537-4333, Monday through Friday between the hours of 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. or by writing to the church.

Members of the community may register their children at the same fee as members.

Local Students In U. of I. Project

Four students from Eugene Field Elementary School and Jack London music teacher Thomas Hageman will participate in an evaluation of the University of Illinois string research project June 1.

The group will be one of nine from Chicago area schools that will take part in the evaluation, which will be held at St. Francis Xavier School, Wilmette, beginning at 2 p.m.

Students participating include Gale Muloch, Kris Porzel, Mark Scheuer and Brian Churchill.

The purpose of the U. of I. project is to increase the quality and speed of learning of beginning violin students. Paul Rolland, music professor at the U. of I., is the project director.

MRS. MARGARET FARISH, a research associate at the U. of I., will be general chairman of the meeting. Richard Colwell, a professor at U. of I., is director of research for the project.

Rolland's university class also will present a program that will be attended by teachers from project classes in Macomb, Champaign, Jacksonville, Norma, Quincy, Bloomington, Decatur and Peoria.

Evaluating the demonstration Sunday will be Victor Aitay, concertmaster, and Shephard Lehnhof, violinist, of the Chicago Symphony. George Perlman, private teacher from Winnetka; Marvin Rubin of the University of Wisconsin; Robert Shamo, director of instrumental music at the Lombard schools; and Stanley F. Nosal, director of instrumental music at Kenosha, Wis., schools.

"A special concern of the string project is to develop materials for the teaching of good motion patterns which are free of excessive tension," Rolland said.

Expressway Routing Delayed

by TOM WELLMAN

Residents and land developers in the Northwest suburbs are going to have to wait longer than previously announced for public word of preliminary routes for the proposed Rand-Golf Expressway.

A spokesman for H. W. Lochner and Associates, consulting engineers who are studying routes for the controversial expressway, told members of the Arlington Heights Plan Commission last week that alternate routes will be announced between September, 1969, and February of next year.

The first phase — collecting data from various governmental units — should be completed by June 1. The spokesman said the second phase will take three to eight months.

When the preliminary study is completed, many possible routes will be listed, to give the state and other agencies as wide a choice as possible.

A LOCKNER EXECUTIVE told Plan Comm. O. V. Anderson and Jack Pittas that final hearings on a route could be held as early as 1971. He cautioned, however, that the date could be pushed ahead to 1972 if delays occur.

The expressway is projected to stretch from McCormick Boulevard in Evanston to Illinois Rt. 53 between Buffalo Grove and Arlington Heights.

It will roughly parallel Golf Road through the eastern portion of the area, then parallel Rand Road from Golf to Route 53.

However, another Lochner official stressed that the final route does not have to remain within a mile and a half of Rand Road, although that path would be preferable.

He said that the closer the expressway approaches either the Northwest Tollway or the Tri-State Tollway, the greater the duplication of existing high-speed services.

In other words, the expressway, at least as alternates shown on the maps later this fall, could be elevated over Rand Road or the Soo Line tracks near the Tri-State Tollway (outside of the three-mile-wide Rand corridor).

Hal Lochner of the firm stressed that all types of expressways — grade level, elevated, depressed, or tunneled — would be considered.

A MEMBER OF the Prospect Heights Improvement Association, Richard Schulz, in the past has suggested paralleling the Soo Line or elevating it over Rand Road.

Later this fall, whenever the preliminary alternatives are available, officials of Lochner will discuss preferences with village officials.

Lochner officials are assembling a colorful collection of overlay maps and aerial photographs, all of which will be used in planning the route. Their main concerns now include traffic counts, governmental boundaries and land development.

No cost figure for the expressway has come up in public discussions, but two factors will probably weigh heavily: financial aid from the state and the skyrocketing cost of available land in the Northwest suburbs.

The question of land, or what little of it is still available, is the major concern especially to officials of Arlington Heights and Prospect Heights, both leading candidates for part of the route.

Months ago, when the project was first announced, it became clear, at least to Arlington Heights officials, that a segment of the expressway would slash through Prospect Heights.

In fact, Arlington Heights officials, fearing a cut through their more densely populated community south of Rand Road,

Willow Road Toll Rate Is Lowered

Motorists approaching the Willow Road interchange and the Tri-State tollway on Sunday will find a 19-cent drop in the toll rate.

Chairman Donald R. Bonnell, Illinois State Toll Highway Authority, announced this week that a new 20-cent rate will apply to automobiles, taxis, station wagons, motorcycles and ambulances. School trucks and all other vehicles with exles and four tires also qualify for the 20-cent toll.

CLASS 2 VEHICLES (medium truck, buses and vehicles with two axles and six tires) will pay 25 cents. Charge for cars with trailers and buses and trucks with three or more axles will be 35 cents.

Willow Road provides access to the Tri-State tollway to the Wheeling, Palatine, Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect areas.

Free Lance

by MARY DRESSER

The ghost of Sen. Joe McCarthy is lurking in the shadows of American political affairs.

Liberals who think he is safely dead with the stake of truth thrust through his heart are naive.

Old Joe is present at school board meetings and sessions of state legislatures across the country, and his new rallying cry is SEX.

SINCE JOE and I were fellow alumnae of Marquette University, I followed his career with the same fascination one has for a boa constrictor.

I remember how people acted during Joe's heyday in the 50's. Now the same smell of hate, suspicion and half-truth is in the air.

Today, if you disagree with the right wingers, the Birchites and the "Christian conservatives," you may not only be labeled a Communist, but a pervert.

The same people who blindly accepted Joe's simplistic arguments and Commiescare tactics are flocking to join groups such as the Birch-supported MOTOREDE.

The cry is: restore law and order, bring back the traditional American values, squelch "hippies," and preserve the right to educate children according to the parent's moral standards.

These simplistic desires are being used as grist for the new McCarthyism.

THERE IS FEAR today, fear of chaos in the streets and in the ghettos, and fear of our own children.

Sex education is what is causing this situation, the crypto-McCarthyites insist. They forget that the "hippie-types" did not receive this education.

The young people demonstrating against the establishment today were in school in the Joe McCarthy era.

While their mothers ironed, the children sat around watching the Army-McCarthy hearings on TV. Hypocrisy comes over loud and clear on TV — especially to children.

The children were also exposed to newspaper and television stories of our support of the German's and Japanese against the Russians, while at the same time watching 1943 war-horror movies on TV.

SPUTNIK HAD American politicians and educators scurrying around trying to beef up the education package to turn out scientists capable of beating the Russians.

The children of the 50's were brainwashed with "Americanism" in an era of hysterical fear of "Russian Communism."

If they are attacking the establishment today, it is not a result of what the schools teach in 1969. They were educated in an era of paralysis when Joe McCarthy was attempting to control the country, using fear as a weapon.

What they saw as children has affected their actions today.

TODAY WE are treating our children to another dose of McCarthy-type fear. Bills are clogging the hopper at Springfield to ban sex education, punish demonstrators and curtail dissent.

The schools, mirrors of our society's hopes and fears, are now being told they must not tell the truth about human sexuality.

Joe would have loved it.

Rep. McLory Speaker at Graduation

Robert McLory, U.S. representative deliver the commencement address to 114 graduating seniors at Adlai E. Stevenson High School June 10. Exercises begin at 8 p.m. in the auditorium.

This is the first class to complete all four years at Stevenson. It is also the largest to graduate.

Brief speeches will be made by Supt. Harold Baner and Jean Foss, president of the senior class. School board president Lorenz Schmidt will present a diploma to each senior as he walks across the stage.

TWO JUNIORS, elected earlier this week by the seniors, will act as honorary marshals for the procession which traditionally includes all faculty members robed in cap, gown and hood according to degree and school. They are Dora Dom-brow and Jay Foss.

Seniors elected to usher are Sandy Taylor, Vivian Johnson, Pam Wolfe, Jeanne Whitlow, Ann Wolf, Bob Norton, Bob Moody, Bill Lange, Keith West and John Van Duynhoven.

The a cappella choir, under the direction of William Misik, music department head, will sing "The Impossible Dream" and Stevenson's "Alma Mater."

Project 444 Holds Mini-Graduation

by MARILYN RUBEN

Seventy-five preschool Elk Grove youngsters marched down the aisle, hand-made mortarboards wobbling on their heads and diplomas clutched in their chubby little hands.

A mini-graduation? Precisely. At the tender age of 4, these children qualified for their commencement ceremony with completion of the 15-session "Project 444," the four-dimensional program for 4-year-olds.

Sponsored by the Student Services Team of Ruple and Clearmont schools, Project 444 has served in the last year as the suburban answer to "Project Headstart." Fifteen trained "teacher-moms" have supervised groups of 15 children with activities to provide a stimulating and exciting first contact with the public school system.

According to Tom Smith, Ruple School psychologist and an innovator of the program, each one-hour session of Project 444 included work in four areas — socialization, language development, gross motor skills and auditory-visual-motor skills.

The curriculum, developed by Smith along with the "teacher-moms," provided games which involved cooperation, attention, and group sharing, exercises in vocabulary expansion, and training in muscle coordination. "If the participating children can simply have fun, so that they begin kindergarten with a positive orientation," he said, "then our major goal will have been attained."

One of the primary purposes of Project 444 has been to demonstrate "that mothers have the talents and capabilities necessary to organize and operate a preschool program which will provide children with a significant developmental experience," Smith said. "Tapping the resources of the community at large is something too many schools have not done."

There is a wealth of available talent — in mothers, fathers, high school and college youth and senior citizens."

While Project 444 is the largest venture to date, it is not the only program which provides "helping relationships" for children. Smith is well on his way to lauding more local talent for use in his other plans.

HE DRAFTS STUDENTS from his psychology class at Harper Junior College, welcomes volunteers through the Elk Grove Community Service, and uses such paraprofessionals as social work interns from the Circle Campus (who provide individual and family counseling) plus certified-but-unemployed teachers, who serve as part-time tutors.

Two high school volunteers from Future Teachers of America and several mothers training exercises; a high school girl with reading problems serves as the "listening ear" for primary reading students in need of a one-to-one relationship.

Two seniors in group work programming at George Williams College have organized after-school and weekend programs for boys, supplying recreational and psychosocial support. And a lonely, unhappy boy spends a couple hours each week in discussion and games with an outgoing, happy-go-lucky boy of the same age.

For those students labeled as the EMH (Educable Mentally Handicapped), Smith has provided a boys' hobby shop and girls' homecraft class, in which the students create projects while learning to use tools, follow directions, measure and count. Under the direction of Mrs. Karen Metzler, the girls have molded and glazed ceramic cups, and learned to knit, cook and sew. The boys, guided by Bill Doolan, a 20-year-old Harper College student, have made boats and Christmas trees and are setting up a workshop for next year.

WHILE AT FIRST glance these programs appear to be solely recreational, they are learning-centered, especially for the child who needs emotional help or lacks necessary skills. Periodic conferences between student service counselors and teachers provide insight into student problems, many of which have diminished in intensity.

But often it is those who have offered their valuable time to the project who find they are learning most of all, Smith said. "Satisfaction and personal growth come to a person who reaches out and helps another person."

This is seen in the way housewives Pat Peacock and Denise Sodenback "rose to the challenge of the assignment and have done yeoman's jobs."

It is seen in the plans of Social Worker Sandy Spencer to include work with children in her future.

But most of all, it is seen in the words of Mrs. Karen Metzler, as she observed a child in her class: "See how she lights up! When I first met her, she wouldn't crack a smile!"

BOYS LIKE BOATS, and Harper Junior College student Bill Doolan volunteers his skill in woodworking to School Dist. 59. Because of the volunteer resource pool, Denny Thomas and others will pick up skills well beyond academics during their elementary years.

Wheeling Bank Linked

The Wheeling Trust and Savings Bank was one of nine banks mentioned in a letter that led to a conflict of interest investigation involving Donald R. Bonniwell, chairman of the State Toll Highway Authority, according to United Press International.

The investigation was ordered by Illinois Atty. Gen. William J. Scott after Bonniwell sent a letter to State Treasurer Adlai E. Stevenson III asking that the state tollway funds be deposited in nine banks.

SEVEN OF THE NINE banks do business with Walston & Co., of which Bonniwell is a vice president. UPI did not reveal which seven of the nine banks do business with Walston.

Besides Wheeling Trust, the other eight banks named in the letter are the Midwest Bank and Trust Co., Elmwood Park, Colonial Bank and Trust Co., Chicago; South East National Bank, Chicago; Citizens National Bank, Downers Grove, American National Bank and Trust Co., Waukegan; the Wauconda National Bank in Wauconda; American Savings Bank of South Chicago Heights; and the First State Bank of Round Lake.

All but the Round Lake institution had tollway deposits before Stevenson took office in 1967.

Jubilee Kick-Off June 2

North Wheeling

Four generations gathered at the Nelson home, 135 S. Wolf, on Mother's Day, when Alvin's mother, Mrs. Anna Nelson, came from Waukegan to meet her great-granddaughter, Michele Hershey, for the first time. Grandma Nelson, Marge and Al and their children, their daughter and son-in-law, Dolores and Ben Hershey, and Michele dined at the Scanda House, then returned to the Nelsons for the afternoon.

Marge and Al Nelson recently entertained former Wolf Road neighbors, the Arnold Beagles of Seattle. Sharing in the reunion were Mrs. Mildred Schuett and Mr. and Mrs. Len Kunowski.

On Mother's Day, Ruth and Jim Wieder, 116 S. Wille, and their family were the dinner guests of brother and sister-in-law, Clay and Jane Wieder, 306 S. Park. Also present was Clay and Jim's mother, Mrs. Helen Wieder of Des Plaines.

Mary Kedroski, 255 S. Wheeling, was treated by her family on Sunday, when Jack, Marty, Jimmy and Dana took her to dinner at the Black Angus Steak House in Gurnee.

HENRICK'S IN NORTHBROOK was the choice of Virginia and Al Abraham, 35 Glendale. They joined the Ron Fishers, 926 N. Milwaukee, in celebrating Mother's Day on Saturday evening.

On Saturday, Ceil and Bernard Sharkey, 44 W. Strong, witnessed the First Communion ceremony of their granddaughter, Kathy, at St. Theresa's in Palatine. Following the mass, they attended a communion celebration given by their daughter and son-in-law, Ann and Chuck McGee.

A combination of congratulations and get well wishes go to Jean Norris, 187 7th. Completing the trio of boys for Jean and Jim, newborn Scott Allen joined brothers Jimmy and Danny on May 2. Although mother and son came home from the hospital on schedule, complications will keep Jean confined for some weeks to come.

Bobby Sweeney, 156 7th, celebrated his ninth birthday May 7 with a barbecue party Saturday. After serving the birthday cake, his mother, Chris, escorted guests, Fred and Frank Warf, Debbie Nuenfeldt, David Gabala, Robert Ignoffo and sons, Danny and Bobby, to Jeffery Lanes for an afternoon of bowling.

Sue Hoffman, Trudy Stark, Barbara Horcher, Dolores Messinger, Mary Schuetz, Marianne Munro, Jean Evans and Lorraine Brown were among the 40 guests at an afternoon coffee at Marilyn Passoli's last week. The dessert was a thank you for the volunteer clerks and room mothers at St. Joseph the Worker School.

A WEEKEND AWAY was the Mother's Day treat for Joan Sheik, 171 Sunrise. She and John were guests at the wedding reception of his cousin, Eugene Schell, and the former Leora Stevers in New Berlin, Wis. on Saturday. The lively German party boasted two bands, allowing the Shells an evening of non-stop dancing. They remained overnight, returning home Sunday afternoon.

Patrick, son of Jerry and Sue Hoffman, 116 Glendale, received his First Holy Communion at St. Joseph the Worker on Sunday. His parents and brothers, Leonard and Curt, accompanied him into the sanctuary, while sisters Noreen and Sheila looked on. That afternoon, the Hoffmans were guests of Mary and Bill Dunn in Elmwood Park, at a party jointly honoring Patrick and Richard Dunn, who had also received his First Communion that morning.

A welcome is extended to Henry and Loretta Quinn, new residents of 172 Sunrise. No strangers to Wheeling, they moved from their home of 13 years in Dunhurst, turning over the keys to their daughter and son-in-law, Marie and Steve Grzasiak, and grandson, Brian. Another daughter, Susan, is away at college in Macomb.

Get well wishes go to Nick Niesner, 137 Center, who has been confined to Lutheran General Hospital for the past three weeks, following a heart attack.

Connie and Bob Campbell, daughters Linda, Donna, Jody and Janice, 147 Center, dined at the Sweden House on Sunday with Connie's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Miller of Deerfield. They returned to the Campbell home for further Mother's Day festivities.

Early Parade Step Off

Pupil Aid Hike OK'd

SPRINGFIELD — A bill to raise the state public school foundation level from $400 to $550 per pupil per year was passed, 149-16, yesterday by the House and sent to the Senate.

The House also passed, 99-63, a bill for $32 million in state aid to parochial schools. The new public school aid formula means the state guarantees, if the district qualifies, the difference between what local property taxes raise in a school district and the $550 level.

Foreign Aid Request

WASHINGTON — President Nixon yesterday proposed spending $2.58 million on foreign aid in the next fiscal year, the smallest presidential request in the program's history, but more than Congress appropriated last year.

Among major innovations Nixon proposes are creation of an "auditor-general" in the Agency for International Development to root out waste and corruption, and creation of a corporation to get private industry to do business in developing nations.

Hill Still Strong

SAIGON — U.S. Headquarters said yesterday a "substantial" force of American troops remaining on Hamburger Hill could defeat any attempt by North Vietnamese regulars to recapture the peak.

Withdrawal of about 600 men came on the eve of a Viet Cong-proclaimed 48-hour ceasefire, effective 6 p.m. CDT, Wednesday, in observance of the birthday of Buddha, to be followed by a 24-hour "stand-down" to be observed by allied troops.

Nickerson Is Sought

BELLEVILLE — William Raymond Nickerson, 30, charged with murder yesterday in the slaying of a teenage Massachusetts couple on the night of their high school prom, is being sought.

The St. Clair County sheriff's office said Nickerson was apparently in the area from April 14 until he left May 7, two days after the bodies of Michael Morrison, 18, and Deborah Means, 15, were found. Nickerson is also being sought in connection with armed robberies and rapes in Clinton County and New London, Mo.

Spy Plans to States

WASHINGTON — Within two years, the Justice Department's new anti-crime agency plans to make the nation's top spy techniques available to the states to help them keep track of organized racketeers.

Charles Rogovin, chief of the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, said yesterday that two Defense Department intelligence-gathering agencies are cooperating with six states to develop a computerized crime intelligence system.

Lawmakers to Paris

WASHINGTON — The first of 59 House members and 20 of their aides began leaving for Paris Wednesday to attend the Paris International Air show, financed with tax dollars.

Each day they are gone, each member of the party will be authorized $50 in government funds for living expenses. The main group is scheduled to leave Saturday and return seven days later.

650 Highway Deaths?

CHICAGO — The National Safety Council has estimated that 530 to 650 persons will die on the nation's highways over the Memorial Day weekend from 5 p.m. today to midnight Sunday.

Last year, the holiday weekend was one day longer and the council estimated 625 to 725 deaths. The toll was 628.

A parade sponsored by Wheeling's veteran's organizations will highlight memorial day festivities in the village tomorrow.

Beginning at 10:30 a.m. at the Philip Carpenter AmVets Post on Milwaukee Avenue south of Dundee Road, the parade will move north to Dundee Road, west on Dundee Road to Wolf Road, and south on Wolf Road to the memorial monument in Heritage Park.

Following the parade there will be a ceremony observance in honor of area veterans who have died in our nation's Wars. Refreshments will be served by American Legion Post 1668.

Streets on which the parade will travel will be blocked by Wheeling policemen. The parade and ceremonies are expected to last until noon.

ORGANIZED BY Frank Rennie and Dan Crowley of the AmVets, the parade is sponsored jointly by that organization, the American Legion, and the veterans of Foreign Wars (VFW).

Participants in the parade will include color guards from all three organizations, the Wheeling High School award winning band, antique cars, and Wheeling and Bu-falo Grove baton twirling corps sponsored by the district.

Other marching units will include the Adlai E. Stevenson High School Band, auxiliaries of the AmVets and VFW, Junior AmVets, the Chicago Mounties marching troop, the Highland Helpers Blue Birds, Boy Scouts, Cub Scouts, Girl Scouts and Brownies from the area, and the AmVets Auxiliary King and Queen.

Wheeling Firemen will drive the new aerial tower truck in the parade.

Also, children from the area are expected to decorate bikes and ride them on an individual basis.

Query Basin Cost Addition

Wheeling trustees are questioning a $29,000 addition to the cost of the Heritage Park West Retention Basin for topsoil required by the Metropolitan Sanitary District.

At a meeting last week between representatives of the MSD, the Wheeling Park District, and Harza Engineering, village engineers on the project, it was agreed that the $29,000 addition, bringing the total contract up to $301,000 would be included in the contract between the various parties.

The village board Monday questioned the decision because two village representatives scheduled to be at last week's meeting had been unable to attend.

Trustees commented the increase for topsoil to plant grass would be "quite high" and that the village had been under the impression from John Crane of Harza that soil conserved and stockpiled from the existing ground would be sufficient to plant grass without the additional expenditure.

THE BOARD MONDAY directed Pres. Ted C. Scanlon to contact the MSD to see if the decision that $29,000 should be added to the $272,000 construction cost couldn't be changed.

Roger Bjorvik, park district attorney, told the Herald Wednesday that the MSD had sought the additional high grade topsoil because they feared that the basin would become an eyesore in the village.

"The MSD didn't want to be involved in a project that would bring a blight to the village," he said.

Scanlon said Wednesday that he had contacted the MSD, but the details of the conversation would not be made public before next Monday's board meeting.

The board learned of the MSD's decision

in a letter from D. E. Kleiner, project manager of the basin. In a letter, Kleiner said that the MSD would require the use of topsoil on the retention reservoir and the side slopes as an addition to the contract.

"WE WILL PROCEED with completion of the contract documents assuming that the above increase is approved," he concluded.

A large portion of the $29,000 increase will have to be paid by the village if the contract cannot be changed again, because MSD funds can only be used on flood retention portions of the basin and not on recreational aspects.

Annex Bill Rapped

by MARY DRESSER

The Illinois Manufacturing Association, while not as vocal as homeowners opposing HB 1241, has nevertheless thrown its weight against the bill that would permit municipalities to annex unincorporated areas by ordinance.

Orville Bergren, a representative of the IMA based in Chicago, says his group is definitely "opposed to it."

The IMA has been quietly making its position clear to representatives and senators in Springfield.

The bill has passed the House and is up for Senate committee hearing.

Lobbyists for manufacturing interests have been seen in the Springfield area, according to Herald sources.

ONE LOBBYIST, is the legislative representative of Ford Motor Co. Ford is concerned about the bill because it has a plant in an unincorporated area near Chicago Heights. If HB 1241 passes, it is possible Chicago Heights will annex the Ford Plant and obtain a tax windfall.

Sen. John A. Graham (R-3rd District) has been closely associated with the IMA.

Graham has come out in opposition to the bill, saying it deprives homeowners of their rights to dispose of property.

The IMA's Bergren says his group objects to the bill because owners and electors have no vote in determining which municipality annexes them.

"Three is a failure to provide means whereby people can object," says Bergren. "Unless the judge over-rides the annexation, power of the people is limited. Annexation is a flat accomplishment."

The bill is designed to serve "a couple of communities" charges Bergren. "They want to bring in industrial plants."

BERGREN CALLED attention to the A. O. Smith offices outside Arlington Heights.

"It is significant that Rep. Eugene Schlickman of Arlington Heights is sponsoring this bill."

Bergren bemoaned the fact that the other sponsors of the bill were all Republicans and "staunch friends of industry."

Since Gov. Richard Ogilvie has included the bill in his legislative package, Bergren predicts "it has a better chance of passage this year."

If cities can annex, they have the power

In War's Wake

Memorial Day — Friday, May 30, 1969. Two servicemen from this area have died in action in Vietnam.

Marine Pfc. John Bieneman, 19, died Aug. 14, 1968. He was the son of Mrs. Dorothy F. Rapacz and the stepson of Edmund Rapacz, 328 N. Third St., Wheeling.

Private Bieneman was a member of the First Battalion of the 13th Marine Regiment, stationed in Thu Thien province.

Pfc. James M. Kaller, 211 Wolf Road, Prospect Heights, died March 3, 1969, at a hospital at Long Binh, Vietnam.

Kaller, 21, is survived by his mother, Mrs. Florence Kaller, two brothers and a sister.

Private Kaller died from shrapnel wounds sustained in a battle with the Viet Cong at Cu Chi, 18 miles northwest of Saigon.

Asks Suburban Bus Cutback

The United Motor Coach Co. of Des Plaines has asked the Illinois Commerce Commission for permission to suspend eight bus routes in Arlington Heights and surrounding areas.

When asked when he expected the request to be granted, John Hanck, vice president of United Motor Coach, said, "We hope to have it in a month or two."

The eight threatened routes are Barrington to Elgin, Arlington Heights to Elk Grove, Mount Prospect to Prospect Heights, Carpentersville to Dundee and Elgin, Barrington to Big Foot Prairie, Wheeling to the Illinois-Wisconsin line (a summer route), an Arlington Heights local route to the train station there, and a route to the Pure Oil Co. plant in Palatine.

Hanck emphasized that the company's "Number 3" route, running from Barrington, Palatine, Mount Prospect and Arlington Heights to Evanston and the Chicago Loop will not be affected. He did say, however, that this route "is a borderline operation."

Though it is not a money maker for the company, Hanck said, "We don't want to give it up." The company is hoping the route will be more profitable after June 15, when a summer schedule goes into effect.

ABANDONMENT OF the eight routes has been discussed with area village officials, Hanck said. At the ICC hearing, the single objector to the abandonment request was a Prospect Heights resident.

Hanck estimated the demise of the eight routes would save the company about $1,000 a week. Last year the company lost $135,000. For the present year, "the company is in the black," Hanck said.

Some of the eight routes, Hanck pointed out, have been losing money since World War II. Partly because the ICC forced the company to operate the routes, and partly because the company anticipated growing passenger numbers in the area, the company has maintained the routes.

But, the population has never grown to the density necessary to support bus routes, Hanck said.

"The people who have moved into the area are not bus riders. Everyone wants to drive."

AS FOR THE Pure Oil Co. route, "We started it with a subsidy from the oil company," Hanck said. But when the subsidy ended, the company found the route could not support itself.

Hanck outlined some of the expenses involved in maintaining a bus route. With the rush hour routes, the buses had to be sent into the area empty. Moreover, drivers received a full day's pay, even though their route operated only a few hours each day.

To meet costs, a bus must earn $8 an hour. Some of the lines weren't doing half that much business, Hanck said.

Hanck did not rule out the possibility that bus service will return to the area some day. He said his company presented an experimental bus plan to John Costes, assistant Arlington Heights village manager, March 17. The plan, a long-range one, would involve a heavy federal subsidy.

AN HONORABLE MENTION in the Shell Oil Companies Education Program went to Prospect Heights Woman's Club, Mrs. Donald Bowler, safety and education chairman of the club, accepted the award from R. M. Abbott, district manager for Shell, at the recent GFWC convention.

Clear Businesses

Cases against approximately 25 Wheeling businesses for failure to buy business licenses were dropped by Village Prosecutor Donald Norman Tuesday because all owners of the businesses had since purchased the licenses.

Norman dropped the charges against the first group to come to trial of over 60 businesses charged with violation of the ordinance after policemen told him that all of the businesses in that group had since bought licenses.

"I'm a prosecutor, not a persecutor," Norman said, explaining that all the businesses had complied with the ordinance.

WHEELING POLICE CHIEF M. O. Horcher said earlier Wednesday that it seemed futile to have issued the citations if the charges were just going to be dropped.

The chief pointed out that the man hours of policemen issuing the summons and appearing in court had cost the village money. Also, he repeated his feelings that such citations were not the job of the police department.

The chief says that he believes the police could handle traffic, crime, and emergency services.

Norman explained that the police had done a good job in issuing the citations, but added, "My job is to show some common sense in the court room. As a prosecutor I shouldn't harass business people in town... who are the backbone of Wheeling."

Norman emphasized that cancelling the charges through nonsuit procedure was his "discretion as a prosecutor" and explained that many businesses that have not complied will be prosecuted.

He also explained that owners who had purchased licenses since they were ticketed would have to appear in court anyway.

IMA Opposes Annex Bill

to license Bergren points out. "THEY CAN SHAKE people down," he says. "That's the complaint about Chicago. They say cross my palm, then we won't harass."

Industries in unincorporated areas have been installed without services such as water, heat, light and police, says Bergren.

"They don't require them," he says.

If industries are brought into a city's severe zoning it will restrict their right to use land around the plant, he points out. "We are obviously self-serving," he admits.

Pre-School Program Planned

A Christian pre-school for children aged 3 to 5 will be started at The Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd, 1111 N. Elmhurst Road, Prospect Heights. The school will begin next October and run through May. Classes for three-year-olds will meet once a week on Tuesdays and Thursdays. Classes for four-year-olds will be held from 9:15 to 11:30 a.m.

Rev. Dennis A. Anderson, pastor of the congregation and the church plans to offer a high quality program. "To meet this objective, we have secured two certified elementary school teachers, Mrs. Robert Dwyer and Mrs. Robert Kingsbury to head up the program," Rev. Anderson stated.

THE OBJECTIVE of the program is to provide a nonsectarian Christ-centered experience in learning about the world in which we live and to prepare for the experience of school through strengthening of emotional, social, physical and mental skills.

"Class size will be limited to 15 three-year-olds and 25 four to five-year-olds," he continued.

Fee for the school is $8 a month for three-year-olds and $12 per month for four and five-year-olds. Registration is for the entire year. Further information may be obtained by calling the church office, 537-4353, Monday through Friday between the hours of 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. or by writing to the church.

Members of the community may register their children at the same fee as members

Local Students In U. of I. Project

Four students from Eugene Field Elementary School and Jack London music teacher Thomas Hagaman will participate in an evaluation of the University of Illinois string research project June 1.

The group will be one of nine from Chicago area schools that will take part in the evaluation, which will be held at St. Francis Xavier School, Wilmette, beginning at 2 p.m.

Students participating include Gale M. Boh, Kris Porzel, Mark Scheuer and Brian Churchill.

The purpose of the U. of I. project is to increase the quality and speed of learning of beginning violin students. Paul Roland, music professor at the U. of I., is the project director.

MRS. MARGARET FARISH, a research associate at the U. of I., will be general chairman of the meeting. Richard Colwell, a professor at U. of I., is director of research for the project.

Roland's university class also will present a program that will be attended by teachers from project classes in Macomb, Champaign, Jacksonville, Normal, Quincy, Bloomington, Decatur and Peoria.

Evaluating the demonstration Sunday will be Victor Altay, concertmaster, and Shephard Leimhof, violinist, of the Chicago Symphony; George Perlman, private teacher from Winnetka; Marvin Rabin of the University of Wisconsin; Robert Shamo, director of instrumental music at the Lombard schools; and Stanley F. Nosal, director of instrumental music at Kenosha, Wis., schools.

"A special concern of the string project is to develop materials for the teaching of good motion patterns which are free of excessive tension," Roland said.

Expressway Routing Delayed

by TOM WELLMAN

Residents and land developers in the Northwest suburbs are going to have to wait longer than previously announced for public word of preliminary routes for the proposed Rand-Golf Expressway.

A spokesman for H. W. Lochner and Associates, consulting engineers who are studying routes for the controversial expressway, for the state highway department, told members of the Arlington Heights Plan Commission last week that alternate routes will be announced between September, 1969, and February of next year.

The first phase — collecting data from various governmental units — should be completed by June 1. The spokesman said the second phase will take three to eight months.

When the preliminary study is completed, many possible routes will be listed, to give the state and other agencies as wide a choice as possible.

A LOCKNER EXECUTIVE told Plan Comrs. O. V. Anderson and Jack Pittas that final hearings on a route could be held as early as 1971. He cautioned, however, that the date could be pushed ahead to 1972 if delays occur.

The expressway is projected to stretch from McCormick Boulevard in Evanston to Illinois Rt. 53 between Buffalo Grove and Arlington Heights.

It will roughly parallel Golf Road through the eastern portion of the area, then parallel Rand Road from Golf to Route 53.

However, another Lochner official stressed that the final route does not have to remain within a mile and a half of Rand Road, although that path would be preferable.

He said that the closer the expressway approaches either the Northwest Tollway or the Tri-State Tollway, the greater the duplication of existing high-speed services.

In other words, the expressway, at least as alternates shown on the maps later this fall, could be elevated over Rand Road or the Soo Line tracks near the Tri-State Tollway (outside of the three-mile-wide Rand corridor).

Hal Lockner of the firm stressed that all types of expressways — grade level, elevated, depressed, or tunneled — would be considered.

A MEMBER OF the Prospect Heights Improvement Association, Richard Schull, in the past has suggested paralleling the Soo Line or elevating it over Rand Road.

Late this fall, whenever the preliminary alternatives are available, officials of Lochner will discuss preferences with village officials.

Lochner officials are assembling a colorful collection of overlay maps and aerial photographs, all of which will be used in planning the route. Their main concerns now include traffic counts, governmental boundaries and land development.

No cost figure for the expressway has come up in public discussions, but two factors will probably weigh heavily: financial aid from the state and the skyrocketing cost of available land in the Northwest suburbs.

The question of land, or what little of it is still available, is the major concern especially to officials of Arlington Heights and Prospect Heights, both leading candidates for part of the route.

Months ago, when the project was first announced, it became clear, at least to Arlington Heights officials, that a segment of the expressway would slash through Prospect Heights.

In fact, Arlington Heights officials, fearing a cut through their more densely populated community south of Rand Road, have suggested a route north of the present Rand Road.

RESIDENTS OF Prospect Heights, an unincorporated area east of Rand Road and Arlington Heights, are upset and concerned that the long-awaited expressway could clearly cut their area in half.

Developers who have been considering subdivisions and apartment developers north of Rand are also concerned. In October, the Arlington Heights Plan Commission agreed that the location of the expressway should be only an additional factor to consider in mulling over new developments.

So, as the expressway is delayed, land prices rise, residents and developers become jumpy, and village officials take longer and harder looks at land maps and aerial photographs.

Sales Way Up

In 1968, there were an estimated 82.2 million automobiles in the United States, compared with 194,000 in 1908.

Willow Road Toll Rate Is Lowered

Motorists approaching the Willow Road interchange and the Tri-State tollway on Sunday will find a 10-cent drop in the toll rate.

Chairman Donald R. Bonniwell, Illinois State Toll Highway Authority, announced this week that a new 20-cent rate will apply to automobiles, taxis, station wagons, motorcycles and ambulances. Small trucks and all other vehicles with 1, 2, 3 and four tires also qualify for the 20-cent toll.

CLASS 2 VEHICLES (medium trucks, buses and vehicles with two axles and six tires) will pay 25 cents. Charge for cars with trailers and buses and trucks with three or more axles will be 35 cents.

Willow Road provides access to the Tri-State tollway to the Wheeling, Palatine, Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect areas.

Free Lance

by MARY DRESSER

The ghost of Sen. Joe McCarthy is lurking in the shadows of American political affairs.

Liberals who think he is safely dead with the stake of truth thrust through his heart are naive.

Old Joe is present at school board meetings and sessions of state legislatures across the country, and his new rallying cry is SEX.

SINCE JOE and I were fellow alumnae of Marquette University, I followed his career with the same fascination one has for a boa constrictor.

I remember how people acted during Joe's heyday in the 50's. Now the same smell of hate, suspicion and half-truth is in the air.

Today, if you disagree with the right wingers, the Birchites and the "Christian conservatives," you may not only be labeled a Communist, but a pervert.

The same people who blindly accepted Joe's simplistic arguments and Commiescare tactics are flocking to join groups such as the Birch-supported MOTOREDE.

The cry is: restore law and order, bring back the traditional American values, squelch "hippies," and preserve the right to educate children according to the parent's moral standards.

These simplistic desires are being used as grist for the new McCarthyism.

THERE IS FEAR today, fear of chaos in the streets and in the ghettos, and fear of our own children.

Sex education is what is causing this situation, the crypto-McCarthyites insist. They forget that the "hippie-types" did not receive this education.

The young people demonstrating against the establishment today were in school in the Joe McCarthy era.

While their mothers ironed, the children sat around watching the Army-McCarthy hearings on TV. Hypocrisy comes over loud and clear on TV — especially to children.

The children were also exposed to newspaper and television stories of our support of the German's and Japanese against the Russians, while at the same time watching 1943 war-horror movies on TV.

SPUTNIK HAD American politicians and educators scurrying around trying to beef up the education package to turn out scientists capable of beating the Russians.

The children of the 50's were brainwashed with "Americanism" in an era of hysterical fear of "Russian Communism."

If they are attacking the establishment today, it is not a result of what the schools teach in 1969. They were educated in an era of paralysis when Joe McCarthy was attempting to control the country, using fear as a weapon.

Mary Dresser

What they saw as children has affected their actions today.

TODAY WE are treating our children to another dose of McCarthy-type fear. Bills are clogging the hopper at Springfield to ban sex education, punish demonstrators and curtail dissent.

The schools, mirrors of our society's hopes and fears, are now being told they must not tell the truth about human sexuality.

Joe would have loved it.

Rep. McLory Speaker at Graduation

Robert McLory, U.S. representative deliver the commencement address to 114 graduating seniors at Adlai E. Stevenson High School June 10. Exercises begin at 8 p.m. in the auditorium.

This is the first class to complete all four years at Stevenson. It is also the largest to graduate.

Brief speeches will be made by Supt. Harold Baner and Jean Foss, president of the senior class. School board president Lorenz Schmidt will present a diploma to each senior as he walks across the stage.

TWO JUNIORS, elected earlier this week by the seniors, will act as honorary marshals for the procession which traditionally includes all faculty members robed in cap, gown and hood according to degree and school. They are Dora Dombrow and Jay Foss.

Juniors elected to usher are Sandy Taylor, Vivian Johnson, Pam Wolfe, Jeanne Whitlow, Ann Wolf, Bob Norton, Bob Moody, Bill Lange, Keith West and John Van Duynhoven.

The a cappella choir, under the direction of William Misik, music department head, will sing "The Impossible Dream" and Stevenson's "Alma Mater."

Pupil Aid Hike OK'd

SPRINGFIELD — A bill to raise the state public school foundation level from $100 to $550 per pupil per year was passed, 149-16, yesterday by the House and sent to the Senate.

The House also passed, 99-63, a bill for $32 million in state aid to parochial schools. The new public school aid formula means the state guarantees, if the district qualifies, the difference between what local property taxes raise in a school district and the $550 level.

Foreign Aid Request

WASHINGTON — President Nixon yesterday proposed spending $2.58 billion on foreign aid in the next fiscal year, the smallest presidential request in the program's history, but more than Congress appropriated last year.

Among major innovations Nixon proposes are creation of an "auditor-general" in the Agency for International Development to root out waste and corruption, and creation of a corporation to get private industry to do business in developing nations.

Hill Still Strong

SAIGON — U.S. Headquarters said yesterday a "substantial" force of American troops remaining on Hamburger Hill could defeat any attempt by North Vietnamese regulars to recapture the peak.

Withdrawal of about 600 men came on the eve of a Viet Cong-proclaimed 48-hour ceasefire, effective 6 p.m. CDT, Wednesday, in observance of the birthday of Buddha, to be followed by a 24-hour "stand-down" to be observed by allied troops.

Nickerson Is Sought

BELLEVILLE — William Raymond Nickerson, 30, charged with murder yesterday in the slayings of a teenage Massac couple on the night of their high school prom, is being sought.

The St. Clair County sheriff's office said Nickerson was apparently in the area from April 14 until he left May 7, two days after the bodies of Michael Morrison, 18, and Deborah Means, 15, were found. Nickerson is also being sought in connection with armed robberies and rapes in Clinton County and New London, Mo.

Spy Plans to States

WASHINGTON — Within two years, the Justice Department's new anti-crime agency plans to make the nation's top spy techniques available to the states to help them keep track of organized racketeers.

Charles Rogovin, chief of the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, said yesterday that two Defense Department intelligence-gathering agencies are cooperating with six states to develop a computerized crime intelligence system.

Lawmakers to Paris

WASHINGTON — The first of 50 House members and 20 of their aides began leaving for Paris Wednesday to attend the Paris International Air show, financed with tax dollars.

Each day they are gone, each member of the party will be authorized $50 in government funds for living expenses. The main group is scheduled to leave Saturday and return seven days later.

650 Highway Deaths?

CHICAGO — The National Safety Council has estimated that 550 to 650 persons will die on the nation's highways over the Memorial Day weekend from 6 p.m. today to midnight Sunday.

Last year, the holiday weekend was one day longer and the council estimated 625 to 725 deaths. The toll was 628.

A parade sponsored by Wheeling's veteran's organizations will highlight memorial day festivities in the village tomorrow.

Beginning at 10:30 a.m. at the Philip Carpenter AmVets Post on Milwaukee Avenue south of Dundee Road, the parade will move north to Dundee Road, west on Dundee Road to Wolf Road, and south on Wolf Road to the memorial monument in Heritage Park.

Following the parade there will be a ceremony observance in honor of area veterans who have died in our nation's wars. Refreshments will be served by American Legion Post 1968.

Streets on which the parade will travel will be blocked by Wheeling policemen. The parade and ceremonies are expected to last until noon.

ORGANIZED BY Frank Rennie and Dan Crowley of the AmVets, the parade is sponsored jointly by that organization, the American Legion, and the veterans of Foreign Wars (VFW).

Participants in the parade will include color guards from all three organizations, the Wheeling High School award winning band, antique cars, and Wheeling and Buffalo Grove baton twirling corps sponsored by the district.

Other marching units will include the Adlai E. Stevenson High School Band, auxiliaries of the AmVets and VFW, Junior AmVets, the Chicago Mounties marching troop, the Highland Helpers Blue Birds, Boy Scouts, Cub Scouts, Girl Scouts and Brownies from the area, and the AmVets Auxiliary King and Queen.

Wheeling Firemen will drive the new aerial tower truck in the parade.

Also, children from the area are expected to decorate bikes and ride them on an individual basis.

Query Basin Cost Addition

Wheeling trustees are questioning a $29,000 addition to the cost of the Heritage Park West Retention Basin for topsoil required by the Metropolitan Sanitary District.

At a meeting last week between representatives of the MSD, the Wheeling Park District, and Harza Engineering, village engineers on the project, it was agreed that the $29,000 addition, bringing the total contract up to $301,000 would be included in the contract between the various parties.

The village board Monday questioned the decision because two village representatives scheduled to be at last week's meeting had been unable to attend.

Trustees commented the increase for topsoil to plant grass would be "quite high" and that the village had been under the impression from John Crane of Harza that soil conserved and stockpiled from the existing ground would be sufficient to plant grass without the additional expenditure.

THE BOARD MONDAY directed Pres. Ted C. Scanlon to contact the MSD to see if the decision that $29,000 should be added to the $272,000 construction cost couldn't be changed.

Roger Bjorvik, park district attorney, told the Herald Wednesday that the MSD had sought the additional high grade topsoil because they feared that the basin would become an eyesore in the village.

"The MSD didn't want to be involved in a project that would bring a blight to the village," he said.

Scanlon said Wednesday that he had contacted the MSD, but the details of the conversation would not be made public before next Monday's board meeting.

The board learned of the MSD's decision

in a letter from D. E. Kleiner, project manager of the basin. In a letter, Kleiner said that the MSD would require the use of topsoil on the retention reservoir and the side slopes as an addition to the contract.

"WE WILL PROCEED with completion of the contract documents assuming that the above increase is approved," he concluded.

A large portion of the $29,000 increase will have to be paid by the village if the contract cannot be changed again, because MSD funds can only be used on flood retention portions of the basin and not on recreational aspects.

Annex Bill Rapped

by MARY DRESSER

The Illinois Manufacturing Association, while not as vocal as homeowners opposing HB 1241, has nevertheless thrown its weight against the bill that would permit municipalities to annex unincorporated areas by ordinance.

Orville Bergren, a representative of the IMA based in Chicago, says his group is definitely "opposed to it."

The IMA has been quietly making its position clear to representatives and senators in Springfield.

The bill has passed the House and is up for Senate committee hearing.

Lobbyists for manufacturing interests have been seen in the Springfield area, according to Herald sources.

ONE LOBBYIST, is the legislative representative of Ford Motor Co. Ford is concerned about the bill because it has a plant in an unincorporated area near Chicago Heights. If HB 1241 passes, it is possible Chicago Heights will annex the Ford Plant and obtain a tax windfall.

Sen. John A. Graham (R-3rd District) has been closely associated with the IMA.

Graham has come out in opposition to the bill, saying it deprives homeowners of their rights to dispose of property.

The IMA's Bergren says his group objects to the bill because owners and electors have no vote in determining which municipality annexes them.

"There is a failure to provide means whereby people can object," says Bergren. "Unless the judge over-rides the annexation, power of the people is limited. Annexation is a flat accomplishment."

The bill is designed to serve "a couple of communities" charges Bergren. "They want to bring in industrial plants."

BERGREN CALLED attention to the A. O. Smith offices outside Arlington Heights. "It is significant that Rep. Eugene Schlickman of Arlington Heights is sponsoring this bill."

Bergren bemoaned the fact that the other sponsors of the bill were all Republicans and "staunch friends of industry."

Since Gov. Richard Ogilvie has included the bill in his legislative package, Bergren predicts "it has a better chance of passage this year."

If cities can annex, they have the power

In War's Wake

Memorial Day — Friday, May 30, 1969. Two servicemen from this area have died in action in Vietnam.

Marine Pfc. John Bieneman, 19, died Aug. 13, 1968. He was the son of Mrs. Dorothy F. Rapacz and the stepson of Edmund Rapacz, 328 N. Third St., Wheeling.

Private Bieneman was a member of the First Battalion of the 13th Marine Regiment, stationed in Thu Thien province. Pfc. James M. Kalter, 211 Wolf Road, Prospect Heights, died March 3, 1969, at a hospital at Long Binh, Vietnam. Kalter, 21, is survived by his mother, Mrs. Florence Kalter, two brothers and a sister.

Private Kalter died from shrapnel wounds sustained in a battle with the Viet Cong at Cu Chi, 18 miles northwest of Saigon.

Asks Suburban Bus Cutback

The United Motor Coach Co. of Des Plaines has asked the Illinois Commerce Commission for permission to suspend eight bus routes in Arlington Heights and surrounding areas.

When asked when he expected the request to be granted, John Hanck, vice president of United Motor Coach, said, "We hope to have it in a month or two."

The eight threatened routes are Barrington to Elgin, Arlington Heights to Elk Grove, Mount Prospect to Prospect Heights, Carpentersville to Dundee and Elgin, Barrington to Big Foot Prairie, Wheeling to the Illinois-Wisconsin line (a summer route), an Arlington Heights local route to the train station there, and a route to the Pure Oil Co. plant in Palatine.

Hanck emphasized that the company's "Number 3" route, running from Barrington, Palatine, Mount Prospect and Arlington Heights to Evanston and the Chicago Loop will not be affected. He did say, however, that this route "is a borderline operation."

Though it is not a money maker for the company, Hanck said, "We don't want to give it up." The company is hoping the route will be more profitable after June 15, when a summer schedule goes into effect.

ABANDONMENT OF the eight routes has been discussed with area village officials, Hanck said. At the ICC hearing, the single objector to the abandonment request was a Prospect Heights resident.

Hanck estimated the demise of the eight routes would save the company about $135,000. For the present year, "the company is in the black," Hanck said.

Some of the eight routes, Hanck pointed out, have been losing money since World War II. Partly because the ICC forced the company to operate the routes, and partly because the company anticipated growing passenger numbers in the area, the company has maintained the routes.

But, the population has never grown to the density necessary to support bus routes, Hanck said.

"The people who have moved into the area are not bus riders. Everyone wants to drive."

AS FOR THE Pure Oil Co. route, "We started it with a subsidy from the oil company," Hanck said. But when the subsidy ended, the company found the route could not support itself.

Hanck outlined some of the expenses involved in maintaining a bus route. With the rush hour routes, the buses had to be sent into the area empty. Moreover, drivers received a full day's pay, even though their route operated only a few hours each day.

To meet costs, a bus must earn $8 an hour. Some of the lines weren't doing half that much business, Hanck said.

Hanck did not rule out the possibility that bus service will return to the area some day. He said his company presented an experimental bus plan to John Costes, assistant Arlington Heights village manager, March 17. The plan, a long-range one, would involve a heavy federal subsidy.

Clear Businesses

Cases against approximately 25 Wheeling businesses for failure to buy business licenses were dropped by Village Prosecutor Donald Norman Tuesday because all owners of the businesses had since purchased the licenses.

Norman dropped the charges against the first group to come to trial of over 60 businesses charged with violation of the ordinance after policemen told him that all of the businesses in that group had since bought licenses.

"I'm a prosecutor, not a persecutor," Norman said, explaining that all the businesses had complied with the ordinance.

The chief pointed out that the man hours of policemen issuing the summons and appearing in court had cost the village money. Also, he repeated his feelings that such citations were not the job of the police department.

The chief says that he believes the police could handle traffic, crime, and emergency services.

Norman explained that the police had done a good job in issuing the citations, but added, "My job is to show some common sense in the court room. As a prosecutor I shouldn't harass business people in town . . . who are the backbone of Wheeling."

Norman emphasized that cancelling the charges through nonsuit procedure was his "discretion as a prosecutor" and explained that many businesses that have not complied will be prosecuted.

He also explained that owners who had purchased licenses since they were ticketed would have to appear in court anyway

Industries in unincorporated areas have been installed without services such as water, heat, light and police, says Bergen.

"They don't require them," he says. "If industries are brought into a city's severe zoning it will restrict their right to use land around the plant, he points out.

Pre-School Program Planned

A Christian pre-school for children aged 3 to 5 will be started at The Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd, 1111 N. Elmhurst Road, Prospect Heights. The school will begin next October and run through May. Classes for three-year-olds will meet once a week on Thursdays and for four to five-year-olds on Tuesday and Thursdays. Classes for both groups will be held from 9:15 to 11:30 a.m.

Rev. Dennis A. Anderson, pastor of the congregation and the church plans to offer a high quality program. "To meet this objective, we have selected two early elementary school teachers, Mrs. Robert Dieter and Mrs. Robert Kingsbury, to head up the program," Rev. Anderson stated.

THE OBJECTIVE of the program is to provide a non-sectarian Christ-centered experience in learning about the world in which we live and to prepare for the experience of school through strengthening of emotional, social, physical and mental skills.

"Class size will be limited to 15 three-year-olds and 25 four to five-year-olds," he continued.

Fee for the school is $8 a month for three-year-olds and $12 per month for four and five-year-olds. Registration is for the entire year. Further information may be obtained by calling the church office, 537-4333, Monday through Friday between the hours of 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. or by writing to the church.

Members of the community may register their children at the same fee as members

Local Students In U. of I. Project

Four students from Eugene Field Elementary School and Jack London music teacher Thomas Hageman will participate in an evaluation of the University of Illinois string research project June 1.

The group will be one of nine from Chicago area schools that will take part in the evaluation which will be held at St. Francis Xavier School, Wilmette, beginning at 2 p.m.

Students participating include Gale Melch, Kris Porzel, Mark Scheuer and Brian Churchill.

The purpose of the U. of I. project is to increase the quality and speed of learning of beginning violin students. Paul Rolland, music professor at the U. of I. is the project director.

MRS. MARGARET FARISH, a research associate at the U. of I., will be general chairman of the meeting. Richard Colwell, a professor at U. of I., is director of research for the project.

Rolland's university class also will present a program that will be attended by teachers from project classes in Macomb, Champaign, Jacksonville, Norma, Quincy, Bloomington, Decatur and Peoria.

Evaluating the demonstration Sunday will be Victor Altay, concertmaster, and Shephard Lehnhof, violist, of the Chicago Symphony. George Perlman, private teacher from Winnetka; Marvin Rabin of the University of Wisconsin; Robert Shamo, director of instrumental music at the Lombard schools, and Stanley F. Nosat, director of instrumental music at Kenosha, Wis., schools.

"A special concern of the string project is to develop materials for the teaching of good motion patterns which are free of excessive tension," Rolland said.

Expressway Routing Delayed

by TOM WELLMAN

Residents and land developers in the Northwest suburbs are going to have to wait longer than previously announced for public word of preliminary routes for the proposed Rand-Golf Expressway.

A spokesman for H. W. Lochner and Associates, consulting engineers who are studying routes for the controversial expressway, for the state highway department, told members of the Arlington Heights Plan Commission last week that alternate routes will be announced between September, 1969, and February of next year.

The first phase — collecting data from various governmental units — should be completed by June 1. The spokesman said the second phase will take three to eight months.

When the preliminary study is completed, many possible routes will be listed, to give the state and other agencies as wide a choice as possible.

A LOCKNER EXECUTIVE told Plan Comm. O. V. Anderson and Jack Pittas that final hearings on a route could be held as early as 1971. He cautioned, however, that the date could be pushed ahead to 1972 if delays occur.

The expressway is projected to stretch from McCormick Boulevard in Evanston to Illinois Rt. 53 between Buffalo Grove and Arlington Heights.

It will roughly parallel Golf Road through the eastern portion of the area, then parallel Rand Road from Golf to Route 53.

However, another Lochner official stressed that the final route does not have to remain within a mile and a half of Rand Road, although that path would be preferable.

He said that the closer the expressway approaches either the Northwest Tollway or the Tri-State Tollway, the greater the duplication of existing high-speed services.

In other words, the expressway, at least as alternatives shown on the maps later this fall, could be elevated over Rand Road or the Soo Line tracks near the Tri-State Tollway (outside of the three-mile-wide Rand corridor).

Hal Lockner of the firm stressed that all types of expressways — grade level, elevated, depressed, or tunneled — would be considered.

A MEMBER OF the Prospect Heights Improvement Association, Richard Schulz, in the past has suggested paralleling the Soo Line or elevating it over Rand Road.

Late this fall, whenever the preliminary alternatives are available, officials of Lochner will discuss preferences with village officials.

Lochner officials are assembling a colorful collection of overlay maps and aerial photographs, all of which will be used in planning the route. Their main concerns now include traffic counts, governmental boundaries and land development.

No cost figure for the expressway has come up in public discussions, but two factors will probably weigh heavily: financial aid from the state and the skyrocketing cost of available land in the Northwest suburbs.

The question of land, or what little of it is still available, is the major concern especially to officials of Arlington Heights and Prospect Heights, both leading candidates for part of the route.

Months ago, when the project was first announced, it became clear, at least to Arlington Heights officials, that a segment of the expressway would slash through Prospect Heights.

In fact, Arlington Heights officials, fearing a cut through their more densely populated community south of Rand Road,

Willow Road Toll Rate Is Lowered

Motorists approaching the Willow Road interchange and the Tri-State tollway on Sunday will find a 10-cent drop in the toll rate.

Chairman Donald R. Bonnell, Illinois State Toll Highway Authority, announced this week that a new 20-cent rate will apply to automobiles, taxis, station wagons, motorcycles and ambulances. Small trucks and all other vehicles with axles and four tires also qualify for the 20-cent toll.

CLASS 2 VEHICLES (medium truck buses and vehicles with two axles and 4 tires) will pay 20 cents. Charge for cars with trailers and buses and trucks with three or more axles will be 35 cents.

Willow Road provides access to the Tri-State tollway to the Wheeling, Palatine-Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect areas.

Mary Dresser

by MARY DRESSER

The ghost of Sen. Joe McCarthy is lurking in the shadows of American political affairs.

Liberals who think he is safely dead with the stake of truth thrust through his heart are naive.

Old Joe is present at school board meetings and sessions of state legislatures across the country, and his new rallying cry is SEX.

SINCE JOE and I were fellow alumnae of Marquette University, I followed his career with the same fascination one has for a boa constrictor.

I remember how people acted during Joe's heyday in the 50's. Now the same smell of hate, suspicion and half-truth is in the air.

Today, if you disagree with the right wingers, the Birchites and the "Christian conservatives," you may not only be labeled a Communist, but a pervert.

The same people who blindly accepted Joe's simplistic arguments and Commiescare tactics are flocking to join groups such as the Birch-supported MOTOREDE.

The cry is: restore law and order, bring back the traditional American values, squelch "hippies," and preserve the right to educate children according to the parent's moral standards.

These simplistic desires are being used as grist for the new McCarthyism.

THERE IS FEAR today, fear of chaos in the streets and in the ghettos, and fear of our own children.

Sex education is what is causing this situation, the crypto-McCarthyites insist. They forget that the "hippie-types" did not receive this education.

The young people demonstrating against the establishment today were in school in the Joe McCarthy era.

While their mothers ironed, the children sat around watching the Army-McCarthy hearings on TV. Hypocrisy comes over loud and clear on TV — especially to children.

The children were also exposed to newspaper and television stories of our support of the Gorman's and Japanese against the Russians, while at the same time watching 1943 war-horror movies on TV.

SPUTNIK HAD American politicians and educators scurrying around trying to beef up the education package to turn out scientists capable of beating the Russians.

The children of the 50s were brainwashed with "Americanism" in an era of hysterical fear of "Russian Communism."

If they are attacking the establishment today, it is not a result of what the schools teach in 1969. They were educated in an era of paralysis when Joe McCarthy was attempting to control the country, using fear as a weapon.

What they saw as children has affected their actions today.

TODAY WE are treating our children to another dose of McCarthy-type fear. Bills are clogging the hopper at Springfield to ban sex education, punish demonstrators and curtail dissent.

The schools, mirrors of our society's hopes and fears, are now being told they must not tell the truth about human sexuality.

Joe would have loved it.

Rep. McLory Speaker at Graduation

Robert McLory, U.S. representative deliver the commencement address to 114 graduating seniors at Adlai E. Stevenson High School June 10. Exercises begin at 8 p.m. in the auditorium.

This is the first class to complete all four years at Stevenson. It is also the largest to graduate.

Brief speeches will be made by Supt. Harold Baner and Jean Foss, president of the senior class. School board president Lorenz Schmidt will present a diploma to each senior as he walks across the stage.

TWO JUNIORS, elected earlier this week by the seniors, will act as honorary marshals for the procession which traditionally includes all faculty members robed in cap, gown and hood according to degree and school. They are Dora Dombrow and Jay Foss.

Juniors elected to usher are Sandy Taylor, Vivian Johnson, Pam Wolfe, Jeanne Whitlow, Ann Wolf, Bob Norton, Bob Moody, Bill Lange, Keith West and John Van Duynhoven.

The a cappella choir, under the direction of William Misik, music department head, will sing "The Impossible Dream" and Stevenson's "Alma Mater."

Pupil Aid Hike OK'd

SPRINGFIELD — A bill to raise the state public school foundation level from $400 to $550 per pupil per year was passed, 149-18, yesterday by the House and sent to the Senate.

The House also passed, 99-63, a bill for $32 million in state aid to parochial schools. The new public school aid formula means the state guarantees, if the district qualifies, the difference between what local property taxes raise in a school district and the $550 level.

Foreign Aid Request

WASHINGTON — President Nixon yesterday proposed spending $2.58 billion on foreign aid in the next fiscal year, the smallest presidential request in the program's history, but more than Congress appropriated last year.

Among major innovations Nixon proposes are creation of an "auditor-general" in the Agency for International Development to root out waste and corruption, and creation of a corporation to get private industry to do business in developing nations.

Hill Still Strong

SAIGON — U.S. Headquarters said yesterday a "substantial" force of American troops remaining on Hamburger Hill could defeat any attempt by North Vietnamese regulars to recapture the peak.

Withdrawal of about 600 men came on the eve of a Viet Cong-proclaimed 48-hour ceasefire, effective 6 p.m. CDT, Wednesday, in observance of the birthday of Buddha, to be followed by a 24-hour "stand-down" to be observed by allied troops.

Nickerson Is Sought

BELLEVILLE — William Raymond Nickerson, 30, charged with murder yesterday in the slayings of a teenage Mascoutah couple on the night of their high school prom, is being sought.

The St. Clair County sheriff's office said Nickerson was apparently in the area from April 14 until he left May 7, two days after the bodies of Michael Morrison, 18, and Deborah Means, 15, were found. Nickerson is also being sought in connection with armed robberies and rapes in Clinton County and New London, Mo.

Spy Plans to States

WASHINGTON — Within two years, the Justice Department's new anti-crime agency plans to make the nation's top spy techniques available to the states to help them keep track of organized racketeers.

Charles Rogovin, chief of the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, said yesterday that two Defense Department intelligence-gathering agencies are cooperating with six states to develop a computerized crime intelligence system.

Lawmakers to Paris

WASHINGTON — The first of 59 House members and 20 of their aides began leaving for Paris Wednesday to attend the Paris International Air show, financed with tax dollars.

Each day they are gone, each member of the party will be authorized $50 in government funds for living expenses. The main group is scheduled to leave Saturday and return seven days later.

650 Highway Deaths?

CHICAGO — The National Safety Council has estimated that 550 to 650 persons will die on the nation's highways over the Memorial Day weekend from 6 p.m. today to midnight Sunday.

Last year, the holiday weekend was one day longer and the council estimated 625 to 725 deaths. The toll was 628.

CLASSICAL RECORDS available at Palatine's library makes easy conversation for Mrs. Cleis Jensen, library director and Mrs. David Sutton, who has asked that memorial gifts in her husband's memory be given to expand the library's music collection.

Records Donated

by MARTHA KOPER

Classical music lovers have a treat in store for them on their next visit to the Palatine Public Library.

The existing wide collection of records and music on the serious side has been expanded with gifts in the memory of David Sutton.

Because he was a long-time music lover and also was proud of the local library facility, Mrs. Sutton decided her husband's memory could best be treasured in music.

In addition to flowers, friends asked about memorial gifts to a favorite charity or organization. Mrs. Sutton quickly saw an opportunity to add a few more concertos and symphonies to Palatine's public collection.

"A FEW OF THE records will be our favorites, but most of the money will be used to round out the library's selection of classical records," she said.

About memorial gifts, she explained, "Some people object to certain charities, but I decided nobody could object to a public library and certainly nobody objects to music."

Her husband professionally worked for a pharmaceutical company in Mount Prospect, but he also played the violin.

At one time, he even considered becoming a concert violinist, according to Mrs. Sutton.

"But I think he learned to appreciate music even more because it only was a pastime," she said.

What To Do In Event Of Tornado

A joint project of the Rolling Meadows Civil Defense, Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts will get under way June 7, with the hope that it will inform Rolling Meadows residents of the proper precautions to take in the event of tornadoes, severe weather watches or other catastrophes.

The three groups will deliver a copy of the booklet, "In Time of Emergency," to every home in the city.

The booklet and an attached letter explain what steps should be taken if Rolling Meadows is threatened with a tornado.

CARMEN VINEZANO, deputy director of the Rolling Meadows Civil Defense unit, said an information program such as this has never been tried in this area.

The drive will begin at city hall at 11 a.m. June 7. John Facia, Civil Defense coordinator for the Northwest suburbs, will attend the kickoff.

Refreshments will follow the deliveries.

Tomorrow's holiday observance in Palatine will kick-off with a parade beginning at 10 a.m.

Traditionally, the local American Legion Post No. 690 in cooperation with the Palatine Township Memorial Association will sponsor the activities.

The parade is scheduled to move west on Wood Street from Plum Grove Road to Smith Street, and north on Smith to North Side Cemetery.

More than 1,000 marchers, several floats and bands are expected to participate. The Sutherland Women's Relief Corps No. 89 will place a wreath on the grave of the unknown soldier.

AFTER CEMETERY ceremonies, the parade will regroup on Smith south of Robertson Street. It will go east on Robertson to Brockway Street and south on Brockway to Palatine Road, where it will split.

One half will go west on Palatine Road to Greely Street, then north on Greely to Slade Street, and east on Slade to Brockway where it will disperse.

The other half will march east on Palatine Road to Bothwell, north to Slade and then west to Brockway where it will end.

Bands will remain on Brockway and Slade streets for concerts after official ceremonies at the intersection.

Rename North Park

Salt Creek Park District commissioners and residents will rename the district's North Park in honor of Stephen M. Rose in ceremonies Saturday afternoon.

Rose was a Palatine High School freshman who died following a football practice session in September, 1967. He had been active in Salt Creek Park District activities and was the recipient of the district's first sportsmanship award prior to his death.

"He not only held the esteem of his fellow playmates and friends, but also of the youngsters at school, in church, and the many elders with whom he came in contact," said Park Comr. Gerald Anlenius.

THE 2 P.M. dedication of the park will include placing a plaque on the park district office at 530 S. Williams in Palatine and several brief speeches by acquaintances of the boy.

The Rev. R. K. Wobbe, of Christ Evangelical Reformed Church of Des Plaines, the boy's parent's church, will attend, as will Stephen's favorite teacher, Mrs. Thomas Hyde of Jonas Salk School in Rolling Meadows.

Ed O'Bradovich, a member of the Chicago Bears, also is expected to attend.

Rose, 14 at the time of his death, was entering Palatine High School in the fall of 1967. He was trying out for the freshmen football team and complained after a practice that he was ill.

He lost consciousness and died on the way to the hospital.

DOCTORS SAID death was caused by a ruptured blood vessel in the brain which was believed to be a congenital disease.

Rose was graduated in the upper third of his class at Carl Sandburg Junior High School in Rolling Meadows.

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Rose, 749 S. Warren Ave., Palatine.

No Paper Friday

Paddock Publications offices will be closed Friday and Saturday in observance of Memorial Day.

Classified advertising deadline for the Sunday Suburbanite is 11 a.m. today; for Monday's Herald it will be 4:30 p.m. today. The Herald will not publish tomorrow, but special sections normally included in the Friday Herald are included in today's edition.

Arnold Memorial Slated

A David B. Arnold Memorial will be established at the Palatine Township Youth Organization's (PTYO) teen center, The Joint, Saturday morning.

Arnold, a 19-year-old Palatine Marine, was killed in Vietnam in March. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto W. Arnold of 515 W. Palatine Road, he was killed in a battle at Quang Tri, near the demilitarized zone.

Arnold was a graduate of Fremd High School after attending Stuart Paddock Elementary School and Palatine High School. He entered the Marines about a year ago and was sent to Vietnam shortly before Christmas.

His parents have donated $100 to the Palatine Township Youth Organization in his name and requested other donations be made to the PTYO in lieu of flowers.

THE YOUTH organization will dedicate a flag pole and flag in Arnold's name at 11 a.m. Saturday.

A Marine staff sergeant will raise the flag as Arnold's parents and friends and members of the PTYO watch.

The public is invited to the ceremonies at The Joint, Smith Road, north of Northwest Highway — the site of the former Levade Ranch.

Methodist Plan A Pancake Day

The First United Methodist Church in Palatine will observe its annual Memorial Day rite — a Pancake Day — between 8 a.m. and 2 p.m. tomorrow.

This is the 10th consecutive year the Pancake Day is being sponsored by the church's commission on education. It will be held in the Fellowship Hall of the north church building, on the corner of Wood and Plum Grove Streets.

THE PANCAKE DAY is open to the public. Tickets are available at the church office today or at the door on Memorial Day.

The menu will include juice, pancakes with whipped butter and warm syrup, sausages, coffee, tea and milk.

The church invites area residents to come for breakfast, lunch or brunch and to watch the parade pass the church.

To Place Wreath

Five members of one of the Palatine area's oldest patriotic groups will ride in a car in tomorrow's Memorial Day Parade and will place the wreath at the unknown soldier's grave in North Side Cemetery.

The Sutherland Women's Relief Corps 89, whose members are descendants of Civil War veterans, will celebrate its 68th consecutive Memorial Day as it always does — selling patriotism.

Highpoint of the day for the women will be the wreath ceremony at the unknown soldier's grave. Mrs. Margaret Tarnow, corps president, will place the wreath.

OTHER MEMBERS of the corps who will ride in the parade are Mrs. Clarence Comfort, Mrs. George Howes, Mrs. William Titcomb and Mrs. Ruby Florey.

"If you're a patriotic citizen, be sure to fly your American Flag on Memorial Day," Mrs. Titcomb said in an interview several years ago. The women still feel the same way and urge a return to the days when war dead were honored.

The Women's Relief Corps dates back to post-Civil War days when members were prominent in Memorial Day plans and parades.

Gen. John A. Logan, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic (GAR), established Memorial Day in 1868, and the Relief Corps, when it became an auxiliary to the GAR in 1883, was an avid supporter of the national observance.

The Women's Relief Corps began as groups of women in various towns throughout the Union who gave comfort or "relief" on the battlefield and in hospitals.

During a national financial crisis after the war, the women took on the responsibility of providing "relief" to the veterans who were among the hardest hit by the crisis.

PALATINE'S SUTHERLAND Women's Relief Corps was organized in 1901 and was named for Mason Sutherland, who was appointed Captain of the Illinois volunteers in 1862 by Gov. Richard Yates.

Capt. Sutherland was the great-grandfather of Mrs. Howes.

In the parade, the women traditionally wear white dresses tied with red, white and blue sashes.

Mrs. Titcomb has written a poem to commemorate this Memorial Day.

The Silent Army

And I saw a phantom army come with never a sound of life or drum. But keeping time to a muffled hum of wailing and lamentation!

The martyred heroes of Chickamauga, of Gettysburg and Chancellorsville. The men whose wasted figures fill the hallowed, patriot graves of the nation.

Church Opens Doors

"Operation Understanding" a series of open-house visits at churches of various faiths in Rolling Meadows will be held on Trinity Sunday between 2:30 and 5 p.m. at Trinity Lutheran Church, 3203 Meadow Drive.

This is the second in a series of five open-house visits presented by the Rolling Meadows Ministerial Fellowship.

St. Colette Catholic Church was the first church visited last May 4. Other churches to be visited in September, October and November are Meadows Baptist, Community and Bethel Lutheran.

REV. CARL F. THUN of Trinity Lutheran Church said that a program pattern similar to that set by St. Colette Church will be followed. The first 20 minutes will be spent explaining church liturgy and answering the question "What is Lutheranism?" A short question-and-answer period will follow.

There will be a tour of the sanctuary and other church facilities. Different routes will be established and led by elders of the church.

Teenage church members will be stationed throughout the church to assist visitors, and to explain church symbolism. Displays will be set up in the Saturday and Sunday schools.

Refreshments will be served in Fellowship Hall.

THE PURPOSE OF "Operation Understanding" is to increase an awareness of what people of various faiths believe and practice and to foster friendship and understanding among people of diverse religious backgrounds.

Asks Suburban Bus Cutback

The United Motor Coach Co. of Des Plaines has asked the Illinois Commerce Commission for permission to suspend eight bus routes in Arlington Heights and surrounding areas.

When asked when he expected the request to be granted, John Hanck, vice president of United Motor Coach, said, "We hope to have it in a month or two."

The eight threatened routes are Barrington to Elgin, Arlington Heights to Elk Grove, Mount Prospect to Prospect Heights, Mount Prospect to Dundee and Elgin, Barrington to Big Foot Prairie, Wheeling to the Illinois-Wisconsin line (a summer route), an Arlington Heights local route to the train station there, and a route to the Pure Oil Co. plant in Palatine.

Hanck emphasized that the company's "Number 3" route, running from Barrington, Palatine, Mount Prospect and Arlington Heights to Evanston and the Chicago Loop will not be affected. He did say, however, that this route "is a borderline operation."

Though it is not a money maker for the company, Hanck said, "We don't want to give it up." The company is hoping the route will be more profitable after June 15, when a summer schedule goes into effect.

ABANDONMENT OF the eight routes

has been discussed with area village officials, Hanck said. At the ICC hearing, the single objector to the abandonment request was a Prospect Heights resident.

Hanck estimated the demise of the eight routes would save the company about $1,000 a week. Last year the company lost $135,000. For the present year, "the company is in the black," Hanck said.

Some of the eight routes, Hanck pointed out, have been losing money since World War II. Partly because the ICC forced the company to operate the routes, and partly because the company anticipated growing passenger numbers in the area, the company has maintained the routes.

But, the population has never grown to the density necessary to support bus routes, Hanck said.

"The people who have moved into the area are not bus riders. Everyone wants to drive."

AS FOR THE Pure Oil Co. route, "We started it with a subsidy from the oil company," Hanck said. But when the subsidy ended, the company found the route could not support itself.

Hanck outlined some of the expenses involved in maintaining a bus route. With the rush hour routes, the buses had to be sent into the area empty. Moreover, drivers received a full day's pay, even though their route operated only a few hours each day.

To meet costs, a bus must earn $8 an hour. Some of the lines weren't doing half that much business, Hanck said.

Hanck did not rule out the possibility that bus service will return to the area some day. He said his company presented an experimental bus plan to John Costes, assistant Arlington Heights village manager, March 17. The plan, a long-range one, would involve a heavy federal subsidy.

College Bill Near?

The bill to authorize purchase of north Cook County state senior college site has not yet been heard by the House Appropriations committee, almost two weeks behind on its docket of bills.

Sponsor of the bill, State Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, said she has hopes the bill will come up Monday — if not in an adjourned committee meeting today.

Action in the appropriations committee has been stalled by partisan tiffs over appropriations to Gov. Richard Ogilvie's code departments, with the area's sole committee member — State Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights — complaining that the Democrats are grandstanding to gain press attention for their complaints regarding state government spending and Mrs. Chapman defending her party's action as an exercise of responsible review.

MRS. CHAPMAN had better news today on a bill also being watched closely by High School Dist. 214's assistant superintendent.

The Senate today passed and sent to the governor's office House Bill 356, which liberalizes the rules under which students can get out-of-school experience related to their future careers or academic interests.

McLennan's county committee on Career Opportunities for Youth, an offshoot of the Cook County Council of Governments, backed the legislation, as did the Illinois Chamber of Commerce.

State Sen. Esther Saperstein, D-Chicago, successfully shepherded the bill through its Senate hurdles.

Trunk Theft Target

A total of $816 worth of personal belongings was stolen from the trunk of a car belonging to August Stavros of RRS, Palatine last Thursday while the car was parked outside the Wheeling Trust and Savings Bank.

Stavros told police that a hole was punched in the back of his trunk and a set of golf clubs, pair of golf shoes, Polaroid camera and fiberoptic lamp were taken.

Mrs. Longfellow Resigns

Mrs. Kathryn Longfellow, a member of the Adlai Stevenson High School Board of Education since 1968, resigned Monday night because she is leaving the district.

Her resignation becomes effective June 1.

She is moving to California with her husband who has accepted a new post there with his company.

Board members praised "her earnest devotion to the educational affairs of the district, particularly in giving many hours of extra time on board projects which involved the community, teachers and administration."

THE BOARD IS expected to name a replacement at one of its June meetings.

In other action, the board spent more than two hours taking their first look at preliminary drawings for Stevenson's proposed 45,000 square foot addition.

Architect Conrad Kristmann briefed his listeners on the general plan which placed industrial arts, library, audio visual, social studies, English, math and physical education departments in the new area.

The Board asked for more details on how present building space will be utilized for other departments and set Wednesday evening, June 4, for its next meeting. In the meanwhile, teachers and administration will scrutinize the preliminary layout and will suggest improvements and changes.

WAYNE Schable, head of the social science department, was named curriculum coordinator beginning July 1. He will spend about 40 per cent of his time in the new post and will continue to teach some classes in his department.

Schnable has the bachelor's and master's degrees from Northern Illinois University and will soon complete his Certificate of advanced study in Curriculum from the same school.

William Misik, head of Stevenson's music department, was granted a sabbatical leave for one year beginning next fall to do graduate work at the University of Illinois. He has taught in Dist. 125 for eight years and recently completed the master's at Northern Illinois.

Rep. McLory Speaker at Graduation

Robert McLory, U.S. representative deliver the commencement address to 114 graduating seniors at Adlai E. Stevenson High School June 10. Exercises begin at 8 p.m. in the auditorium.

This is the first class to complete all four years at Stevenson. It is also the largest to graduate.

Brief speeches will be made by Supt. Harold Baner and Jean Foss, president of the senior class. School board president Lorenz Schmidt will present a diploma to each senior as he walks across the stage.

TWO JUNIORS, elected earlier this week by the seniors, will act as honorary marshals for the procession which traditionally includes all faculty members robed in cap, gown and hood according to degree and school. They are Dora Dombrow and Jay Foss.

Juniors elected to usher are Sandy Taylor, Vivian Johnson, Pam Wolfe, Jeanne Whitlow, Ann Wolf, Bob Norton, Bob Moody, Bill Lange, Keith West and John Van Duynhoven.

The a cappella choir, under the direction of William Misik, music department head, will sing "The Impossible Dream" and Stevenson's "Alma Mater."

Helicopter Ambulance Pioneer in Suburbs

by DON BRANNAN

A helicopter ambulance service will be on duty in the Northwest suburbs throughout the Memorial Day weekend as a pioneer project in medical rescue work. The helicopter evacuation service is being provided by the Cook County Sheriff's Police.

Two helicopters will be used to respond to any emergency call in northwest Cook County.

A helicopter will be stationed at area hospitals this weekend during daylight hours, prepared to answer any request for emergency evacuation service.

The schedule for the helicopter service is as follows: today, Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge; Friday, Holy Family Hospital, Des Plaines; Saturday, St. Alexius Hospital in Elk Grove Village; Sunday, Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights.

OPERATION ALERT (Aerial Law Enforcement Rescue Team) will go into effect noon today and will be in operation from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. through Sunday.

Project director is Capt. Richard D. Lowthorp of the Cook County Sheriff's Police, a resident of Schaumburg.

"We are applying the same concepts of medical aid as the airborne medic does on the battlefield in Viet Nam," Capt. Lowthorp told suburban policemen at an orientation session for Project ALERT Tuesday afternoon. The session was held in Schaumburg's Great Hall.

Two helicopters were also in Schaumburg to give practical demonstrations of landing and speed capabilities. Each cop has a top speed of 150 m.p.h. and each carries two ambulance litters, plus the pilot and a medical technician.

The Cook County Sheriff's Police Department envisions a fleet of 10 helicopters in suburban Cook County in the future, dispersed at strategic points for quick emergency response.

NERVE CENTER of the helicopter service is the communications center of the Sheriff's Police on the sixth floor of the County Building.

"The average time lapse between ambulance notification and the time when the victim arrives at the hospital is 31 minutes," Lowthorp said. He indicated that the average response time of a ground ambulance is 14 minutes.

According to Lowthorp, the helicopter will provide a maximum response time of five minutes and will be able to transport an accident victim to the hospital in three minutes.

An estimated 25 to 30,000 persons could be saved from permanent disability as the result of car accidents if they receive intensive treatment earlier, Lowthorp told police officers.

Statistics of the Cook County Sheriff's Police indicate there has been a 57 per cent increase in accidents in suburban Cook County over the past five years, and a 35 per cent increase in injuries.

DAMAGE in property and personal injuries as the result of these accidents has totaled more than $95 million.

At present the Cook County Sheriff's Police Department is thinking of forming a division of aeronautical services within the department that would provide around-the-clock helicopter rescue service. This group would be composed of 40 to 50 persons, including pilots and trained medical technicians.

"We are not proposing to do away with the ground ambulance," Lowthorp stressed. "The helicopter service is only intended to supplement ground ambulance service."

Two helicopters have been loaned to the Cook County Sheriff's Police for use in connection with Operation ALERT. The helicopters are manufactured by Bell Helicopter and Fairchild-Hiller Co. The cost of the helicopter model being used is $135,000.

THE HELICOPTERS will be in radio contact with police officers at an accident scene as well as medical personnel when they are en route to the hospital with a victim.

Policemen from Schaumburg, Hoffman Estates, Hanover Park, Rolling Meadows, and Barrington Hills attended Tuesday's orientation session in Schaumburg.

Settling on a list of legislation to back, the Cook County Council of Governments (COG) has now begun a campaign to promote the bills in the Illinois General Assembly.

legislative coordinator, has sent letters to 400 county governmental units urging correspondence with legislators to promote the measures.

The letters are to be followed up in two weeks with a telephone campaign, according to William B. Merrill, COG's staff coordinator.

Merrill spoke for Blase Wednesday at a meeting of the COG executive committee. At its last meeting, the 20-member executive committee voted to back the Illinois School Problems Commission's state aid formula of $550 per pupil.

COG ALSO VOTED to support two administration "home rule" bills, a bill permitting park districts to enter cooperative ventures and a bill permitting the Metropolitan Sanitary District (MSD) to issue $380 million in non-referendum bonds.

In his letter to public officials, Blase asked them to write their own representatives and urge their support of the entire COG legislative program.

"We are lobbying for those programs which are important to us and to our communities," Blase wrote.

For legislation to promote in Springfield, COG members deliberately chose bills important to all types of government, concerning schools, parks and municipalities.

COG Chairman Jack Pahl, Elk Grove Village president, said he has already received letters back from Third District representatives.

"Legislators are always anxious to get feedback," Pahl said. "The more we inform them, the better they like it."

Cook County Board Pres. George Dunne, a former state representative, agreed that information passed on to Springfield is enlightening.

"THEY DON'T KNOW what the problems are in local government," Dunne said, admitting he spoke from experience. "Before, I straddled local government with responsibilities and did not give them the tools to carry it out."

Home rule legislation COG is supporting House Bills 1253 and 1257. One permits municipalities to pass all ordinances necessary to protect public health, safety or welfare. Another permits municipalities to tax, license and regulate all businesses within corporate limits.

House Bill 2141 permits park districts to join with contiguous governmental units in ownership, development, operation and financing of joint recreational facilities.

Pahl reported he and Fred Dumek, Oak Lawn president, testified for COG in behalf of the MSD bill and district officials were appreciative.

Pupil Aid Hike OK'd

SPRINGFIELD — A bill to raise the state public school foundation level from $400 to $550 per pupil per year was passed, 149-18, yesterday by the House and sent to the Senate.

The House also passed, 99-63, a bill for $32 million in state aid to parochial schools. The new public school aid formula means the state guarantees, if the district qualifies, the difference between what local property taxes raise in a school district and the $550 level.

Foreign Aid Request

WASHINGTON — President Nixon yesterday proposed spending $2.58 billion on foreign aid in the next fiscal year, the smallest presidential request in the program's history, but more than Congress appropriated last year.

Among major innovations Nixon proposes are creation of an "auditor-general" in the Agency for International Development to root out waste and corruption, and creation of a corporation to get private industry to do business in developing nations.

Hill Still Strong

SAIGON — U.S. Headquarters said yesterday a "substantial" force of American troops remaining on Hamburger Hill could defeat any attempt by North Vietnamese regulars to reconquer the peak.

Withdrawal of about 800 men came on the eve of a Viet Cong-proclaimed 48-hour ceasefire, effective 6 p.m. CDT, Wednesday, in observance of the birthday of Buddha, to be followed by a 24-hour "stand-down" to be observed by allied troops.

Nickerson Is Sought

BELLEVILLE — William Raymond Nickerson, 30, charged with murder yesterday in the slayings of a teenage Mascoutah couple on the night of their high school prom, is being sought.

The St. Clair County sheriff's office said Nickerson was apparently in the area from April 14 until he left May 7, two days after the bodies of Michael Morrison, 18, and Deborah Means, 15, were found. Nickerson is also being sought in connection with armed robberies and rapes in Clinton County and New London, Mo.

Spy Plans to States

WASHINGTON — Within two years, the Justice Department's new anti-crime agency plans to make the nation's top spy techniques available to the states to help them keep track of organized racketeers.

Charles Rogovin, chief of the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, said yesterday that two Defense Department intelligence-gathering agencies are cooperating with six states to develop a computerized crime intelligence system.

Lawmakers to Paris

WASHINGTON — The first of 50 House members and 20 of their aides began leaving for Paris Wednesday to attend the Paris International Air show, financed with tax dollars.

Each day they are gone, each member of the party will be authorized $50 in government funds for living expenses. The main group is scheduled to leave Saturday and return seven days later.

650 Highway Deaths?

CHICAGO — The National Safety Council has estimated that 350 to 650 persons will die on the nation's highways over the Memorial Day weekend from 6 p.m. today to midnight Sunday.

Last year, the holiday weekend was one day longer and the council estimated 625 to 725 deaths. The toll was 628.

READY FOR DEDICATION, almost. Rolling Meadows' new city hall will be dedicated tomorrow morning following the city's annual Memorial Day parade and ceremonies. Although the hall was finished late last year and the city has been using it for several months, workmen this week were still adding finishing touches to the new west parking lot — and promised it would be finished in time.

Motel Zoning Is Deferred

Although Rolling Meadows City council was impressed with plans for a 2,000-room motel coming to the city, a final decision about granting rezoning of the land was deferred.

Because a report from the special zoning commission's public hearing was not available, most aldermen wanted to review detailed plans of the project before granting the necessary zoning.

Proposed for a site on Algonquin Road just east of the tollway, the Royal Coach Motor Inn would be built in three stages.

Representatives from the motel chain said construction would begin as soon as the council approves rezoning and the total project could be completed in about five years.

"Rolling Meadows is in the heart of one of the most prosperous areas of Metropolitan Chicago and we want to be a part of it," explained Walter Lesak, attorney for Royal Coach.

HE SAID THE firm believes there's a definite need for 2,000 more motel rooms in the area and is confident of the proposed motel's success.

The first stage includes 600 rooms in a rambling three-story building, a dining room, gift shops, an indoor-outdoor swimming pool, and cabaret-type cocktail lounge.

In addition to 400 more rooms, a large ballroom with a capacity for 1,400 people is included in the second phase of construction.

A 20-story high-rise with 1,000 rooms would be built as the third stage of the project, but a height variation from the local zoning board of appeals will be needed before construction can begin.

The total project is estimated to cost more than $50 million, according to Royal Coach representatives. The motel chain currently operates several similar facilities in Texas.

Years of planning and anticipation will end for Rolling Meadows residents tomorrow when the city's spanking-new city hall is dedicated at the conclusion of Memorial Day ceremonies.

Only the weatherman can possibly dampen the spirits of city officials and the other thousands who have set their sights on the dedication.

The dedication and open house will follow a morning parade and Memorial Day observances.

Cook County Comr. Floyd Fuller and State Sen. John A. Graham will be the speakers.

The parade is scheduled to assemble at St. Colette Church, Meadow Drive and Grouse Lane, at 10:45 a.m.

IT WILL STEP OFF at 11:15 a.m. heading north on Meadow Drive to Kirchoff, then west to city hall.

Included in the parade's 18 units are local Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, the Forest View High School marching band and baseball players from the Rolling Meadows Boys Baseball Association.

The program at the reviewing stand will include raising of the stars and stripes while the National Anthem is played, a chaplain's invocation and placing a Memorial Day wreath.

This will be followed by a rifle salute, taps, awarding of trophies for floats, presentation of the U.S. flag to Mayor Roland Meyer and the mayor's introduction of the speakers.

A self-guided open-house tour of the new city hall will be held for the public following the parade.

Bulletin boards, samples of city government and posters explaining the various functions of government will be on display throughout city hall.

THE ITEMS ARE related to the program's theme: "Know Your City Government."

The city moved its offices into the new hall last November, following completion of the building.

Ground for the $192,000 facility, which was added to the existing building, was broken in early 1968.

Even though the interior of the building is complete, the 2,500 or so spectators expected to attend tomorrow's parade and dedication will find that the new parking lot may still be soft.

The lot, to the west of the building, was still incomplete yesterday although city manager Gary Machunze vowed it would be ready in time for the dedication.

Rename North Park

Salt Creek Park District commissioners and residents will rename the district's North Park in honor of Stephen M. Rose in ceremonies Saturday afternoon.

Rose was a Palatine High School freshman who died following a football practice session in September, 1967. He had been active in Salt Creek Park District activities and was the recipient of the district's first sportsmanship award prior to his death.

"He not only held the esteem of his fellow playmates and friends, but also of the youngsters at school, in church, and the many elders with whom he came in contact," said Park Comr. Gerald Anlenius.

THE 2 P.M. dedication of the park will include placing a plaque on the park district office at 530 S. Williams in Palatine and several brief speeches by acquaintances of the boy.

The Rev. R. K. Wobbe, of Christ Evangelical Reformed Church of Des Plaines, the boy's parent's church, will attend, as will Stephen's favorite teacher, Mrs. Thomas Hyde of Jonas Salk School in Rolling Meadows.

Ed O'Bradovich, a member of the Chicago Bears, also is expected to attend.

Rose, 14 at the time of his death, was entering Palatine High School in the fall of 1967. He was trying out for the freshmen football team and complained after a practice that he was ill.

He lost consciousness and died on the way to the hospital.

DOCTORS SAID death was caused by a ruptured blood vessel in the brain which was believed to be a congenital disease.

Rose was graduated in the upper third of his class at Carl Sandburg Junior High School in Rolling Meadows.

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Rose, 749 S. Warren Ave., Palatine.

What To Do In Event Of Tornado

A joint project of the Rolling Meadows Civil Defense, Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts will get under way June 7, with the hope that it will inform Rolling Meadows residents of the proper precautions to take in the event of tornadoes, severe weather watches or other catastrophes.

The three groups will deliver a copy of the booklet, "In Time of Emergency," to every home in the city.

The booklet and an attached letter explain what steps should be taken if Rolling Meadows is threatened with a tornado.

CARMEN VINEZANO, deputy director of the Rolling Meadows Civil Defense unit, said an information program such as this has never been tried in this area.

The drive will begin at city hall at 11 a.m. June 7. John Facia, Civil Defense coordinator for the Northwest suburbs, will attend the kickoff.

Refreshments will follow the deliveries.

Meadows Boy Hit In Head With Bat

A 9-year-old Rolling Meadows boy sustained minor head injuries after being struck by a baseball bat while playing with other children in his back yard.

Witnesses said Martin Pletz, 2400 Oak Lane, was bleeding heavily from the forehead until Rolling Meadows police arrived. They rushed the boy to Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights.

Police said the boy received a one inch cut on his forehead and required four stitches to close the wound.

Church Opens Doors

"Operation Understanding" a series of open-house visits at churches of various faiths in Rolling Meadows will be held on Trinity Sunday between 2:30 and 5 p.m. at Trinity Lutheran Church, 3203 Meadow Drive.

This is the second in a series of five open-house visits presented by the Rolling Meadows Ministerial Fellowship.

St. Colette Catholic Church was the first church visited last May 4. Other churches to be visited in September, October and November are Meadows Baptist, Community and Bethel Lutheran.

REV. CARL F. THRUN of Trinity Lutheran Church said that a program pattern similar to that set by St. Colette Church will be followed. The first 20 minutes will be spent explaining church liturgy and answering the question "What is Lutheranism?" A short question-and-answer period will follow.

There will be a tour of the sanctuary and other church facilities. Different routes will be established and led by elders of the church.

Teenage church members will be stationed throughout the church to assist visitors, and to explain church symbolism. Displays will be set up in the Saturday and Sunday schools.

Refreshments will be served in Fellowship Hall.

THE PURPOSE OF "Operation Understanding" is to increase an awareness of what people of various faiths believe and practice and to foster friendship and understanding among people of diverse religious backgrounds.

To give an understanding of other church beliefs, and to provide a means for people of different faiths to get acquainted, are the series' two main goals.

Not designed to convert anyone, the series only provides the means for one to see why another believes as he does. The goal of "Operation Understanding" is social rather than educational, the clergyman said.

Other members of the Ministerial Fellowship are Pastor Michael Gree, Pastor William Herman, Rev. Edward Simonsen and Rev. Eugene Faucher.

Arnold Memorial Slated

A David B. Arnold Memorial will be established at the Palatine Township Youth Organization's (PTYO) teen center, The Joint, Saturday morning.

Arnold, a 19-year-old Palatine Marine, was killed in Vietnam in March. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto W. Arnold of 515 W. Palatine Road, he was killed in a battle at Quang Tri, near the demilitarized zone.

Arnold was a graduate of Fremd High School after attending Stuart Paddock Elementary School and Palatine High School. He entered the Marines about a year ago and was sent to Vietnam shortly before Christmas.

His parents have donated $100 to the Palatine Township Youth Organization in his name and requested other donations be made to the PTYO in lieu of flowers.

THE YOUTH organization will dedicate a flag pole and flag in Arnold's name at 11 a.m. Saturday.

A Marine staff sergeant will raise the flag as Arnold's parents and friends and members of the PTYO watch.

The public is invited to the ceremonies at The Joint, Smith Road, north of Northwest Highway — the site of the former LeVade Ranch.

Asks Suburban Bus Cutback

The United Motor Coach Co. of Des Plaines has asked the Illinois Commerce Commission for permission to suspend night bus routes in Arlington Heights and surrounding areas.

When asked when he expected the request to be granted, John Hanck, vice president of United Motor Coach, said, "We hope to have it in a month or two."

The eight threatened routes are Barrington to Elgin, Arlington Heights to Elk Grove, Mount Prospect to Prospect Heights, Carpentersville to Dundee and Elgin, Barrington to Big Foot Prairie, Wheeling to the Illinois Wisconsin line (a summer route), an Arlington Heights local route to the train station there, and a route to the Pure Oil Co. plant in Palatine.

Hanck emphasized that the company's "Number 3" route, running from Barrington, Palatine, Mount Prospect and Arlington Heights to Evanston and the Chicago Loop will not be affected. He did say, however, that this route "is a borderline operation."

Though it is not a money maker for the company, Hanck said, "We don't want to give it up." The company is hoping the route will be more profitable after June 15, when a summer schedule goes into effect.

ABANDONMENT OF the eight routes

has been discussed with area village officials, Hanck said. At the ICC hearing, the single objector to the abandonment request was a Prospect Heights resident.

Hanck estimated the demise of the eight routes would save the company about $1,000 a week. Last year the company lost $135,000. For the present year, "the company is in the black," Hanck said.

Some of the eight routes, Hanck pointed out, have been losing money since World War II. Partly because the ICC forced the company to operate the routes, and partly because the company anticipated growing passenger numbers in the area, the company has maintained the routes.

But, the population has never grown to the density necessary to support bus routes, Hanck said.

"The people who have moved into the area are not bus riders. Everyone wants to drive."

AS FOR THE Pure Oil Co. route, "We started it with a subsidy from the oil company," Hanck said. But when the subsidy ended, the company found the route could not support itself.

Hanck outlined some of the expenses involved in maintaining a bus route. With the rush hour routes, the buses had to be sent into the area empty. Moreover, drivers received a full day's pay, even though their route operated only a few hours each day.

To meet costs, a bus must earn $8 an hour. Some of the lines weren't doing half that much business, Hanck said.

Hanck did not rule out the possibility that bus service will return to the area some day. He said his company presented an experimental bus plan to John Costes, assistant Arlington Heights village manager, March 17. The plan, a long-range one, would involve a heavy federal subsidy.

It was given and taken Mother's Day greetings at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Moehling, 222 W. Palatine Road, when their daughters, Mrs. Elvira Shadoda and family of Woodstock and Dr. and Mrs. John Huffman of Chicago, dined with them at Uncle Andy's Cow Palace. Later they all adjourned to the Moehling home for the remainder of the day.

Member of the Norbert Karst family, 419 S. Hart, honored May 18 was David, who was confirmed at Immanuel Lutheran Church. After the afternoon ceremony, they hosted a buffet dinner with the guest list including god-parents, the uncle and aunt, Bernard Stahl of Palatine, and Mrs.

William Misik, head of Stevenson's music department, was granted a sabbatical leave for one year beginning next fall to do graduate work at the University of Illinois. He has taught in Dist. 125 for eight years and recently completed the master's at Northern Illinois.

Rep. McLory Speaker at Graduation

Robert McLory, U.S. representative deliver the commencement address to 114 graduating seniors at Adlai E. Stevenson High School June 10. Exercises begin at 8 p.m. in the auditorium.

This is the first class to complete all four years at Stevenson. It is also the largest to graduate.

Brief speeches will be made by Supt. Harold Baner and Jean Foss, president of the senior class. School board president Lorenz Schmidt will present a diploma to each senior as he walks across the stage.

TWO JUNIORS, elected earlier this week by the seniors, will act as honorary marshals for the procession which traditionally includes all faculty members robed in cap, gown and hood according to degree and school. They are Dora Dombrow and Jay Foss.

Juniors elected to usher are Sandy Taylor, Vivian Johnson, Pam Wolfe, Jeanne Whitlow, Ann Wolf, Bob Norton, Bob Moody, Bill Lange, Keith West and John Van Dymhoven.

The a cappella choir, under the direction of William Misik, music department head, will sing "The Impossible Dream" and Stevenson's "Alma Mater."

College Bill Near?

The bill to authorize purchase of north Cook County state senior college site has not yet been heard by the House Appropriations committee, almost two weeks behind on its docket of bills.

Sponsor of the bill, State Rep. Eugene Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, said she has hopes the bill will come up Monday — if not in an adjourned committee meeting today.

Action in the appropriations committee has been stalled by partisan tiffs over appropriations to Gov. Richard Ogilvie's code departments, with the area's sole committee member — State Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights — complaining that the Democrats are grandstanding to gain press attention for their complaints regarding state government spending and Mrs. Chapman defending her party's action as an exercise of responsible review.

MRS. CHAPMAN had better news today on a bill also being watched closely by High School Dist. 214's assistant superintendent.

The Senate today passed and sent to the governor's office House Bill 356, which liberalizes the rules under which students can get out-of-school experience related to their future careers or academic interests.

McLennan's county committee on Career Opportunities for Youth, an offshoot of the Cook County Council of Governments, backed the legislation, as did the Illinois Chamber of Commerce.

State Sen. Esther Saperstein, D-Chicago, successfully shepherded the bill through its Senate hurdles.

Trunk Theft Target

A total of $616 worth of personal belongings was stolen from the trunk of a car belonging to August Stavros of RR3, Palatine last Thursday while the car was parked outside the Wheeling Trust and Savings Bank.

Stavros told police that a hole was punched in the back of his trunk and a set of golf clubs, pair of golf shoes, Polaroid camera and fiberoptic lamp were taken.

Mrs. Longfellow Resigns

Mrs. Kathryn Longfellow, a member of the Adlai Stevenson High School Board of Education since 1962, resigned Monday night because she is leaving the district.

Her resignation becomes effective June 1.

She is moving to California with her husband who has accepted a new post there with his company.

Board members praised "her earnest devotion to the educational affairs of the district, particularly in giving many hours of extra time on board projects which involved the community, teachers and administration."

THE BOARD IS expected to name a replacement at one of its June meetings.

In other action, the board spent more than two hours taking their first look at preliminary drawings for Stevenson's proposed 45,000 square foot addition.

Architect Conrad Kristmann briefed his listeners on the general plan which placed industrial arts, library, audio visual, social studies, English, math and physical education departments in the new area.

The Board asked for more details on how present building space will be utilized

Patrol To Stay; More Pay?

Hoffman Estates officials are willing to continue police patrol service in the Village of Inverness at an increased rate of pay during the coming year.

This week trustees directed Police Chief John O'Connell to prepare a letter detailing their decision to renew the one-year contract, effective Aug. 1, at a non-negotiable figure of $36,000.

When the patrol service was initiated last year, the contract called for payment of $22,500 per year and required six month termination notice.

Therefore, in the event Inverness does not wish to accept the new pay figure, Hoffman Estates Police Department will discontinue patrol service Dec. 1.

USING FIGURES compiled by O'Connell, which indicated that Hoffman Estates had lost between $4,000 and $4,500 in providing the service for the past year, the village board agreed to increase the cost accordingly.

O'Connell had originally suggested a minimum figure of $31,000 based on two and one-tenth men needed for the job and allowing for fringe benefits, overhead and squad car amortization.

Since police now go north of the tollway to patrol the new Winston-Muss development, O'Connell feels it is definitely worthwhile to continue the service.

Activities of Palatine

Festivities of the Daniel Yelovick family, 333 S. Plum Grove Road, were not dampened May 10 by weather, when they honored Christopher, who received First Holy Communion at St. Theresa Church. Afterward the family had breakfast at Topps Restaurant and later celebrating at home, with a buffet dinner for 35 relatives from the city and godparents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Tonyom of McHenry, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Cabel of Chicago.

It was given and taken Mother's Day greetings at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Moehling, 222 W. Palatine Road, when their daughters, Mrs. Elvira Shadoda and family of Woodstock and Dr. and Mrs. John Huffman of Chicago, dined with them at Uncle Andy's Cow Palace. Later they all adjourned to the Moehling home for the remainder of the day.

Member of the Norbert Karst family, 419 S. Hart, honored May 18 was David, who was confirmed at Immanuel Lutheran Church. After the afternoon ceremony, they hosted a buffet dinner with the guest list including god-parents, the uncle and aunt, Bernard Stahl of Palatine, and Mrs.

Dorothy Buck of Morton Grove, and their families.

Making it a family outing, Mrs. Dale A. Werdebaugh and Lynne, Long Grove Road, took the mothers, Mrs. George Schroeder and Mrs. Arthur Werdebaugh Sr. of Palatine, with them to the Mothers' and Daughters' banquet at Immanuel Lutheran School Hall May 16.

ON MAY 18, bride-to-be, Deborah Novak, W. Leonard Road, was escorted to the Palatine American Legion Hall by her fiancé, Rick Lucier, to attend an affair that turned into a happy surprise. Amid decor of white and yellow, 50 relatives and friends were gathered to gift her with items for her future home. Hostess was an aunt, Miss Marceline Chew, with the assistance of friends.

Deborah, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Novak, will be married next month.

After being ill, it was a nice change of pace for Mrs. Donald L. Hermann, Lee Court, Capri Village, when she and her husband went to Old Orchard Country Club recently to attend the Des Plaines Junior Woman's Club spring dinner dance.

Teachers Offered Pact

Pupil Aid Hike OK'd

SPRINGFIELD — A bill to raise the state public school foundation level from $400 to $550 per pupil per year was passed, 149-16, yesterday by the House and sent to the Senate.

The House also passed, 99-83, a bill for $32 million in state aid to parochial schools. The new public school aid formula means the state guarantees, if the district qualifies, the difference between what local property taxes raise in a school district and the $550 level.

Foreign Aid Request

WASHINGTON — President Nixon yesterday proposed spending $2.58 billion on foreign aid in the next fiscal year, the smallest presidential request in the program's history, but more than Congress appropriated last year.

Among major innovations Nixon proposes are creation of an "auditor-general" in the Agency for International Development to root out waste and corruption, and creation of a corporation to get private industry to do business in developing nations.

Hill Still Strong

SAIGON — U.S. Headquarters said yesterday a "substantial" force of American troops remaining on Hamburger Hill could defeat any attempt by North Vietnamese regulars to recapture the peak.

Withdrawal of about 600 men came on the eve of a Viet Cong-proclaimed 48-hour ceasefire, effective 6 p.m. CDT, Wednesday, in observance of the birthday of Buddha, to be followed by a 24-hour "stand-down" to be observed by allied troops.

Nickerson Is Sought

BELLEVIEW — William Raymond Nickerson, 30, charged with murder yesterday in the slayings of a teenage Massachusetts couple on the night of their high school prom, is being sought.

The St. Clair County sheriff's office said Nickerson was apparently in the area from April 14 until he left May 7, two days after the bodies of Michael Morrison, 18, and Deborah Means, 15, were found. Nickerson is also being sought in connection with armed robberies and rapes in Clinton County and New London, Mo.

Spy Plans to States

WASHINGTON — Within two years, the Justice Department's new anti-crime agency plans to make the nation's top spy techniques available to the states to help them keep track of organized racketeers.

Charles Rogovin, chief of the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, said yesterday that two Defense Department intelligence-gathering agencies are cooperating with six states to develop a computerized crime intelligence system.

Lawmakers to Paris

WASHINGTON — The first of 59 House members and 20 of their aides began leaving for Paris Wednesday to attend the Paris International Air show, financed with tax dollars.

Each day they are gone, each member of the party will be authorized $30 in government funds for living expenses. The main group is scheduled to leave Saturday and return seven days later.

650 Highway Deaths?

CHICAGO — The National Safety Council has estimated that 550 to 650 persons will die on the nation's highways over the Memorial Day weekend from 6 p.m. today to midnight Sunday.

Last year, the holiday weekend was one day longer and the council estimated 625 to 725 deaths. The toll was 628.

Helmet Law Invalid

SPRINGFIELD — A 1967 law requiring persons who ride motorcycles to wear helmets was invalidated yesterday by the Illinois Supreme Court, which held that the law is "beyond the police power of the legislature."

The high court upheld Chicago's gun registration ordinance, saying the city ordinance was not inconsistent with one at the state level requiring registration with the state of gun owners but not individual guns.

THE ADJUSTMENT of the American Indian to new and different surroundings in Chicago and suburbia is a complex problem in human behavior. Tony Machukay, director of the American Indian Center in Chicago, offers guidance to Indian children in tutoring session. Center gives the Indian a place to share his heritage with other Indians. Barry Sigale, Paddock staff writer, concludes story of such an adjustment by Victor Runnels, a Streamwood homeowner, in today's third of a three-part series.

Expressway Routing Delayed

by TOM WELLMAN

Residents and land developers in the Northwest suburbs are going to have to wait longer than previously announced for public word of preliminary routes for the proposed Rand-Golf Expressway.

A spokesman for H. W. Lochner and Associates, consulting engineers who are studying routes for the controversial expressway, for the state highway department, told members of the Arlington Heights Plan Commission last week that alternate routes will be announced between September, 1969, and February of next year.

The first phase — collecting data from various governmental units — should be completed by June 1. The spokesman said the second phase will take three to eight months.

Buyer Protection

Mount Prospect businessmen yesterday learned good credit is not only hard to get nowadays, it is also impossible to understand.

A talk by Richard C. Sheldon of the Federal Trade Commission before the Mount Prospect Chamber of Commerce last night, revealed that a new truth-in-lending law may pose problems for small businessmen.

Called Federal Reserve Regulation Z, the law is aimed at providing more protection for consumers who find themselves paying credit they were not told would be charged. The new regulation, which goes into effect July 1, 1969, demands full disclosure of credit costs to consumers.

Sheldon explained that if a credit customer is not told exactly how much credit charge he will be paying, the customer has the power to rescind the sale.

ALTHOUGH THERE ARE many interpretations of the new law, many of them still to be tested in the courts, Regulation Z places the burden of informing customers of true credit costs on the lender, thus, a department store credit account customer will have to be told exactly how much extra charge he is paying for the privilege of buying on credit.

Sheldon took the local businessmen on a tour of a bewildering 63-page federal explanation of the new law. Exemptions to the law have been provided for many credit situations, including some real estate deals and large item transactions. Sheldon emphasized that inactment of the law now provides that the Federal Trade Commission now goes right to the retail

When the preliminary study is completed, many possible routes will be listed, to give the state and other agencies as wide a choice as possible.

A LOCKNER EXECUTIVE told Plan Comrs. O. V. Anderson and Jack Pittas that final hearings on a route could be held as early as 1971. He cautioned, however, that the date could be pushed ahead to 1972 if delays occur.

The expressway is projected to stretch from McCormick Boulevard in Evanston to Illinois Rt. 53 between Buffalo Grove and Arlington Heights.

It will roughly parallel Golf Road through the eastern portion of the area, then parallel Rand Road from Golf to Route 53.

However, another Lochner official stressed that the final route does not have to remain within a mile and a half of Rand Road, although that path would be preferable.

He said that the closer the expressway approaches either the Northwest Tollway or the Tri-State Tollway, the greater the duplication of existing high-speed services.

In other words, the expressway, at least as alternates shown on the maps later this fall, could be elevated over Rand Road or the Soo Line tracks near the Tri-State Tollway (outside of the three-mile-wide Rand corridor).

Hal Lockner of the firm stressed that all types of expressways — grade level, elevated, depressed, or tunneled — would be considered.

A MEMBER OF the Prospect Heights Improvement Association, Richard Schulz, in the past has suggested paralleling the Soo Line or elevating it over Rand Road.

Late this fall, whenever the preliminary alternatives are available, officials of Lochner will discuss preferences with village officials.

Lochner officials are assembling a colorful collection of overlay maps and aerial photographs, all of which will be used in planning the route. Their main concerns now include traffic counts, governmental boundaries and land development.

No cost figure for the expressway has come up in public discussions, but two factors will probably weigh heavily: financial aid from the state and the skyrocketing cost of available land in the Northwest suburbs.

The question of land, or what little of it is still available, is the major concern especially to officials of Arlington Heights and Prospect Heights, both leading candidates for part of the route.

Months ago, when the project was first announced, it became clear, at least to Arlington Heights officials, that a segment of the expressway would slash through Prospect Heights.

In fact, Arlington Heights officials, fearing a cut through their more densely populated community south of Rand Road, have suggested a route north of the present Rand Road.

RESIDENTS OF Prospect Heights, an unincorporated area east of Rand Road and Arlington Heights, are upset and concerned that the long-awaited expressway could cleanly cut their area in half.

Developers who have been considering subdivisions and apartment developers north of Rand are also concerned. In October, the Arlington Heights Plan Commission agreed that the location of the expressway should be only an additional factor to consider in mulling over new developments.

So, as the expressway is delayed, land prices rise, residents and developers become jumpy, and village officials take longer and harder looks at land maps and aerial photographs.

Teachers in School Dist. 59 are expected to vote a week from tomorrow on new contract offer agreeable to the Teachers' Council leadership. It calls for base salary on standard services contracts of $7,000 and extended services of $7,300.

In an interview yesterday afternoon, Harlan Michels, chairman of the council salary committee, announced the basic terms of the contract and said it was satisfactory to the committee.

Shortly afterward, the district administration released a statement which said a settlement "was tentatively agreed to at a meeting on Tuesday. The proposal will be finished Thursday afternoon."

Administration officials said the proposal will go to the board of education Monday night, and to the teachers Tuesday morning. It will be distributed to the press Monday, the statement said.

THE ANNOUNCEMENT indicated that teachers will vote on the proposal June 6, but Michels didn't set a definite date.

"We're very satisfied with the package," he said, "and we should have it to our entire membership in a week to 10 days."

While details of the new contract were not immediately available, Michels specified that the teachers won a collective bargaining contract, significantly higher salary, a promise from the district to cut class sizes, and a variety of fringe benefits.

He said the increase in base pay from $6,300 to $7,000 is the foundation of similar increases throughout the pay scale of the district.

Extended services contracts, which include extra pay for assisting with extracurricular activities, begin at $7,300 for a bachelor's degree and no experience.

CONTRACTS WILL be for 10 months.

Additionally, Michels said, the board agreed to making extended services contracts available to 50 per cent of the 450 teachers, an increase of 25 per cent over what was offered. The district will also underwrite complete costs of a $10,000 life insurance and complete major medical insurance policies.

"Most significantly," Michels said, "the board will include a statement to the effect that all extra funds will be used for increasing the number of staff at the classroom level."

Teachers wanted a limit on class sizes, and the board refused to negotiate the point. The compromise was struck Tuesday night.

Michels said the Teachers' Council leadership planned a meeting last night to set a date for vote on the proposal.

"We will ask that they ratify this contract offer," Michels said, giving his endorsement. Earlier, the teachers unanimously agreed to give the salary committee complete confidence in bargaining with the board.

RATIFICATION seems likely.

Both sides had been at odds since early this year, when teachers demanded $7,500 and the board offered $6,900. At one point, when teachers rejected the last board offer, negotiations were broken off, and teachers began to talk about "waiting as long as necessary" for the board to agree to faculty requests.

Last week, however, Supt. Donald Thomas suggested alterations in the fringe benefit proposals and managed to get both sides back to the bargaining table.

Teachers' Council leadership dodged comment on prospects for settlement prior to the meeting, as did sources within the district administration.

Thomas yesterday declined immediate comment on how much the contracts will cost the district, and if additional funds will be needed. Presumably the effect of the contract on the district's barely balanced budget will not be known until additional details are announced Monday.

Parade Will Begin Early

The Mount Prospect Memorial Day Parade will begin at 9:30 a.m. Friday at the corner of Busse and School streets and is being sponsored by VFW Post 1337.

About 500 persons, most of them children, are expected to participate, along with members of the VFW, the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and other civic organizations. The fire department will join in the festivities by driving two pumpers along the parade route.

"IT'S A PARADE for the kids, a family parade," said Police Chief Newell Esmond.

The mile long parade route will go west on Busse Avenue to Emerson Street, south on Emerson to Shabonee Terrace, and east on Shabonee to Lions' Park, where it will end.

The parade is being coordinated this year by Howland D. Atwood, 211 S. School St., a VFW member.

Project 444 Holds Mini-Graduation

by MARILYN RUBEN

Seventy-five preschool Elk Grove youngsters marched down the aisle, hand-made mortarboards wobbling on their heads and diplomas clutched in their chubby little hands.

A mini-graduation? Precisely. At the tender age of 4, these children qualified for their commencement ceremony with completion of the 15-session "Project 444," the four-dimensional program for 4-year-olds.

Sponsored by the Student Services Team of Ruple and Clearmont schools, Project 444 has served in the last year as the suburban answer to "Project Headstart." Fifteen trained "teacher-moms" have supervised groups of 15 children with activities to provide a stimulating and exciting first contact with the public school system.

ACCORDING TO Tom Smith, Ruple School psychologist and an innovator of the program, each one-hour session of Project 444 included work in four areas — socialization, language development, gross motor skills and auditory-visual-motor skills.

The curriculum, developed by Smith along with the "teacher-moms," provided games which involved cooperation, attention and group sharing, exercises in vocabulary expansion, and training in muscle coordination. "If the participating children can simply have fun, so that they begin kindergarten with a positive orientation," he said, "then our major goal will have been attained."

One of the primary purposes of Project 444 has been to demonstrate "that mothers have the talents and capabilities necessary to organize and operate a preschool program which will provide children with a significant developmental experience," Smith said. "Tapping the resources of the community at large is something too many schools have not done. There is a wealth of available talent — in mothers, fathers, high school and college youth and senior citizens."

While Project 444 is the largest venture to date, it is not the only program which provides "helping relationships" for children. Smith is well on his way to lassoing more local talent for use in his other plans.

HE DRAFTS STUDENTS from his psychology class at Harper Junior College, welcomes volunteers through the Elk Grove Community Service, and uses such paraprofessionals as social work interns from the Circle Campus (who provide individual and family counseling) plus certified-but-unemployed teachers, who serve as part-time tutors.

Two high school volunteers from Future Teachers of America and several mothers training exercises; a high school girl with reading problems serves as the "listening ear" for primary reading students in need of a one-to-one relationship.

Two seniors in group work programming at George Williams College have organized after-school and weekend programs for boys, supplying recreational and psychosocial support. And a lonely, unhappy boy spends a couple hours each week in discussion and games with an outgoing, happy-go-lucky boy of the same age.

For those students labeled as the EMH (Educable Mentally Handicapped), Smith has provided a boys' hobby shop and girls' homecraft class, in which the students create projects while learning to use tools, follow directions, measure and count. Under the direction of Mrs. Karen Metzler, the girls have molded and glazed ceramic cups, and learned to knit, cook and sew. The boys, guided by Bill Doolan, a 20-year-old Harper College student, have made boats and Christmas trees and are setting up a workshop for next year.

WHILE AT FIRST glance these programs appear to be solely recreational, they are learning-centered, especially for the child who needs emotional help or lacks necessary skills. Periodic conferences between student service counselors and teachers provide insight into student problems, many of which have diminished in intensity.

But often it is those who have offered their valuable time to the project who find they are learning most of all, Smith said. "Satisfaction and personal growth come to a person who reaches out and helps another person."

This is seen in the way housewives Pat Peacock and Denise Sadlenback "rose to the challenge of the assignment and have done yeoman's jobs."

It is seen in the plans of Social Worker Sandy Spencer to include work with children in her future.

But most of all, it is seen in the words of Mrs. Karen Metzler, as she observed a child in her class: "See how she lights up! When I first met her, she wouldn't crack a smile!"

Orator Wins Trip

Robert Bittler of Mount Prospect won the top award in the Northern Illinois District of the Opt. Int. Oratorical Contest.

Bittler, 16, was sponsored by the Arlington Heights Optimist Club and will travel to Miami, Fla. for competition in the finals. Over 3,000 entries have been narrowed down to 41 contestants for the June competition. Entries included residents of the United States and Canada.

As district winner for Northern Illinois, Robert will be given a free trip for the contest in Florida, June 22-26. He will have a chance to win a $1,000 scholarship if he is one of the five finalists and a $2,000 scholarship if he wins first place.

If he is not a finalist, he will receive an engraved wristwatch in addition to the trip and entertainment during his five days in Florida.

THE FOREST VIEW HIGH School student is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Bittler, 7 Susan Drive, and is the brother of Barbara, 10, and James, 7.

Robert took a 12-week speech course at a leadership program at St. Mark's Lutheran Church and has had one semester of speech at Forest View.

At St. Mark's, Robert is the president of the Gavel Club and he is presently a member of Forest View's student council.

At the qualifying speech contest for the Northern Illinois district held in Moline, Robert was the unanimous choice of the judges and won a trophy.

Each entrant had to present an original, memorized speech on the topic "Respect for Law and Order: Cornerstone of Society."

The United Motor Coach Co. of Des Plaines has asked the Illinois Commerce Commission for permission to suspend eight bus routes in Arlington Heights and surrounding areas.

When asked when he expected the request to be granted, John Hanck, vice president of United Motor Coach, said, "We hope to have it in a month or two."

The eight threatened routes are Barrington to Elgin, Arlington Heights to Elk Grove, Mount Prospect to Prospect Heights, Carpentersville to Dundee and Elgin, Barrington to Big Foot Prairie, Wheeling to the Illinois-Wisconsin line (a summer route), an Arlington Heights local route to the train station there, and a route to the Pure Oil Co. plant in Palatine.

Hanck emphasized that the company's "Number 3" route, running from Barrington, Palatine, Mount Prospect and Arlington Heights to Evanston and the Chicago Loop will not be affected. He did say, however, that this route "is a borderline operation."

Though it is not a money maker for the company, Hanck said, "We don't want to give it up." The company is hoping the route will be more profitable after June 15, when a summer schedule goes into effect.

ABANDONMENT OF the eight routes has been discussed with area village officials, Hanck said. At the ICC hearing, the single objector to the abandonment request was a Prospect Heights resident.

Hanck estimated the demise of the eight routes would save the company about $1,000 a week. Last year the company lost $135,000. For the present year, "the company is in the black," Hanck said.

Some of the eight routes, Hanck pointed out, have been losing money since World War II. Partly because the ICC forced the company to operate the routes, and partly because the company anticipated growing passenger numbers in the area, the company has maintained the routes.

But, the population has never grown to the density necessary to support bus routes, Hanck said.

"The people who have moved into the area are not bus riders. Everyone wants to drive."

AS FOR THE Pure Oil Co. route, "We started it with a subsidy from the oil company," Hanck said. But when the subsidy ended, the company found the route could not support itself.

Hanck outlined some of the expenses involved in maintaining a bus route. With the rush hour routes, the buses had to be sent into the area empty. Moreover, drivers received a full day's pay, even though their route operated only a few hours each day.

To meet costs, a bus must earn $8 an hour. Some of the lines weren't doing half that much business, Hanck said.

Hanck did not rule out the possibility that bus service will return to the area some day. He said his company presented an experimental bus plan to John Costes, assistant Arlington Heights village manager, March 17. The plan, a long-range one, would involve a heavy federal subsidy.

College Bill Near?

The bill to authorize purchase of north Cook County state senior college site has not yet been heard by the House Appropriations committee, almost two weeks behind on its docket of bills.

Sponsor of the bill, State Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, said she has hopes the bill will come up Monday — if not in an adjourned committee meeting today.

Action in the appropriations committee has been stalled by partisan tiffs over appropriations to Gov. Richard Ogilvie's code departments, with the area's sole committee member — State Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights — complaining that the Democrats are grandstanding to gain press attention for their complaints regarding state government spending and Mrs. Chapman defending her party's action as an exercise of responsible review.

MRS. CHAPMAN had better news today on a bill also being watched closely by High School Dist. 214's assistant superintendent.

The Senate today passed and sent to the governor's office House Bill 356, which liberalizes the rules under which students can get out-of-school experience related to their future careers or academic interests.

McLennan's county committee on Career Opportunities for Youth, an offshoot of the Cook County Council of Governments, backed the legislation, as did the Illinois Chamber of Commerce.

State Sen. Esther Saperstein, D-Chicago, successfully shepherded the bill through its Senate hurdles.

AN HONORABLE MENTION in the Shell Oil Companies Education Program went to Prospect Heights Woman's Club. Mrs. Donald Bowker, safety and education chairman of the club, accepted the award from R. M. Abbott, district manager for Shell, at the recent G.W.C. convention.

Church To Lay Cornerstone

A Sunday cornerstone-laying service is planned by members of the Church of the Incarnation (United Methodist). The new church is being built at 330 W. Golf Road.

The congregation, formed three years ago, first met at Dunton School, 1200 S. Dunton Ave., Arlington Heights. Services later moved to Juliette Low School. After the February fire, they were switched back to Dunton.

Sunday's service is scheduled for 11:30 a.m., immediately following the regular church service. A combined church and Sunday School hour for nursery through sixth grade will be held at 10:30 a.m. and a cavalcade of cars will then proceed to the new church site.

DR. ROBERT MULLIGAN, Elgin District superintendent of the United Methodist Church, will preside at the service. Assisting him will be the Rev. William Miller, Incarnation pastor, and a representative of the architectural firm of Anderson, Rehder and Vandere.

Weather permitting, a brunch will be served following the cornerstone service at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Welch, 13 Seeger Road, Arlington Heights.

Walsh on COG Unit

Arlington Heights Village Pres. John Walsh was elected to the executive committee of the Cook County Council of Governments (COG) Wednesday.

The 20-member COG executive committee is the operating body of the voluntary association for county governmental units.

Walsh succeeds John Woods, past Arlington Heights president, in representing municipalities of over 30,000 population.

ALSO NAMED to the executive committee Wednesday were Albert J. Smith, Skokie president, representing a municipality of over 30,000; Luvert Listenbee, East Chicago Heights president, representing communities under 15,000; and Andrew H. Walters, Oak Park Township supervisor, representing township government.

The men were nominated by Bernard Cunningham, Park Forest president. They replace on the board Dan Congreve, former Mount Prospect president; Ernest Maxey, former Robbins president and Louis Schloderback, Proviso Township supervisor.

Theft Reported Late

Fred Groth, 50, a carpenter who had his coat and hat stolen at Old Orchard Country Club three months ago, finally reported the incident to police.

Groth, who lives at 719 N. Pine, Mount Prospect, said he told officials at the country club about the theft, but hasn't heard a thing from them since then.

The coat, a silver cashmere, was valued at $190.

Save Lawn Equipment In $2,000 Shed Fire

Firemen doused a shed fire at the corner of Golf and Linneman roads in Mount Prospect Tuesday.

The fire, which caused an estimated $2,000 damage, was started by spontaneous combustion of old newspaper and other debris in the shed, officials said.

Ken Langguth, 675 Bel-Air, spotted and reported the fire, then dashed into the building and removed $1,500 worth of lawn equipment stored inside.

Call Plant Illegal

A temporary concrete mixing plant at Tally Ho Apartments, Algonquin and Busse roads, Mount Prospect, has been dubbed illegal under present zoning ordinances, according to acting village manager John Zimmerman.

Rock Road Construction Co., owner of the plant, is using it to mix large batches of concrete for improvement work they are doing now on Algonquin Road.

ZIMMERMAN HAS advised Rock Road that it will take approval of the village board for temporary use of the land as a mixing plant and that the request, if granted, would not affect the present zoning ordinance prohibiting such use.

Pupil Aid Hike OK'd

SPRINGFIELD — A bill to raise the state public school foundation level from $400 to $550 per pupil per year was passed, 149-16, yesterday by the House and sent to the Senate.

The House also passed, 99-63, a bill for $32 million in state aid to parochial schools. The new public school aid formula means the state guarantees, if the district qualifies, the difference between what local property taxes raise in a school district and the $550 level.

Foreign Aid Request

WASHINGTON — President Nixon yesterday proposed spending $2.58 billion on foreign aid in the next fiscal year, the smallest presidential request in the program's history, but more than Congress appropriated last year.

Among major innovations Nixon proposes are creation of an "auditor-general" in the Agency for International Development to root out waste and corruption, and creation of a corporation to get private industry to do business in developing nations.

Hill Still Strong

SAIGON — U.S. Headquarters said yesterday a "substantial" force of American troops remaining on Hamburger Hill could defeat any attempt by North Vietnamese regulars to recapture the peak.

Withdrawal of about 600 men came on the eve of a Viet Cong-proclaimed 48-hour ceasefire, effective 8 p.m. CDT, Wednesday, in observance of the birthday of Buddha, to be followed by a 24-hour "stand-down" to be observed by allied troops.

Nickerson Is Sought

BELLEVILLE — William Raymond Nickerson, 30, charged with murder yesterday in the slayings of a teenage Massacoutah couple on the night of their high school prom, is being sought.

The St. Clair County sheriff's office said Nickerson was apparently in the area from April 14 until he left May 7, two days after the bodies of Michael Morrison, 18, and Deborah Means, 15, were found. Nickerson is also being sought in connection with armed robberies and rapes in Clinton County and New London, Mo.

Spy Plans to States

WASHINGTON — Within two years, the Justice Department's new anti-crime agency plans to make the nation's top spy techniques available to the states to help them keep track of organized racketeers.

Charles Rogovin, chief of the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, said yesterday that two Defense Department intelligence-gathering agencies are cooperating with six states to develop a computerized crime intelligence system.

Lawmakers to Paris

WASHINGTON — The first of 39 House members and 29 of their aides began leaving for Paris Wednesday to attend the Paris International Air show, financed with tax dollars.

Each day they are gone, each member of the party will be authorized $50 in government funds for living expenses. The main group is scheduled to leave Saturday and return seven days later.

650 Highway Deaths?

CHICAGO — The National Safety Council has estimated that 550 to 650 persons will die on the nation's highways over the Memorial Day weekend from 5 p.m. today to midnight Sunday.

Last year, the holiday weekend was one day longer and the council estimated 625 to 725 deaths. The toll was 628.

Helmet Law Invalid

SPRINGFIELD — A 1967 law requiring persons who ride motorcycles to wear helmets was invalidated yesterday by the Illinois Supreme Court, which held that the law is "beyond the police power of the legislature."

The high court upheld Chicago's gun registration ordinance, saying the city ordinance was not inconsistent with one at the state level requiring registration with the state of gun owners but not individual guns.

THE ADJUSTMENT of the American Indian to new and different surroundings in Chicago and suburbia is a complex problem in human behavior. Tony Machukay, director of the American Indian Center in Chicago, offers guidance to Indian children in tutoring session. Center gives the Indian a place to share his heritage with other Indians. Barry Sigale, Paddock staff writer, concludes story of such an adjustment by Victor Runnels, a Streamwood homeowner, in today's third of a three-part series.

Expressway Routing Delayed

by TOM WELLMAN

Residents and land developers in the Northwest suburbs are going to have to wait longer than previously announced for public word of preliminary routes for the proposed Rand-Golf Expressway.

A spokesman for H. W. Lochner and Associates, consulting engineers who are studying routes for the controversial expressway, for the state highway department, told members of the Arlington Heights Plan Commission last week that alternate routes will be announced between September, 1969, and February of next year.

The first phase — collecting data from various governmental units — should be completed by June 1. The spokesman said the second phase will take three to eight months.

When the preliminary study is completed, many possible routes will be listed, to give the state and other agencies as wide a choice as possible.

A LOCKNER EXECUTIVE told Plan Comrs. O. V. Anderson and Jack Pittas that final hearings on a route could be held as early as 1971. He cautioned, however, that the date could be pushed ahead to 1972 if delays occur.

The expressway is projected to stretch from McCormick Boulevard in Evanston to Illinois Rt. 53 between Buffalo Grove and Arlington Heights.

It will roughly parallel Golf Road through the eastern portion of the area, then parallel Rand Road from Golf to Route 53.

However, another Lochner official stressed that the final route does not have to remain within a mile and a half of Rand Road, although that path would be preferable.

He said that the closer the expressway approaches either the Northwest Tollway or the Tri-State Tollway, the greater the duplication of existing high-speed services.

In other words, the expressway, at least as alternates shown on the maps later this fall, could be elevated over Rand Road or the Soo Line tracks near the Tri-State Tollway (outside of the three-mile-wide Rand corridor).

Hal Lockner of the firm stressed that all types of expressways — grade level, elevated, depressed, or tunneled — would be considered.

A MEMBER OF the Prospect Heights Improvement Association, Richard Schulz, in the past has suggested paralleling the Soo Line or elevating it over Rand Road.

Late this fall, whenever the preliminary alternatives are available, officials of Lochner will discuss preferences with village officials.

Lochner officials are assembling a colorful collection of overlay maps and aerial photographs, all of which will be used in planning the route. Their main concerns now include traffic counts, governmental boundaries and land development.

No cost figure for the expressway has come up in public discussions, but two factors will probably weigh heavily: financial aid from the state and the skyrocketing cost of available land in the Northwest suburbs.

The question of land, or what little of it is still available, is the major concern especially to officials of Arlington Heights and Prospect Heights, both leading candidates for part of the route.

Months ago, when the project was first announced, it became clear, at least to Arlington Heights officials, that a segment of the expressway would slash through Prospect Heights.

In fact, Arlington Heights officials, fearing a cut through their more densely populated community south of Rand Road, have suggested a route north of the present Rand Road.

RESIDENTS OF Prospect Heights, an unincorporated area east of Rand Road and Arlington Heights, are upset and concerned that the long-awaited expressway could cleanly cut their area in half.

Developers who have been considering subdivisions and apartment developers north of Rand are also concerned. In October, the Arlington Heights Plan Commission agreed that the location of the expressway should be only an additional factor to consider in mulling over new developments.

So, as the expressway is delayed, land prices rise, residents and developers become jumpy, and village officials take longer and harder looks at land maps and aerial photographs.

Teachers in School Dist. 59 are expected to vote a week from tomorrow on new contract offer agreeable to the Teachers' Council leadership. It calls for base salary on standard services contracts of $7,000 and extended services of $7,300.

In an interview yesterday afternoon, Harlan Michels, chairman of the council salary committee, announced the basic terms of the contract and said it was satisfactory to the committee.

Shortly afterward, the district administration released a statement which said a settlement "was tentatively agreed to at a meeting on Tuesday. The proposal will be finished Thursday afternoon."

Administration officials said the proposal will go to the board of education Monday night, and to the teachers Tuesday morning. It will be distributed to the press Monday, the statement said.

THE ANNOUNCEMENT indicated that teachers will vote on the proposal June 6, but Michels didn't set a definite date.

"We're very satisfied with the package," he said, "and we should have it to our entire membership in a week to 10 days."

While details of the new contract were not immediately available, Michels specified that the teachers won a collective bargaining contract, significantly higher salary, a promise from the district to cut class sizes, and a variety of fringe benefits.

He said the increase in base pay from $6,300 to $7,000 is the foundation of similar increases throughout the pay scale of the district.

Extended services contracts, which include extra pay for assisting with extracurricular activities, begin at $7,300 for a bachelor's degree and no experience.

CONTRACTS WILL be for 10 months.

Additionally, Michels said, the board agreed to making extended services contracts available to 50 per cent of the 450 teachers, an increase of 25 per cent over what was offered. The district will also underwrite complete costs of a $10,000 life insurance and complete major medical insurance policies.

"Most significantly," Michels said, "the board will include a statement to the effect that all extra funds will be used for increasing the number of staff at the classroom level."

Teachers wanted a limit on class sizes, and the board refused to negotiate the point. The compromise was struck Tuesday night.

Michels said the Teachers' Council leadership planned a meeting last night to set a date for vote on the proposal.

"We will ask that they ratify this contract offer," Michels said, giving his endorsement. Earlier, the teachers unanimously agreed to give the salary committee complete confidence in bargaining with the board.

RATIFICATION seems likely. Both sides had been at odds since early this year, when teachers demanded $7,500 and the board offered $6,900. At one point, when teachers rejected the last board offer, negotiations were broken off, and teachers began to talk about "waiting as long as necessary" for the board to agree to faculty requests.

Last week, however, Supt. Donald Thomas suggested alterations in the fringe benefit proposals and managed to get both sides back to the bargaining table.

Teachers' Council leadership dodged comment on prospects for settlement prior to the meeting, as did sources within the district administration.

Thomas yesterday declined immediate comment on how much the contracts will cost the district, and if additional funds will be needed. Presumably the effect of the contract on the district's barely balanced budget will not be known until additional details are announced Monday.

Parade Will Begin Early

The Mount Prospect Memorial Day Parade will begin at 9:30 a.m. Friday at the corner of Busse and School streets and is being sponsored by VFW Post 1337.

About 500 persons, most of them children, are expected to participate, along with members of the VFW, the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and other civic organizations. The fire department will join in the festivities by driving two pumps along the parade route.

"IT'S A PARADE for the kids, a family parade," said Police Chief Newell Esmond.

The mile long parade route will go west on Busse Avenue to Emerson Street, south on Emerson to Shabonee Terrace, and east on Shabonee to Lions' Park, where it will end.

The parade is being coordinated this year by Howland D. Atwood, 211 S. School St., a VFW member.

Project 444 Holds Mini-Graduation

by MAHILYN RUBEN

Seventy-five pre-school Elk Grove youngsters marched down the aisle, hand-made mortarboards wobbling on their heads and diplomas clutched in their chubby little hands.

A mini-graduation? Precisely. At the tender age of 4, these children qualified for their commencement ceremony with completion of the 15-session "Project 444," the four-dimensional program for 4-year-olds.

Sponsored by the Student Services Team of Ruple and Clearmont schools, Project 444 has served in the last year as the suburban answer to "Project Headstart." Fifteen trained "teacher-moms" have supervised groups of 15 children with activities to provide a stimulating and exciting first contact with the public school system.

ACCORDING TO Tom Smith, Ruple School psychologist and an innovator of the program, each one-hour session of Project 444 included work in four areas — socialization, language development, gross motor skills and auditory-visual-motor skills.

The curriculum, developed by Smith along with the "teacher-moms," provided games which involved cooperation, attention and group sharing, exercises in vocabulary expansion, and training in muscle coordination. "If the participating children can simply have fun, so that they begin kindergarten with a positive orientation," he said, "then our major goal will have been attained."

One of the primary purposes of Project 444 has been to demonstrate "that mothers have the talents and capabilities necessary to organize and operate a pre-school program which will provide children with a significant developmental experience," Smith said. "Tapping the resources of the community at large is something too many schools have not done.

There is a wealth of available talent — in mothers, fathers, high school and college youth and senior citizens."

While Project 444 is the largest venture to date, it is not the only program which provides "helping relationships" for children. Smith is well on his way to lassoing more local talent for use in his other plans.

HE DRAFTS STUDENTS from his psychology class at Harper Junior College, welcomes volunteers through the Elk Grove Community Service, and uses such paraprofessionals as social work interns from the Circle Campus (who provide individual and family counseling) plus certified-but-unemployed teachers, who serve as part-time tutors.

Two high school volunteers from Future Teachers of America and several mothers training exercises: a high school girl with reading problems serves as the "listening ear" for primary reading students in need of a one-to-one relationship.

Two seniors in group work programming at George Williams College have organized after-school and weekend programs for boys, supplying recreational and psychosocial support. And a lonely, unhappy boy spends a couple hours each week in discussion and games with an outgoing, happy-go-lucky boy of the same age.

For those students labeled as the EMH (Educable Mentally Handicapped), Smith has provided a boys' hobby shop and girls' homecraft class, in which the students create projects while learning to use tools, follow directions, measure and count. Under the direction of Mrs. Karen Metzler, the girls have molded and glazed ceramic cups, and learned to knit, cook and sew. The boys, guided by Bill Doonan, a 20-year-old Harper College student, have made boats and Christmas trees and are setting up a workshop for next year.

WHILE AT FIRST glance these programs appear to be solely recreational, they are learning-centered, especially for the child who needs emotional help or lacks necessary skills. Periodic conferences between student service counselors and teachers provide insight into student problems, many of which have diminished in intensity.

But often it is those who have offered their valuable time to the project who find they are learning most of all, Smith said. "Satisfaction and personal growth come to a person who reaches out and helps another person."

This is seen in the way housewives Pat Peacock and Denise Sadlenback "rove to the challenge of the assignment and have done yeoman's jobs."

It is seen in the plans of Social Worker Sandy Spencer to include work with children in her future.

But most of all, it is seen in the words of Mrs. Karen Metzler, as she observed a child in her class. "See how she lights up! When I first met her, she wouldn't crack a smile!"

Orator Wins Trip

Robert Bittler of Mount Prospect won the top award in the Northern Illinois District of the Optimum International Oratorical Contest.

Bittler, 16, was sponsored by the Arlington Heights Optimist Club and will travel to Miami, Fla., for competition in the finals. Over 3,500 entries have been narrowed down to 11 contestants for the June competition. Entries included residents of the United States and Canada.

A district winner for Northern Illinois, Robert will be given a free trip for the contest in Florida, June 22-28. He will have a chance to win a $1,000 scholarship if he is one of the five finalists and a $2,000 scholarship if he wins first place.

If he is not a finalist, he will receive an engraved wristwatch in addition to the trip and entertainment during his five days in Florida.

THE FOREST VIEW HIGH School student is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Bittler, 7 Susan Drive, and is the brother of Barbara, 10, and James, 7.

Robert took a 12-week speech course at a leadership program at St. Mark's Lutheran Church and has had one semester of speech at Forest View.

At St. Mark's, Robert is the president of the Gavel Club and he is presently a member of Forest View's student council.

At the qualifying speech contest for the Northern Illinois district held in Moline, Robert was the unanimous choice of the judges and won a trophy.

Each entrant had to present an original, memorized speech on the topic "Respect for Law and Order: Cornerstone of Society."

Father Files 2 $750,000 Suits

CHICAGO — A father filed two $750,000 suits against North Central Airlines Wednesday in the deaths of two of his children who were riding in a private plane which collided with a North Central prop jet Aug. 4.

Leonard Jensen of Mount Prospect said his son, Richard, 12, and his daughter, Virginia, 18, were passengers in a Cessna 150 which was en route to Sheboygan, Wis., from Milwaukee Aug. 4.

Richard, Virginia, and the pilot of the private plane, Richard Stenberg, 19, of Elk Grove Village were killed.

Pupil Aid Hike OK'd

SPRINGFIELD — A bill to raise the state public school foundation level from $100 to $350 per pupil per year was passed, 149-16, yesterday by the House and sent to the Senate.

The House also passed, 99-63, a bill for $32 million in state aid to parochial schools. The new public school aid formula means the state guarantees, if the district qualifies, the difference between what local property taxes raise in a school district and the $350 level.

Foreign Aid Request

WASHINGTON — President Nixon yesterday proposed spending $2.58 billion on foreign aid in the next fiscal year, the smallest presidential request in the program's history, but more than Congress appropriated last year.

Among major innovations Nixon proposes are creation of an "auditor-general" in the Agency for International Development to root out waste and corruption, and creation of a corporation to get private industry to do business in developing nations.

Hill Still Strong

SAIGON — U.S. Headquarters said yesterday a "substantial" force of American troops remaining on Hamburger Hill could defeat any attempt by North Vietnamese regulars to recapture the peak.

Withdrawal of about 600 men came on the eve of a Viet Cong-proclaimed 48-hour ceasefire, effective 6 p.m. CDT, Wednesday, in observance of the birthday of Buddha, to be followed by a 24-hour "stand-down" to be observed by allied troops.

Nikerson Is Sought

BELLEVIEW — William Raymond Nickerson, 30, charged with murder yesterday in the slayings of a teenage Mass-sachusetts couple on the night of their high school prom, is being sought.

The St. Clair County sheriff's office said Nickerson was apparently in the area from April 14 until he left May 7, two days after the bodies of Michael Morrison, 19, and Deborah Means, 15, were found. Nickerson is also being sought in connection with armed robberies and rapes in Clinton County and New London, Mo.

No Paper Friday

Padlock Publications offices will be closed Friday and Saturday in observance of Memorial Day.

Classified advertising deadline for the Sunday Suburbanite is 11 a.m. today; for Monday's Herald it will be 4:30 p.m. today. The Herald will not publish tomorrow, but special sections normally included in the Friday Herald are included in today's edition.

Residents and land developers in the Northwest suburbs are going to have to wait longer than previously announced for public word of preliminary routes for the proposed Rand-Golf Expressway.

A spokesman for H. W. Lochner and Associates, consulting engineers who are studying routes for the controversial expressway, for the state highway department, told members of the Arlington Heights Plan Commission last week that alternate routes will be announced between September, 1969, and February of next year.

The first phase — collecting data from various governmental units — should be completed by June 1. The spokesman said the second phase will take three to eight months.

A LOCKNER EXECUTIVE told Plan Comrs. O. V. Anderson and Jack Pittas that final hearings on a route could be held as early as 1971. He cautioned, however, that the date could be pushed ahead to 1972 if delays occur.

The expressway is projected to stretch from McCormick Boulevard in Evanston to Illinois Rt. 53 between Buffalo Grove and Arlington Heights.

It will roughly parallel Golf Road through the eastern portion of the area, then parallel Rand Road from Golf to Route 53.

However, another Lochner official stressed that the final route does not have to remain within a mile and a half of Rand Road, although that path would be preferable.

He said that the closer the expressway approaches either the Northwest Tollway or the Tri-State Tollway, the greater the duplication of existing high-speed services.

In other words, the expressway, at least as alternates shown on the maps later this fall, could be elevated over Rand Road or the Soo Line tracks near the Tri-State Tollway (outside of the three-mile-wide Rand corridor).

Hal Lockner of the firm stressed that all types of expressways — grade level, elevated, depressed, or tunneled — would be considered.

A MEMBER OF the Prospect Heights Improvement Association, Richard Schulz, in the past has suggested paralleling the Soo Line or elevating it over Rand Road.

Late this fall, whenever the preliminary alternatives are available, officials of Lochner will discuss preferences with village officials.

Lochner officials are assembling a colorful collection of overlay maps and aerial photographs, all of which will be used in planning the route. Their main concerns now include traffic counts, governmental boundaries and land development.

No cost figure for the expressway has come up in public discussions, but two factors will probably weigh heavily: financial aid from the state and the skyrocketing cost of available land in the area.

Expect New Routes

A subcommittee of the Arlington Heights Plan Commission reported last night that alternate routes for the proposed Rand-Golf Expressway will be drawn within three to eight months.

O. V. Anderson, head of the subcommittee, said the consulting firm of H. W. Lochner, which is studying the route, told his subcommittee last week that the collection of data is in its final stages and consideration of the routes will begin after June 1.

The subcommittee of Anderson, Jack Pittas, Ronald Riba and Alice Harms will meet in June to suggest a route that could be acceptable to Arlington Heights.

ANDERSON'S GROUP will submit ideas to the board of trustees so the village officials can agree on preferences for the expressway.

The report, submitted by letter, was accepted without comment by the commission, which will discuss the progress on the Lochner study at a later date.

In another meeting last night, the public relations committee of the village board agreed to take another two weeks to study the need for the function of an ombudsman to speed communications from citizens to the village government.

Assistant Village Mgr. John Coste, who has been researching the use of an ombudsman in Chicago and Dearborn, Mich., will give information to Dwight Walton, George Burlingame and William Griffin, the three members of the committee.

When the preliminary study is completed, many possible routes will be listed, to give the state and other agencies as wide a choice as possible.

Parade Tomorrow

Arlington Heights will have its annual Memorial Day parade tomorrow — even if it rains.

The annual parade, sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 891 will begin at 9:30 a.m. More than 60 units will wind through the streets of the village and end up at War Memorial Park, Chestnut and Fremont avenues, for a program.

The parade begins with the formation of units at Arlington Heights Road and Park Street. Marchers will go north on Arlington Heights Road to Sigwalt Street, west on Sigwalt to Dunton Avenue and north on Dunton to Euclid Street.

They will march west on Euclid until they reach Chestnut Avenue and then will go south on Chestnut to War Memorial Park.

PARADE PARTICIPANTS include a marching platoon from the Marine Air Reserve Training Detachment in Glenview.

Other units in the parade include high school bands, Girl and Boy Scout troops, fire departments, and floats sponsored by various local organizations.

Ceremonies at the park are scheduled to begin at 10:30 a.m. The invocation will be given by the Rev. Eugene Ongna, pastor of the Arlington Heights Evangelical Free Church. Dawnaene Nebel will lead the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner" and a citizen's citation will be presented by Virgil Horath.

MAIN SPEAKER for the program will be Admiral Heinz Loeffler, United States Naval Reserve and representative of the Commandant of the 9th Naval District, Great Lakes.

After the program, all citizens have been invited to proceed to the War Memorial in Memory Gardens for ceremonies by V.F.W. and Auxiliary officers, then to Arlington Heights Cemetery at Merle Guild grave, for ceremonies by American Legion officers.

Want a Job? Here's Help

If you are a high school or college student seeking a summer job, the Arlington Heights Youth Commission and the village have worked out a job placement program to help you.

A Youth Central Clearing House has been established for the summer at Arlington High School, 502 W. Euclid, to help students find summer jobs and to provide a location for employers to seek help.

The center will open Monday, June 16. It will remain in operation for most of the summer, except the weeks of June 30 and August 4.

OPERATING in cooperation with High School Dist. 214, the center will replace vocational placement at the district's high schools, which takes a vacation during the summer.

Students interested in seeking a job can contact their own high school's counseling office until June 16. After that date, the new center will serve as the center. The office is located in Room 109 and the telephone number is 253-0200, extension 60.

The center, which will operate under village supervision, is open to all Arlington Heights high school and college students.

Asks Suburban Bus Cutback

The United Motor Coach Co. of Des Plaines has asked the Illinois Commerce Commission for permission to suspend eight bus routes in Arlington Heights and surrounding areas.

When asked when he expected the request to be granted, John Hanck, vice president of United Motor Coach, said, "We hope to have it in a month or two."

The eight threatened routes are Barrington to Elgin, Arlington Heights to Elk Grove, Mount Prospect to Prospect Heights, Carpentersville to Dundee and Elgin, Barrington to Big Foot Prairie, Wheeling to the Illinois-Wisconsin line (a summer route), an Arlington Heights local route to the train station there, and a route to the Pure Oil Co. plant in Palatine.

Hanck emphasized that the company's "Number 3" route, running from Barrington, Palatine, Mount Prospect and Arlington Heights to Evanston and the Chicago Loop will not be affected. He did say, however, that this route "is a borderline operation."

Though it is not a money maker for the company, Hanck said, "We don't want to give it up." The company is hoping the route will be more profitable after June 15, when a summer schedule goes into effect.

ABANDONMENT OF the eight routes has been discussed with area village officials, Hanck said. At the ICC hearing, the single objector to the abandonment request was a Prospect Heights resident.

"But by the time he heard my testimony," said Hanck, "he agreed to the abandonment."

Hanck estimated the demise of the eight routes would save the company about $1,000 a week. Last year the company lost $135,000. For the present year, "the company is in the black," Hanck said.

Some of the eight routes, Hanck pointed out, have been losing money since World War II. Partly because the ICC forced the company to operate the routes, and partly because the company anticipated growing passenger numbers in the area, the company has maintained the routes.

But, the population has never grown to the density necessary to support bus routes, Hanck said.

"The people who have moved into the area are not bus riders. Everyone wants to drive."

AS FOR THE Pure Oil Co. route, "We started it with a subsidy from the oil company," Hanck said. But when the subsidy ended, the company found the route could not support itself.

Hanck outlined some of the expenses involved in maintaining a bus route. With the rush hour routes, the buses had to be sent into the area empty. Moreover, drivers received a full day's pay, even though their route operated only a few hours each day.

To meet costs, a bus must earn $8 an hour. Some of the lines weren't doing half that much business, Hanck said.

Hanck did not rule out the possibility that bus service will return to the area some day. He said his company presented an experimental bus plan to John Costes, assistant Arlington Heights village manager, March 17. The plan, a long-range one, would involve a heavy federal subsidy.

College Bill Near?

The bill to authorize purchase of north Cook County state senior college site has not yet been heard by the House Appropriations committee, almost two weeks behind on its docket of bills.

Sponsor of the bill, State Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, said she has hopes the bill will come up Monday — if not in an adjourned committee meeting today.

Action in the appropriations committee has been stalled by partisan tiffs over appropriations to Gov. Richard Ogilvie's code departments, with the area's sole committee member — State Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights — complaining that the Democrats are grandstanding to gain press attention for their complaints regarding state government spending and Mrs. Chapman defending her party's action as an exercise of responsible review.

MRS. CHAPMAN had better news today on a bill also being watched closely by High School Dist. 214's assistant superintendent.

The Senate today passed and sent to the governor's office House Bill 356, which liberalizes the rules under which students can get out-of-school experience related to their future careers or academic interests.

Wheeling GOP May Hear Agnew

by JOAN KLUSSMANN

The Wheeling Township Republican Party will attempt to obtain Vice President Spiro Agnew as the featured speaker for its October dinner-dance.

State Rep. Eugene F. Schlickman and Dwight Walton, just named 1969 dinner chairman, will visit Washington soon to determine if Agnew will be able to attend the fourth annual ball scheduled for October.

The largest single fund-raiser of the year for the Republican organization, the dance will again take place in the Mid-America Room of Arlington Park. Walton said that attendance will be limited to 2,000 persons, and tickets, priced at $12.50, sold on a "first-come, first-serve" basis.

Project 444 Holds Mini-Graduation

by MARILYN RUBEN

Seventy-five pre-school Elk Grove youngsters marched down the aisle, hand-made mortarboards wobbling on their heads and diplomas clutched in their chubby little hands.

A mini-graduation? Precisely. At the tender age of 4, these children qualified for their commencement ceremony with completion of the 15-session "Project 444," the four-dimensional program for 4-year-olds.

Sponsored by the Student Services Team of Rupley and Clearmont schools, Project 444 has served in the last year as the suburban answer to "Project Headstart." Fifteen trained "teacher-moms" have supervised groups of 15 children with activities to provide a stimulating and exciting first contact with the public school system.

ACCORDING TO Tom Smith, Rupley School psychologist and an innovator of the program, each one-hour session of Project 444 included work in four areas — socialization, language development, gross motor skills and auditory-visual-motor skills.

The curriculum, developed by Smith along with the "teacher-moms," provided games which involved cooperation, attention, and group sharing, exercises in vocabulary expansion, and training in muscle coordination. "If the participating children can simply have fun, so that they begin kindergarten with a positive orientation," he said, "then our major goal will have been attained."

One of the primary purposes of Project 444 has been to demonstrate "that mothers have the talents and capabilities necessary to organize and operate a pre-school program which will provide children with a significant developmental experience," Smith said. "Tapping the resources of the community at large is something too many schools have not done."

There is a wealth of available talent — in mothers, fathers, high school and college youth and senior citizens.

While Project 444 is the largest venture to date, it is not the only program which provides "helping relationships" for children. Smith is well on his way to lassoing more local talent for use in his other plans.

HE DRAFTS STUDENTS from his psychology class at Harper Junior College, welcomes volunteers through the Elk Grove Community Service, and uses such paraprofessionals as social work interns from the Circle Campus (who provide individual and family counseling) plus certified-but-unemployed teachers, who serve as part-time tutors.

Two high school volunteers from Future Teachers of America and several mothers training exercises; a high school girl with reading problems serves as the "listening ear" for primary reading students in need of a one-to-one relationship.

Two seniors in group work programming at George Williams College have organized after-school and weekend programs for boys, supplying recreational and psychosocial support. And a lonely, unhappy boy spends a couple hours each week in discussion and games with an outgoing, happy-go-lucky boy of the same age.

For those students labeled as the EMH (Educable Mentally Handicapped), Smith has provided a boys' hobby shop and girls' homecraft class, in which the students create projects while learning to use tools, follow directions, measure and count. Under the direction of Mrs. Karen Metzler, the girls have molded and glazed ceramic cups, and learned to knit, cook and sew. The boys, guided by Bill Doolan, a 20-year-old Harper College student, have made boats and Christmas trees and are setting up a workshop for next year.

WHILE AT FIRST glance these programs appear to be solely recreational, they are learning-centered, especially for the child who needs emotional help or lacks necessary skills. Periodic conferences between student service counselors and teachers provide insight into student problems, many of which have diminished in intensity. But often it is those who have offered their valuable time to the project who find they are learning most of all, Smith said. "Satisfaction and personal growth come to a person who reaches out and helps another person."

It is seen in the way housewives Pat Peacock and Denise Sadlenbark "rose to the challenge of the assignment and have done yeoman's jobs."

It is seen in the plans of Social Worker Sandy Spencer to include work with children in her future.

But most of all, it is seen in the words of Mrs. Karen Metzler, as she observed a child in her class: "See how she lights up! When I first met her, she wouldn't crack a smile!"

Teachers Offered Contract

Teachers in School Dist. 59 are expected to vote a week from tomorrow on new contract offer agreeable to the Teachers' Council leadership. It calls for base salary on standard services contracts of $7,000 and extended services of $7,300.

In an interview yesterday afternoon, Harlan Michels, chairman of the council salary committee, announced the basic terms of the contract and said it was satisfactory to the committee.

Shortly afterward, the district administration released a statement which said a settlement "was tentatively agreed to at a meeting on Tuesday. The proposal will be finished Thursday afternoon."

Administration officials said the proposal will go to the board of education Monday night, and to the teachers Tuesday morning. It will be distributed to the press Monday, the statement said.

THE ANNOUNCEMENT indicated that teachers will vote on the proposal June 6, but Michels didn't set a definite date.

"We're very satisfied with the package," he said, "and we should have it to our entire membership in a week to 10 days."

While details of the new contract were not immediately available, Michels specified that the teachers won a collective bargaining contract, significantly higher salary, a promise from the district to cut class sizes, and a variety of fringe benefits.

He said the increase in base pay from $6,300 to $7,000 is the foundation of similar increases throughout the pay scale of the district.

Extended services contracts, which include extra pay for assisting with extracurricular activities, begin at $7,300 for a bachelor's degree and no experience.

CONTRACTS WILL be for 10 months. Additionally, Michels said, the board agreed to making extended services contracts available to 50 per cent of the 450 teachers, an increase of 25 per cent over what was offered. The district will also underwrite complete costs of a $10,000 life insurance and complete major medical insurance policies.

"Most significantly," Michels said, "the board will include a statement to the effect that all extra funds will be used for increasing the number of staff at the classroom level."

Teachers wanted a limit on class sizes, and the board refused to negotiate the point. The compromise was struck Tuesday night.

Michels said the Teachers' Council leadership planned a meeting last night to set a date for vote on the proposal.

"We will ask that they ratify this contract offer," Michels said, giving his endorsement. Earlier, the teachers unanimously agreed to give the salary committee complete confidence in bargaining with the board.

RATIFICATION seems likely.

Both sides had been at odds since early this year, when teachers demanded $7,500 and the board offered $6,900. At one point, when teachers rejected the last offer, negotiations were broken off, and teachers began to talk about "waiting as

Walsh on COG Unit

Arlington Heights Village Pres. John Walsh was elected to the executive committee of the Cook County Council of Governments (COG) Wednesday.

The 20-member COG executive committee is the operating body of the voluntary association for county governmental units.

Walsh succeeded John Woods, past Arlington Heights president, in representing municipalities of over 30,000 population.

ALSO NAMED to the executive committee Wednesday were Albert J. Smith, Skokie president, representing a municipality of over 30,000; Luvert Listenebee, East Chicago Heights president, representing communities under 15,000; and Andrew H. Watters, Oak Park Township supervisor, representing township government.

The men were nominated by Bernard Cunningham, Park Forest president. They replace on the board Dan Congreve, former Mount Prospect president; Ernest Maxey, former Robbins president; and Louis Schloderback, Proviso Township supervisor.

Demos Screen 13th District Hopefuls

by MARTHA MOSER

Even though a minority party in the 13th District, Democrats may compete for attention in special fall congressional elections with a primary race of its own.

Thirteenth District Democrat township committeemen screened six congressional hopefuls Monday with a specific question: How do you feel about a primary?

Committeemen from Elk Grove, Palatine, Schaumburg, Evanston, Niles, Northfield and New Trier Townships admitted the question has not been resolved among themselves.

Another preliminary screening of candidates is to be called in two weeks. Candidates interviewed Monday were George Sullivan and Mrs. Claude Carney, both of Wilmette; Dave Smelds of Niles Township; and Tom Murphy, Milton Rakove and Mrs. Pat Siebert, all of Evanston.

"WE'LL REVEAL no decision tonight," committee men pronounced on endorsement. According to questions put to candidates, the township party leaders are considering endorsing two or three persons for a primary.

Most candidates agreed to a primary race, but none stated they would run without party backing.

Campaign funds was mentioned as a problem for each. Rakove, a political science professor at Chicago Circle Campus, said he would be at a handicap in a primary fight as he is committed to a summer teaching contract at California State College, Los Angeles.

Primary and general elections to fill the post of former Congressman Donald Rumsfeld have been set for Oct. 7 and Nov. 25.

THE 13TH DISTRICT is considered a "safe" Republican area, having delivered Rumsfeld 80 per cent vote pluralities in last elections. Rumsfeld resigned the seat to be sworn in Monday as director of the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Democrats Monday night predicted a divisive primary fight among some 11 Republican candidates. The Republican Party traditionally has an "open" primary, whereas Democrats are slated. Three Republicans have declared to date.

Sullivan is a former Mount Prospect resident, moving to Evanston in 1962. He attends Northwestern University Law School. Shields is a Chicago attorney. Murphy, also an attorney, was an unsuccessful candidate for Evanston alderman in April.

NORTHFIELD Township Committeeman Bernard Peskin said any campaign expenditures would come from township treasuries as they had no authority to take money from the Cook County Central Committee. Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley heads the county Democrat Party.

Elk Grove Township Committeeman Chester Chesney commented the men are working on getting national figures into the area for the campaign.

Other local committeemen present were James McCabe of Wheeling Township, Ed Degan of Schaumburg Township and Pete Gerling of Palatine Township.

AGES OF THE candidates ranged from Sullivan's 25 years to Rakove at 50. The pane of eight also gave more time to these two candidates.

Most candidates cited the Vietnam War as the congressional campaign's major issue. The anti-ballistic missile system and social welfare also were pointed to most often as major issues. Discussion of inflation came on prompting.

Sullivan said he would stress domestic affairs, Shields chose poverty, Murphy cited the middle class tax burden as an "appealing issue," and Mrs. Carney spoke on bringing disenfranchised youth back to participating in society.

COCKROACHES CAN CAUSE ASTHMA

Two Washington allergists have reported that cockroaches are an important cause of asthma in humans. Food contaminated by cockroaches triggers an allergic reaction to persons already sensitized to the insects, or who are allergy-prone, although not yet exposed.

Recent tests showed that almost 50% of a group of persons exposed to cockroach-infested food had asthma. We have positive cockroach killers.

Sammy Rolled to Fame on Wooden Wheels

by BRAD BREKKE

He was a scrawny kid, just 18 and nearly blind.

He wasn't much good at anything.

He was a loser. A cripple. A pain on the unemployment chart. A burden on society. A misfit whose chance for making something of himself wasn't worth a plugged nickel.

Or so people thought.

But the kid had guts. And he was determined. He was a scrapper, and he had speed.

He was a winner and for 20 years he was hell on wheels . . . wooden wheels.

He came to be known as king of the track and the fastest man in the world on skates.

If you follow roller derby competition, you might remember him. His name is Sammy Skobel.

SAMMY'S THE tough little guy who fought his way up from the bottom. The blind boy who skated his heart out, after it was busted twice, and went on to be named to the Roller Derby Hall of Fame in 1952, at the age of 25.

"A winner is never a quitter and a quitter never wins," said Sammy. "And remember, a pat on the back is only 18 inches above a kick in the seat. My father told me that when I was a boy and I've never forgotten it."

Sammy and speed are synonymous. On skates, he's been clocked at 42 miles an hour around a wooden track. He holds the world's record for the mile too: two minutes, 33 seconds flat.

He set the record March 28, 1958, in New York's 14th Regiment Armory, shattering the old world record, which stood for 18 years, by 3.6 seconds.

"I had a funny feeling in my stomach before the race. Almost like I knew I was going to set the record. I felt the adrenalin pumping into my system and after I made my final lap I collapsed."

FOUR YEARS AGO Sammy hung up his skates to devote more time to his family. And today, the 44-year-old former roller derby star and his wife, Vee, operate a small restaurant and catering service at 34 S. Main St., Mount Prospect.

Sammy Skobel's Hot Dogs Plus they call it. A hot dog on skates is their emblem. And according to Sammy, who hopes someday to obtain a franchise on it, business is thriving.

Legally, Sammy is blind.

When he was 4, he was stricken with scarlet fever, a disease from which he recovered, but which left him with only 10 per cent of his vision in both eyes.

"Fever destroyed the optic nerves. People ask if maybe glasses or an operation might help. Well, I do have glasses. Magnifying glasses for reading. But as far as restoring my vision, forget it. When your sight is that far gone, there isn't much you can do. You have to feel your way."

"But I've accepted that and instead of being able to see, I've developed my sense of hearing and touch to the point where it's almost like being able to see."

Sammy may be blind. But you'd never suspect it. Today he hustles around his small shop so nimbly, you'd swear he was still on skates.

BESIDES HIS family and skating, Sammy is also interested in helping others like himself, the blind.

"I've had this handicap as long as I can remember. When I was a kid growing up, my parents never let me feel handicapped. They treated me just like any other kid, making me work in my father's grocery store washing walls. And believe me, I didn't like it, either.

"Anything you set your mind to do, if you're determined, you can do. I like to talk to groups of blind people and carry my story to them."

"If I can do it, they can do it. You have to do it yourself. Nobody is going to do it for you. But once you start feeling sorry for yourself, you're sunk," he said.

Sammy grew up in Chicago and graduated from Crane Tech High School. "My teachers were good to me. All my tests were taken after school. They had to administer them orally."

Sammy always loved sports.

"I couldn't see well enough to play football or baseball. And I couldn't make much of a career out of track. I used to run the mile in four minutes, 22 seconds . . . but I could never afford to win because I needed someone out in front of me to follow."

SAMMY BEGAN skating professionally when he was 18.

"I was dared into trying out for a roller derby team at school. So me and a friend went to the Chicago Coliseum to try out. I was handed a contract, but I couldn't read it. So I went into a phone booth where I thought no one would see me, pulled out my magnifying glass and began to scan it. But someone saw me. And when they found out I couldn't see, they cancelled the contract."

"Then, later, I went up to Milwaukee and tried out again for the same team, the Chicago Westerners. But when they saw me, they remembered me and turned me thumbs down again, not because of my ability, but because of my handicap.

"Well, that busted my heart. I remember going to the men's locker room after that and crying my eyes out for an hour. But I got over it and a few months later went to Chattanooga to try out for another team, the Brooklyn Red Devils. And this time I made it."

Sammy skated for the Red Devils from 1945 to 1951. In 1952 he switched over as captain for the New York Chiefs and that same year skated his way into the Roller Derby Hall of Fame.

A TROPHY WAS presented to him at that time by the Long Island Star-Journal and today it rests high on a display shelf in his restaurant, along with other trophies and a collection of photos taken of him during his career.

In 1953 he was traded to the Chicago Westerners, the team that turned him down twice because he was blind, and he stayed with them until he retired 12 years later.

During Sammy's last game, May 8, 1965, he was high scorer and went out in high style. "I made 11 points and scored a grand slam on the last play of the game for five points. I got it by passing the entire opposing team, five men, which in this case was the New York Chiefs. Well, we beat 'em 39 to 34. And I don't have to tell you what those last five points meant."

In 1949 Sammy suffered his worst roller derby injury, seven broken ribs. "One of my teammates didn't remember the play or that he was supposed to be blocking for me. And as a result I got hit hard and it hurt."

Scrapping Sammy said he used to see the crowds and other skaters as blurs, but claims he could identify the opposition by studying their body contour and skating style. "I got so I could identify everyone in the league," he said.

WHEN SAMMY retired to spend more time with his family, he went to work for the Ekeo Container Co. in Wheeling as cafeteria manager. Then in January, 1967, he opened his own business in Mount Prospect.

"The roller derby was good to me. There are a lot of good days to look back on, plus $15,000 a year, which it used to pay. But now I have a business to look after," he said.

Sammy and Vee also have two sons, Sammy, Jr., 14, and Steve, 17.

Sammy Skobel. Some used to say he wasn't much good at anything. But he was a winner.

Bittler, 16, was sponsored by the Arlington Heights Optimist Club and will travel to Miami, Fla., for competition in the finals. Over 3,500 entries have been narrowed down to 41 contestants for the June competition. Entries included residents of the United States and Canada.

As district winner for Northern Illinois, Robert will be given a free trip for the contest in Florida, June 22-26. He will have a chance to win a $1,000 scholarship if he is one of the five finalists and a $2,000 scholarship if he wins first place.

If he is not a finalist, he will receive an engraved wristwatch in addition to the trip and entertainment during his five days in Florida.

THE FOREST VIEW HIGH School student is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Bittler, 7 Susan Drive, and is the brother of Barbara, 10, and James, 7.

Robert took a 12-week speech course at a leadership program at St. Mark's Lutheran Church and has had one semester of speech at Forest View.

At St. Mark's, Robert is the president of the Gavel Club and he is presently a member of Forest View's student council.

Each entrant had to present an original, memorized speech on the topic "Respect for Law and Order: Cornerstone of Society."

Delay Road Routes

Northwest suburbs.

The question of land, or what little of it is still available, is the major concern especially to officials of Arlington Heights and Prospect Heights, both leading candidates for part of the route.

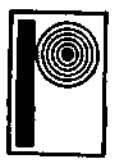

Months ago, when the project was first announced, it became clear, at least to Arlington Heights officials, that a segment of the expressway would slash through Prospect Heights.

In fact, Arlington Heights officials, fearing a cut through their more densely populated community south of Rand Road, have suggested a route north of the present Rand Road.

RESIDENTS OF Prospect Heights, an unincorporated area east of Rand Road and Arlington Heights, are upset and concerned that the long-awaited expressway could cleanly cut their area in half.

Developers who have been considering subdivisions and apartment developers north of Rand are also concerned. In October, the Arlington Heights Plan Commission agreed that the location of the expressway should be only an additional factor to consider in mulling over new developments.

So, as the expressway is delayed, land prices rise, residents and developers become jumpier, and village officials take longer and harder looks at land maps and aerial photographs.
